Why We Recommend Sherwin-Williams

S-W-P House Paint

As the Best BUY on the Market

10 REASONS

1—SWP bears a world-known symbol of quality. When you see this trade-mark on a can of paint, you know it's the best quality that huhuman skill and modern machinery can produce.

2—Every batch of SWP house paint must pass the most rigid laboratory and production control systems before a drop of it reaches you. This insures uniformity of color, covering capacity and long life.

3—SWP contains no cheap adulterants as found in many paints selling at "bargain" prices.

4—SWP White is whiter when first applied and stays white longer than paints made from lead and oil exclusively. SWP is a balanced multiple pigment formula containing. among other things, white lead plus Ozlo (a special, exclusive Sherwin-Williams pigment—a combination of fume-resisting white lead and zinc oxide).

5—SWP forms a tougher, long-lived film than paint made from lead and oil only, and tougher than "bargain" brands of multiple pigment paint.

6—SWP covers more surface per gallon than ordinary paint—covers twice as much surface per gallon as many cheap paints.

7—SWP wears longer than ordinary paint—wears twice as long as so-called "bargain" paints selling at cheap-per-gallon prices. This reduces the frequency of painting—cuts painting costs 25 to 50 percent.

8—SWP defies rain, snow, sleet, ice, heat, decay. Dirt and soot wash off its smooth, self-cleaning film.

9—SWP costs less than one cent per square foot of surface covered, two coats.

10—SWP is the world's standard of house paint quality and value—backed by the world's largest paint manufacturer, with nearly 70 years of experience in making quality paints. Come to this store—Paint Headquarters—and let us show you how little it will cost you to paint your house with SWP.

Plymouth Makes All-Time Sales Record

According to Geo. C. Polk, sales manager Polk Bros. Motor Co., 4876 units were sold by Chrysler Dealers during the week ending March 30, 1935 Greatest number ever sold in one week by Chrysler dealers.

3741 Plymouths sold. The total—4876 represents the greatest total units ever delivered by Chrysler dealers in one week by Chrysler dealers than ever have in the history of the organization

What has made this greatest of all sales records possible, which are ir addition to sales made by other divisions of Chrysler Motors?

According to Mr. Polk, it is because:

"1. Plymouth is the biggest car in the low price field.

"2.Plymouth is the only car in the low priced field with Hydraulic brakes

"3. Plymouth is the most beautiful car of all three.

"4. Plymouth costs less to run—12 tc 20 per cent saving on gas and oil.

"5. Plymouth is the gret American family car.

"6. Plymouth is the best engineered car in the low priced field.

"7. Plymout is the safest low priced car."

Mr. Polk invites you to take a ride in the new 1935 Plymouth, America's High Speed Safety Car, and let him convince you of the above statements.

Hoover Is Poison To Republican Party, Is Dakota Solon's View

Philadelphia—U. S. Senator Gerald P Nye said Saturday that if Herbert Hoover "or some other old standpatter" is the Republican candidate for president next year, "then Roosevelt will snow the Republican party under a worse deluge of ballots than in 1932" The North Dakotan, chairman of the Senate munitions inquiry committee stopped off in Philadelphia en route to Reading to address a peace meeting "Hoover is poison to the Republican party," Nye declared. "So far as a third party threat to Roosevelt is concerned, at present that is indefinite Until men to lead this party have been named and the program they propose is known, the threat must not be taken seriously."

Larger School Building Needed Says Petition

A delegation of patrons and teachers of the Jemison High School appeared before the commissioners court at its regular session Monday morning, and made application for funds to enlarge the school buildings.

Declaring the school is serving much more territory than was originally intended when the buildings were erected the spokesmen presenting the petition stated that it is impossible to do justice to the students in the existing crowded conditions. It was also pointed out that the wide-spread interest existant in education today has greatly increased the number of students that attend high schools.

J. A. Peterson, principal of the school and J. P. Montgomery, vocational instructor, were the principal speakers who presented the picture of the school's needs to the commissioners. No specific amount was requested, but the court was urged to visit the school that the members might fully realize the conditions and the handicap under which the teachers and pupils are laboring.

Health Department Advises Against Mosquito

Montgomery, Alabama—With summer just around the corner, the State Health Department today advised Alabama citizens to begin now to take pre cautions gainst that dangerous pest the mosquito, whose bite may result in the spread of disease as well as cause annoyance.

"The answer to the mosquito problem," said Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, "is to rid the premises of its breeding places. Where this is not entirely feasible, the house should be adequately screened and a supply of insect spray kept on hand."

"The malaria transmitting mosquito which despite its small size is a big health problem in Alabama, breeds as a rule in swamp land where the water is fairly clean and very sluggish. It roams for as much as a mile and a half from its native haunts, so should be guarded against carefully," Dr. Baker said.

In the event all swamp land in the vicinity can not be drained, it should be kept well oiled. The mosquito larvae, or "wiggle tails," can not breathe through the surface of water over which there is a film of oil.

Then there is another type of mosquito that carries dangue or breakbone fever, a disease which reached epiden stages in Alabama last year. You m find this type of mosquito to be uncomfortably close neighbor, as breeds mostly in tin cans, flower pots old automobile tires or other plac where water may accumulate arou the home. When doing your spr cleaning, be sure and eliminate all suc breeding places.

"A little precaution now may preve the occurrence of much sickness later Dr. Baker said. "Do all you can eradicate the mosquito, and then you contract malaria see a doctor. Do stop with a few doses of quinine widely advertised chill tonic. U. S. INCOME TAX COLLECTIONS 33 PER CENT OVER YEAR AGO

Washington.—Excellent prospects of income-tax collections passing the $300,000,000 mark were shown when the Treasury stated that for the first 20 days of March $270,935,659 had been representing an increase of about 33 deposited in the Government's cash box per cent in collections over the same period last year.

The total comparee with $203,256,084 for the same period of 1934 and brought the total for the July 1-March 20 period to $737,888,493 against $561,463,073 the year before. Receipts for March alone $26,561,483.

As a result of the Treasury announcement, President Roosevelt was asked at a White House press conference whether the high tax returns would affect consideration in official circles of possible legislation for new taxes.

Mr. Roosevelt replied that it was too early for such a decision, addding with some emphasis that the question of new taxes depended not on current tax receipts but upon appropriations that may be voted by Congress.

He stated that this remark was not made as a threat, but simply as the factual basis of the taxation situation.

Officials expressed satisfaction over the March collection, since it reflected a large gain in corporate incomes for 1934 and a substantial increase in individual incomes.

"We need more livestock on Alabama farms in order to supply the meat and dairy products needed by the farm family. We also need more livestock to furnish an added source of income. The more acres of land which a man can utilize wisely the greater opportunity he has for a large labor income. The farmer who confines his efforts to the cultivation of 40 or 50 acres in cotton can make only a meager living at the best. The man who has cows, hogs and sheep grazing a part of his land while he is cultivatng the remainder is the one who has a chance to get ahead —J. C. Grimes, Auburn, Ala.

Business On Upgrade Says Ford Manager

Business in general in Georgia, Alabama and Tennesee is improving at a rate considerably greater than throughout the nation as a whole, in the opinion of E. D. Bottom, manager of the Atlanta Branch of the Ford Motor Company, whose territory includes parts of those states.

"I base my opinion not on 'steel,' which is widely regarder as a good barometer of business, and not upon the automotive industry, one of the largest users of steel, but upon one part of that industry -- truck and commercial sales," said Mr. Bottom. "When there is an increasing demand for equipment for the hauling of raw and finished products, and for the delivering of commodities to consumers, we have a reliable index of increased activity in busines in general.

"Examination of the reports from the various states, giving the number of new automobile trucks and commercial cars registered in the month of January discloses facts that should be quite encouraging to citizens of Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee.

"According to those reports, the total registrations of trucks and commercial cars of all makes for the entire country in January were 52 per cent greater than for the same month last year. For the corresponding period, registrations in the Atlanta branch territory show an increase of over 100 per cent.

"This, I think, may be regarded as a good omen. People do not invest in hauling equipment unless there are materials and products to haul.

"Complete registration reports for February are not yet available; however that the increase was not merely a spurt but represents a definite upward trend is indicated by our own deliveries of Ford V-8 trucks and commercial ears which, in February and so far this month, have been more than double those the corresponding period a year ago."

COTTON IS A FEED CROP

Delta Experiment Station, Stoneville, Miss.—In a bulletin issued October, 1932, says:

That the South ships in large quantities of feed from the North and West is common knowledge. The 11 Southern--sometimes called cotton—states plant on the average 27 million acres of corn and 7½ million acres of hay on which 465 million bushels of corn and 7-2|3 million tons of hay are produced annually.

Allowing 60 bushels of grain and 2 tons of hay for each of the South's 6¼ million horses and mules and 30 bushels of grain and ½ ton of hay for each of its 14-1|6 million cattle the South lacks 1|3 of a billion bushels of grain and 12-1|3 million tons of hay producing enough for her cattle and work stock.

Cotton is seldom thought of as a feed crop, but as a feed for work stock and cattle the 2½ million tons of cottonseed meal produced annually in the South has a profitable replacement value more than 130 million bushels of corn or other grain. The 1½ million tons of cottonseed hulls, fed with cottonseed meal, may very profitably replace 1 to 1¼ million tons of grass hay shipped to the South annually.

During the winter of 1930-31 more than 5,000 Delta mules and horses reveived practically nothing but cottonseed hulls and meal. Station representatives interviewed the owners of more than half of these mules to determine methods, amounts fed, results and the opinons of the feeders. In most cases 12 to 14 lbs. per head of a mixture of 1 part meal to 5 to 6 parts of hulls was fed. Some feeders fed 5 or 6 lbs. of hay per head and all of the hulls and meal the animals would consume. Many had rye or other pasture as supplementary feed. A few fed a half ration of oats or other grain while doing winter work. No bad results were reported.

From April 2 to August 2, 1932, six 1200-lb. Delta Station mules ate 4.5 lbs. of cottonseed meal, 4 lbs. of corn and 15 lbs. of hay each daily. From May until August 1933, six 1300-lb mules ate 6 lbs. of cottonseed meal 5.2 lbs. of corn and 16-17 lbs. of hay each daily, and came through the test in 'good fix.'

Mississippi and other Experiment Stations have fed cottonseed meal to mules and horses enough to know, definitely, its value. It is ever the cheapest southern protein-rich concentrate. It is economical to feed mules all the cottonseed meal they will consume, except when on excellent pasture. Delta Station mules have eaten cottonseed meal for years.

If every southern mule were fed 365 lbs. of cottonseed meal a year and every southern cow 180 lbs. of meal and 300 lbs. of hulls, they would consume all of these products. Southern livestock can economically and satisfactorily consume these home products and increase the price of cotton seed at the same time.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture
Chilton County Training School

The teachers of Vocational Agriculture and Home Economics have launched a County-wide Home Economics Campaign this week with re-habilitated clients particularly and with others who might be interested.

Last week we encoontered a woman who, when confronted with our health program and her cooperation sought said, "I've been studying health books all my life; I know how to keep my house clean; how to grow flowers in my yard; how to take care of my children and those white folks don't need to send nobody here to make me clean up. My baby even reads health books every night."

What this woman said may be true but it isn't that we don't know everytime. We simply need to be constantly reminded of the little things that we do know about health as it pertains to keeping the community clean, keeping the home clean and most important of all, keeping the body clean.

This week, during this campaign we are reminding you of those rules which when observed, become habits which make for clean communities, clean homes and clean bodies.

The program is as follows:

Monday—Home Health Day. Aim: to take better care of body and home beautification; plant flowers and paint where needed.

Tuesday—Community Clean-up Day Aim: To make the community more healthful by cleaning up the house inside and outside. Outside—destroy breeding places of flies, mosquitoes rats and other disease-breeding insects. Burn rubbish and trash, destroy any old tin cans. Fix fences, wells and barns, steps ,gates and chicken houses. Inside—destroy breeding places of flies bed-bugs, roaches, mosquitoes and rats Scrub up and wash up floors, beds bedding, and furniture.

Suggested remedies: 1. White wash fences, trees (shades and fruit trees) chicken houses, wells and smoke houses 2. Put straw bedding in barns for livestock. 3. Use kerosene or burnt motor oil for out houses and damp places to destroy insects and pests. 4. Bury tin cans and bottles that hold water 5. Destroying bed bugs use the following:

Farmers Enlightened

Five farmers, Ben Brown, E. H. Hatcher, Mos Anderson, Woodrow Gordon and W. Wallace accompanied the teacher of Vocational Agriculture on a trip to Auburn recently. It is gratifying to note the very favorable comments made by them. They expressed the desire of getting all negroes of Chilton County to spend a day at Auburn.

Ben Brown, a veteran of many years having established himself as a good farmer, neighbor, business man and respected citizen, is an example to younger farmers. Long live the veteran.

E. H. Hatcher is a very progressive farmer of Jemison. He lives at home and boards in the same place.

Mose Anderson is a good farmer of Verbena and is well known and well thought of in Verbena.

Woodrow Gordon is a young prospective land owner in the Training School community. We are expecting great things of him in the future.

Wallace is a newcomer who lives on the late R. N. Draper's place. He has chosen Ben Brown as his associate and we expect good things of him also.

We need more good farmers who are also good business managers.

Black-Draught Good For Biliousness and Bad Taste in Mouth

"I have found Thedford's Black-Draught so good for biliousness, bad taste in the mouth and other disagreeable feelings due to constipation," writes Mrs. Mary Garner, of Burleson, Texas. "My mother used it for a number of years and we do not think there is a better medicine. I was pleased when I saw Syrup of Black-Draught advertised. I sent for it and gave it to my children (as a laxative) for colds and when they felt bad. Soon they felt fine." . . . Thedford's Black-Draught for the grown folks —and Syrup of Black-Draught for the children.

Exchange Regulated On Tax-Exemption Cotton Certificates

Auburn, Ala.—Careful supervision of the exchange of Bankhead Act cotton tax-exemption certificates carried over from the 1934 season for certificates to be used in 1935-36 is planned by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. All exchanges must be made through the office of the county assistants in the cotton adjustment. New certificates will be accepted by collectors of internal revenue in payment of the ginning tax on cotton from the 1935-36 crop.

Tax-exemption certificates issued in exchange for the 1934-35 tax-exemption certificates will be of a distinctive type and color in order to facilitate identification. They will be distributed, in most cases, before the regular 1935-36 tax-exemption certificates are sent to the field. A complete record of all exchanges approved will be kept in both the offices and in Washington.

Vermont Jr. High School News

Our P.-T. A. was scheduled to meet last night (Wednesday) after having been postponed to give the program committee ample time to arrange for the exercises. A full report of the meeting will be given in next week's issue of the County papers.

A brisk review is now in order by the student body in their final preparation for examination next week.

The Jr. Three Class has begun the preparing for their respective parts for the graduation exercises which will be presented Friday night, April 19. The principal speakers for the occasion will be announced later. The graduating program will be combined with the Sixth Grade exercises, who, also, will receive their dplomas.

To Miss Frances Kendrick of the Jr. Three Class, and to little Miss Myrtle Lee Smith, of the Sixth Grade, goes the honor of being selected Valedictorian for their respective classes. They will present the Valedictory addresses on the above occasion. Their average grade for the entire session was A.

Those students who have been forced out of school on the account of illness work, etc., are requested to be present next week and take all examinations This will have to be done, else they will be compelled to take an entry examination at the beginning of school next year. The former method is much the tests at this particular time.

The entire school will go on a picnic Saturday, April 20. Plans are already being shaped to make the day one of great merriment. A number of the p-rents are planning to go as well as the entire faculty. The exact location has not yet been definitely settled upon but you can rest assured that it will be one favorable to the safety and the enjoyment of the large group of youngsters.

Mr. Johnson and Miss Cagle were in Clanton last Saturday, meeting with a group of the other county teachers, who were arranging the county examinations for the Sixth and Ninth Grades

We notice on casual observation that every one of the trees which were set out on our campus recently are living

The Elementary teachers carried their pupils out through the deep forests a few days ago on a study of Nature Many kinds of rocks, flowers, birds, and trees, were observed and discussed.

The boys closed out their atheletic activities two weeks ago by losing a hard fought game to the Stanton basketeers. Considering their inexperienec size, etc., they made fairly successful progress as the season moved along

Their record of three victories against eight losses would not seem very impressive, but the fact must be taken into consideration that not one of them had ever played in regular match games until this season. Most of them knew little or nothing about the technique of the games, with no skill whatever in handling a basketball: thus, we see odds were against them from the outset as they were pitted against teams all of which were older on the average and with several years experience in the art of passwork, teamwork, signals drills, dribbling, shooting, etc. Mind you, watch these Vermont lads a year or two from now. They all, with the exception of two, have three more years to play for this school.

Mr. Ezra Turner, a former student of our school, returned from Tennessee last week. He has been stationed at one of the Civilian Conservation Camps for the past several months. On a visit to our school last week he spoke befor several of the classes about the conservation work being sponsored by our government.

MAY BE OBTAINED FOR ELECTRIC WATER SYSTEMS IN RURAL HOMES

Robt. Jemison, Jr., F. H. A. State Director, Outlines Method of Securing Money for this Purpose

"Those who live in suburban and rural homes can now enjoy the comforts and conveniences of running water in kitchen, laundry, bath room, barns and outbuildings through loans made under regulations of the Federal Housing Administration," according to Robt. Jemison, Jr., F. H. A. State Director.

By securing such a loan, an Electric Water System may be installed immediately, and paid for over a period of from 1 to 3 years, Mr. Jemison pointed out.

"For many years people living in suburban and rural sections were handicapped by the lack of running water. Obtaining sufficient water for stock, and the ordinary purposes of life, by the old-fashioned well bucket, or by working the handle of a pump was a slow, tedious job. In case of a fire, it was impossible to get enough water by these methods to offer much protection.

"Now—thanks to electricity and loans made under regulations of the Federal Housing Administration—these antiquated ways of obtaining water no longer need be relied upon. F. H. A. loans are making it possible for many thousands of people living in Alabama to install electric pumps, and the necessary plumbing, to give their families every advantage of 'city water.'"

With Alabama's bargain-rate electricity, modern automatic Electric Water Pumps will bring water from any source of supply—lake, stream, spring, cistern, shallow or deep well—and maintain a constant pressure day and night for only a few cents a week.

Wilbur B. Nolen, F. H. A. Associate State Director and Chairman of the Advisory Committee of rural housing program, pointed out that the way to secure an F. H. A. loan is to apply to any bank, banker, building materials or hardware dealer in the city where the person lives who wishes to receive the loan.

The debators were: Affirmative, Lora Deen Chambers and Willodean Collins. Negative were James Calfee and Leo Deason. The debate was so well prepared that neither side won as the votes were a tie.

"Screw Worms are Dangerous," by Woodrow Durbin.

"With Livestock and Chickens," by Andrew Jones.

Information was obtained as to the time of infection of cattle by the screw worm, its harm, and the methods of control. The value of livestock and chickens to the farmer as a means of producing compost for fertilizer was emphasized.

The program was given well and should be food for thought to all farm boys as it deals with present day problems on the farm and ranch. The earlier we learn to [illegible] the screw worm, the easier it can be done. The more compost we use as fertilizer, the better grows our farms and the cheaper our fertilizer bills.

CLIMB IN BUSINESS

the "best business" since the 1929 slump destroyed the economical balance of this nation.

The exodus from the economic wilderness, in which the population of the world has been wandering, has been gradual, but local authorities in the world of business express the firm belief that the Promised Land is now in sight. Soon the smiles of hope and cheer will replace lines made by grim worry.

The outlook for the coming months—and years—is indeed promising, perhaps surpassing the glow of even the '20's. Today, as was pointed out by one leading business man, there is greater need for articles in every line of merchandise than ever before. Homes are in need of repair; the family supply of cothing has been exhausted by continued use during the lean years; and this remains true in every line of merchandise. The need is great—and the people are going to buy now that they again are able to obtain funds.

Indicative of the need in one particular field—homes—a survey being conducted here by the Federal Housing Administration promises to reach $75,000 or $100,000 for improvements.

With the passage of the Public Works Bill, appropriating $4,880,000,000 for public works in this country, labor will again come into its own. Again the ring of the hammer will be heard, and the mlast from the steel furnace will glow in the sky, giving promise of hope to the world.

State and county officials are confident that millions of this sum will be expended in Alabama. At least $1,000,000 will be spent in this county, according to the views of Rep. C. B. Cox who is losing no time in perfecting plans for Chilton to get its share—and march with the world back to normalcy

IN MEMORY

On March 21st the death angel visited the home of Mr. A. B. Foshee and wafted the spirit of his loving wfe to the great beyond. She was sick only a short while. All was done for her that loving hands could do but God in His all-wise power saw fit to call her home

So weep not, dear relatives and friends for our loss is heaven's gain We know it is hard to part with our dear loved ones but God doeth all things well, and we must be submissive to His will. We should only strive to live the life that this noble woman lived and we can meet her in a world above where there will be no parting.

She was a devoted Christian mother and always had a kind word for everyone with whom she met May God bless and comfort her bereaved family

Her deeds were kindness;
Her words were love;
Her spirit was humble;

Duties Of Two Welfare Organizat'ns Explained

Montgomery, Ala., April 10.—Since much of the work of the Social Service Division of the Alabama Relief Administration and the State Child Welfare Department is related because of the many children in relief families who need more than relief, it has been found advantageous for the staffs of the two agencies to hold monthly conferences. At a recent conference new problems arising in cooperative work in the counties were discussed and procedures for their solution were agreed upon. In addition to the monthly conferences of the State staffs of the two agencies, frequent conferences between county workers engaged in child welfare an dthose engaged in administering relief are held for the purpose of coordinating their activities and of preventing overlapping of duties.

Questions often arise in the minds of the public regarding the activities and the relationship of these State agencies engaged in social service. The State Child Welfare Department is a rgular agency of the State government which has been in existence for more than fifteen years. It was established by the state legislature and is supported by State funds. The Alabama Relief Administration has been in existence a little more than two years nd was set up by Ex-Governor Miller as a temporary agency of the State for the administration of relief. It is supported by Federal funds, with a certain amount of local participation in the counties from county funds.

The duties and responsibilities of the Child Welfare Department are clearly defined in the Act creating the Department. It seeks out minor chillren in need of its care and protection and so far as may be possible aids such children to a fair opportunity in life The Department is responsible for the "development of a State-wide program for the more effective care of such children and for the elimination and suppression of the causes which bring about the necessity for such care." Among other duties assigned to the Department by the Legislature are the inspection, visitation, and licensing of agencies and institutions receiving placing, or caring for dependent, neglected or delinquent minor children, advising with judges and probation officers of the juvenile courts of the several counties in the State and aiding them in perfecting the work of such courts; the reception and care of dependent and neglected children committed to its care.

On the other hand, the duties and responsibilities of the Alabama Relief Administration must be in accordance with the policies and principles outlined or approved by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. Through its Social Service Division the Alabama Relief Administration strives to serve needy families and to provide necessary relief for them. Many of the families receiving relief involve children. Some of these families and children need the help and service of a child welfare worker or probation officer. In many instances there are grave problems existing in these homes, probems of neglect and delinquency, non-attendance at school, children suffering with physical defects, etc. The treatement and correction necessary in working with these children often calls for action by juvenile courts. The workers in the Relief Administration may recommend relief where the father or other adult members of the family is unable to secure employment, but the reief worker does not have the responsibiity of handing children's probems.

HUGE BUILDING PROGRAM URGED

NEW RATE ON INSURANCE IS GIVEN TOWN

Extension Of Water Mains Given As Reason For Rate Reduction

Property owners of Clanton are due for a pleasant surprise, in the form of a reduction in their fire insurance rating—a result of the extension of the Town's watermains and installation of more adequate fire protection throughout the city.

A new rating has been received by Mayor C. Fenn Jones, which shows that the insurance rates will be from 20 to 30 per cent lower in the areas affected by the extension of the watermains. The new rate sheet shows that more than 200 homes and other property will be benefitted by this reduction. It was received last week from the Alabama Inspection and Rating Bureau.

Over a period of years, this will mean thousands of dollars to the citizens and property owners of the town, Mr. Jones pointed out, declaring that this is one of advantageous phases of extending more adequate water supply into every section of the town. Too, the loss from fire should be minimized with the increased facilities for battling fires.

Approximately 12,000 feet of new piping was laid and 18 new fire hydrants were installed.

Commissioners Oppose Proposed Diversion Of A Part Of County Gasoline Tax Due To Good Financial Condition Of The County

Of more than a score of Alabama counties represented at a meeting with the Legislative Sub-Committee on Highways in Montgomery last Wednesday, Chilton was found to be in better financial condition than any other of the counties represented.

Judge J. Lee Smith and the four members of the commissioners court were invited to meet with representatives from other counties over the state to discuss the diversion of a part of the county gasoline tax to the state; at least the payment of tax from which all counties are now exempt.

Judge Smith and all the local commissioners opposed this plan, explaining that this county is in good fiancial condition and is well satisfied with the present system of dividing the gas tax among the several counties. The proposal made by members of the legislative committee would divert approximately $2,500 of the County's revenue to the state; and since Chilton depends largely on this source for funds for the building and maintenance of roads. Judge Smith explained that it would be an unwise movement.

It was pointed out that the state maintains only about forty miles of highway in this county, contrasted to more than 2,000 miles of county-maintained roads

In Chilton County there are dozens of little faces that press against window panes; for them the rain never ceases, and the sun never shines.

Day in, and day out, they are doomed to sit—dreaming dreams of things they can have little hope of ever doing; watching other children eagerly at play; longing for those care-free moments that mean so much in the life of the adolescent.

Help For The Railroads

Federal Coordinator of Transportation Eastman has presented his long-anticipated report to the President and the Congress. The report, which fills two volumes, goes exhaustively into the transport problem, and presents definite proposals which Mr. Eastman believes would help solve it.

The report is divided into three plans, two of which would require an entire overhaul of our transportation policy. The third plan, however, is most strongly advocated by Mr. Eastman—and it is the plan which will doubtless appeal to the bulk of our citizens.

It is based on voluntary collective action, and does not involve such revolutionary doctrines as government ownership of the railroads. Under it, Federal regulation would be extended to every form of transportation—now, in Mr. Eastman's words, "The Federal government regulates railroads thoroughly, it regulates other carriers little or not at all." Railroad managements would work to eliminate unnecessary competition, to modernize equipment, to improve service. They would be on a fair competitive basis with all other carriers.

Recent statements by the President indicate that legislation to accomplish these aims will be presented to the current Congress. If the law is passed, it will mark the most progressive step yet taken in seeking to bring stability out of chaos so far as transportation is concerned. For years unfair legislative treatment has been slowly but surely driving the entire railroad industry into ruin—and only aggressive remedial action can put our basic medium of transport back on a sound and profitable basis of operation.

It is remarkable how we manage to get along without so many things we think we simply must have.

The New Farm Tenant Bill

By its Author, Senattor John H. Bankhead of Alabama. Senator Bankhead is also author of the Bankhead Cotton Control Act.

I have been asked by a number of weekly papers to tell their readers something about the Farm Tenant Bill I am sponsoring, and that I recently introduced in the United States Senate. It is a pleasure to comply with that request because I know from experience that farm people read their county weekly from cover to cover, and delight in doing it.

Having been born and reared in the rural section of northwest Alabama I know that the tenant situation is not what it ought to be in my part of the country either. Now the tenant situation of today is not a negro problem. Neither is it the result of the depression, nor of the Agricultural Adjustment Program, or any other recent program. It is the result of a condition that has been growing in seriousness for more than 50 years. It is not directly the fault of the bad landlord or the shiftless tenant. It is the result of the "system" that has grown up over a long period of years, and if we want to solve it we must begin at the root of the trouble. We must remove the cause. And when we do that, many of the social and economic ills directly and indirectly connected with the tenant system will disappear.

The big trouble with tenancy is that the tenant moves too often for his own good as well as for the social and economic good of the community. The average for all tenants is only 4 years at a place. It is next to impossible to build a good community when a large part of its people move every year or so. Naturally, there are some fine tenants in every part of the country who seldom move. But there are others who boast of spending Christmas at a new place every year. Some of our tenants are regular gypsies, and ready to move at a moments notice.

Tenancy is closely associated with the commercial production of our big cash crops like cotton, tobacco, and wheat. For that reason it is greatest in the Southern and Mid-Western parts of the country. It is lightest in the New England States, and along the Pacific Coast. But there is some tenancy in every State in the Union.

Tenancy is highest in Mississippi and Georgia, and lowest in New Hampshire and Maine. Seventy-two per cent of Mississippi's farmers were tenants in 1930, and 68 per cent were tenants in Georgia, while the percentage was 5.3 in New Hampshire and 4.5 in Maine. By sections the percentage of tenancy in 1930 was as follows:

United States	42.4
New England	6.3
Middle Atlantic	14.7
East North Central	27.3
West North Central	39.9
South Atlantic	48.1
West South Central	62.3
Pacific Coast	17.7

Of course, all tenancy is not bad. There are advantages in some types of tenancy, and in tenancy in some parts of the country. But as I see it there are three big faults to our present general tenant system. First, it is hard to build the best type of social life when people move from place to place. School life, church life, and community life usually suffer in communities where tenancy is high.

Second, tenancy is expensive. It is costly to move from place to place. Economically tenancy is not as sound as home ownership. The community rating of a homeowner is usually better than that of a tenant. If you are in doubt, ask your banker.

Finally, tenancy is harder on the soil than home ownership. Unfortunately, tenancy is highest in the sections where the land is richest. For example, tenancy is high in the alluvial bottoms of the Mississippi Delta, and in the rich fields of Iowa, Illinois, and Kansas. And some tenants almost mine the soil. The average tenant is not interested in erosion, or in building up the fertility of the soil. He has little reason to be under the present system. It is simply a case where both the tenant and the landlord are trying to wring all they can from the soil. The soil is the goat, anl it has been the goat so long in some sections that the results are lower yields and gullied fields.

Now what can we do about this situation? Well, we could leave it alone, but that isn't the American way of doing things. The right way to cure tenant ills is to remove the cause that produces the trouble.

What we need is more homeowners, and fewer renters. Change a tenant to a homeowner, and you plant the seed of stability and permanency, you lift the social economic, moral, and community standard. You change indifference to interest, and shiftlessness to thrift. You remake both the individual and the community.

As a senator I have given much time to programs to help the farmer. I have given lots of thought to the tenant problem, and have come to the conclusion that the best way to solve it is to make homeowners out of worthy tenants. There is no use to write books and make speeches about bad landlords and shiftless tenants. That won't get us anywhere. The way to meet this problem is to help worthy tenants to buy farms that are big enough and rich enough to enable them to farm for a profit and for the future. I am not in favor of shoving a tenant off on a little piece of submarginal land where he hasn't a chance to make a living. I believe in starting him right, and on the right-sized farm so that he will have a chance to make something for himself and his family.

After much thought on this subject I introduced a tenant bill in the United States Senate. After further study and revisions I intrdduced a second bill. Representative Marvin Jones of Texas introduced a companion to my Senate bill in the House. So we are now all united on one bill the purpose of which is to help worthy tenants buy their own farms. And if the bill passes we have every reason to believe that it will be approved by President Roosevelt.

The name of the new tenant bill is the Farmers' Home Act. It is S. 2367. And the purpose, as set forth in the bill, is "To create the Farmers' Home Corporation, to promote more secure occupancy of farms and farm homes, to correct the economic instability resulting from some present forms of farm tenancy, to engage in rural rehabilitation, and for other purposes."

This corporation will be administered by a board composed of five members, three to be appointed by the President, and the Secretary of Agriculture and the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration to be ex-officio members. The program will be financed by such transfers as the President may make from the $4,800,000,000 relief act, and by a billion dollar bond issue. But it will not result in additional taxes. It is to be self-liquidating. The land is the security, and if one person falls down on his payments another applicant will take over the property. The program will be just as strong as the United States because the Government is bcking it.

The Corporation will "Establish, make loans for, and assist in the establishment of small individual farms and farm homes, together with the necessary buildings, and other structures, livestock, equipment, implements and machinery, furnishings, supplies, and facilities.

What will the Corporation do with these farms and the equipment? Resell them to worthy tenants on easy terms.

Who is eligible for this help? "Preference shall be given applicants who are married or who have dependent families have good moral character, and are experienced in farming and familiar with farm operations, or who are of recently were farmers, farm tenants, share croppers, or farm laborers."

How long will a tenant have to pay for his home under this program? Sixty years, if he needs that much time.

Will he have to make a big down payment at first? No, the first annual payments can be deferred for a year or so if that is necessary, but naturally he should make them if he could. The payments will be small, and in many cases will amount to no more than the rent tenants pay. There will be no hardships for the worthy tenant who wants to buy a home under this program. It is designed to help, not rob him.

What will the rate of interest be on the indebtedness? As low as possible. We don't know yet.

Will this program increase the production of cash crops like cotton, tobacco, wheat and some of the other crops the AAA has been trying to control? No, special effort will be made to avoid the expansion of production of crops for which the price is below parity.

Will it bring new lands into cultivation? No, the plan is to use good land already in cultivation. The land will be bought from insurance companies, banks, absentee landlords and others who want to cut up or sell their farms. Lands will be bought from those who want to sell, and resold to tenants who want to buy. There will be no forced selling or buying. The program is mutual.

There will be no wholesale moving of tenants from one part of the country to another. The plan, as far as possible, is to locate a tenant in the community where he resides, if that is his wish, and if there is land for sale in that community.

Since this bill was introduced on March 26, both Mr. Jones and myself have received many letters asking us to get it passed in this Congress so that tenants and landlords can get the benefit of this program as soon as possible.

If that is your wish, convey it to your Senators and Congressmen in Washington. It is a pleasure for us to serve you when we know what you want.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

It would seem impossible to drown a fish in the water, but this is just the thing that happens very often. If your fish bowl freezes over, or you should shut off the circulation of air from the water, your fish will soon die. That fish does not live in the air but it must have air to live. It does not breathe as much air as man, but it must have air to keep it alive. Often have I seen the Porpoise come to the surface of the water for its portion of air. The porpoise lives in the water, but it breathes the air. In a like manner we can think of the human soul. To be sure our souls are living in this world, but they are not of this world. When we shut out the soul life that comes to us from God, our souls must perish. We are in the world but we are not of the world. Our souls must breathe from God, or else this world will drown us.

In the temple at Jerusalem there was a flute fashioned out of reeds having come down from the days of Moses. The sound of the flute was sweet and beautiful, and its notes of melody would charm all who heard it. One day the priest in the temple decided that the common reeds of the flute were not fine enough, and so he proceeded to have the reeds covered over with wrought gold. After that the flute was never the same. It had a metalic ring. The gold had robbed it of its clear, beautiful, sweet tones, and now there was a jarring sound that hurt the ears of the listeners. Many a time have I listened to the echoes coming from a life that was natural and humble and I have been charmed with the simplicity and the beauty, and then I have come in contact with those lives after money had been made and they had changed into a metalic attitude, stiff and jarring. Gold should not take the sweetness out of life, but it has the habit of doing that very thing.

A little girl crawled into my lap and having been instructed by her mother she began to tell me of a party that she had attended. She knew about what first question I would ask and sure enough I said to her—"And how many guests did you have at your party?" "Oh" said she "It was just a small party, only three of us there—I, myself and me. Myself ate all the sandwiches, while I drank up the tea. It was I who ate up the pie and then passed the cake to me. The child's face beamed with a smile for she very well knew that she had pulled one on me. However, she had expressed a great pholosophy of life, for there are thousands of people who never see beyond I, myself and me.

The new preacher sat in the pulpit and as the old man passing the plate for the morning offering, came back to put the plate on the table he thought that he saw him slip his hand into the plate on the table, he thought that he saw him slip his hand into the plate and take out a coin. He was not certain of his discovery the first Sunday and so he thought he would be certain the next Sunday. Sure enough the old man slipped a coin again that morning. After the service the new preacher called the old deacon to account and charged him with taking from the collection plate. "Oh," said the old man, "You do not understand, I have been leading off the collection every Sunday with that old fifty cent piece of mine for nigh onto fifty years." Being zealous for a good collection he would drop in his half dollar for the effect and then take it out when the collection was over. A good example was a good thing even in a collection, so thought the deacon.

On a visit to the Niagra Falls I left the ship at Buffalo. No sooner had my feet touched the shore than I began to benefit from the Falls. It was night but the Falls lighted the city to a noon day glow. I sought a way to run over to the Falls and Niagara said, "I will carry you." On reaching the Falls I wanted to cross over to the Canadian side and the Falls lifted me over. I wanted to make the run down the rapids and Niagara carried me down and brought me back. The water falling over the rock wall had limitles power. God is our source of power in this world and He can cupply all of our needs Touch Him where you will and when you may, and power is at your command. He can lift you over your burdens, He can light up your path and He can carry you down and bring you back. He is limitless in power.

Substitute Bonus Bill Being Written

Washington, April 15—A compromise soldiers' bonus bill—labeled by its authors as acceptable to President Roosevelt—was drafted tonight in an effort to head off the powerful drive for the inflationary Patman bill passed by the House.

Chairman Harrison, of the Senate finance committee, announced he probably would introduce the bill tomorrow. While the measure was being prepared, he sought to work out an agreement on it with leaders o fthe bonus drive.

Harrison's announcement followed his conference on the bonus question with President Roosevelt only yesterday in which many of the proposals for dealing with the question were canvassed. The committee chairman carried to the White House half a dozen proposals on the problem which has perplexed this and other administrations.

It was understood that the administration measure would propose giving veterans negotiable bonds up to the current value of their certificates, which they could either cash or retain until maturity in 1938 to obtain the full face value of their certificates.

AGAIN WE LEARN THAT FAITH IS LIFE ITSELF . . . . .

"And He was risen"---how magnificently the organ peals out the melody of those words! "And He was risen"---what fervor that brief phrase instills in the souls of all who hear it! Who can help but believe... who can fail to want to believe ... when one knows the glory that was His! Let us find our true faith in our Church, where we may worship all that means Love, and Peace, and Fellowship of man. And thus in all our hearts will surge the joyousness of believing when we, too hear, on Easter Sunday---"And He was risen".

When did you last go to church? Last Sunday? Then you are near to Him on this high holiday. When did you last go to church? Too far back to remember? Never fear—He is ever in your heart.

"WHEN THE CLOUDS OF LIFE ARE PASSING"

When the clouds of life are passing
And our work on earth is o'er,
Let us ask ourselves the question:
"Are we ready for that shore"
Have we labored for our Master
From the dawn 'til setting sun?
Have we followed the example
Of that only begotten Son?
Shall we meet up there in heaven
When our work on earth is o'er?
When the roll is called by angels
Shall we gather on that shore?
If our path of life has brightened
The way for others to His door,
When the coluds of life are passing
We'll be ready for that shore.

Lespedeza

Land in winter grains on which lespedeza has been spring sown may be pastured after the grain is cut, without much damage to the lespedeza if animals are kept off when the field is too wet. This has been the result of experiments by the United States Department of Agriculture and the experience of farmers who have grown lespedeza. It may be necessary to help the lespedeza get started by stopping pasturing for a short time after the grain crop has been grazed down or harvested.

At the Department farm at Beltsville, Md., lespedeza was spring sown on winter barley growing on ordinary soil which had not been fertilized. One plot was grazed heavily beginning May 1. Another plot was grazed—after the barley was cut—from July 28 until the last of October. A third plot was not grazed that year. The next year the first two plots furnished as satisfactory grazing as the third, although the number of plants per square foot was less. This ability of lespedeza to withstand heavy grazing and the fact that it is at its best in the summer months when grasses lose quality, makes it valuable in any pasture.

The acreage of lespedeza in the Southeastern States and the Ohio and lower Mississippi Valleys is likely to increase this year—partly because of the shortage of many other pasture seeds and partly because the value of lespedeza as a pasture crop, particularly on poor soils, is becoming increasingly evident.

Use Of Pneumatic Tires Increasing On Farms

Akron, Ohio,—More farm tractors and implements have been mounted on pneumatic tires this year than ever before, according to The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

Agricultural processes are being revolutionized by the Farm Implement tire, Goodyear engineers believe. The tire has proved to farmers in all sections of the country that it offers considerable savings in fuel, greater speed of operation, far more comfort for the operator and allows more power to be devoted to useful work.

That farmers like the tires is borne out by a survey recently completed by the Agricultural Wheel Equipment Committee of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers in which nearly 800 replies from tractor owners were received. Nearly 100 per cent of those replying reported a fuel saving ranging up to 50 per cent, with the average saving being 25 per cent.

An average of 25 per cent more work is possible in the same length of time with rubber tires as compared with steel wheels, the answers show, while a majority declared the tires had reduced breakage and repair costs on an averge of 39 per cent. The tires give satisfactory traction, nearly 100 per cent of the farmers declared, and most of them said if buying a new tractor they would want it equipped with rubber tires.

"Just as the pneumatic truck tire, also pioneered by Goodyear, changed the trucking picture completely, so the Farm Implement tire is changing farm work," it was declared by the Goodyear men. "The farmer of today is finding he can get far more work accomplished than before and at a considerable saving. The great rolling cushions of rubber not only lessen rolling resistance and thereby allow more power to be devoted to useful work than was possible with steel wheels but also absorb shocks and vibration, enabling the operator to work in comfort. Neither do they churn up the choking clouds of dust experienced with steel wheels."

One factor of great importance to many farmers is the ability of the rubber-equipped tractor to operate at high speed on highways where steel wheels with lugs are prohibited, pulling loads to market or in going from one farm to another.

Unmask Culprit Insect Prying On Livestock

The screw-worm fly responsible for heavy livestock losses in the Southwest and, more recently, in the Southeast, has been shown up in its true colors. For many years it masqueraded as one of its comparatively harmless relatives.

The culprit fly (Cochliomyia americana) lay its eggs in open sores or blood spots on lives animals, and the maggots, or screw worms, that hatch from the eggs bore into the living tissue, usually killing the animal unless prompt treatment is given. Its less dangerous, and much more common relative (Cochliomyia macellaria) breeds principally in the carcasses of dead animals. Externally these two members of the large blowfly family look almost exactly alike, but internally they differ. This variation in internal structure, proving the presence on the ranges of two screw-worm flies, rather than one, was brought to light by E. C. Cushing, an entomologist of the United States Department of Agriculture.

For years entomologists, veterinarians, doctors, and stockmen had attacked the whole screw-worm problem from the angle of their knowledge of the more common—and less destructive—fly. With the clering up of this case of mistaken identity, a new program of research has been adopted. Intensive studies to ascertain exactly how the primary screw-worm fly breeds, feeds, and has its being are now under way. For this purpose large number of flies are being reared and closely observed at the field stations of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine. The facts thus obtained, Mr. Cushing says, will supply the firm foundation without which no insect-control campaign may be successfully carried out.

The extensive research which led to the original control measures, Mr. Cushing points out, has not been entirely in vain. Many of the practices based on it are effective in combating both species of screw-worm flies. Traps baited with carrion, though successful against C. Macellaria, however, appear to be of little value in curbing C. Americana.

Insurance Loa Repayment O Upward Tren

WM. A. LAW

PHILADELPHIA, March — In cations of improved business c ditions were seen today by Wil A. Law, pre of the Penn tual Life I ance Comp a steady increa since last Octob in the cash rep ment of mon borrowed policyholders their life ins ance contrac The increase, said, has been perienced generally by life ins ance companies.

Repayments of loans by Pe Mutual policyholders in the fi two months of this year were lar than in any other two-month per in the depression years dur which financial conditions caus many persons to draw upon th life insurance reserves.

Coupled with the mounting payments of loans, Mr. Law ported a continuing decrease in amount of new borrowings policyholders. Loans, which beg to increase after the market cra in 1929, reached their peak in spring of 1933 at the time of bank moratorium. Since then th have been steadily on the dow ward trend though they are s above the pre-depression level.

"These two trends—decrease new borrowings and increase in cash repayment of loans — healthy signs," Mr. Law sa "They are indicative of impro business conditions. As a rule policyholder does not borrow on life insurance until all oth sources of financial assistance ha been exhausted. The fact that f er persons are borrowing on th life insurance indicates impro ment in business conditions this is further confirmed by fact that thousands are seeing th way to repay the loans."

Most insurance companies, said, have plans whereby loans be repaid in instalments.

800 Boys And Girls Attend 4-H Meeting

Judge Lee Smith Delivers Welcome Address To Future Citizens; Prizes Awarded To Various Clubs During Program

More than 800 boys and girls, members of Chilton County 4-H clubs and visitors, attended the Annual Club Rally held in Clanton last Friday, which featured a myria progrm—ending with near 1,000 boys and girls, of all ages, engaging in an Easter egg hunt.

Commenting on the rally, County Agent J. W. Fant and Miss Ruth Pardue, home demonstration agent, said that the attendance was "more than 100 per cent," explaining that even a greater number attended than had been expected.

The program, which lasted from early morning throughout the day, was begun with Judge J. Lee Smith delivering the "Welcome Address." Following Judge Smith's address, Supt. Luther E. Little spoke briefly regarding the work that is being done by the 4-H club activities to build better citizenship. Mr. Fant also delivered a brief address.

Members of the 11 clubs, representing every section of the county, gave 10 minute programs; Thomas Junior was winner of the $5.00 shrubbery award presented for the most original and worthwhile program; for the presentation of a health program, interspersed with music.

The following clubs were represented: Concord, 45 members present; Mt Pleasant, 60; Veromnt, 45; Cooper, 62; Thomas Junior, 102; Stanton, 52; Enterprise, 81; Thorsby, 35; Maplesville 50, and Collins Chapel, 55.

Miss Ruth Dobyne, district home demonstration agent, declared that it was the best rally she had ever attended. She assisted Mr. Fant in the organization of the program, in the absence of Miss Pardue, who could not attend because of the illness of her sister.

The rally was sponsored by the Clanton Kiwanis club, and members of the Clanton Pilot club assisted in serving the luncheon. Both Mr. Fant and Miss Pardue expressed appreciation to the members of these clubs and to the teachers in the various schools in the county, who cooperated to make the event a success.

Judges were: W. M. Wyatt, Mrs Reid Mullins, and Mrs. J. W. Fant. Ed Glasscock, Concord teacher, lead the singing. Miss Dobyne lead in giving the club pledge, and W. T. Bean lead in prayer.

"Forty And Eight" To Back Health Drive

The "Forty and Eight" organization of the American Legion is again interesting itself in an extensive diptheria immunization program in Alabama.

Dr. H. C. Nickson, county health officer, received a letter recently from W. P. Bloom, Grand Chef-de-Gare of this organization, informing him that Legionaire R. W. Lowe heads the Diptheria Prevention Committee in this county, and pledging the cooperation of the "Forty and Eight" in the continuance of this work.

An extensive program for the immunization of this disease was carried on here for several months last year, through the cooperation of the Alabama Relief Administration and the local board of education.

Dr. Nickson declared that he knows of only one case of diptheria in this county, but agreed that he thinks it wise to continue the program again this summer.

"PIGS IS PIGS" AND CROPS ARE CROPS

Yet they're much alike at Feeding Time

● Strange, isn't it, to think of pigs and crops this way . . . but science presents more and more evidence every day to show that food requirements of animals and plants are much the same.

Animals need vitamins. They could starve to death on chemically pure food. So could your crops, without vital impurities.

Chilean Natural Nitrate supplies the vital impurities—supplies them in Nature's own balance and proportion. These vital impurities are the rare elements—iodine, boron, calcium, magnesium, lithium, strontium, and many others. They're all there, combined with nitrogen, to make your crops strong and healthy.

Chilean Natural Nitrate is ideal for your crops. It is natural, the only nitrogen that comes from the ground.

For your own protection say "Chilean" when you order nitrate. Two kinds—Champion (granulated) and Old Style. They are both genuine. Both are natural. Both are Chilean. And both give your crops the vital impurities.

"A Pure Food and Drug Act for plants would be a death warrant to all living creatures."

Farmers To Fight To To Keep AAA Tax

Ashcraft Says Cotton Growers Will Not Yield Advantage Without Struggle

The Alabama Farm Bureau Federation yesterday took official cognizance of the growing opposition both in and out of Congress to the processing tax on cotton and other farm commodities Speaking for the organzation, C. W. Ashcraft, executive vice-president, declared the American farmers were better organized today for a fight than ever before. He said sentiment for retention of the tax was overwhelming throughout the cotton States.

"Farmers have for more than 100 years borne more or less patiently the added costs and burdens of the tariff on most of the things they have to buy," remarked Mr. Ashcraft. "Now that Congress has at last taken note of the farmer's plight and has sought to give him something in the form of relief corresponding to the import duty imposed for the benefit of industry, including textiles, these farmers are not in a mood quietly to submit to having these benefits rudely destroyed."

Mr. Ashcraft informed the textile interests that "farmers are very much disposed to avoid the semblance of a fight. But, they have felt their cause is so just and that they have been such long sufferers that no question should be raised against their receiving these small benefits accruing from the processing tax. Farmers look everywhere to observe that the textile mills have prospered to the extent to providing for their operatives beautiful villages with athletic grounds and flowers schools, libraries and swimming pools while those employed in agriculture have not been able to make any such provisions.

"Farmers do not desire to engage in a political fight, but they are better organized than has previously been the case and if they must fight, they are in better position to enter the struggle than ever before. They are determined to retain the processing tax and do whatever is necessary for accomplishing this purpose."

Mr. Ashcraft said that the threat of textile workers to go to court will be answered, if necessary, by farmers going to Congress with every necessary retaliatory effort to preserve their own interests which "they feel have been so long ignored and neglected."

Farmers of the South and other regions of the country, he said, want all industry to prosper, particularly the textile mills which consume such a large portion of the product of Southern agriculture. "Every farmer is, and should be," he said "vitally interested in every existing payroll and the development of other payrolls. Farmers want to help with these developments. They are asking for a continuation of the processing tax only because they feel that it is fair. They feel that to destroy the processing tax now means the destruction of the entire Agricultural Adjustment Act, which they regard as their law and they are resolutely determined not to submit to its emasculation."

Banking Institute Speaker Says That Bank Failures Followed Business Failures

CHICAGO, Ill. — Many appear to think that failures occur only to banks, but the complete story of business shows that failures of American banks have followed the failure of business enterprises, and have not been a cause of those failures, Dr. Harold Stonier, National Educational Director of the American Bankers Association, declared in a recent address here before the American Institute of Banking.

"It is true that we have had more failures in our banks than in the banks of a number of other countries," he said. "It is also true that we have had more failures in drug stores, grocery stores, railroads, and in every other type of business enterprise. At the same time, it must be said that we still have left after all our failures, more drug stores, more grocery stores, more railroads, and more banks than any other country."

People do not realize, he said, that we have in excess of 108 banks which have been in existence over a century and we have more than 2,000 banks which have been in existence over 50 years.

"In other words, we have more banks over 100 years of age than any other country—we have more banks over 50 years of age than any country in the world," he declared. "The American banking system has not fallen down—it is not in danger of decay. Such failures as it has experienced are due to the price we pay for too rapid development of business enterprises, but that is the American spirit."

More Power to the South!

Expecting record summer motor travel this spring and summer in the Southland, William E. Smith, president of the Standard Oil Company (Kentucky), has arranged immediate distribution in this region of a new kind of summer motor oil made by the revolutionary Clearosol Process. Mr. Smith is shown here receiving from Miss Beatrice Drader the first can of the new oil to arrive by airplane.

A NEW kind of summer motor oil refined by the Clearosol Process, which has been called the most revolutionary development in the history of the petroleum industry, was announced today by W. E. Smith, president of the Standard Oil Company (Kentucky). The new Mobiloil will be available throughout this area this week.

"The process 'washes' out carbon and gum forming impurities from the crude oil," Mr. Smith explained. "As a result the oil is free from those weak and unstable elements which burn up with engine heat. Motorists will be able to drive farther this summer and spend less in oil purchases.

"The Clearosol Process developed by the Socony-Vacuum Oil Company is really simplicity itself, although it was discovered only after years of research by chemists and refinery engineers seeking a new way to improve lubricating oils to meet the demands of increased motor car performance. Two cleansing fluids or solvents are used. One of them, cresylic acid, dissolves and settles the natural impurities present in the finest crude petroleum. The other, propane, absorbs the valuable parts of the oil. Since propane is normally a gas and must be compressed before it turns to a liquid, all of the valuable parts of the motor oil are retained and the propane is set free as a gas when the propane-oil mixture reaches room temperature.

"Tests in the laboratory and on the road with the old-type oils showed that the engine valve chambers were coated with gum after 100 hours of operation. Pistons were blocked and rings were stuck with muck. This gum and muck was formed by impurities which the old-type refining method by filtration or acid treatment failed to remove from the crude oil. The new summer Mobiloil has the highest resistance to gumming of any oil yet developed, because the impurities have been 'washed' out of the crude petroleum by the action of the solvents."

CORN FLAKES

DO you know that delicious pastry for pies and tarts can be made with corn flakes? Put 4 cups of corn flakes through a food grinder, using the fine cutter. Mix with one-fourth cup sugar, one-fourth cup melted butter and one-half teaspoon cinnamon. Brush pie pan with butter and line bottom and sides with the crumbs. When filling has been added bake in the usual manner.

The next time you prepare Waldorf Salad sprinkle bran flakes over the salad just before serving, in place of nut meats. The bran flakes supply an appetizing crispness to the texture of the salad, while their nut-like flavor goes perfectly with the diced apples.

Science has shown that the sleep of adults was improved 6 per cent by eating a before-bed-time dish of corn flakes and milk to stave off hunger pangs. The sleep of children was improved 14 per cent by substituting a supper dish of the easily digested corn flakes and milk in place of a heavier main dish.

Uncle Sam Okehs Leonard Models

After a series of governmental refrigerator tests the Leonard Refriegrator Company has been awarded a blanket contract for five of its standard types of refrigerators by the United States government, according to information received by W. L. McAllister, of Loveman, Joseph & Loeb.

This means that these units have been recommended to various departments of the government for purchase during the year, and that during 1935, hundreds of these models will be requisitioned for governmental use throughout the country. The awarding of this contract is most gratifying, Mr. McAllister said, because of the increased stringency of the tests which the refrigerators had to undergo this year.

Paralleling a noticeable public insistence upon higher performance and greater value, the government itself made its 1935 electric refrigerator contract awards on the basis of overall operating expense over a 10-year period, Mr. McAllister declared.

You pay for doing without a telephone a nickel at a time. Instead of calling the grocer or druggist, you have to make a trip. If you must get in touch with a friend, you have to go in person or send a message. And in bad weather, such trips are none too pleasant.

Chevrolet Master Six Shown Here

The Hayes Chevrolet Company, with Dick Hayes at the helm, is proudly showing the new 1935 Master Six Chevrolet in Clanton now. According to Mr. Hayes and salesmen of the company, the new Chevrolet is taking the day in this section. They base their statement on the large number that have been sold here recently.

Beauty of exterior appearance and quality of interior appointments have never been more evident in any car yet built by Chevrolet than in the new 1935 Master De Luxe models.

Credit for the greater part of this emphasis on appearance and beauty is ascribed to women's increasing influence in making the selection of the automobile, according to William E. Holler, general sales manager of Chevrolet Motor Company.

"The mechanical perfection of the automobile gave women the confidence in their ability to drive well," said Mr. Holler. "Mechanical features are no longer a mystery to the majority of feminine motorists. But whether or not mechanical features are a more potent factor in selling the ladies, remains in doubt.

"Beauty in appearence and quality of appointment transcends every other factor in appealing to the feminine buyer. That is why the new 1935 Master De Luxe Chevrolets are offered with sparkling colors, fine appearance and attractive convenient interiors. These cars also have the snap of outstanding performance with consequent ease of handling because women are much more motorwise today than the men were ten years ago and they demand performance along with beauty.

"Chevrolet's 17 1-2 to 1 steering ratio --making it easy to turn the car-- was incorporated for the dainty feminine hand. The powerful cable-controlled brakes which respond to the slightest touch of the pointed slipper, were designed for the light feminine foot. Likewise it was for the ladies with their delicate gowns that wide doors and spacious interiors were designed.

"Chevrolet beauty and ease of operation," Mr. Holler stated, "are no chance creations, rather they are the result of painstaking attention to the expressed desires of both women and men alike."

Ways Suggested For Keeping Milk Pure On Hot Days

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama milk consumers can keep their milk supply "sweet and wholesome" during the spring and summer months by following a five-point program, says F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist, who advises:

1. Take milk into the house as soon as it is delivered and place it in the refrigerator at once. Bacteria increases rapidly in milk which stands in the sun or warms up, and such milk will sour quickly.

2. Keep milk in the original bottle in the refrigerator until the moment of serving. Milk which has been poured from the bottle should not be returned to the bottle.

3. Keep your refrigerators clean and sweet because milk quickly absorbs unpleasant odors and becomes less palatable.

4. Wash milk bottles as soon as emptied by rinsing first with lukewarm water and then with hot water. Return these bottles promptly as they are the property of your milk dealer and represent cash.

5. Remember that clean milk, properly cared for, is one of the best foods obtainable. It is nourishing, digestible economical, and healthful.

In addition, new tools, machinery and other equipment and facilities in all departments to increase daily output, totals $3,000,000.

Texas Lady Tells How Black-Draught Laxative Helps All Her Family
Here's how Black-Draught fills the needs of a family laxative in the home of Mrs. J. S. Stoker, Fort Worth, Texas: "The grown-ups in my family," she writes, "have always taken powdered Thedford's Black-Draught for biliousness, headaches and other ailments (due to constipation) and found it a reliable remedy. I was very pleased when I saw Syrup of Black-Draught advertised. I bought it and gave it to my little daughters, ages 6 and 4. They needed something to cleanse their systems and Syrup of Black-Draught acted well." . . . Your druggist sells this reliable laxative in both forms. "Children like the Syrup."

Beauty Hints

By Jane Heath

IF you were not gifted by Nature with curly lashes and a ravishing, starry-eyed look, don't despair. There's a clever eyelash curler that will do the trick for you. Curved to fit the eye, it trains the lashes upward with a gentle squeeze on the handles. Hold a few seconds—and presto! Another secret of the movie star's dressing-table is yours.

Blue eye-shadow is the most popular color of the half dozen shades offered this season.

When shaping eyebrows with a tweezer, never pull hairs out "against the grain." Always pluck each hair gently in the same direction in which it is growing.

Sec. Wallace Warns Critics Of AAA Program

FAILURE OF PRESENT SET-UP MAY MEAN MORE EXTREMES

Sec'tary Of Agriculture Speaks To Farmers In Atlanta, Ga.

Atlanta.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace Saturday warned processors and handlers of farm commodities that they might face "something more extreme" if they succeeded in destroying the agricultural adjustment program.

Reiterating that the cotton processing tax is the spearhead of the movement," against the cotton program.

Addressing farmers from Georgia and surrounding states in the Wesley Memorial Church auditorium here, he said:

"The current resistance to the pending amendments to the agricultural adjustment is really an attack on the entire program.

"My own feeling is that the very groups who are fighting the agricultural adjustment act are short-sighted and perhaps unwittingly might force upon this nation fantastic measures which would do much injury and accomplish no good.

"For the sake of temporary gain the processors and handlers of farm commodities might find themselves faced with something extreme if they succeed in overthrowing the agricultural adjustment act.

"I would sound a solemn warning to these groups and in the national interest appeal to them to take the longer view.

"Farmers are poorly organized and it is difficult for them to make their protests articulate. For that reason, the government has a special duty to see that farmers get a fair break.

"Farmers need to do some hard thinking and to erpress their point of view as to whether they want the mechanism of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to be thrown overboard because certain special groups believe it to be in conflict with their immediate self interest. For that reason I repeat my appeal for an understanding and an alliance between the great agricultural sections of the South and the Midwest.

"If the cotton program goes by the board, the corn, wheat, tobacco and other programs will follow. The unity of the farmers will be broken."

He told the farmers "it is apparent that the agitation against the cotton processing tax will continue. Efforts are being made to turn cotton farmers against the tax—a device which contributes $100,000,000 a year to their purchasing power and to which they are entitled as a matter of economic justice."

He said that the textile industry "would have nothing to gain but a great deal to lose if it contributed to dismantling the cotton farmers' program. If poverty prices of cotton were a basis for prosperity in the textile mills, then why weren't they rolling in wealth in 1931-1932? The true basis for the textile industry recovery is the spreading of purchasing power through the population; including the city workers and the farmers.

"Sixteen cents a pound for cotton, which is about the present cost to the mills in price plus tax, has not in the past been regarded as an unfairly high price."

Turning to the recent charges that the cotton program was forcing tenant and sharecroppers off the land, Wallace said:

"I have seen this claim published several times in forms so extreme to be ridiculous. Showing on their face that they originated with people who know nothing about the South.

"What are the facts? One is that the number of people on farms in the South increased 1,250,000 from 1930 to 1934. In Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisana the increase in that time was 440,000."

Prices On Goods Affected Little By Processing Tax

The cotton processing tax amounts to only 3 cents on a work shirt and 8 cents on a pair of overalls, says Cully A. Cobb, director, division of cotton Agricultural Adjustment Administration in pointing out that "there is nothing to indicate that the processing tax, within itself, has served to restrict the consumption of cotton."

"On the cotton used in manufacturing a yard of calico the processing tax adds only 1 cent; on the cotton used in the manufacture of a yard of muslin it amounts to 1.3 cents; on a work shirt it amounts to approximately 3 cents; and on a pair of overalls it amounts to about 8 cents," he reports.

The cotton processing tax amounts to 4.2 cents per pound net weight or 4 cents per pound gross weight. So far the cotton processing tax has amounted to approximately $115,000,000 per year or around 90 cents per capita annually

Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald

"Her children rise up and call her blessed."

"I have been asked to write something of Mrs. Gerald's life and influence in our community. I have been especially impressed with the thought of her place in the educational life of Thorsby.

"Thirty years ago her husband was very active among those who combined to establish Thorsby Institute. The women who were interested, associated themselves together in the Ladies' Guild through which they have rendered a service to the community whic cannot be measured. Mrs. Gerald was one of the charter members of that organization and has been its president for much of the time since then. After her husband's death, she was elected to succeed him as a member of the Board of Tructees of Thorsby Institute, the first woman to have a place on that Board. She has been an influential member, and a faithful one, of that board, and at the time of her death was its secretary. Almost her last conscious act was to request one of her daughters to send out in her name the notices of the meeting of the Board to be held this week.

"But chiefly have I been thinking of Mrs. Gerald's ambition for her own children in the matter of education. Many years ago when Thorsby Institute was awarding some prizes, attention was called to the fact that a large proportion of the honors were going to the children of widows. I recalled that incident at the funeral of Mrs. Gerald last week. When she became a widow. more than a quarter of a century ago, she was the mother of seven children, all of them under age, the youngest born after her father's death. How may we measure the courage with which that widowed mother faced her future? Only a few years after her husband's death, a much diminished income made it necessary for her to become a wage earner, and she spent five years in the public school room. During those years, her oldest daughter. Theora, who had been a brilliant student in Thorsby Institute, became an invalid, and, after a lengthy illness passed away. Of the six children who survive their mother, all have had college training and five of them bear college degrees. That is a record of which any mother's children may well be proud."

"We feel the time has come for every young man and woman in the State to take an active part in the political life of his party," said Organizer Tipton. BUILDING PROGRAM

matter of securing near here the location of one of the state prison camps for convicts employed on the highways. It was pointed out that such a camp located in this the central portion of Alabama, would make a good working location for the authorities in charge, and at the same time bring a considerable volume of business to Clanton. The state convict department will be contacted in this matter.

The committee plans to get in touch with Representative W. B. Oliver concerning the matter of getting a C. C. C. camp located in this vicinity. Mention was made of Clanton's interest and advantages in the development of the Coosa River for navigation purposes This will be followed with action of the committee to contact organizations that are already set up and functioning toward this purpose.

J. B. Atkinson again pressed for consideration his pet hobby of building a public swimming pool for the children in Clanton. Further improvement of the airport was discussed. Possibility of additional funds for this project likely through the new program soon to be set up by the government relief agency.

The committee discussed the proposal recently made for establishment of a gas system for Clanton. Information about this proposal was not very detailed, and the committee will make further investigation before endorsing it.

Another matter of very much concern to Clanton was discussed, the possibility of additional building facilities at the Grammar School. This question has the active support of the committee and the whole Kiwanis Club, as well as everybody else in and around Clanton. The Grammar School proposal has been listed by Mayor Jones and Superintendent Little as a desirable project under the new public works program soon to be instituted.

The Public Affairs Committee considered the advisability of the county authorities removing the old wooden building known as the Sheriff's House near the jail, and erecting in its place a modern brick structure. This, it is pointed out, would harmonize with the other public buildings in the immediate vicinity.

Suggestion was made to the committee that there may be a possibility of getting a game preserve established in the vicinity of Lake Mitchell in the eastern part of the county.

Arrangements were made to take up with the L. & N. Railroad again the matter of having trains one and four to stop in Clanton. It was pointed out that as now arranged there is no mail going south out of Clanton from Sunday morning to Monday afternoon.

In connection with the foregoing matters considered by the Public Affairs Committee, Mayor C. Fenn Jones was interviewed concerning possible projects he has listed for consideration under the public works program. Besides the Grammar School building, he states that he has listed work for widening and improving the streets of Clanton; extension of water mains into the territory proposed additional city areas; continuation of the drainage program that was instituted in the swamps near Clanto. under the C. W. A.

Casual mention has been made of the need of an addition to the county courthouse to take care of the offices that are now occupying very limited and inadequate quarters in the old Potts residence. Also additional buildings at the County High School for use as a vocational unit have been put forward as a very much needed thing.

All things considered, it may be said that indications for the future months are that there will likely be quite a few things going on in and around Clanton. Of course, it can not be thought that all the things mentioned will materialize; but it is reasonable to expect that some of them will, and it is good to know that our citizens and public officials will be on the job ready to push forward with every possiblity that turns up as an opportunity to further our community refuse to carry their frail bodies; and they must be content to watch other, more healthy, children romp in the sunshine. Cutting paper dolls—reading books—grows almost unbearably dull.

The local child welfare superintendent, Miss Nolan Meroney, declares that the people of Chilton County have an opportunity now to help disperse this cloud of gloom that hovers over the lives of these youngsters. Seals to raise funds for the treatment of crippled children are being sold here through the welfare organization.

The local welfare board, composed of Judge J. Lee Smith, Supt. Luther E. Little, Mrs. Sophia Jones, Mayor C. Fenn Jones, Mrs. A. C. Wells, Com. C. D. Duke, and S. J. M. Webb, will meet Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Miss Meroney's office to discuss plans for the Easter sale of these seals.

There are dozens of crippled children in this county, Miss Meroney stated, who can be cured if only funds can be raised for their treatment. She is urging the cooperation of every person in the county in the sale of these seals.

provements in incorported towns.

Mayor Jones said that he would be in favor of paving several blocks of Clanton's streets, if some feasible plan can be worked out that will not necessitate increasing the town's indebtiness at this time. For sometime, he has been busy collecting past due paving accounts and reports that more than $13,000 of this indebtiness has been cleared up.

Since taking over the reins of the city government, this administration has added more than $600.00 to Clanton's revenue that has gone unnoticed heretofore. Much of this has been in the form of license from companies with local representatives.

He said that he thought in all progability that both he and members of the council will attend the Montgomery convention.

on one of the tank cars near the engine had become disconnected and dropped, catching on the rails.

The Train was northbound L. & N. freight No. 74.

Railroad officials described the wreck Sunday morning as "the worst wreck" on this route in the past 25 years. Twenty-five years ago this month, just south of Clanton a similar tragedy occurred it was remembered.

Flaming Oil Spread

The derailment and subsequent explosion, which occurred at 5:40 a. m., hurled flaming gasoline over a wide section of the right-of-way and interrupted traffic along the line for hours.

Rail officials said they were unable to give a cause for the derailment. The explosion followed almost simultaneously with the derailment.

A graphic description of the blazing wreckage was given by Jeff Levy, Birmingham druggist, who with Leonard Wise was returning from Montgomery by automobile and witnessed a part of the fire.

We didn't see the first explosion;" Levy said, "but we were only a short distance away and heard the noise and saw the flames shoot up. When we drove up even with the train we saw seven or eight cars scattered about and the flames were shooting up for what looked like 500 feet.

"The roaring of the flames sounded like Niagara Falls. One man told me he could hear the roaring as far as a mile away.

"The highway runs close to the railroad track at that place and because of the heat we were afraid to pass the wreck for nearly an hour. When we finally did go by we ran as fast we could."

Browder and Purvis told a representative of the News that at least one white man was evidently killed. The four, Browder, Purvis, the dead negro, and another unidentified white man they said, were riding on one of the tank cars.

When the cars began leaving the rails, Purvis leaped. Browder said that he was waiting for his buddy to clear the car before he jumped, but the sudden buckling of the cars threw him forward, and between the tank car and another car just in front. The last he saw of the negro, he said, he was clutching at the corner of the tank car.

Browder suffered a serious cut in his left leg, and Purvis sustained a back injury. Browder said that after he crawled from the wreckage, he noticed that a sweater which he was wearing was covered with blood, which he said must have come either from the negro or the other white boy. They were brought to the hospital by Hugh Shaw. of near Jemison.

Many Cars Derailed

Levy said a boy who was riding the tender of the engine told him that the negro was knocked from the car by the explosion and train passed over his body.

"We couldn't tell exactly how many cars were derailed because of the smoke," Levy said, "but I know there was a lot of them. Some of the trainmen attempted to uncouple some cass and get them away from the fire, but the heat drove them back."

The L. & N. rerouted trains over the Central of Georgia track through Opelika into Montgomery and from Opelika into Birmingham.

The body of the negro was buried in a negro cemetery near the scene of the wreck. No trace of his identity had been found Monday, but the boys in the hospital said that he had boarded the train at Elmore. Browder and Purvis declared that they had ridden from Flomaton, and were sure that there were only six hoboes on th train.

None of the train crew were injured

It was estimated that more than 12,000 persons viewed the wreckage during Sunday. Cars lined both side the highway for more than a mile thousands milled about the burning debris throughout the day and night

Shortly after noon, the Clanton Fire Department was called to the scene assisted in extinguishing the fla making it possible for workmen open the tracks in time for No. 2 and No. 10, afternoon passenger trains, to pass through on schedule.

The initiation fee charter fee, etc., for the local Unit which is twenty-five dollars was taken care of at this meeting, also. Officers elected were Billy Smith, president; Barnett Deramus of Verbena, vice-president and Abney Brown of Maplesville, secretary-treasurer.

"The Alabama State League of Young Democrats is for the young Democracy of Alabama and for no particular faction," Mr. Tipton stated in addressing the group last Friday night.

"Any white Democrat between the ages of 19 and 39 is eligible for membership. This means that the membership is not restricted to young men. A cordial invitation is extended to the young women also."

Since the news has spread of the organizing of the local Unit, applications have been literally pouring in and the next meeting is expected to bring a record crowd of young men and women from all sections of the county.

The next meeting is set for Thursday night, May 2nd at eight o'clock at the court house. It is expected that Hon. John Kohn, of Montgomery, president of the State League will be present to go further into the purpose of this organization of young voters.

An Invitation

A blanket invitation is extended to all white Democrats, or those interested in becoming members of the Chilton County Unit of The Alabama State League Of Young Democrats, between the ages of 19 and 39 to send in their names, ages and address immediately and become members of the League.

A county-wide invitation is also extended to all young white men and women between the above ages to attend the meeting at the court house on Thursday night, May 2nd at eight o'clock, regardless of your political affiliations. This movement for the advancement of the youth of Chilton County and America is one of the most worthwhile movements in existence.

Chilton County Unit, Alabama State League Of Young Democrats.

WORK ON NEW POST OFFICE STARTS SOON

Plans To Change Building Dropped; Contractor Notified To Begin

Ground will be broken for the erection of the new $50,000 post office building for Clanton on or about May 1st, according to a communication from the Treasury Department of the United States to Congressman W. B. Oliver, a copy of which was received here by Acting Postmaster Hosea Downs.

Sometime ago several citizens of Clanton objected to the original plans of the building which calls for only one entrance and that facing north. A movement was started to request the government to change these building plans so that another entrance on the Sixth Street side could be had.

The communication from the Treasury Department stated that since these requests had been dropped they have notified the contractor, H. W. Beers Jr., of Atlanta to proceed with the work. Mr. Beers stated that he expected to start placing materials on the ground "so that work may be started May 1st."

The Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company is this week making a very special feature of the famous Sellers Kitchen Cabinets, Perfection oil stoves and Sanitary ice refrigerators. The sale on these items will run for two days only, Friday and Saturday of this week, April 26 and 27.

Mrs. Jessie Tuggle, cooking expert, will be in the store cooking and demonstrating fine recipes. According to Mr. O. C. Bennett, salesman for Tiffin-Klinner, this is an event designed to abolish kitchen drudgery for Chilton County housewives. He will have special factory-trained representatives of these nationally-advertised appliances in the store during the sale.

In addition to the fact that these labor-saving kitchen appliances may be bought on very easy terms with a small down payment, there are additional free items of merchandise with the purchase of either a cabinet, stove or refrigerator.

Another feature of this event is the search for the oldest refrigerator, cabinet or stove, with suitable prizes to the person owning such item. Read the advertisement in another place in this issue for full details.

STRAWBERRY SHIPMENTS ARE LOOKING FINE OVER THE COUNTY

Several Thousands Of Dollars Will Be Turned Loose In Chilton County Within Few Days From Early Shipments Of Berries

Harvesting and marketing Chilton County's strawberry crop is commanding much attention these days, and approximately $75,000 is expected to flow into the county from this source within the next ten days, giving extra money to the growers with which to finance other crops, furnishing work for pickers and stimulating business in general.

Tuesday night, 33 cars had been shipped from Clanton, Thorsby, and Jemison, the three points in the county where berry associations are organized. In addition to these many crates have been sold locally and by truck.

Clanton had shipped 16 cars, Thorsby 8, and Jemison 9, according to reports available late Tuesday afternoon. J. N. Dennis, secretary-treasurer of the Clanton Berry Growers Association, said that 2,557 crates sold by the Clanton association Monday brought $5,777.00. The price is much better than last year, he said, but it is almost impossible to even estimate the total amount that can be expected from the crop; there are so many things that can enter into the harvesting and marketing.

He declared that officials of the Clanton association have hopes of marketing between forty and fifty cars this year. Jemison and Thorsby combined should have at least an equal number, it is believed, making a total crop in the county of above 75 cars. At present prices and figuring 425 crates to the car, which Mr. Dennis said is an average car, this year's crop should Ford Sales Will Reach 500,000 By End Of Apr.

Detroit, April 19—Figures released today by the Ford Motor Company tend to prove that the projection of the founder of the company made last year—1,000,000 cars and trucks in 1935—wasn't a wild guess on his part. Providing demand holds up as anticipated, it is expected at Dearborn that the goal will be reached as predicted.

This anticipation is based on returns made by W. C. Cowling, general sales manager, which show that in the first quarter of this year and up to April 10, Ford sales had totaled 334,437 cars and trucks. By hte end of the month, Dearborn does not hesitate to say, the company will have produced better than 500,000—four months' production.

One can better appreciate the pace at which Ford has been going this year by comparing the sales from Jan. 1 to April 10, with what was done in the entire year of 1932, when the count was 328,807 for the entire 12 months. This count includes both cars and trucks, of course.

As demonstrating the activity at Dearborn this spring, the Ford company also announces that an all-time record in the purchase of materials and supplies for the Ford V-8 was set in March when the bills totaled $81,000,000. The best previous high mark was reached in April, 1930, when the company's purchases totaled $78,000,000. And in this same month the Ford payroll totaled $16,500,000.

It Must Be Done

Mechanically speaking, the automobile of today is infinitely safer than that of ten years ago. Brakes reach perfection. Lights have been vastly improved. Steering mechanisms are fool-proof. Car bodies can stand terrific punishment.

Similar progress has taken place in road building. The modern highway, with traffic lanes, banked turns and "skidless' surfaces, is a tribute to engineering science, which has done wonders in seeking to make driving safe and pleasant.

Yet automobile accidents continue to rise—both in number and severity. The motorist has no alibi. He can't blame the car or the road for mishaps, save in an infintesimal percentage of instances. The human element—and the human element alone —is at fault in ninety-odd accidents out of a hundred.

Most drivers are competent. Most are careful. Most realize that an automobile is a potential killer. But that minority of motorists which is either careless, incompetent, or plain reckless, menaces us all. Perhaps ten per cent of drivers fall into one of those categories—and the lives, health and property of the other ninety per cent is placed in peril because of them.

Last year saw 36,000 peopled killed—unnecessarily—in auto accidents. It is the duty of every citizen and every unit of government to see that a different record is made this year. Traffic laws must be modernized and enforced with the utmost strictness. The dangerous driver has been given every chance. He has been urged to change his ways, and has refused. Now he must be forced to drive safely—or be deprived of the right to drive on public streets and highways.

No Magic

"Farm people now realize there is nothing magical about cooperative institutions; they require cold, hard practical business procedure," said the Secretary of the National Cooperative Council recently.

Any farmer who expects cooperative managements to pull economic rabbits out of a hat is obviously doomed to disappointment. And so is any farmer who believes that if he joins a co-op all his problems will be solved in jig-time, and his bank account will immediately start to swell. Sound cooperatives work slowly and carefully. They plan for the long pull, rather than for transitory benefits. They take no steps that are not building for a sound and prosperous future—they seek eventual stability, and they know that cannot be achieved through legerdemain.

It speaks well for the foresight of the American farmer that he has stuck stubbornly to his cooperative during depression, when it seemed that little or no progress was being made. Now the fruits of that are beginning to appear; the farm income is rising, new markets are being developed, the arduous job of adjusting supply and demand is slowly being completed. It looks as if agriculture is entering a period of genuinely better times.

Prior Consideration

With $8,000,000 allotted to Alabama for highways from the new Federal public works appropriation, we renew our plea for the paving of the road from Calera to Montevallo.

Already we are a bit shamefaced that the state's reputation for gallantry should have suffered so much from permitting the 800 attractive students at Alabama Woman's College to endure a dusty, unpaved highway.

A place with as pretty a name and as pretty a college campus as Montevallo deserves a pretty highway also. Eight miles of paving seems so little to ask when it would do so much good.—Birmingham Post.

That Opportunity For Chilton County Youths

Give the young man a chance!

That has ever been a plea of the young man and the young woman, and those whose interest is in the young men and women of today.

Give the young man a chance!

And that chance has now presented itself to the young people of Alabama in the form of the fast growing Alabama State League of Young Democrats.

Never before has there been offered to the young voters of Alabama and the entire United States such an opportunity for political recognition, political schooling and an opportunity to be heard in county, state and national politics.

Give the young man a chance!

And that plea is for every young man in Chilton County between the ages of 19 and 39. To those older persons who might be a bit inclined to think that the young man and young woman of today have no business in politics, we have this to say: Before many years past, the young man and young woman of today will be the leading citizens of this county tomorrow. To you older and wiser citizens of this county we offer this suggestion, that you aid these young men and women all you possibly can, unselfishly and untiringly.

The Chilton County Unit of the Alabama State League of Young Democrats is now being organized. This statewide and nationwide youth movement is now becoming one of the most powerful organizations of its kind. It is offering the youth of today an opportunity heretofore denied. It is instructive, protective, non-binding to its membership. It is that chance for the young man and young woman.

For years, the eyes of Alabama and at times the nation, have been focused on Chilton County. Now perhaps more than ever, the young men and women of Chilton County have the opportunity to show the nation that Chilton County's young generation is equipped with a line-up of fertile brains unsurpassed anywhere.

To the young men and women of Chilton County we say grasp this opportunity to win recognition. It is that chance.

Give Graves A Chance

If a sales tax is the only way that a full seven months school term can be secured for the children of Alabama, then The Tuscaloosa News is unreservedly for a sales tax, but unless and until it is clearly shown that there is no other way, we feel that to add another tax burden to the heavy load already being carried by the people of this very poor state would be a mistake.

When Bibb Graves was a candidate for governor of Alabama he vigorously opposed a sales tax—he even promised that there would be no sales tax levied during his administration.

If economic conditions in Alabama have changed since the last election they have changed for the better—not worse. With reviving business throughout the state, tax collections are increasing almost daily on the levies now existing. Graves knew what the revenue was for the state before he made his promises. He knew the condition of the schools. He did not know that business was going to revive to the extent it has. Therefore without any new tax levies the governor is going to have at his disposal far greater sums than the previous administration.

He is therefore in a much better position to carry out his pledges than he was when he made them. He continues to say he can do it, so why not give him a chance without harassing him?—The Tuscaloosa News.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

In recent days I have had two parties to approach me with an appeal for help I could not refuse. A young man stopped me as we passed each other on the sidewalk and asked, "Mr., will you not please give me a nickle for my knife? I am hungry and want to buy a loaf of bread." I did not need his knife but he got more than he asked for. A young looking woman knocked at my door and there I met her as she tried to quiet a crying babe in her arms. Said she: "Mr., I am hungry and my baby is hungry. Please give me just anything that you have that will help us." I did not need the barlow knife and neither did I need the crying baby and there was nothing left for me to do but to help. Somebody should pass a law that no fake beggar should be allowed to carry a knife for sale, or even a crying baby with them when they knock on our doors. Even begging should not be inflated with irresistible propaganda.

In an Alabama city there were two boys living near each other. One was named Roy and the other was named Paul. Each boy had a big dog and the boys and the dogs had a rollicking good time together. Late one afternoon Paul came home to his mother in tears. She coaxed out of him that the cause of his tears was that Roy had tried to force him to steal a ride home on the street car and that he had refused to go with him. Roy, the boy who stole the ride home, became a noted bank robber, and has recently been pardoned from a twenty-five year jail sentence. Paul became a noted physician and gave his life in research for his fellowman and is now buried in a hero's grave. Suppose that Paul had consented to have gone with Roy Dickinson, doubtless he would have been a companion with him in crime. Listen to me young folks, it never pays to give your consent to go with anyone who is doing wrong.

One morning not long since I rode from Andalusia, Ala., to a place near West Bay, Fla., in a dense fog. I could not see the road ahead and neither could I see the sweep of the country on either side of the road. I was traveling in the fog and was closed out from everything. In a distance of fifty yards I ran out of the fog and was in a new world. The sun was shining and there was a sweep of vision that was as wide as the open fields before me. Many a time have I traveled along the way of life in a fog that could be seen only through the vision of the soul. In my efforts to carry on now I can see tall question marks everywhere. Oh, why am I alone? Some day the fog will be lifted and I shall know and see and understand. To be sure that will be a new world when all the fog of life has vanished.

There was a time in Massachusetts when fat maidens were the choice ones in the matrimonial field. In those days it was the custom to place the daughter in the home in a pan on one end of balanced scales and then place another pan on the other end. The father would pour shillings into the empty pan until the scales were balanced. This amount of money would be given as the dowry of the maid that was to be married. Young men had an eye to business and the slim girls were left to be old maids. In these modern times I am wondering if the bride, or if the bridegroom, is ever worth his or her weight in shillings. I have heard it said of only a few people: "They are worth their weight in gold." Character is a better dowry than silver and gold.

One day I heard a man of prominence as he was talking to his pal. He made reference to another man who was known to each of them. Here is what I heard him say: "I have been waiting ten years to get even with that man, and now I have my chance. He double crossed me ten years ago and now I am handing back to him what he handed to me and he shall know how it hurts." I looked at that man in surprise. I had been told that he was a big man, and worthy to fill a big place, but the snarl that came from him and the venom that burned in his soul, dwarfed him to absolute littleness in my mind. No man is a big man who condescends to carry bitterness and revenge in his heart. When a man is a 'big man' he will do good for evil. We all know men of prominence whose soul would rattle in the shell of a mustard seed.

A GREAT SERVICE HELD AT STANTON BAPTIST CHURCH

On April 14, Rev. Grady Williams delivered an unusually good sermon on the "Resurrection of Christ." It was enjoyed by all. The B. Y. P. U. held a business meeting Sunday night to elect new officers for the entire union. Under Mr. Carl Grouby's leadership, the B. Y. P. U. began a study course on March 11. Sixty-two students enrolled and fifty-six diplomas were awarded to Juniors, Intermediates, Seniors and B. A. U.'s last Sunday night. Examinations ending the fifth term will be on Thursday and Friday of this week.

The Christian Life Conference for young people began Friday night in the Institute auditorium. Ruth Foss, as chairman of the conference, presided. The banquet which about 130 attended was held in the dining hall Saturday noon. The room was decorated with flowers and with Century of Progress scenes which were drawn by Miss Betty Glasson, chairman, with the assistance of Miss Davison, Helen Lowery, Sarah Green and Phares Raybon. STUNT CIRCUS WILL BE HELD SATURD'Y P.M.

Postponed Last Week Because Of Rain; At High School

The Motorcycle Circus scheduled for last Saturday afternoon at the Chilton County High School Ball Park was postponed because of the inclemency of the weather, but will be held next Saturday afternoon from two to four o'clock, according to Gus McCormick, one of the several riders who will thrill the audience attending with dare-devil stunts.

Featuring three professional stuntmen, this two hour performance is expected to be one of the most entertaining of its kind ever presented in Clanton. Dozens of hair-raising, thrilling flirtations with death will be staged.

Gus McCormick, Elsworth Biser, and Horace Butler, motorcycle stunters, will be featured in the two-hour performance. Biser will ride a motorcycle through a board wall at a speed of 70 miles per hour, and McCormick will crash his machine into a solid sheet of plate glass wearing only a leather coat and football helmet for protection.

Admission will be twenty-five cents for dults and ten cents for children. The performance will begin at 2 p. m., and continue until 4 p. m.

EVAN PARRISH WRITES TO FRIENDS AND CUSTOMERS

Editor, News:

May I take this method of expressing to my friends and customers my appreciation for their support of The Southern Seed & Plant Company which is now the Chilton County Exchange, Inc.

I feel that the above business has been successful in that it has been able to constantly expand and render to its customers a better degree of service from the beginning. I attribute this development, first, to the loyal support of Chilton County farmers, for which I am indeed grateful; second, to a conscientious desire to serve, which policy I shall carry forward into the new management; and, thirdly, to a policy of advertising, through the county papers, what and how a good seed and feed store could do for its customers.

The Southern Seed & Plant Company began with a comparatively small capital, but a part of the proceeds was regularly set aside for advertising purposes, and over a period of time, it has proven beyond any doubt, a profitable investment.

You are most cordially invited to continue your patronage with the Chilton County Exchange, Inc., where this same policy of always serving to the very best of our ability will remain uppermost in our minds.

Very truly yours,
EVAN PARRISH.

George Daley of Glencoe, Ill., aged 85, escaped death in a fire by sliding down an iron pipe from the third floor of the burning building.

SERVICE STA. REMODELED FOR BETTER VIEW OF CITY HALL

Complying with a request from Mayor C. Fenn Jones, the Wofford Oil Company is removing its building on the corner across from the court house six feet farther from the street.

Mayor Jones recently wrote to D. L. Gilliland, Birmingham general manager of the company, requesting that the building be set back from the street in order that new city hall will be visible from the west. Within a few days, the Clanton mayor was notified that the service department of the building would be moved back six feet.

The building houses the Woco-Service Station operated by J. E. Easterling.

SUPT. KELLER CORRECTS MISUNDERSTANDING OF PRESS

Because of a misunderstanding, resulting from articles published in newspapers, the following letter has been sent to all county superintendents of education in Alabama.

To the County Superintendents:

You may have read statements to the effect that we have reached a compromise concerning educational needs and have agreed upon a figure considerably below our published figure. I am writing to explain that you should not be confused by those statements. We have not compromised, but instead have reached an agreement which places us in entire accord with the Legislative Committee. I feel that as a result of this understanding we are now in much better position to show the urgent need of additional revenues than at any previous time.

Below is quoted a statement released for publication today:

"Contrary to certain published statements to the effect that a compromise on educational needs has been reached between the Legislative Committees and school authorities, it should be stated, in fairness to the entire problem, that there has been no such compromise. Instead, we have simply reached an agreement or understanding relative to minimum needs and to revenues available at present.

"This agreement was reached after a two-day conference, relating to the statistical date involved, between Mr. J. M. Hard, representing the Legislative Committee, and Dr. E. L. Morphet, representing the State Superintendent of Education, and assisted by Mr. Paul N. Munro, president of the Alabama Education Association.

"The details of this understanding are to be explained by the Governor and State Superintendent of Education at a later date.

"Previous statements concerning the cost of the proposed minimum program are not altered by this understanding."

Very truly yours,
J. A. KELLER,
State Superintendent.

Bees Make Home In Walls Presenting Problem

Loren Smith, prescription clerk at the Upchurch Drug Company, relates the following story that might well qualify for Ripley's Believe It Or Not.

Here's the story: ,

Y. E. Smith, Loren's father, who lives on Clanton R. F. D. No. 7, sitting in his home a few days ago, heard a weird, roaring noise. A quick glance at the sky failed to reveal the usual tornado signs that the people of Chilton County have learned to dread. A closer search—and he discovered a bushel or so of bees balled up on one eave of the house.

Mr. Smith stood and watched them slowly make their way through a knothole into the interior of the wall; and now, he reports, they are busily working back and forth—having evidently adopted his domicile as their future residence.

Honey, the worried owner admits, is a desirable delicacy, but he doubts the wisdom of tearing down his home to share the labors of the intruders. What he realy wonders is, if he leaves his neighbors alone—will they be equally considerate.

Vermont Jr. High Closes Amid Flowers And Awarding Of Medals And Certificates

Vermont Jr. High School closed its 1934-35 term with the graduating exercises being held on last Friday night. The stage was cleverly arranged with a background of a variety of spring shrubbery and roses. The class colors were displayed in a most charming way, which gave a most inviting appeal and effectiveness to the exercises.

The program was grouped into four divisions, each of which was presented in a very attractive manner. The four divisions were namely: The different class numbers, the presentation of medals by the American Legion, the baccalaureate address, and the presentation of the diplomas.

One of the outstanding features of the exercises was the presentation of the Honor Certificates and Medals by Mack Wyatt, who had been designated by his Legionnaire Buddies to be master of ceremonies. After a brief inspiring address to all the classes, he then awarded the honors to Francis Kendrick, president of the Junior Three Class, and Thurman Milford, most outstanding member of the Junior Two Class.

Following this Supt. Little addressed the classes, using as his subject "Our Debt to Society." Then came the Baccalaureate Address by Dr. A. E. Middlebrooks, pastor of the Methodist church at Clanton. The program closed with the presentation of diplomas and the class song. The auditorium was filled to capacity.

On the following morning approximately one hundred and fifty pupils parents, and friends met at the school building, where they were grouped and placed on trucks which carried them to the picnic grounds, located four miles north of Jemison, in Lovers' Lane. Even though the weather was somewhat raw and threatening, a large dinner was spread by the ladies and at the end of the day's festivities, all were called back and there loaded on the trucks, cars, busses for their return home. The day was one of great enjoyment for the grown-ups as well as the youngsters. Thus closes out our school term at Vermont for this year.

BLIND MINISTER ODEN TO CONDUCT SERVICES THORSBY

The Rev. Paul Oden, blind Baptist minister, will conduct services at the Thorby Baptist Church next Saturday night, Sunday morning, and Sunday night, according to an announcement by the pastor, the Rev. J. W. Jones.

Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock, the Rev. Oden will show his pictures and deliver a lecture on the "Life of Christ." The man who has been blind from birth has made an extensive study of the life of Christ, and with his stereopticon pictures is said to present one of the most learned and depictive biographies of Jesus Christ.

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, he will deliver a sermon, and again at 7:30 p. m., will lecture and present pictures of "Home Mission Work Among the Indians."

The Rev. Jones is urging everyone to attend that can possibly do so, declaring that this series of services will be both beneficial and educational, as well as interesting.

Jemison Represented At Montevallo College

Eight "dee-lighted" girls and their no less happy chaperon, left April 11 on a trip which they will always remember. And no wonder. They had a grand time while there and they also had to work hard to receive the honor of going.

The reader would doubtless like to know what the trip was and who went. The trip was to Alabama Collega at Montevallo—the girls were Home Economic students of Jemison High School, and they represented various phases of that course, as follows:

Food Preparation, Kelley Moore and Estelle McCarty; Meat Planning, Addye Jayne Curry; Child Care. Clara Thomas Payne; Afternoon Dress, Nell Traywick; School Dress, Minnie Merle Smith; Home Care of Sick, Melba Patton and Ruth Reynolds. The chaperon was their Home Economics teacher, Miss Leacy Newell.

Three of the girls won prizes and brought one back to a fourth. Clara Thomas Payne won first prize on Child Care; Kelly Moore and Estelle McCarty won third prize on Food Preparation and Vesta Smith was awarded second prize on her entry in Children's Clothing.

You may be assured that everything that they did was done thoroughly; such as "touring" the college and town; enjoying other contests in which they did not participate, playing pranks on one another, and last, but by no means least, sliding down that famous marvel, the fire escape.

They returned Saturday, April 13 "tired but happy," bothered by nothing but the pitiful fact that all of the "Home Ec." girls had not gone with them.

Oh! Wonder Horse

Oh horse, you're a wonderful thing; no buttons to push, no horns to ring, you start yourself, no clutch to slip, no spark to miss, no gears to strip, no license buying every year with plates to screw on front and rear, no gas bills climbing up each day stealing the joy of life away. No speed cops chugging in your rear yelling summons in your ear. Your inner tubes are all O. K. and thank the Lord they stay that way, your spark plugs never miss and fuss, your motor never makes us cuss. Your frame is good for many a mile, your body never changes style. Your wants are few and easy met, you've something on the auto yet.—H.R. ELLIOT, in the Alabama Forest Home.

FUNCHESS TELLS HOW DOUBLE CORN YIELDS

Auburn, Ala.—At a cost of less than 25 cents per bushel for fertilizer, the average Alabama farmer can produce at least twice the amount of corn now produced, announces Dean M. J. Funchess, director of the Alabama Experiment Station, who declares that "Alabama farmers can save nearly $23-000,000 annually, based on the finding of one single experiment with corn.

"In experiments with corn it was shown that phosphate and potash were unnecessary if corn followed a well fertilized crop like cotton. Experimental work formed basis for the recommendation that farmers fertilize their cotton well and with a complete fertilizer, and that when corn follows cotton so fertilized both the phosphate and potash be omitted.

"Experiments show that yield of corn by approximately 17 bushels per acre. In other words, the use of 36 pounds of nitrogen to the average acre of corn im Alabama will increase the yield by about 17 bushels at a cost of something like $4 for nitrogen.

"When Alabama farmers learn to produce corn at a modest price, then, and not until then, will they be in position to grow livestock and compete with livestock growers of other sections," Dean Funchess concludes.

A doctor, an ambulance and the fire deportment appeared simultaneously at the home of J. C. Rustin in Chicago, in response to calls sent by a practical joker.

Remember the old conundrum —when is a door not a door? The answer used to be: "When it's ajar." Now there's a new one. A door has been recently perfected which isn't a door at all but a curtain of air that serves the same purpose. On one of the new streamlined trains which runs between Chicago and St. Paul, a sheet of air occupies the opening between kitchen and eating space in the dining car. This sheet of air is forced thru a small slit in both sides of the door frame. Overhead is an exhaust ventilator. Kitchen fumes, heat and odors are thus completely shut out, without blocking the passage. Maybe you can't have this kind of an "air door" between your kitchen and dining room but you don't need it if you cook with an electric range, because your kitchen is as comfortable as the rest of the house.

Sinus sufferers please note: A business man, in San Francisco, whose wife had sinus trouble because of the humidity, reproduced in his own apartment the warm dry climate of the Ojai Valley. This feat was accomplished with air conditioning. Instead of seeking a cooler climate for your summer vacation, why not make your cooler climate in your own home? Air conditioning is just the thing for hay-fever sufferers too. The Alabama Power Company will soon be handling air conditioning equipment.

Even to this day in India ice is made by filling shallow porous trays with water, placing them on beds of straw and leaving them exposed to the night winds. By morning a thin crust forms. How much easier it is to simply fill the tray with water in your electric refrigerator and have all the ice you need in a few hours. Which reminds us to tell you—our Spring refrigerator sale is still in progress.

$60,000 SALES IN ONE WEEK

Folks in Alabama are bidding good-bye to hard times and welcome to the many good buys now available in electric merchandise. One week recently sales of refrigerators, ranges, water heaters and small appliances passed $60,000—a new all time record! And there's a reason—several of them —cheap Alabama electricity, improved appliances, attractive prices, easy terms—plus the growing knowledge that full use of electric service is the greatest boon of this modera age to both homemakers and husbands.

Plan Proposed For A T.B. Sanatoria

Montgomery, Ala.—Recent develop- ents in state and national affairs have ised the hopes of the public health thorities of Alabama that a progres- e step forward will be made in the ear future in the State's constant mpaign against tuberculosis, a disease at takes the lives of almost 2,000 Ala- ...ians annually.

Early in the short session of the ate legislature, Dr. T.H. Street of llapoosa County, introduced a bill to ovide state cooperation in the opera- n of tuberculosis sanatoria Counties groups of counties constructing sana- ria. would be paid about 75 cents r day to assist in caring for each tient. The bill is now pending.

In the second place, President Roo- velt emphasized hospitals and other alth projects in outlining how the e $4,880,000,000 work-relief fund just ovided was to be spent. Immediately, . J.N. Baker, State Health Officer, t in a request for $2,000,000 of this nd for the construction of eight tu- rculosis sanatoria, enlargement of six isting such institutions and erection several sommunity general hospitals. The legislature has been asked to ap- opriate $75,000 toward the operation the sanatoria next year; $100,000 for 37; $125,000 for 1938 and $150,000 for 39. Several Southern States already e spending more than twice these ounts in tuberculosis control. The ds would be apportioned to the hos- als at an amount not to exceed 75 ts per day per patient, and local ntributions would augment the state propriation.

Under tentative plans, their success pending upon the state-aid given and e amount of federal funds available ong others, a new sanatorium would constructed in Chilton County to rve the following counties:

SINGING AT POPLAR SPRINGS EASTER SUNDAY WAS SUCCESS

Record Crowd Attended Thirty-First Annual Event Said To Have Been Best Yet; Regular Preaching Saturday And Sunday

The annual Easter singing met at Poplar Springs last Sunday for the thirty-first or second time. Though the weather seemed very unfavorable early in the morning the crowd soon gathered when it cleared up.

The singing began at 10:30 with Prof. W.M. Devaughn singing the opening song. They then elected W.M. Devaughn as chairman and Mrs. Grover Rich secretary.

The singing began with the following directors, singing one song each: L.T. Grant, Jesse C. Jones, Joseph Painter, O.L. Devaughn, Ralph Grant, Grover C. Gilliland J.E. Martin, Floy Devaughn Lee J. Grant Thomas Steel, Audie L. Brown.

This brought us to the noon hour when we were adjourned for one hour and a half. Everybody enjoyed a boun- dinner and returned back to the house and began singing promptly.

The chairman being absent at the time, the singing was opened after noon by Jesse C. Jones, and the following directed one song each: W.M Devaughn, Will Smith, Steve Stanley, L.T. Grant, J.W. Several quartets were enjoyed during the day which were arranged by W.M. Devaughn, L.T. Grant, Jesse Jones, and Joseph Painter from Sylacauga. Also some wonderful octets were arranged by Mr. Painter. The pianists for the day were Ralph Grant, Mrs. Lena Mae Hancock, Lee J. Grant, Mrs. Steve Stanley, Mrs. Bertie oJhnson and Clarence Billingsley.

Mr. Devaughn said he believed this was the best singing that we have ever had and all who were not there missed a treat. Everybody seemed to enjoy the day fine and gave good attention.

Wildcat Veterans To Meet In Selma Soon

The Veterans of the 81st or Wildcat Division of Alabama will meet in their first State-wide reunion at Selma, May 26 and 27.

In the State there are some 8,000 veterans who served with this division overseas, and there will be a great gathering of them in this ideally located city of Central Alabama.

This is the first opportunity the Wildcats have had to meet in State Convention and renew and strengthen their friendships and associations during the great war. The Wildcats are very much elated with this chance to gather in Selma and meet their old friends again.

Veterans are requested to write to their Committee Chairman, M. P. Jackson, Selma, Alabama, and make their arrangements for rooms and get the schedule of entertainment and business activities. It is aticipated that this will be a very large convention and it is important to make reservations early.

Living Costs Rise, Electricity Drops

Demopolis Resident Pleased with Rate Reductions

Mrs. A. G. Westbrook, prominent in the social life of Demopolis, Ala., is one of many Alabama homemakers who foresee the wider use of electric appliances because of low electric rates. Recently Mrs. Westbrook wrote Alabama Power Company:

"I have just learned that a further reduction in your residential rate for electricity is now in effect, and, naturally, I am very much pleased, especially since the prices of all other commodities which go into the usual household budget have been steadily rising during the past year or so. It is a remarkable thing to me, that in the face of rising costs, your Company has steadily reduced the cost of its service, whenever possible.

"I have been one of your customers for sometime, and thoroughly appreciate the reliable, economical service you are rendering. With this new low rate it should be possible for most every housewife to avail herself of still wider use of this untiring servant which is doing so much to promote comfort, convenience and economy in the modern home."—Adv. STATE FARMERS FOR CONTINUING PROCESSING TAX

ALABAMA FARMERS LAUNCH FIGHT FOR PROCESSING TAX

Campaign By Backbone Of State Will Go Into The Sixty-Seven Counties Of Alabama To Retain AAA Program

Designed to reach every farmer in the State with the facts regarding what farm leaders allege are ',insidious attacks on the Agricultural Adjustment Act by interests opposed to agricultural welfare and national recovery," a protest campaign to extend into the 67 counties has been launched uder the direction of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, it was announced yesterday by C.W. Ashcraft, executive vice-president of the organzation.

It was learned from sources outside the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation that the farmers during the series of meetings will demand the retention of the processing tax now on cotton and a number of other farm commodities.

As the legislative committee of the Farm Bureau last week endorsed unanimously the imposition of a sales tax in Alabama, expressions from the rank and file of the tillers of the soil on this proposal are also expected during the community and county-wide meetings.

Vice-President Ashcraft, speaking only for himself, said he would like to see the Legislature at the forthcoming session levy a two per cent sales tax and to exempt up to $1,000 of the assessed valuation of every homestead in Alabama.

Preliminary county-wide meetings of leading farmers were held last week following a State-wide conference in Montgomery on April 11. At these meetings, plans were formulated for this week's series of community or neighborhood conferences this week, in which every county and section of the State will be covered, and through which every farmer will be told what is being done to take from agriculture its most beneficial legislative aid—the Agricultural Adjustment Act—Mr. Ashcraft stated.

"We expect to tell our farmers," said Mr. Ashcraft, "just who is attacking the adjustment act and the important amendments now pending in Congress why the act and its amendments are being assailed, and what the elimination of the act and the failure to enact the amendments in the form recommended by the American Farm Bureau Federation mean to the future welfare of our agriculture. We are also advising our farmers how these attacks against us can be most successfully met.

"Rarely have our farmers been so thoroughly aroused as they are to the opposition manifested against the Agricultural Adjustment Act. Many of our people, in advance of the meetings, are wiring and writing to their representatives in Congress. We anticipate that every county and community meeting will go on record squarely against any tampering with the farmers' own legislation by interests which are only concerned in keep ing the farmers' nose to the economic grindstone," continued Mr. Ashcraft.

Experienced observers expressed the opinion that the protest campaign set in motion in Alabama will spread to other States soon, predicating their observation on the fact that the Alabama farmer, having tasted the sweets of partial economic relief, is not going to give up what he has gained thus far without a mighty stiff battle.

To carry this protest campaign through, the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, Mr. Ashcraft revealed, has the largest membership in all history, if direct memberships, 4-H Club boys and girls and farm women's organizations are counted. Never until a short time ago, he said, has the farm bureau been actively organized in every county in the State, Russell being the last to come into the fold. This means, explained Mr. Ashcraft, that every county has a farm agent and 55 counties have home demonstration agents.

Figures as of April 1 disclosed that family memberships in the organization total 10,377, representing 51,875 individuals. There are 20,000 home demonstration club members in whose homes are approximately 100,000 people, said the farm bureau executive. The number of 4-H Club members has soared to 48,722 and the Alabama Cotton Cooperative Association numbers 26,975 members. The total number of Alabama farmer citizens enrolled under the farm bureau banner was estimated at 335,472.

The Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, according to Mr. Ashcraft, has adopted a policy looking to the organization of community farm bureaus during the coming summer.

the two counties into a closer relationship, will be invaluable to those living between Selma and Clanton, and will do much to relieve the traffic situation on the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway.

Although he resides in Dallas County, now, the former county agent declared that he retains the keenest interest in the advancement and welfare of this county, and believes that this is an opportunity for the local commissioners court to help its citizenship in a most valuable way.

Rep. C.B. Cox and Senator Earle Thomas were both present, and expressed themselves as being heartily in favor of the project. Mr. Cox, who is familiar with road construction, cited figures regarding the cost of materials and labor, declaring that at least 80 per cent of the money expended for the completion of this paving project will be for wages, and will serve a two-fold purpose: That of furnishing work for unemployed, and giving to the state and county a really worthwhile road.

The estimated cost of the paving will be approximately $6,000 per mile, of this sum Chilton County will be expected to put up $20,000. Mr. Cox also pointed out that he is confident that it will be possible to secure a convict camp in the western section of the county and to use convict labor to improve the base of this road before surfacing. This will assure more money with which to secure better road. The state has more convicts than can be worked on present projects, so he said that he feels sure it will be an easy matter to secure a camp in this county.

Senator Thomas said that he could imagine no way in which the commisssioners can spend the county's money more wisely. This is an opportunity which may not present itself again in many years, he pointed out.

Others speaking in favor of the proposition were: D.O. Manning, T. L. McKee, Dr. H.M. Nix, and J. Pope Payne. All of these men pointed out benefits that will be derived from a better road running west.

Mr. Cox said that county road equipment can be rented to the State Highway Department for use on this road, and a part of the county's participation can be paid in that way, he said. He promised to furnish the court with figures on rental rates and other items necessary in working out final details and the decision will be given the state within a few days.

SCHOOLS CLOSE

are ready to begin high school work.

Again no school in this county is closing with less than a seven months term, bringing to a successful close two years under the direction of Superintendent Little.

High schools at Clanton, Verbena, Maplesville, Jemison and Isabella will continue until late in May completing a nine-months term and graduating approximately 100 students. The schools at Lay Dam and Mitchell Dam will operate another month, on funds furnished by the Alabama Power Company.

Several elementary schools, begun with the respective high schools in their localities, were closed several days ago, but their terms were of the same length as all other elementary schools, Supt. Luther E. Little explained. These schools were opened almost a month early, he explained.

This is the second year the Chilean Nitrate Educational Bureau has conducted these contests for vocational students in Alabama and it will be remembered that Ernie Lee Robinson and Charles Nix, both students of the Jemison High School won first and second district prizes respectively in the contest last year.

This record which is being made by these students of the Jemison school, of which Prof. J.A. Peterson is principal, speaks exceedingly well for the school. The work done by these prize-winning students is conducted under the supervision of Prof. J.P. Montgomery, vocational agricultural instructor at the school.

County Board of Child Welfare was held last Thursday afternoon to perfect plans for the sale of these seals in Chilton County. Brief talks were given by Miss Nolan Meroney, child welfare superintendent of this county, Supt. Luther E. Little, Miss Kittye Clyde Austin, social director, E. H. Gentry, of the State Department of Child Welfare, and others.

Mr. Gentry explained that the movement to raise funds to treat crippled children was not only state-wide, but is nation-wide. Splendid work is being done in this field, he said, paying tribute to Chilton County for its efforts.

A general discussion of plans for the sale of these seals concluded the program. Those present were: Miss Meroney, Miss Austin, Mr. Gentry, Judge J. Lee Smith, who presided, Mr. Little, Miss Icie Bell Cobern, Mrs. Sophie Jones, Com. C. D. Duke Mayor C. Fenn Jones, Com. J. P. Bean, Dr H. C. Nickson, and Miss Irene Smitherman

In Chilton County, the event is being sponsored by the Clanton Kiwanis and organizations have been set up over the county for the sale of these seals. The Clanton Pilot Club has charge of the sales in Clanton; the high schools at Verbena, Jemison, and Maplesville; and other communities in the county, 4-H Club members are the agencies.

to accomplish more permanent benefit. The real aim of the program, Miss Austin explained, is one of education—if these families on relief can be trained to preserve foods by canning and other methods, much will have been accomplished toward placing them on a self-sustaining basis.

The committee, composed of Miss Austin, Miss Ruth Pardue, home demonstration agent Floyd Smith, works director and Glenn Sessions, farm foreman, met with Miss Ruth Dobyne, district home demonstration agent and Miss Betty LeBoy, home economist for the Alabama Relief Administration.

Only tentative plans were outlined. The program will be conducted differently from last year; cans will be furnished only to those on relief, however, non-relief families may use the centers by payng a toll. Supervision and equipment will be furnished by the relief administration.

Last year in Chilton County, 28,000 quarts were canned and this food has been of vast benefit in caring for relief cases during the past winter, Miss Austin pointed out.

the farmer's organization that has become renowned the country over, Mr. Parrish said that he believes it will be possible to render even greater service to the farmers of this county. Legume seed, fertilizers, and other products can naturally be purchased in larger quantities and better prices can be given the purchaser; and the same force, composed of Mr. Parrish, Cornelius Hand, Julian Evans, and S. A. Jones, will continue in their present capacities.

The new firm will feature seeds of all kinds, fertilizers, plants, and insecticides. To serve the best interests of the farmers of Chilton County will be the aim of the firm, Mr. Parrish stated.

Commenting on the merger, the genial manager said that he wished to express his appreciation to the customers who patronized the Southern Seed & Plant Company during its existence, and invites them to continue to visit the store.

The branch store at Thorsby was removed to Clanton and is incorporated with the new firm.

The organization has approximately 230 members in this county and is under the supervision of a board of directors, composed of the following:

bring approximately $75,000 into the county. Much of this amount will be spent for wages for pickers, thus furnishing employment to many persons and placing no small sum in circulation at what is ordinarily considered a dull season.

Buyers over the coutry are said to be highly complimentary of Chilton County berries, declaring that they are the best available this season.

L. E. Diefenderfer, business manager of the Clanton association, declared that he believes berry growers in this section will make more profit from this crop than any year heretofore. He is said to be one of the best-known berry dealers in the South, and is due much credit for the success of the venture in this county.

Most of the crop is being shipped this year by express because of the quicker service to far points, and the berries are reaching their destination in better condition than ever before, it is understood.

Wade's Ice Plant is supplying all the ice for the cars being shipped from all points in this county.

Double Parking On Main Street Will Be Discouraged

Watch Your Step And Your Auto When You Come To Clanton

Flagrant violation of traffic laws and disregard for the safety of others must be stopped on the streets of Clanton, Mayor C. Fenn Jones told police officers Monday morning, when issuing instructions to stop double parking on two of the town's main thoroughfares—the paved highway and Second Avenue.

Double parking and other traffic violations have become a menace to the safety and progress of Clanton, and steps must be taken to stop these violations, he said. Regulations that were sufficient a few years ago are antiquated today. Clanton is fast growing into a thriving little city and naturally as it expands, its laws and regulations must keep progress with its growth, the mayor averred.

Parking double is not only inconvenient, but it is really dangerous. It not only handicaps traffic, but increases the liklihood of wrecks and accidents; children darting from behind rows of parked automobiles can not be seen by drivers and are likely to be struck; cars parked against the curb can not be moved because someone has stopped his machine directly in the way, Mayor Jones pointed out.

He gave orders to police officers not to allow any double parking on either Second Avenue, west of the courthouse, or the paved highway. Mayor Jones also asked the cooperation of merchants and others employed at the various business establishments. Often they park their cars in front of down-town stores and leave them there throughout the day, inconveniencing persons who might want to make purchases in these stores.

Another phase of the parking regulations touched on by the Clanton mayor is that of a time-limit on parking on these two streets. He declared that he thought it advisable to place a limit of 45 minutes on these streets; and he also cautioned officers to keep traffic moving along the sidewalks. Often on Saturdays, it was pointed out, it is almost impossible to travel along the sidewalks between the court house and the highway This is an unnecessary condition, Mayor Jones said, and is merely a result of people failing to give proper recognition to the rights of others. He told the officers to prevail on the crowds not to congregate on the main thoroughfares. This is an inconveniece to everyone; customers can hardly reach stores where they desire to trade; uncomfortable jamming and pushing results, and it presents an undesirable impression to visitors to the town, he continued.

Stray dogs are another nusiance to the town, and something must be done to prevent them from wandering about the streets. Many complaints have been made that dogs are spoiling shrubbery and keeping a disturbance at night, Mayor Jones said. Plans have been discussed for charging a small tax on all dogs in the city limits, in an effort to eliminate many mongrels that apparently have no owners and are worthless.

MEMBERS OF LEGION TO BE SELECTED FOR CCC CAMPS

Supply Of Application Blanks For This County Will Be Available; Plan To Double Number Of Men Needed

Mr. Reuben W. Lowe, commander of Chilton County Post No. 6, American Legion. is in receipt of a letter from George W. Cameron, State Service Commissioner, which conveys information of interest to perhaps a great number of World War Veterans in Chilton County concerning the immediate future possibility of enlistment in the Civilian Conservation Corps. Mr. Cameron's letter says:

"From all indications, the office of the Veterans Administration in Tuscaloosa will be called upon at an early date to select quite a number of veterans for service in the C. C. C. Camps. The number of men employed in these camps will soon be double what it has been in the past."

According to a suggestion in the letter of Mr. Cameron, Chilton County Post will obtain a supply of application forms, and notification is given all veterans who may be interested that the Post will assist them in making application.

All veterans who have filed applications in the past and who have not been selected, should write the Veterans Administration at Tuscaloosa, telling them if they are still desirous of being selected for this work.

If a veteran has been previously selected but rejected on physical examination, he need not make another application, as he would not be selected a second time. Veterans who are not physically able to do manual labor should not apply.

Mr. Cameron, who has recently been appointed to the important post of State Service Commissioner, to succeed Major W. M. Weston, concludes his letter to Commander Lowe, with this general statement of future plans to aid veterans in Alabama.

"It is my intention to have trained men to see every veteran in the State and discuss personally with him his individual claim, and to see that every veteran is given accurate and detailed advice about his claim. The representatives from this office will go into each

NEW PIPES CAUSE WATER TO HAVE BAD TASTE, MAYOR SAYS

Many complaints have been registered at the city clerk's office in Clanton recently about the undesirable taste of the city's water, which Mayor C. Fenn Jones explains is a result of the installation of 12,000 feet of new piping, and will be corrected with a little time.

These pipes that were recently installed, were treated with various protective coatings; the joints were also treated with a tar composition to prevent leaking, Mayor Jones stated, and naturally the water will have an unpalatable taste until this condition is corrected.

He is urging the people of Clanton to be patient for a few days until sufficient time has elapsed for the natural correction of this condition.

A SUGGESTION TO THE MAYOR AND COUNCIL AND A GOOD IDEA FOR PEOPLE OF CLANTON

There is no intention on the part of the News to attempt to tell anyone how to run their town, but, now and then we do get an idea that we believe is worth passing on to our city officials and the people in general.

The parking of automobiles, trucks and wagons in Clanton is becoming something of a problem indeed, and the movement on foot now which was started by the Mayor of Clanton to prohibit double parking on Second Avenue and the Birmingham-Montgomery highway is to be commended. Our Mayor and city council realize, as does everyone else that something has to be done and we commend them on getting it done.

Clanton is growing so fast that it is just about to break out of bounds. We realize that. And all available space is needed to take care of visitors and their automobiles at all times, every day.

Now, we understand that there is a possibility of a parking time-limit soon to be placed on the busier streets in town. All good and very well. But there is a group of business men and employees who ride to their work every morning and need a place to park their automobiles.

Now, here is our suggestion. Clanton has quite a number of alleys, and vacant space behind the buildings in town that is being used only for trash dumps, scrap iron and what-not. There is a way for this rubbish to be cleaned up, and there is a way for the City to see that it is cleaned up and kept clean.

There is a two-fold purpose in our suggestion. First, it will add greatly to the cleanliness of the town, the appearance even to the back-alleys. Second, it will uncover a vast amount of space behind the stores for the parking of automobiles belonging to the business life of Clanton, and leave a vast number of empty parking spaces on the main thoroughfares of the business section. And with a reasonable parking time-limit this should prove satisfactory to all concerned.

ENTIRE GROUP APPARENTLY FAVORS PROCESSING TAX

Meetings Being Held Over County Bring Number Of Endorsers Into Large Figures Says County Agent Fant

After a series of meetings held in every section of the county in which at least 2,000 Chilton County cotton growers were contacted and a detailed explanation of the Cotton Processing Tax was given them, County Agent J. W. Fant declared that not one single farmer expressed any desire for the discontinuance of this protection which has been given them by an understanding and sympathetic government.

"I am thoroughly convinced that those who oppose the processing tax are not farmers, and are not sympathetic with the best interests of the cotton farmers of the South," Mr. Fant declared.

By the end of this week meetings will have been held in every community in the entire county and a detailed explanation of the aims, purposes, and accomplishments of the processing tax given to the farmers by the county agent and the vocational agricultural teachers of the county. For several nights, three meetings have been held each night in different communities.

"The cotton processing tax is the farmers' tariff. It is his protection against avid industrialists who long have failed to recognize his justified complaints. The processing tax is paid by the consumers and collected from cotton mills on cotton goods used in the United Statess. From the proceeds of this tax farmers are paid rentals and benefit payments for reducing the cotton production in an effort to raise the price of cotton to a fair level compared with the price of manufactured goods purchased and consumed by those who produce the cotton."

Mr. Fant declared that he is unable to see where anyone can have a justified complaint against the processing tax. For years other industries have received a similar protection and now it seems unfair, he points out, that these people who have benefitted from such protection should so bitterly oppose the cotton farmer being recognized. In the end the tax is paid by the consumer, and doubtless those on the farms of this nation will consume more of the cotton crop than all the other classes combined. It does not hurt the textile industries, because they only charge it on to cost of production, the merchant finally adds it to his cost and charges it back to the farmer and other cotton consumers.

The farmers of Chilton County are enthusiastic for the continuance of the cotton program and the processing tax is not an exception, Mr. Fant declared.

On another page in this issue will be found a three-column article, under the head "Questions And Answers About Cotton Adjustment Program," which discusses in detail every phase of the processing tax and its effects.

BERRY CROP NEARING END OVER COUNTY

Seventy-Two Cars Have Been Shipped From This Section So Far

Figures available late Tuesday placed the total of Chilton County's shipment of strawberries to date at approximately 72 cars. Through the Clanton Berry Growers Association thirty-one cars had been loaded Monday night and those in charge of the loading estimated that at least three cars would be loaded from here during Tuesday afternoon; it was also estimated that at least four cars had been sold locally and by trucking to Birmingham and Montgomery and other places.

Thorsby had shipped 17 cars up until Monday night and the total of Jemison's crop was 15 cars. This gives a total of 72 cars in the county to date. L. E. Diefenderfer. business manager of the Clanton association, declared that if the weather continues favorable. shipping will continue for eight or ten days longer.

The price received for the berry crop this year has been much better than last year, due to a shortage in other sections, and Chilton County's crop is said to be among the best in the entire strawberry-producing area.

It is believed that this county will derive approximately $100,000 from this year's berry crop; and already business here has felt the stimulation afforded by this money flowing into the county.

Job Printers Mistreated

Since the code of fair competition for the Graphic Arts Industries (job printing) has been in force, printers of Alabama have been mistreated, 'cussed' and sometimes even slandered by certain people who are unwilling to pay a fair price for their stationery and printed matter. These same people, many of whom are in business in their home town, claim that it is our solemn duty to trade with them in preference to trading out of town, even tho it is a little cheaper.

The question now arises: What is the difference between writing a letter to a mail order plant or some other out-of-town printer, and strolling into a store in the city openly and buying what you need in clothes and other items?

This newspaper, which incidentally operates a good sized job printing plant, has made the most consistent fight on record in this section for the home merchant and the home business concern and his rights against the mail order houses and the tendency of people at times to trade away from home, and we will continue along the same line.

The home merchants applaud (which we appreciate) and declare that we are doing good work, but at the same time we still see printing in town which was done by an out of town concern.

These concerns buy nothing in Clanton, unless it is a meal or two for their salesman; they pay no license or taxes in Chilton County; they have no rent to pay here; they care little or nothing about the continued growth and prosperity of our town and county; they devote none of their time toward the welfare of our people and care less.

Some printing buyers think that local printers are doing wrong when they are merely trying to cooperate with the government in a code of fair competition. The local printing concerns are trying to pay their help a living wage so that they will have more to spend in Clanton, sometimes with the man who sends his printing out of town.

There are two printing plants in your county. They spend practically all their earnings right in this county, and are asking only a fair price for their work. Your printing buyers who have that habit, or whatever it is, of sending your printing out of town, stop a minute and think this over. Then call one of your local printers, or write him about your needs. Give him a chance to show you and tell you what he can do; let him show you what your job of printing will look like before it is printed. It is a pleasure to him to help you.

We want to take this opportunity to express our appreciation for those many home-town concerns who have made it a diligent practice to carry out their belief in the idea of trading with the home printer. And, they have stated that they have found it no more expensive in the long run. But, there are those few who yet are inclined to skip the home printer, and who haven't found that the cost is usually the same, after all.

A Fine Personality

The News editor, being open to impressions, day or night, has recently been rather forcefully impressed by a comparative newcomer to Clanton. Of course the aforesaid editor has known for a long time that Clanton people really are a fine lot, but he has also heard the well-known "gripe" being practiced upon occasion.

But back to our theme. This young man, within just a few months, has found more things to praise than many of us who have been living here for years, ever thought about. We first heard him talking about his fine business associates, then his splendid customers, the people he met on the street, even his competitors are fine people to him, and recently we heard him praising his landlord. We suppose his business, like most others, has dull days, maybe weeks, but he always talks about the good days he has. He brags on his neighbors, and we haven't even heard him complain about the weather.

You can't help liking a fellow like that, and even chronic complainers will perk up and put on their "Sunday" manners around him.

It pays, too. Not only in pleasanter living, but in the hard cash of these United States.

Progressive Clanton

There is no other small city in Alabama, perhaps in the entire South, that has greater opportunities for advancement and progress than has our little metropolis of Clanton. Centrally located in the State, it at once stands out above all other cities of its size and importance—and gradually these advantages are being recognized far and near.

Clanton is being watched throughout Alabama.

The certainty and rapidity of its progdess rests only with its citizenship. Regardless of how unimportant a niche we may occupy, there is much that everyone can do to lend to the development of our town and the admiration and esteem in which it is held by those who critically watch its progress. Not even the least should miss an opportunity to boost his town—for a boost for the town in which he lives is also a boost for himself.

As stated before, its location is one of its greatest assets. Clanton is the hub about which a figurative wheel, at least fifty miles in radius, revolves. And the independence of the farmers who compose the population of this agricultural wheel form a substantial foundation for the future expansion of both the town and the section of which it is the center. Unlike larger plantations, where profits from crops gradually build a centralized wealth, each farmer — each family in this section is in position to reap the maximum benefit from his labor; and the progress of a municipality or locality is harmonious with the progress and development of those composing its citizenship.

Diversified farming is gradually coming into its own with our farmers. They are learning that King Cotton can rule with severity when granted too much power. Strawberries will bring the farmers of Chilton County near $100,000 this year—at a time when a few years ago they did not even dream that the farm could have an income. However, these same farmers who are taking advantage of the opportunity to reap spring money from Strawberries apparently are overlooking, in many instances, another field that is equally promising—cattle raising.

Despite the depression that has hampered the entire world, Clanton has continued to make rapid strides toward a bigger, better town. Its stores have constantly undergone improvement; its merchants are stocking and selling better and more selective merchandise; new buildings have and are being erected, and old and unsightly ones have bowed to progress.

Efforts are being made to reach a friendly, helping hand into still other localities. Even now plans are being discussed for the erection of a bridge across the Coosa River and the paving of the highway linking Chilton and Dallas Counties—an invitation to the people of these communities to come to Clanton and share in its development.

Within the next few months, there will be seen here a new, modern brick city hall and a new $50,000 post office building—more milestones that mark the road to greater things for Clanton and its people.

D. W. Haskew

One day I was walking down town with the lad of my life following close in my footsteps. I was in a hurry and I was walking at top speed. After we had gone for two blocks I heard an appealing voice between the sound of hard beating and rapid falling feet—"Papa, do you have to walk so fast?" I turned to look down into an earnest face and replied—"Son am I going too fast for you?" To be sure I was making it hard on the lad because I was going too fast for him. Is it not a fact that we are going too fast for the young life of today? Man of business slow down your pace, man of pleasure slow down your speed, woman of fashion and finery slacken your speed. You are making hard for the youth of today. Our speed in life is taking the breath out of them and they do not have time for growing a soul. It was Jacob who said, "I will lead on gently," and he did this for the sake of the children. Youth is saying to us—"Do you have to travel so fast?"

While fishing on the bank of the creek I saw a long freight train come swinging down into the swamp on its track. It crossed the trestle near me and the started up the grade. The engine was pulling many loaded cars and it struggled with its load. Before the last car had crossed the trestle the train had stopped dead still. It had more loaded cars than it had steam to pull them. The criticism that I would make of this age in which we are living is that we are trying to carry too much freight for our strength. We have more loaded cars than we have steam to pull them. We have been burdened down with wealth, power and learning and we have but little steam to pull these things. We are trying to carry our loads by walking in social justice with men and not walking in humility with God. There is only one method of steaming up so as to make the grade and that is by getting in touch with God.

One day I saw a crow and a hawk engaged in a fight. The hawk was much larger than the crow but the crow was getting the best in the fight. His manner of attack was from above and not from beneath. It was not hard to see that there was much advantage when the fighting was from above. The crow remained on top and he won. The moral of this fight is that we must learn to keep our best always on top. We have two natures, one is bad, the other is good. If we keep the best of our being always on top and then let the good in us attack the bad that is in us from above the good is sure to win.

One of the most foolish acts that I ever saw was to witness an old rooster fighting another rooster that was dead. The headless rooster had flopped his last when the living rooster saw him and with great haste and vigor he leaped upon the dead body and began to spur and peck. Brave rooster was he, but what did he accomplish by fighting that dead body. That was no more foolish, however, than for us to hear some skeptic say that the church is dead and then proceed to jump upon the church and fight what is declared to be a corpse. When you hear people refering to the church as being dead and then proceed to fight it, mark what I say, that is just another rooster gone bad.

With another pastor I visited a home not many days ago where we witnessed a sad sight. The father in the home had been a hard drinker. Not many months ago that man had lost his sight. He went to a skilled surgeon and underwent a thorough examination. The physician pronounced the case hopeless, saying that he had drunk himself blind. In that home were small children and a dependent wife, and then staggering among them was a father who was hopelessly blind, and all because the man loved whiskey better than he loved his wife, better than he loved his children and better than he loved life eternal. Hear me, my friends. if you drink whiskey, you may not loose your eyesight every time, but you are drinking yourself blind. Drink and you become blind to the joy of a happy home, you become blind to the needs and rights of a growing family, you become blind to the good of society and blind to the virtue and the safety of womanhood everywhere. How sad to relate that many of our young people have already started out to drink themselves blind on all questions of right and justice.

76 PER CENT GAIN IN BUILDING PERMITS

The March volume of building permits reported to Dun & Bradstreet from 215 cities represented a total value of $45,056,822, as compared with $27,636,367 in February, an increase of 63 per cent and $25,505,005, or 76.7 per cent, over value of permits issued by the same cities in March, 1934. The gain, according to the agency's anunocementt, "wes attributed in large part to the modernization and repair program of the Federal Housing Administration.

A FINE EXAMPLE

Some twenty years ago John Livak was born on a Vermont farm, of Hungarian parents who had little education and a very imperfect command of the English language. The family was poor, and as soon as he was big enough John took his share of the daily tasks on the farm, outside of school hours. But John was ambitious. His handicap of humble birth and foreign descent did not dismay him.

After finishing the course in the little district school nearby, he walked four miles and back each day to attend the high school in Rutland, often in the severest weather. with the temperature far below zero. Finally he graduated, standing second in a class of 128.

But that is not all. He won a national essay prize offered by the American Chemical Society, in competition with 6,000 other high school pupils. This gave him a full four years' scholarship at Yale, with $500 a year living expenses besides.

This is but another illustration of what a young person with ambition, energy and grit can accomplish, even under adverse circumstances, in this land of opportunity.

The example of John Livak. the Hungarian farmer boy, is a stern rebuke to those who belittle our American institutions and sow seeds of discontent, as well as those shiftless individuals who whine because they "never had a chance."

SLAVERY CONTINUES

That the slave trade is still carried on in no less than 15 different countries several of which are members of the League of Nations, is the declaration of Ignatius Phayre in the April issue of Current History.

He cites China, Liberia and Abyssinia particularly as slavetrading countries. In China many millions are held in slavery, even in more advanced provinces, and it is hard to imagine conditions in the remote regions beyond control of the Nanking government Only recently an international commission charged that in Liberia a large slave trade was carried on under the sanction of the government, which profits from the traffic. It is estimated that at least two million are held in slavery in Abyssinia.

Such conditions seem quite abhorrent to civilized people today. but when it is remembered that it is only a little more than seventy years since slavery was a recognized institution in the United States, it is not strange that it is still found in the countries mentioned.

Much progress has been made in recent years, however, in the direction of reducing the prevalence of slavery in parts of the world in which it still exists.

Questions And Answers About Cotton Adjustment Program

Questions And Direct Answers Regarding Opposition To The Cotton Program

Question: Which groups are opposed o the Cotton Program and why?

Answer: Cotton handlers and spin-ers. Cotton handlers, including buy-rs and shippers, make their profits on per bale basis; more bales mean more oney to them.

Question: What is the cotton pro-essing tax?

Answer: The cotton processing tax is aid by consumers and collected from otton mills on cotton goods used in the nited States. It is the farmer's tar-f. From proceeds of the cotton pro-essing tax cotton farmers are paid ental and benefit payments for reduc-g cotton production in an effort to aise the price of cotton to a fair level s compared with the price of manu-ctured goods purchased by cotton rmers.

Question: What tax have cotton rowers been paying on manufactured oods that corresponds to the process-g tax on cotton they sell?

Answer: A tax known as the protec-ve tariff has been levied in varying mounts and on various articles for ore than 100 years to raise the income American industry. Levying of this x and failure to give farmers similar rotection has placed farmers at a reat disadvantage nearly ever since e American government was found-d. The tariff act of 1930 was higher an any other in our history.

Question: Are textile manufacturers otected by a tax (tariff) similar to e processing tax which protects far-ers?

Answer: Yes. The protective tax ariff) increases the cost of cotton oods to farmers and other consumers about 38 percent. This 38 percent. paid by consumers and goes to those ngaged in the textile industry. It mounts to many times as much as the ocessing tax which is likewise paid consumers and goes to farmers.

If manufacturers insist that the pro-ssing tax, which protects farmers, be moved in order that they could buy tton on an unprotected world market ey should also, if they seek to be nsistent, insist that the protective tax ariff) be removed in order that far-ers could buy their overalls, shirts. eets, and other cotton goods on an protected world market.

Question: Has the processing tax de-eased the consumption of cotton?

nswer: There is nothing to indicate at the processing tax, within itself, s served to restrict the consumption cotton.

Question: Does the processing tax crease the volume of exports from e United States of manufactured cot-n goods?

nswer: No. The amount of the ocessing tax is refunded to cotton ll manufacturers on cotton goods ipped out of the United States.

Question: Does the processing tax crease the volume of imports of cot-n goods into the United States?

Answer: No. An import tax equal the processing tax must be paid on tton cloth shipped into the United ates to offset the processing tax paid cotton cloth made in the United ates.

Question: Has the cotton program d the processing tax caused an in-ease in the use of substitutes for cot-n, and is this a serious threat to the merican cotton grower as some hand-s and manufacturers of cotton are ting?

Answer: During the year 1933-34 sumption of rayon, silk, and wool creased more than the consumption cotton.

nder the Agricultural Adustment t the Secretary of Agriculture can event the substitution, because of the ocessing tax, of other commodities, as e, paper, rayon, and wool, for cot-n by levying similar taxes on such her commodities. Such similar taxes already in effect on paper and jute.

Question: Does the processing tax event the use of cotton in the manu-cture of low-value products?

Answer: No. The Agricultural Ad-stment Act provides that if the pro-sing tax cuts down the use of cot- in the manufacture of low-value oducts the tax on cotton for that use y be suspended. This has already en done in the case of large-sized tton bags.

Question: Is the processing tax ruin- the cotton textile industry?

Answer: No, and this is proven by following facts: The average mar- or difference between the price of ound of raw cotton and the whole-e prices of unfinished cotton cloth ainable from a pound of cotton for constructions or kinds of cloth fell m 16 cents per pound in 1925-26 to cents in 1926-27, 14.2 cents in 1927- 13.6 cents in 1928-29, 13.2 cents in -30, 12.2 cents in 1930-31, to 9.4 cents 1931-32, and was 10.1 cents for 2-33.

n February, 1933, before the pro-sing tax was enacted, this margin difference was 7.5 cents per pound. th full allowance for the cotton pro-sing tax this margin or difference raged 13.95 cents for the crop year 3-1934 and has averaged 12.37 cents for the first seven months of the current season.

It is clear that it cannot be consistently argued that the cotton processing tax or current prices are seriously depressing cotton consumption, since cotton mill activity has been high in comparison with general business activity. The cotton textile industry is faring well in comparison with other industries.

Question: Are imports of cotton cloth from foreign countries a serious threat to the Southern cotton growers and the American textile industry?

Answer: Imports of cotton cloth fell from a peak of 196 million square yards in 1923-24 to 50 million square yards in 1929-30 and to 31 million square yards in 1930-31. In 1932-33 there were approximately 43 million square yards imported. Imports from Japan fell from 10.8 million square yards in the calendar year 1923 to less than 800 thousand square yards in 1934. Recent imports indicate that for the calendar year 1935 imports from Japan will be high as compared with previous years, but of little consequence since in February 1935, Japanese cotton cloth consumed in the United States was only 8-10 of 1 percent of the total.

It is probable that imports of cotton cloth into the United States will not in the near future pass previous peaks.

The cotton program and the cotton processing tax do not affect imports of cotton cloth, since a compensatory tax must be paid on imports to offset the processing tax paid on cotton cloth manufactured in the United States.

Enemies of the Cotton Program have a lot to say about Japanese cotton imports, but they think the American people are prejudiced against the Japanese and seek to take advantage of this prejudice in their attacks on the farmer's program.

Question: If Congress is going to remove the processing tax and put farmers on the relief rolls, what else should Congress do if it seeks to be fair to Agriculture and consistent in its actions?

Answer: It should remove the protective tax (tariff) and put manufacturers on the same relief rolls.

The processing tax is the farmers' protective tax (tariff) and without it cotton farmers would again, as they were for more than 100 years preceding 1933, be buying in a tariff-protected market and selling on an unprotected world market without any protection even on that part of their cotton consumed in this country.

Question: Should the United States Government extend aid to cotton growers with the processing tax similar to that it has for many years extended to other groups with the protective tax (tariff), financial laws, subsidies, and assurance of profits to public utilities?

Answer: Yes. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace said recently: "In the past it has been a battle between farmers and certain processing and distributing interests, with the Government standing more or less aloof. Today the government is willing to step in far enough to see that the farmer gets an even break. . . . . ."

Question: Could the benefits now being received by farmers be paid from the United States Treasury?

Answer: Payments might be made in such way for a short while, but the public would not stand very long for such expenditur to be made from regular or anticipated tax funds.

Those who are suggesting that benefits to cotton farmers be paid direct from Treasury funds know that the cotton program would soon collapse if the processing tax was eliminated. They are smart enough to offer a substitute which sounds good but which would be short lived.

Farmers do not want to make a raid on the Treasury or be placed on a dole. Thhey seek only the same kind of protection that other groups get under the protective (tariff).

Question: Are enemies of the cotton program telling the truth when they say that the high price of American cotton is causing production of cotton in foreign countries to "rapidly rise to new heights?"

Answer: No, for the following reasons:

1. Twelve-cent cotton is not high-priced cotton.

2. Production of cotton during the past year outside the United States was less than during the previous year. Instead of the much ballahooed "rapid rise" there was an actual decline.

3. The world supply of all cotton for the 1934-35 season is 3 1-2 million bales less than the supply of the previous season.

4. The United States Department of Agriculture, which cannot afford to misrepresent facts and mislead farmers, has stated: "We are not aware of any country that offers an immediate threat to our supremacy by the expansion of acreage to cotton production. The real threat of destructive expansion is right here in our own country. "

Question: Would starvation prices for cotton with a low income to cotton producer prevent increases in foreign cotton production even if there was the serious threat to American supremacy about which so much is being said by cotton handlers and manufacturers?

Answer: No. Foreign cotton countries have in the past increased cotton production when cotton was selling at 5 to 6 cents per pound.

Even if there was a serious threat of foreign cotton production American farmers would still be confronted with deciding whether they desired to produce cotton at starvation prices in compitition with cheap labor of India, China, and other countries.

Question: Why are foreign countries buying less American cotton?

Answer: The four main reasons are:

1. The high protective tax (tariff) levied by the United States government for the benefit of manufacturers. This prevents the sale of goods manufactured in foreign countries to the United States and makes it difficult for foreign countries to get American dollars with which to buy American cotton.

2. High protective tariff walls have been erected by foreign countries to prevent the shipping of American goods into foreign countries. These tariff walls were erected to compete with American tariffs levied to protect American industry.

3. Formerly the United States was a debtor nation, the government and its citizens borrowing vast sums from foreign countries and making payments in American products, mainly cotton. In recent years the United States has become a creditor nation, the government and its citizens having loaned vast sums to foreign countries (war loans, etc.) and to citizens of foreign countries. This loaning created a temporary foreign market for American products, including cotton, as long as it continued because it provided American dollars with which the foreign countries and their citizens paid for American products. Because the foreign countries and their citizens are unable to pay, it is no longer safe to lend American dollars abroad, and therefore foreign countries and their citizens can no longer get American dollars in this way with which to buy American products.

4. The world depression has caused a decline in buying power in countries which take American cotton.

Question: Is cotton the only American product which shows a decline in the amount shipped to foreign countries?

Answer: No. All other principal agricultural exports, except tobacco have been reduced even more than cotton and the exports of industrial goods likewise, show almost as great a reduction as do cotton exports. Exports of cotton textile goods are 87 percent. of what they were before the world war while exports of non-agricultural products are 57 percent. of what they were before the world war.

There has been a general decline in all American foreign trade. Cotton has, of course, been affected and enemies of the farmers' cotton program are trying to mislead farmers by saying that the cotton program has caused the decline in foreign trade in cotton. They are misrepresenting facts in an effort to get farmers to fight against their own best interest.

Question: To what extent are the cotton growers reducing the surplus (carry over) of American cotton?

Answer: The extent to which the cotton is shown by the following figures:

Date	Bales Surplus
August 1, 1929	4,517,000
August 1, 1930	6,187,000
August 1, 1931	8,919,000
August 1, 1932	13,228,000
August 1, 1933	11,754,000
August 1, 1934	10,746,000
August 1, 1935	8,300,000 (estimate)

Question: What are some of the things the Agricultural Adjustment Act has provided for cotton growers?

Answer: The Act became a law on May 12, 1933, and has made possible—

1. Cotton plow-up payments, 1933.
2. 4c advance on cotton plow-up options, 1933.
3. 10c Cotton loans, 1933.
4. 1934 Cotton Acreage Reduction Contracts.
5. Rental payments, 1934.
6. Parity payments, 1934.
7. 12c loan, 1934.
8. 2c additional advances cotton plow-up options.
9. 2c additional advances on 1933 10c loans.
10. 1935 Cotton Acreage Reduction Contracts.
11. Provided more acreage for food and feed production.
12. Reduced the necessity for women working in cotton fields.
13. Reduced production and harvesting of cotton which has enabled children to remain in school longer.

Question: Has the price of cotton and cotton seed increased as a result of the cotton program?

Answer: The price of cotton has risen from 6.5 cents a pound in 1932-33 to 9.7 cents for 1933-34 and approximately 12 cents for 1934-35. The farm value of a bale of lint cotton and the seed, not including rental and parity payments and profits on options, was $37 in 1932-33, $55 in 1933-34, and $80 in 1934-35, and including such payments and profits on options was $37.00 for 1932-33, $67.50 for 1933-34, and $90.00 for 1934-35.

J. C. King, Jones, Ala., Now Handling New Kerosene Refrigerators In Chilton County

In more than forty agricultural colleges, or the agricultural departments of leading universities and colleges in all parts of the county, kerosene operated refrigerators have been installed in home economics, agricultural engineering, chemistry, or other classes for demonstration purposes, it was announced here today by Mr. J. C. King of Jones, Ala., kerosene Electrolux dealer for this vicinity.

Mr. King explained that he had been informed by Mr. F. E. Sellman, vice-president of Servel, Inc., manufacturers of Electrolux refrigerators at Evansville, Indiana, that his company had decided to place a number of kerosene-operated refrigerators at the disposal of colleges and universities maintaining courses in scientific agriculture as an aid in teaching home economics in view of the growing interest in up-to-date refrigeration for the farm kitchen.

By having a refrigerator operated with kerosene in its home economics laboratory or classroom, instructors are enabled to acquaint students with the scientific principles which have made it possible to develop a practical rerefigeration apparatus for farm use and to instruct them in the value of such refrigeration from the standpoint of bettering farm conditions.

The Electrolux kerosene refrigerator is based on the researches of two Swedish students in the University of Stockholm about ten years ago who discovered that the old scientific principle of using heat to cause cold was practicable.

Use of kerosene as a fuel in causing refrigeration was developed in the Servel laboratory, by its director, Mr. William R. Hainsworth, a foremost authority on artificial refrigeration and the recipient of high honors for his achievements. Dr. Hainsworth received his doctor's degree from the celebrated Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Approximately fifty state colleges and universities have selected Electrolux as the refrigerator for their use. Included in this number is the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn.

Lady Says She Took CARDUI for Cramps; Was Soon Relieved

Women who suffer as she did will be interested in the experience of Mrs. Maude Crafton, of Belleville, Ill., who writes: "For several years, I suffered from irregular trouble and cramping. There would be days when I would have to stay in bed. I would get so nervous, I was miserable. My aunt told me to try Cardui. She believed it would build me up, regulate me and help the nervous trouble. I knew after taking half a bottle of Cardui that I was better. I kept on taking Cardui and found it was doing me a world of good. I am in good health, which means a lot to me." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. Thorsby Institute News

There was quite an exodus of dormitory students over the past week end, as it was the last of the term when the students who live not far away were allowed to go home.

Last Friday after school the Junior Class with Mr. and Mrs. Maddox as chaperones, had a picnic at Mahan's Pond and reported a fine time.

The first part of field day was held on Tuesday afternoon of this week. The rest of the events will probably take place next Monday afternoon.

The Senior rings and pins have arrived. The school has a standard ring and pin, designed by Miss Kathryn Perry, a former teacher.

Recent visitors to the school were Mr. and Mrs. John Ford. former students at Thorsby Institute. and now living in Lexington, Kentucky. Mrs. Ford was Lorena Graham and lived in Thorsby for some time. They have one little girl.

Miss Lillian McKee is expecting to study this summer at Montevallo, taking special welfare courses, looking forward to that kind of work another year. She had long been interested in that kind of work and so has decided to change to it another year. She will be much missed by teachers and pupils. The teacher who will take her place is Miss Capitola Mattingley, a graduate of Asbury College, Wilmore, Kentucky. This year she is doing graduate work at Scarritt College for Christian workers at Nashville. Tenn. Miss Mattingley will teach history anl allied subjects the coming year, also health work for girls. She specialized in history, education and English, while in college. She is very much interested in atheletics and is this year taking work in various forms of girls athletics with a view to teaching it.

Miss Mable Allen, music teacher, will take up other work the coming year. She has done especially well with the Glee Club and chorus work this year, training the students to sing distinctly and with expression. Miss Kathryn Foss. a Thorsby Institute graduate who studied music before and after entering the Institute, will take Miss Allen's place. While studying under Miss Giula Williams, a former Thorsby Institute music teacher, Miss Foss awarded a gold medal one year for making the most progress in music of any of the music pupils. She was a member of a trio while in the Institute, and often sang solos and also did a great deal of accompanying. Miss Foss will graduate from Piedmont College in June. While there she has specialized in voice and piano, and has ranked high. She will probably have a class in History and Appreciation of Music which will count as a credit course. She will also have an English class.

It is expected that the other teachers will return to the Institute.

Mrs. H. R. Maddox will have charge of the office this summer for half a day.

Dr. H. C. Nickson, County Health Officer, Urges Immunization Against Diptheria

In view of the fact that the Governor of Alabama has set aside Wednesday, May 1st, 1935, as "Child Health Day." it is the hope of the Chilton County Health Department that all children between the ages of six months and six years who have not had an inoculation of diptheria toxoid for the prevention of diptheria will take advantage of this free protection as soon as possible. Diptheria is a dreaded disease and one which still takes its toll of lives even in this age when we have a safe way of protecting against it.

Throughout the country, as a whole, diptheria morbidity and mortality have been practically stationary since 1930 in spite of the means avoilable to wipe it out entirely. In Alabama, where the most recent and most efficient weapon, in the form of alum-precipitated toxoid, was developed. the trend of the disease has not been greatly affected. The number of cases of diptheiria reported in Alabama for the past ten years is shown below.

Immunize Now—Stamp Out Diptheria

The ideal time of immunization is during the second half of the first year of life, about the time that the immunity received from the mother is lost. The immunity conferred by a single dose of the alum-precipitated toxoid develops rapidly and in approximately 95 per cent of children only one injecttion is necessary. In o small percenttage a second injection is necessary. but this can be determined by a Schick test 3-6 months after the original injection. The dangerous age, as revealed by death certificates, is the preschool period, with the ages two to four being responsible for the greatest number of deaths.

Alabama has the unenviable record of having almost twice the diptheria death rate of the country as a whole—a condition that can only be corrected by wholesale immunization. Let us join in the May Day program this year and make this a continuing program throughout the years.

The medical profession, of course, has an important part to play—the key part—in the whole program. Without the active backing of all practicing physicians, the program cannot be successful and diptheria will continue to enact its toll of young lives.

Many parents are prejudiced against any kind of "shots" for immunization and would rather risk the safety of the child than have any protective measures taken. It is absolutely wrong for porents to take such chances when this absolutely harmless way to safety is offered free to the public. We are happy to say that a long step has already been made in this immunization drive through the cooperation of the relief office in permitting its nurses to hold clinics at the various schools in the county. Some 2,200 children have been immunized this year but there are still many, especially between the ages of six months and two years, who have not.

We are planning to hold several clinics the first week in May as well as through the entire month. The time and places these clinics are to be held to be announced during the month. It is our sincere wish thot those needing protection will take advantage of this free offer.

A CALF AND A CROP
Have the Same Idea on the Food Question

● Why is a growing calf like a growing crop?

Answer: Because the food requirements of each are so much the same.

Scientists are making this point clearer every day through their research into the importance of vitamins in animal diet and the need of impurities in the food of plants.

These vital impurities are the all-important thing in fertilizing today. They are the rarer elements—boron, iodine, magnesium, potassium, calcium, lithium, strontium and many others. With them your crops produce as Nature intended them to.

Chilean Natural Nitrate contains these rarer elements in Nature's own balance and proportion. Chilean's quick-acting nitrogen, plus its vital impurities, make it the safe, sure fertilizer for your crops.

See your dealer for Chilean Natural Nitrate. Two kinds—Champion (granulated), Old Style (crystals). They are both genuine. Both are natural. And both give your crops the vital impurities.

Farm Bureau Official Tells Pres. Roosevelt Farmers Are Alarmed

Montgomery, Ala.—L. Litt Edwards, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, has telegraphed President Roosevelt expressing gratification on behalf of thousands of cotton producers in every Alabama county, for his "courageous action in refusing to eliminate the cotton processing tax" and for withstanding "the great pressure being placed on you to destroy the farmers' cotton program."

He has also written Alabama Senators and Congressmen letters in which he states that "we have examined the arguments being used against the cotton program and find that most if not all of them have no foundation in fact."

"So great an effort is being made to destroy the cotton program, through the George amendment to the Work Relief Bill and otherwise, that farmers throughout this state are naturally alarmed," Edwards told the President.

"Cotton farmers feel that the cotton program, made possible by the processing tax levied under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, has been their salvation. When you were inaugurated the Cotton Act, has been their salvation. When you were inaugurated the Cotton South was facing ruin. Conditions are much better now.

"Substitution of work relief funds for funds collected under the processing tax would, in our opinion, be disastrous. Rental and benefit payments might be made from the United States Treasury for a short while, but taxpayers would soon put an end to such practice and the cotton program would collapse. If the government favors handlers and processors of cotton by shifting rental and benefit payments on cotton to work relief funds, similar action by processors of other agricultural commodities would be in order. Thus the entire program might be destroyed."

GRAVES RELIEF PLAN USED BY F.D.R. AS MODEL FOR NATION

President Orders The Program Printed And Submitted To Other States As An Ideal; Praises Governor

Washington. — President Roosevelt was so pleased with the Alabama work relief program submitted to him recently by Gov. Bibb Graves that he ordered it printed and sent to governors of all the states as a model.

The nation's New Deal chief executive paid Alabama's New Deal governor the high compliment of proclaiming his $116,000.000 recovery plan the most constructive and thorough yet submitted by any state or any federal agency.

Wires of all the national press associtions flashed the word to every corner of the country last week that Alabama's elert governor had blazed the trail for all the other states in setting up efficiency plans and machinery to deal a knockout blow to the depression.

While in Washington the Alabama Congressional delegation met the Governor at a dinner, discussing state problems and testifying to the close cooperation existing metween the State House at Montgomery and the representatives of the state in Washington.

One of the biggest feathers in Graves' cap when he left Washington was the warm commendation President Roosevelt gave his relief plan on the day after it was presented, while discussing the spending of the $4,880,000 fund with Washington correspondents.

The President indicated that Graves' plan was one of the few complete set ups, ready to get into action immediately upon determination of a policy for the spending of the huge fund. and that other states might well follow the policy adopted by the Alabama Governor.

The plan, which goes into great detail, lists as one of its major projects the completion of one unit each of the proposed Warrior-Tennessee and Coosa Valley projects. Each unit would include one dam and necessary facilities to tie into the Birmingham Industrial water supply. The project would cost $5,000,000.

Other projects include a rural electrification program, which would add 10,000 miles of electric lines in rural districts at a cost of $10,000,000 and would employ 5,448 men; a highway bridge and grade crossing program, costing $35,000,000 and employing 16,367 men; health projects, costing $8,880,000 and employing 12,350 men, and many others.

Governor Graves was accompanied on his visit here by Mrs. Graves and Thad Holt, state relief director.

New Gulf Station Luncheonette Caters To The Trade Wishing Curb Service For Sandwiches

The New Gulf Service Station, with Joe P. Venable proprietor has opened a luncheonette in connection with the station that is fast becoming a very popular sandwich shop among the young people of Clanton.

This popularity is deserved, is the expression of the young people of this section who have feasted on the delicious barbecue sandwiches served by this sandwich shop and prepared by Howard Garrick, an experienced barbecue man.

Not only are the sandwiches and drinks receiving approval but the splendid parking facilities of the place are appealing to those wro want curb service. The Third Avenue side of the New Gulf Station offers a wide and spacious parking.place for automobiles where curb service can be had easily and Mr. Venable extends an invitation to the people to take advantage of this more or less private parking space when being served by his sandwich shop.

ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM IS THE FACTOR IN COTTON PRICE RISES

The principal factor in causing the increase in the price of cotton from 6 cents to 12 cents per pound during the past two years has been the cotton adjustment program rather than the devaluation of the dollar.

"The bureau of agricultural economics, in a preliminary analysis, has estimated that the probable price of cotton in early 1935, with no adjustment program and no change in the dollar in the past two years, would have been from 5 to 6 cents," writes Cully A. Cobb, director, agricultural administration.

"It is estimated," he says, "that with devaluation of the dollar but no adjustment program during the two years the price would have been from 7 to 8½ cents. With the cotton programs and no devaluation of the dollar, it is estimated that the price would have been from 8½ to 9½ cents.

"The increase due to the program above what the increase would have been with the devaluation of the dollar and no adustment program would be slightly more than $5 a bale. That, applied to the 1934 crop, plus the carry-over in the United States, makes a difference of some 85 to 90 millions of dollars in the value of the carry-over and all cotton produced last year.

"The combined influence of all efforts at increase in price actually did result in a per pound price of better than 12 cents."

TWO-BALE EXEMPTION RULING IS EXPLAINED

Each cotton farm with an established base production of not more than two bales will this year receive, under the Bankhead cotton control act, an allotment of the full amount of the base production of each farm, says J. W. Fant, County Agent, who has received administrative ruling from the agricultural adjustment administration to this effect.

Under the ruling, the farm with a base production between one and 956 pounds will receive an allotment equal to its base production. For example, a farm with a base production of 356 pounds will receive an allotment of 356 pounds, the exact amount of its base.

The farm with a base production between 956 and 1,471 pounds will be given an allotment of two bales or 956 pounds of lint cotton, while the farm with a base of over 1,471 pounds will be allotted on the basis of 65 per cent of its established average production.

The two bale exemption was granted to benefit tenants, share croppers, and landowners who operate small farms.

Farmers Advised To Side-Dress Cotton

Auburn, Ala—.Side application of either nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime should be made to cotton at first cultivation after chopping for best results, reports J.C. Lowery, extension agronomist, who advises that "it is not advisable to apply side-dressing later that this date."

Cotton following winter legumes should not receive side-dressing.

BENEFIT PAYMENTS CANNOT COME FROM RELIEF BILL FUND

President Roosevelt has announced that if the cotton processing tax is removed some means must be found for providing funds for paying the farmers acreage reduction benefits.

The Associated Press quotes the president as stating that the benefit payments could not come from the $4,880,000,000 appropriation because this money was for relief.

Early this month the president also reported that he had heard no suggestions as to where the funds for benefits would be found if the processing tax is eliminated.

President Roosevelt made the above facts known after he had signed the $4,880,000,000 appropriation bill which contained an amendment by Senator George of Georgia providing that benefit payments to farmers could be made out of the fund.

Farmers Still Paying Debts Promptly

Farmers of Alabama, Mississsippi, and Louisiana continue to live up to their reputation of meeting their obligations promptly. As of March 31, 1935, they had paid 98.4 per cent of matured instalments on first mortgage Land Bank Commissioner loans, Mr. Robertt A. Beeland, Jr., president of the bank, announced today, April 27.

Collections from Alabama farmers were 99 per cent of maturing instalments; Mississippi farmers, 98.1 per cent; Louisiana farmers, 96.8 per cent. Of the 26 second mortgage Commissioner loans where the mortgagee is other than the Land Bank, all are current except one.

"The showing in this report is even better than indicated on its face," said Mr. Beeland. "Out of a total of 13,222 maturing instalments due on March 31, only 220 loans are delinquent, amounting to less than $20.000 per loan. Of the "spring and summer" maturities, based on loans in the strawberry and truck growing areas, a large number of borrowers have alredy anticipated their instalments.

"Prospects for the 1935-36 collection season are equally encouraging. Of the fifteen thousand loan instalments to be collected. we have every reason to believe that farmers will continue to be as prompt in their payments to us as in the past."

Before the advent of the radio we didn't have to listen to a lot of advertising ballyhoo along with our "recordings."

Junior-Senior Banquet Is Brilliant Event

The outstanding social event of the Chilton County High School was brought to a realization in the form of an elaborate banquet during the Easter season. This banquet is an annual affair given by the Junior Class in honor of the outgoing Seniors.

The basement of the Baptist church was turned into a veritable fairy land with its decorations of blue and gold streamers, balloons, flowers. Easter baskets and rabbits. The tables were arranged in cabaret style; the covers, place cards, programs and favors all carrying out the Easter idea.

To the strains of martial music the dignified Seniors and their guests filed into the banquet hall, directed by the ushers, to find their respective places. Nearly one hundred students, faculty members, trustees and invited guests joined in the spirit of this festive occasion and shared in the hospitality of the Juniors.

The Rev. G. G. Williams of the High School faculty offered thanks and Philip Nelson, president of the Senior Class, gave Brer Rabbit's invitation to the feast. Little Helen Hayes, who was dressed in an old fashionel costume and wearing a frilly Easter bonnet, cracked the shell of an artistically decorated blue and gold Easter egg, and sang "The Easter Parade."

The well planned program consisted of toasts, songs. readings and dances. Among the honored guests of this gala occasion was Mayor C. Fenn Jones, who responded to the toast given to him with well chosen words. Mayor Jones complimented the students of Chilton County High School for their ability and loyalty; and the members of the faculty for their leadership and cooperation. Mayor Jones pledged his support and wholehearted interest to the activities of the school. Dr. W. L. Parrish, member of the Board of Trustees, responded with a toast pledging his time and energy to the interest of the school. Mrs. Luther Little responded in behalf of Supt. Little and Mrs. S. J. Ezell. The response for the faculty was given by Prof. L. C. Warr, principal of Chilton County High School.

Toasts were given to the Juniors and Seniors by Priscilla Johnson and Jack Gillespie.

The menu for the banquet was planned and prepared by the ladies of the Baptist church and served in three elaborate courses by the girls of the Sr. I Class.

The students, faculty and guests all joined in the singing of popular songs, and the banquet terminated with the spirit singing of the school song.

IN MEMORY OF DR. ARTHUR JOHNSON

Dr. Arthur Johnson was born in Clanton February 17, 1888. He graduated from the school of medicine of Vanderbilt University in 1909. After graduation he began practicing medicine in Clanton, which he continued until a short time prior to his death on March 21, 1935. During his entire professional career he was a member of the Chilton County Medical Society.

As a physician, a member of the medical society, and as a citizen, Dr. Johnson portrayed those fine qualities of character which made his life a worthy contribution to his community. Particularly as a physician, a member of our society did he deport himself and devote his efforts and ability as a worthy exponent of our mutual interests and ideals. Therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Chilton County Medical Society, that, in the death of Dr. Arthur Johnson, we realize the loss of one of our most loyal, useful and beloved fellow-members; that, while we deeply regret his passing from our ranks, yet we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who giveth life and taketh away.

It is the wish of this society that our sympathy and the expression of our tribute of respect for the departed be transmitted to the bereaved family; that the same be spread upon the minutes of our Society; and that publication be made in the papers of Chilton County.

Mr. L. K. Paul, vocational agriculture teacher of Billingsley High School, took the officers of the Future Farmers of America chapter to Holtville on April 18 to be initiated by the older chapter there.

This being the first year of work, there were no charter members who had been initiated. They asked the charter of Holtville to initiate them. Their chapter put on a splendid initiation.

The following officers were elected: Otto Turner, president; Ivan Smith, vice-president; John Griffin, secretary; William Pattillo, treasurer; Dane Griffin, reporter.

The Billingsley chapter plans to initiate the rest of the members at home.

Ford Spring Is An Outstanding Feature

The traverse spring, an outstanding feature of Ford cars ever since they have been on the market, has been newly applied to the Ford V-8 for 1935, according to Clanton Motors. local Ford dealers.

"On the 1935 Ford the front spring is 7 1-8 inches longer and 1-4 of an inch wider," he says. "The rear spring is slightly longer than in the 1934 car, and both front and rear springs are 'softer' to improve riding comfort. The spring leaves have been widened and tapered toward the ends to give greater flexibility and eliminate the possibility of squeaking."

According to the local Ford dealer, the transverse spring suspension is particularly adapted to modern car operation as it provides greater stability on curves at high speeds and eliminates sidesway. This type of construction, he says, is responsible for the "free action on all four wheels" feature of the Ford V-8, whereby both front and rear wheels glide over uneven places in the highway while the chassis and body of the car remain on an "even keel" and provide a smooth, shock-proof ride.

"Another important roadability feature of the 1935 Ford V-8, one that makes for ease of control and smoother operation," said Clanton Motors, "is the continued use of radius rods to give Torque Tube drive. As in the 1934 Ford V-8, the radius rods perform the function of carrying the driving strain, leaving the springs, which are mounted on extensions of the raidus rods, free to serve their sole purpose of supporting the body and cushioning the ride."

The roadability of the new Ford V-8, according to the dealer, is contributing to its popularity; but, he points out, with all these modern riding improvements, the outstanding feature of this car is its power plant—the only V-8 engine you can buy under two thousand dollars.

3RD DEMOCRATIC LANDSLIDE IN STRONGLY REPUBL'C'N ST. LOUIS

Prior to 1932 there was not a single Democrat on the Board of Aldermen of St. Louis. Now, as a result of the Spring municipal elections in the Missouri metropolis, which for a generation has been one of the outstanding Republcan strongholds in the country, the entire membership of the Board is Democratic. It was the third successive Democratic victory and resulted in a landslide that eclipsed the one last November for members of Congress. Following President Roosevelt's astonishing sweep of 102,800 plurality in 1932, the city elected Mayor Dickmann, a Democrat, in 1933 by a plurality of 16,000. He carried with him every Democratic aldermanic candidate, those representing the 14 odd-numbered wards. William L. Mason, Democratic nominee for aldermanic president and head of the ticket last week, defeated his Republican opponent by 43,846. All of the Democratic nominees for the 14 even-numbered wards were elected by the same proportion and the city administration proposal for a new $3,00,000 public relief bond issue was carried 6 to 1.

Hot Days are Coming - Keep Cool and Comfortable in your FORD V·8 · · · ·

MORE than ever on hot days you will appreciate the thoughtfulness of the Ford V-8's makers in providing an easily-opened windshield which lets cooling breezes blow through to refresh you. In addition, you have a cowl ventilator and Clear-Vision ventilation in side windows. And on hot days you will appreciate the comfort and roominess of the Ford V-8, the almost effortless handling which allows you to arrive at the end of an all-day journey without fatigue.

The Ford V-8 might have been built especially for the South—so accurately does it meet motoring needs in the Southern states. For instance, Ford is the only car in America which water-cools not only the complete cylinder walls, but also the upper half of the crankcase. This unique 5½ gallon cooling system reduces cylinder wear and greatly lowers oil temperature in the crankcase. This means greater oil economy and is seconded by directed, air-flow, crankcase ventilation which reduces corrosion, lessens oil dilution and cuts sludge formation to a minimum . . . In the spring and summer months you and your family spend more time in your car—be sure its engine is designed to run efficiently in hot weather and that passengers will keep cool and comfortable.

Ford V-8 owners get safety-glass all around, an all-steel welded body, built-in luggage compartment, fenders to match the body and 6.00 x 16" air-balloon tires at no extra cost. See the new Ford V-8 today. Get the thrill of 8 cylinder performance. Drive the new Ford once and you will buy it.

Somebody Had to make Motoring Safer!

See for Yourself How the New 1935 Plymouth Meets this Critical Need

Something had to be done to make motoring safer on traffic-jammed highways and crowded city streets.

Walter P. Chrysler saw the problem clearly. And he created the answer. He built a completely new kind of car . . . America's first high speed safety car . . . the new 1935 Plymouth!

With its new high speed, this Plymouth has tremendous reserve power. It gives you the quick mobility to meet any traffic emergency.

And improved Hydraulic Brakes give you positive control; a new Safety-Steel Body gives you security and new type front springing gives you a roadability such as no low price car ever had before.

And no other low priced car is anything like it in Style either. See the new Plymouth yourself. Drive it and experience the difference.

The Jemison chapter, F. F. A., administered a successful rodent eradication campaign April 23, 1935. The poison was distributed to citizens of Jemison and to surrounding farmers. The Jemison city council sponsored the campaign in that they bought the materials, but all work of preparing and distributing the bait was furnished by the F. F. A. chapter. This is the third time a campaign of this type has been carried out and all previous ones were very successful.

The Vocational Home Ec. Units of the county took part in the meeting of the Kiwanis Club Wednesday night, April 24. The girl chosen from Isabella was Frances Sexton. The subject of talk was "What Home Economics Means to a High School Girl." The boy chosen from the Agricultural Unit was Woodrow Durbin, but Marvin Durbin took his place.

The F. F. A. Chapter of Isabella has selected Harry Foxx to carry out the Chilean Nitrate demonstration put on by the Chilean Nitrate Co., to prove the value of nitrate of soda as a side-dressing for cotton. The plot consists of two and one-half acres fertilized exactly alike at planting time with the side-dressing reserved from one-half acre through the center. This will be a valuable experiment to those who are interested enough to notice this plot through the growing season. It will be weighed separately at gathering time and the value of side-dressing can be told to the exact penny.

The three classes taking vocational agriculture have just finished spring cleaning, consisting of pruning and cultivating shrubbery, mowing lawn, leveling campus and oiling floors.

Mr. Robert E. Commack and Miss Forney, state supervisors, were here last week making plans for Woodrow Durbin, the winner of the W. B. Oliver contest, to go to Washington.

A new building site for our high school has been purchased and aside from the fact that it is a beautiful building site the plot contains as good a play ground as this section of the state affords. It is now being used by the boys in the physical education program.

RECORD CROWD ATTENDS BIG SINGING AND ANNUAL EVENT

Best Program Yet, Is Verdict Of Those Who Attended Spring Session Of Chilton County Singing Convention Saturday and Sunday

Without doubt the biggest crowd in the history of Clanton thronged the streets here Sunday as at least 4,000 persons congregated for the Spring Session of the Chilton County Singing Convention. It was almost impossible to find parking space within a three-block radius of the court house, where singers from ten or twelve counties and three states rendered one of the most outstanding programs of its kind ever presented in this section.

Although the program did not begin until 10:30 Sunday morning, shortly after nine o'clock the court house was filled to capacity and hundreds lined the front in an effort to get seats. By noon every parking space on the main streets was taken and city policemen were busy the remainder of the day trying to keep the main thoroughfares open for traffic.

In spite of the fact that the court house auditorium does not seat but few over four hundred, it was estimated that at least fifteen hundred crowded their way into the building, jamming the aisles, sitting in windows. The corridors both upstairs and downstairs were jammed, and outside the windows hundreds stood, trying to hear the program. Even then less than one-third of those in town are believed to have been able to get near the building.

A dozen counties and three states were represented and the program is said to be the best of its type ever presented in this section. Some of the most outstanding singers of the South were present and took part on the program. Not less than fifteen hundred automobiles were parked within a radius of three blocks of the court house; a dozen or more school busses from Chilton, Coosa, Elmore, Autauga, Bibb, and Shelby Counties brought loads. The sidewalks were jammed all over town almost as badly as Second Avenue is on Saturday afternoons.

At noon Clanton cafes could not begin to serve those that crowded into them. All tables in every cafe were filled and many were served standing and on the sidewalks. Drug stores were overflowed all day as the people tried to quinch their thirst at the soda fountains.

Presiding at both the Saturday night and Sunday session was O. L. Devaughn, chairman of the convention. This is the first time in several years that a two-days session has been held. Although the court house was filled Saturday night, the crowd was no comparison to the throng Sunday.

Appearing on the program were such outstanding singers as W. B. Walbert and the La Ferve Trio, representing the Vaughn Publishing Company of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., J. R. Baxter, president of the Stamps-Baxter Publishing Company of Chattanooga, Tenn., the Cobb Sisters of Birmingham; T. B Shaw and a girls quartet, also of Birmingham; the Sylacauga Quarete; "Uncle Bill" Crumley, the Marsh Quartet, the Lackey Quartet, all of Birmingham, and A. A. Beaird and others of Montgomery.

Besides these, many local singers participated in the six-hour program.

W. Lee Higgins, composer and director, from Boaz, Ala., representing the A. J. Showalter Company, was present and announced that this company was coming out with a brand new song book about the first of July.

Three Die In County From Typhoid Fever

Three deaths have resulted in Chilton County from typhoid, according to Dr. H. C. Nickson, Chilton County health officer, who said that several cases have been reported by county physicians. Those who have died from the disease were all negroes living in the vicinity of Verbena.

Contaminated water was given by Dr. Nickson as the case for the spread of the typhoid in this section. He is urging everyone to make sure that their wells are not polluted, and if it is found that their water supply contains typhoid germs precaution against the disease should be taken by boiling the water before using it.

Typhoid "shots", have been administered to several hundred over the county and Dr. Nickson declared that he believes there is little danger of an epidemic of the disease.

A clinic will be held at the health office Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock and all persons wishing to be given antityphoid shots are invited to visit the clinic, Dr. Nickson announced.

The burners of Superfex burn only about two hours a day to give you perfect refrigeration for 24 hours. Housewives tell us their total cost of Superfex is about ten dollars a year, sometimes less . . . and the money saved by Superfex is several times that amount.

Cheaper To Pay Street Tax Negro Finds

Hubert McCall, Negro, wished Tuesday that he had paid his street tax when the matter was first brought to his attention.

As he walked along the street Tuesday morning, Officer John Browder called to him, with the intention of reminding him that the city still wanted "two and a half" from him.

The officer noticed that the Negro was having trouble keeping his feet on the sidewalk—they seemed to be itching—so he casually inquired what was in a paper bag which McCall was swinging at his side.

With a look of 'resigned to fate,' the Negro handed over the bag. It contained a half-gallon fruit jar filled with whiskey.

As the steel doors of the jailhouse clanged behind him, Hubert's melancholy tone reminded himself "If I had des paid dem street tax befo."

Members of the Senior Class at the Chilton County High School, Clanton, will present their annual senior play Friday night, May 3, when sixteen members of the class will play in "Who Wouldn't Be Crazy," a three-act farce-comedy.

With the setting in a sanatorium for "mild mental cases," this play is chock-full of complications, wit, thrills, chills, and humor.

The leading roles are played by Phillip Nelson and Sarah Hollis. Others taking parts are: Helen Roberts, Pauline Hogan, Loyce Baker, Margaret Davis, Dorothy Waite, Dixie Johnson, Grace Plyler, Sidney Reynolds, Willis Baker, Renfro Price, John Thomas Marlar, Wade Alford, Osmond Glenn, and D. Aside from the natural complications that arise from the "mental state" of the characters, the introduction of kidnapers and other crooks furnish a spicy thread of entertainment throughout the three acts.

The curtains will rise at eight o'clock and will continue for two hours. Between the acts, a variety of other entertainment will be presented, featuring local talent.

IT IS NEWS WHEN A NEGRO BITES A MAN, SAYS OFFICER PLYLER

Night Policeman Barnes Plyler exercised considerable care Monday not to do any excess handshaking. One of the digits of his right hand was swathed in bandages; and his friends said that he was rather noncommital about how he had come by the lame finger.

But the story got around—it was too good to keep.

It seems that Officer Plyler in the pursuance of his duties as a guardian of peace was called to West End Sunday night to quell a fight at a certain Negro house.

When he reached the scene of combat, he immediately spotted a Negro man that he decided was responsible for the disturbance and proceeded to arrest him. The Negro's sister resented seeing her brother hauled off to spend a night in the confines of jail—and being more or less braced up courageously speaking—she voiced her resentment.

Being a kind and sympathetic officer of the law, Mr. Plyler was not long in seeing and appreciating her point of view. He began almost at once to make plans for her to be near her unfortunate relative.

But she evidently suddenly experienced a change of mind; one dive—and she was under the house. The officer reached "a long arm of the law" after her, but drew back a hand considerably marred by blood and print of teeth.

However, she was prevailed upon to accompany the officers and spent a quiet night in the county jail.

Lockjaw Is Fatal To 8-Year-Old Child Tues.

Sarah Ella Guy, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Guy, of Jemison, died Tuesday morning shortly after 9 o'clock of tetnus (lockjaw), after being ill only one day.

Her parents were unable to give any reason why the child suffered the attack which resulted in her death. She had not been wounded to their knowledge and at the funeral parlors no trace of a cut or nail wound was found on her body.

Besides her parents she is survived by three sisters, Doris, Joyce and Marie Guy; two brothers, James Bunny Guy and Floyd Bennett Guy, all of Jemison.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home with the Rev. Willie Lowery officiating. Burial was in the Oak Grove church cemetery with Spigener Funeral Home in charge.

Many young men of the county have sent in their names to the president of the local Unit to be placed on the membership rolls. The membership of this organization is not restricted to young men but includes young women. The age limit is from 19 to 39 years.

Membership cards will be issued at the meeting tonight, according to Billy Smith, president of the local Unit and several matters pertaining to the organizing of the League will be discussed.

A blanket invitation has been extended to all young white people between the ages of 19 and 39 to attend the meeting in Clanton tonight at eight o'clock. Those beyond this age limit may come if they wish.

The Alabama State League of Young Democrats is becoming one of the most outstanding organizations of its kind today. Other states have already organized and Units in the various counties of Alabama are now taking shape.

At the meeting here two weeks ago, which was well attended, Lawrence B. Tipton, state organizer of the League, gave important pointers to those interested in the organization and showed the meeting of the many advantages of being a member.

The young married men on relief—described as the "forgotten men of the New Deal"—some day will own one of the farms they are preparing for homesteads if the plans of the Alabama Relief Administration work out.

After six months, if they are found worthy they will ge assigned to homesteads to be paid for in small amounts over a period of about 15 years at low interest rates.

Thad Holt, State relief director, described the encampments in Coffee County as "Alabama CCC Camps," with each member being paid $20 a month—$15 to send home to the "wife and babies" and $5 to keep for personal use.

State Health Department attaches and agricultural extension service, experts and State forestry officials are teaching the young men how to till their soil, plant forests, build their own homes and other farm buildings, and best methods of maintaining health and sanitation.

Holt plans eventually to select 300 for the reclamation work on the 56,000 acres acquired by the ARA from the Federal Land Bank of New Orleans, which had come into pocession of the land by foreclosure.

Thus far, Holt said, most of the young men had been chosen from the ranks of displaced tenants, day laborers, or farmers without land in the State's southeastern counties surrounding Coffee.

Gov. Graves, an enthusiastic supporter of the experiment, has predicted such a practice of "establishing" destitute young married men may become nationwide in scope.

It was estimated that the home, a 40 to 60 acre tract, improvements and implements would cost the men $1,250 each.

With the 40-acre break-down there will be sufficient lands, excluding submarginal acreage, for at least 500 to 700 families Holt said. They mostly will "move in" in October to prepare for the 1936 crop year.

EXCAVATION FOR NEW POST OFFICE STARTED

Contractors Expecting Full Completion In 240 Calendar Days

Heavy rains Monday halted the excavation of the site for the new $50,000-post office building, which will be erected in Clanton during the summer months. Officially, the work was begun May 1, but because of inclement weather, little has been done except for a fair start on the excavation.

However, A. L. Henderson, superintendent of the construction for H. W. Beers, Jr., contractors, stated that he expects to complete the structure by early winter. The contract calls for the completion of the project within 240 calendar days, but in all probability the work will be completed much sooner.

The building will be of brick with stone trimmings and will be 65 feet by 77 feet, and is expected to be one of the most attractive buildings of its type in any town the size of Clanton in the state. Built in a rectangular shape, it will present an imposing addition to the town's structures; and will doubtlessly have a tendency to cause the business section to expand.

Mr. Henderson explained that this will not be a PWA project, but stated that local labor will be used whenever and wherever it is possible to get qualified workmen; and the prevailing wage scale will be paid.

Explaining that he understands there is to be available considerable funds for the completion of such projects under the new Works Program, Dr. Gragg urged members of the court to keep a constant watch for every opportunity to make application for improvements to the local landing field.

Pointing out that Columbiana and Shelby County does not enjoy the strategic location that Clanton does, being located directly on the proposed air route from Birmingham to Montgomery, he declared that Shelby County has three landing fields and secured several times as much federal money for their improvements as did Clanton.

Mayor Fines Four For Public Drunkenness

Four persons drew fines for public drunkenness in Mayor C. Fenn Jones' court Monday morning. Although he has no desire to be unnecessarily harsh with offenders, the Clanton mayor said that these people who drink whiskey must learn that they can not go about the streets in a drunken condition.

Each of the four paid the fines and promised to mend their ways. The diligence of the town's officers and the certainty of punishment when these offenders appear before Mayor Jones is doing much to lessen drinking in Clanton.

The number of persons drunk on the streets is noticeable fewer than before Mayor Jones began his drive against public drunkenness.

WEDNESDAY IS HALF HOLIDAY IN CLANTON

Beginning May 15, Stores And Both Banks Will Close At 1 P.M.

Beginning Wednesday, May 15, practically all Clanton business and professional establishments will be closed each Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, giving the management and employes of these firms a half-day holiday each week.

A petition, circulated this week, was signed by almost every establishment in the town, and the practice will continue through Wednesday, August 28. This will afford employes an opportunity for an extra half-day leisure during the hot, summer months; the movement was sponsored by several of Clanton's leading business and professional men.

Last summer, the stores here were closed on Thursday afternoons, and at first it was planned by those sponsoring the movement to adopt the same day again this year, but this did not meet with the approval of firms whose business could not be conveniently arranged for a half-day closing on Thursday. Wednesday afternoon was a compromise.

Blind or Foolish

It is indeed puzzling how some people can argue with a straight face that 'times are no better than they were two and three years ago.' Of course, any sane, thinking man or woman must recognize and appreciate the fact that great improvement has been made; and surely those who would insist differently must be, indeed, blind or foolish.

Only one fact need be, pointed out to be sufficiently convincing to all except those blind with prejudice or hopelessly cynical: What has become of all the talk of depression that was heard prior to the time that Franklin D. Roosevelt became President of the United States?

All those who have any knowledge of psychology are aware all troubles are largely mental; the depression was no exception. This mental ailment has been corrected, and much of the physical damage incurred has been repaired. This alone should convince anyone that times are improved.

Bu to more material phases: Compare the numper of new automobiles seen on the highways today and three years ago; compare the dress of the people you meet on the streets—are they wearing better clothes today? Look at the countenance of the man on the street—does he wear the same expression as he did two years ago? Have you compared the money in your pocket with the amount you had about the time of the bank moratorium?

It is quite true that prices have advanced—perhaps the proportion has even kept ahead of the climb in wages—but a greater number of people have employment. Almost any man will have a few dollars in his pockets now, and three years ago it is a well known fact that a quarter was a rare thing. Anyway the price of an article has little to do with prosperity; the cost of living has little to do with prosperity. What really counts, are you able to secure that article; are yau able to make a living for yourself and your family.

When the greatest possible number of people possess the necessary purchasing power for a comfortable living for themselves and their families, then we have prosperity.

We have progressed far towards that ideal within the past two years—and we are still advancing. And for that reason, times are improved; the sane-thinking man and woman recognize this improvement, and the fact that the Blind and Foolish are unconvinced matters little.

Education Comes First

The farmer of today is far better informed on financial, social, economic and other national and international problems than was the farmer of pre-war days.

Much of the credit for that must go to the agricultural cooperative organizations, which have recognized the need for educating their members in order to make them better, more scientifically equipped soldiers in the fight for farm recovery and prosperity.

The co-ops do not simply try to improve marketing methods and widen markets and raise prices to profitable levels—they disseminate a wealth of information and opinion that bears on a thousand problems which directly or indirectly affects the welfare of agriculture. That work, though it is little publicized, is every bit as valuable as the work the co-ops do in connection with the regular routine of the farming industry.

"We have spent a good deal of time wondering about what this, that or the other group will do. President Roosevelt seems to have suggested the answer. Government, he reminds us, is simply the fusing of all elements in the nation's life."—Terre Haute Star. (Rep.)

Looking Ahead

That business is better now than it was a couple of years ago is pretty generally recognized. Forward-looking persons, however, still have their eyes to the future. Mr. B. C. Forbes, one of America's foremost economists, in a recent issue of Liberty magazine tells us that there is $43,800,000 worth of Prosperity waiting for confidence on the part of the American public.

Our belief that under our present leadership, and from observation of events since March, 1932, the necessary confidence to put business on a "boom" is rapidly becoming a fact. To put the idea in words of Mr. Forbes: "A business boom by and by is not only possible, but as certain as the rising of the sun."

This statement should be significant to the business man who is viewing the future in relation to his business, to the concern that is planning expansion. To him the opportunity is now in sight. An important and necessary phase of selling his merchandise must begin at once. Let the unwise doubt, and wait, and question until the "boom" is actually upon us, when it will be too late to fully realize the opportunities.

But the prudent man is laying his foundations now. He is advertising his business, he is pushing his sales. The public is being educated to his ability to serve. He is stepping out from the crowd, and is already recognized as a leader. Present returns from his initiative are gratifying, but he is laying a sound foundation for an even brighter future.

Wisely, he is looking ahead.

An Outworn System

Several years ago the late Chief Justice Taft declared that American criminal procedure was a disgrace to the nation. A recent utterance on the same subject by Judge Walter B. Jones of Alabama is to the same effect, and is worthy of being widely published. He said, in substance:

In the interest of justice and in the name of common sense a change is needed in the ideas we have about criminal trials. Instead of a procedure in which one side works entirely with the object of finding a defendant guilty and the other side with the object of finding him entirely innocent, both sides disregarding or distorting the facts to suit their opposing purposes, he suggests that everything should be subordinate to the truth, and then let the chips fall where they may.

He pleads for doing away with the absurdities of the average criminal trial, for sweeping away all sham and pretense, and the squelching of technicalities which serve only to defeat the ends of justice. In conclusion Judge Jones declared:

"We are living in an age of the airplane-machine gun killer and robber, and yet we are apparently content to hunt him in an ox-cart with slingshot."

Friend Of The Dark Angel

The average motorist, however modest he may be in other respects, becomes an egomaniac as soon as he takes the wheel of his car.

He believes that traffic regulations should be rigidly enforced—so far as other drivers are concerned—but that he should be an exception to the rule. John Jones should be forced to keep down to twenty or thirty miles an hour—but he, whose abilities are hardly second to those of Sir Malcom Campbell, can be trusted to drive as fast as he pleases.

The accident statistics demonstrate how tragically wrong this average motorist is. Nine out of ten accidents occurring last year were directly the fault of drivers or pedestrians. In only one out of ten was the mechanical condition of the car to blame. And in the overwhelming majority of instances the factor that led to the mishap was excessive speed. The best proof of that lies in the fact that the rate of death per accident on highways—where speeds are naturally higher than on streets—was more than 100 per cent greater than the average for all accidents combined. In city accidents, the rate of death per accident was 52 per cent worse between intersections, where motorists speed up, than at intersections, where the bulk of drivers instinctively slow down.

A heavy foot on the throttle is the best friend the Dark Angel has. At the present time, campaigns are underway in all states and most cities to enforce reasonable traffic regulations. The driver who thinks he can "safely" drive as fast as he wants, wherever he wants, must be taught the error of his ways.

MORAL ECHOES

Not long since I was asked to address a Bible class at another church and as soon as the service was over I hurried back to my own people and my own church. When I was within a block of the church I saw that Sunday school was out and the children and young folks were crowding on the side walk and coming toward me. They bore down upon me and crowded me into the street as they hurried on their way back home. They had been to Sunday school, but cared nothing for the preaching hour. A large per cent of the people who attend Sunday school in the most of our churches, pass church goers on their way home after the Sunday school hour is over. We would not advise any one to miss Sunday school, but if only one service can be attended, the preaching hour is of more importance than the Sunday school. Do not miss the Sunday school. By all means do not miss the preaching hour.

A business man came in from his place of business at night bringing the cash taken in during the day with him. The wife took the money and hid it in a drawer, thinking it to be safe. A thief had located himself in the house and was watching where the money was hid. When all was still in the room and the thief was sure that the occupants of the room were fast asleep he went into the room for the money. He heard some noise and the man of the house discovered the thief. Death waited for the first pistol to fire and the man being quick on trigger, the thief fell dead on the floor. That thief had gone into the house for money, and while the owner of the house protected the rights of his home, the thief lost his life. May I not warn you of other enemies of the home that enter to rob us not of our money, but of our boys and girls. It is high time that some parents awake and see the thieves already in their homes taking their children from under their parental care.

A friend of mine told me that he was disgusted with his fine bird dog. Said he: "That dog of mine will run over the ground with his head in the air like a king and when he smells a bird of any kind he comes down in the most beautiful manner possible. When I make the flush it is just as likely to be a grass hopper or an English sparrow as it is to be a quail." Evidently that was a fine blooded bird dog, but there was no dependence in him. We have seen many an educated man holding up his head like a king and coming down upon butterflies, grass hoppers ad stink birds like they were objects of first value. It is rather disgusting to witness big men who are not dependable.

One of these little pepper mills had been erected by the roadside and as I was passing I stopped to see it saw the logs into lumber. The hands rolled the log on the carriage and the sawyer pushed the leaver and the log moved toward the saw. Before the log started to moving the machinery was revolving like something mad, but the weight of the carriage slowed it down some. When the saw struck the log it slowed down some more. Before the saw was half through the log the engine failed at its task. It puffed and blowed like a bellowsed house. The sawer backed his carriage and plunged it again into the saw, but it was useless. The load was more than he had power. Many a time have I seen folks work for themselves like something mad, but the very moment they were asked to do something for someone else, they would slow down and soon would be exhausted and quit. Many of us have power to rattle things when our labor is for ourselves alone, but we stall in the middle of the log when we are asked to saw wood for somebody else.

By the roadside I saw a tramp as he trudged along. He wore ragged clothes on his back and his person was unsanitary. I looked back for a few years and I could see that man as he moved in better surroundings. I could see him as a young man with a lifted chin and a hopeful outlook, but he was pining under restraint. He craved to be his own boss and one day he left his home and went out to face the world. There was one thing that the young man had not thought about and that was his direction of travel. That leads me to say that the best definition that I have ever found of a tramp is this: "A tramp is a person who has gained his liberty, but lost his direction." To gain liberty and lose our direction means rags and filth.

When Mlle. Helene Zlliere of Paris was taken to a police station a ring she was accused of stealing was found concealed in her mouth.

Mrs. Edith R. Pearce of Chicago was dealt 13 hearts in a bridge game at a charity party.

H. W. Powell of Uffington, Eng., whipped Rev. E. M. Hadow for going shopping with Mrs. Powell, but later admitted his error and paid the minister $100 damages.

Ada Theal, 18, of Nottingham, Eng., stole money to buy a dance dress and was sentenced to go to bed at 10 o'clock every night for three years.

A COLLEGE EXPERIMENT

At little Olivet College in Michigan, with a student body of only 207 at present, an interesting experiment is being tried by Joseph H. Brewer, Jr., its 36-year-old president. It is based on the theory that its students go to college to learn something, and that unless they do really want to learn there is little use in trying to force them to do so.

Attendance at lectures and other sessions for instruction is voluntary. There are no roll calls or penalties for non-attendance. Yet, strange as it may seem, the percentage of attendance is very high. The aim is to make the courses so interesting that students will want to attend because they will miss something valuable if they do not.

The system is based on the thought that self-education is the best, if not the only, education. The instructors provide the plans and guidance, but the students must exert themselves without being driven to accept what the college offers.

The students work largely in research and discussion groups of not more than ten members each. Frequent papers are written by the undergraduates as a basis for discussions and conferences. The instructors confer individually with the students, suggest their reading and subjects for study, and act "as catalytic agents" on the minds of the men, as Dr. Brewer has expressed it.

Forward-looking educators have long realized the futility of much of what passes for education in this increasingly complex civilization of ours. The Olivet experiment is only one of many new approaches to the educatonal problem, and as such it will be observed with much interest.

Music Appreciation Club Banquet

The Music Appreciation Club of Clanton spent a delightful evening Wednesday when they held their annual banquet. This affair took place in the basement of the Baptist church which was attractively decorated for the occasion with royal purple and gold streamers and standards filled with iris delphiniums, and coreopsis.

The club colors were also carried out in the centerpiece of each of the several tables—small bowls of pansies and in the place cars. Here the members and guests were served a most delicious four course dinner by Circle No. 2 of the Baptist church during which a beautiful musical program was rendered.

It was opened by the song "Alabama" sung in unison and followed by a piano duet by Mrs. W. E. Huddleston and Mrs. Percy Pitts; two vocal solos by Miss Frances Gulledge; a vocal solo by Mrs. L. C. LEGION CONVENTION FOLLOWED BY DEEP SEA FISHING RODEO

The two weeks, July 14-27, will be a favorite vacation period in Alabama this year as they will embrace the dates of the Alabama Department convention, American Legion beginning July 14, and. the following week, by the Alabama Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo.

Dr. Francis Marion Inge, general chairman of the Mobile convention committee, returning from a tour of the state from one end to the other, reports that many Legionnaires whom he met on the trip have expressed the determination to attend both the convention and the rodeo.

On their scheduled trip to the gulf, which will be a crowning feature of the Mobile meeting of former service men, the fresh water fishermen from the interior will be given a taste of salt water, and it is expected that many of them will call for more.

Commander Vernol R. Jansen, of the host-post, promises that each registering Legionnaire and member of the Auxiliary will be presented with a piece of literature telling of Mobile's horic and romantic past, a map showing points of present and past interest and badges which will serve as souvenirs of the city and seaport.

An active housing committee is busy, listing rooms for visitors and delegates, with the promise that all will be given the kind of accommodation they desire, according to their means, even though the hotels will be crowded to capacity at that time. Another committee will see that none are overcharged for any necessity or service.

VETERANS BONUS BILL GOES TO PRESIDENT FOR OPINION

Reports Say, However, That President Will Veto Bill; Senate Passed Patman Bill Tuesday Despite Reports

Washington, May 7, — The Senate today, in the face of certain veto passed the Patman bill to pay off the soldier bonus immediately with a $2,200,000,000 issue of "greenbacks."

The bill now goes to the White House. President Roosevelt has let it be known he will veto the measure.

The Senate vote on passage was 55 to 33.

The House passed the inflationary bill by an overwhelming vote earlier in the session.

Administration leaders said they believed the Senate would sustain the veto which President Roosevelt has promised to give the Patman measure.

Both Alabama senators John H. Bankhead and Hugo Black, voted to substitute the Patman bill for the Vinson-American Legion measure.

On a vote to substitute the Vinson bill for the compromise plan, the Vinson measure won by 54 to 30.

Rejection of the compromise offered by Sen. Pat Harrison (D. Miss.) made inevitable a clash between the White House and Congress.

During debate Harrison said that his bill was the only bonus measure which would escape a presidential veto.

Such usual Administration stalwarts as Sen. James F. Barnes (D., S. C.) and Sen. J. Hamilton Lewis (D., Ill.) deserted White House leadership on the vote.

ELDER S.J. SYPE TO GIVE ILLUSTRATED LECTURE HERE

Elder R.J. Sype, who spent nearly fifteen years as a missionary in Central America and the West Indies Islands will give an illustrated lecture at the Seventh-Day Adventist church on next Sunday night, May 12. The lecture will be a thrilling account of his experiences among the natives and several tribes of uncivilized Indians during his sojourn in these countries.

The lecture will be illustrated by stereoptician views of native scenery, taken by him while there. Elder Sype is a splendid talker and he puts plenty of action and realism along with it.

This will be the opening of a two-weeks series of meetings at the church and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Farmers Profit By Appraising Timber

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama farmers will profit by knowing the value of their timber when selling it, reports Lyle Brown, extension forester, who gives the following experiences of two farmers which may be of value to other farmers.

"The first farmer sold a 6 1-2 acre stand of timber. He sold that timber for $260. Too late, he learned from an appraisal by an expert forester that the stand was really work $1,436 at market prices.

"The other farmers," the forester tells about, "was a little more canny in his dealings. He had an offer of $1,500 for his timber. But when he got that offer he called a State forester for an estimate. As a result, he refused the first offer of $1,500 and finally sold his timber for more than $5,000."

President Touches Interesting Points In Recent Radio Talk

NRA Extension, Limiting Of Holding Companies, Banking Included

Definitely linking the $4,000,000,000 work-relief drive with his social security program, President Roosevelt Sunday night outlined to the country six fundamental principles for allocating the huge jobless fund.

These principles, the chief executive said in a radio address, were:

That the projects should be useful;

That a large proportion of the money spent should go into wages;

That a considerable part of the cost should be returned to the federal government;

That the money expended on each project should be actually spent during the next fiscal year;

That the projects should give employment to persons on relief and that the projects should be located in relief areas in relation to the number of workers on relief rolls.

Legislation Aims Given

Simultaneously, the president outlined his legislative program for the remainder of this session of Congress. It called for extension of NRA, elimination of unnecessary utility holding companies, enactment of a new banking bill, and passage of the economic security program which he tied closely to his work-relief plan.

In outlining work-relief objectives the president said his responsibility in carrying out the plan was to all of the people in the country.

"No sectional, no political distinctions can be permitted," he said. "It must, however, be recognized that when an enterprise of this character is extended over more than 3,000 counties throughout the nation, there may be occasional instances of inefficiency, bad management or misuse of funds.

"When cases of this kind occur, there will be those, of course, who will try to tell you that the exceptional failure is characteristic of the entire endeavor.

Imperfections Expected

"It should be remembered that in every big job there are some imperfections. There are chiselers in every walk of life, there are those in every industry who are guilty of unfair practices, every profession has its black sheep, but long experience in government has taught me that the exceptional instances of wrong-doing in government are probably less numerous than in almost every line of endeavor.

"The most effective means of preventing such evils in this work-relief program will be the eternal vigilance of the American people themselves. I call upon my fellow citizens everywhere to cooperate with me in making this the most efficient and the cleanest example of public enterprise the world has ever seen."

"Feel free to criticize. Tell me of instances where work can be done better, or where improper practices prevail. Neither you nor I want criticism conceived in a purely fault-finding or partisan spirit, but I am jealous of the right of every citizen to call the attention of his government examples of how the public money can be more effectively spent for tre benefit of the American people.

Health Officer Urges Typhoid Immunization

As several cases of typhoid have been reported in different sections of the county, the local health office is conducting an extensive immunization drive against the spread of this disease. Clinics have been established in almost every community throughout the county and scores are taking the shots to prevent the contraction of typhoid.

Dr. H. C. Nickson, county health officer. stated that three deaths have resulted from the disease in the county, and he is urging every family, especially those in the rural sections, to take every precaution against contracting it. Everyone should take shots, he said, and in the rural sections, where there is any reason to suspect that wells may be infected, a test of the water should be made.

Both typhoid and toxoid shots are being given at clinics at Maplesville, Mt. Creek, Alabama Mills, Health Office, Verbena route 2, and other points in the county.

Brown Tells How To Kill Bean Beetles

Auburn, Ala.—Bean beetles are numerous in Alabama and are likely to destroy an entire crop of beans unless farmers control the pests. "To control these insects it is necessary to spray or dust with some kind of stomach poison," says Julian Brown, extension horticulturist. "Derris has been found most satisfactory and it will control them if properly appied. Dusting appears more satisfactory than spraying.

"The Derris, with 4 per cent Rotenone content, should be mixed with superfine dusting sulphur in the proportion of 1 part of Derris to 7 parts of sulphur. Some distributors are handling the Derris ready-mixed.

"To control the Mexican bean beetle it is necessary that the dust be applied to the underside of the leaves. The bean leaf beetle may be controlled by applying the dust to either side of the leaves. It should be applied while there is moisture on the leaves to aid the material in sticking. It is usually necessary to dust every ten days to two weeks during the life of the plants. the frequency of application depending on the amount of rainfall."

Geo. M. Cleary of Matoon. Ill., age sixty-six, gave a great yawn and fractured his jaw.

How Important Is Alabama's Health?

J. N. Baker, M. D., State Health Of.

How important is Alabama's health Disraeli, England's far-seeing Prime Minister of more than a century ago, once uttered, "The public health is the foundation stone upon which repo the strength of a nation and the happiness of its people."

What story do you feel these figures tell for Alabama's health?

In 1917 typhoid fever killed in Alabama 989 people; in 1934 it killed 1[illegible]1 people.

In 1917 tuberculosis killed 2914; in 1934 it killed 1734.

In 1917 pellagra killed 1073; in 1934 it killed 303.

In 1917 malaria killed 530; in 1934 it killed 303.

From the very beginning of health work in 1875, the succeeding legislatures of this state have shown commendable statesmanship in making liberal provisions, within the state's capacity, for the growth and development of this necessary actividous shrink... of the state's revenues, and being forced to curtail all departmental activities, cut the appropriations for health by 42 per cent. This reduction, at this time, was imperative and the health department's budget was revamped accordingly. However, so great was the falling off of revenues that for the fiscal year 1933-34, only $287,000 of this appropriation actually became available, which circumstnce forced the total suspension of many important health activities. During the present fiscal year 1934-35, the state's revenues have improved to an extent that the Governor is hopeful that each department will receive for the remainder of the year its full quota of present appropriation.

Despite this encouraging showing, on Tuesday, the recess Committee on Finance and Taxation, in House Bill 249, submitted to the House its recommendations for appropriations to the several departments of state for the next quadrennium. A perusal of this reveals that the appropriation for health work, including the state subsidy to the counties for their local health work, has been further reduced by $125,000 annually, leaving but $275,000. This represents a cut of 60 per cent from the 1932 appropriation for health work in this state; an amount totally and utterly inadequate.

Is this what the entire membership of this legislature wants and does it reflect the wishes of our people?

After being fined $25 for disorderly conduct, Mrs. Clara Steinman of Chicago bawled out the judge who then raised the fine to $50.

COOSA JUDGE RECOGNIZED AS YOUNGEST IN THE ENTIRE STATE

JUDGE WINSTON STEWART

Has A Progressive And Worthwhile Progr'm For His County

Editor's Note—The following article appeared in The Birmingham News-Age-Herald in the issue of Sunday, April 28, 1935:

ROCKFORD, ALA. — Alabama's youngest probate judge, Winston Stewart, 32, promises to bring to Coosa County one of the most business-like administrations its people have ever known. Thirteen years spent in successfully operating the county seat's only bank taught him many things about the people of his county. Their needs, their desires, their shortcomings, and their virtues are all familiar to this young man upon whose shoulders rests the job of directing the couty's governmental and business affairs

Coosa County has one of the smallest populations of any county in the state and is one of the poorest—but nevertheless, the program for the next six years will be one of progressiveness. if Judge Stewart is able to carry through his plans.

He was one of the first probate judges in the state to grasp the opportunity offered by the federal government through the Alabama Relief Administration for better terracing of the farmlands. His county is an agricultural county, and being one of the most mountainous in Alabama, much of its fertility has already found its way into the Coosa River, but the farmers of this county are now being aided in terracing their farms to prevent further erosion.

During his administration, he hopes to build a new almshouse at a cost of between $5,000 and $7,500; improve the roads of the county; place the county on a business basis, setting up a plan for competitive bidding on all purchases; secure a health unit for the county, and lend every aid possible for the betterment of the schools of Coosa

Judge Stewart removed to Rockford 13 years ago and began his business career as cashier of the Bank of Rockford. His management of this bank brought him to the attention of the public and last year when he made the race for probate judge he lacked only a few votes being victorious over two opponents. He is one of 10 children of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Stewart, of Sylacauga, and is a graduate of the Fourth District Agricultural School.

State Auto Tag Price Cut 20 Per Cent; 40 In 1936

Montgomery, Ala.—Alabama automobile owners will receive a reduction of only 20 per cent in the price of their license tags this year, but a 40 per cent slash will become effective in 1936.

This was the program agreed on April 26 by Governor Graves and a group of legislative recess committeemen at a conference in the executive office.

It was decided that a reduction of more than 20 per cent this year is impossible due to the fact that Alabama must put up $2,600,000 to match Federal highway funds.

The administration measure to be introduced in the legislature next week will make the 20 per cent reduction effective October 1, 1935, and order the 40 per cent slash effective one year later.

Legislators attending the conference included Sen. W. O. Walton of Chambers, and Representatives John C. Coleman of Marshall and J. R. Wallace of Clarke.

The 20 per cent reduction will decrease revenues of the Highway Department approximately $400,000 a year.

Alabama Hens Need More Yellow Corn

Auburn, Ala.—By properly caring for the hens which supply the egg and chicken meat needs of the state, Alabama farmers can create a market for 4,000,000 bushels of yellow corn each year.

"Roughly speaking," says John E. Ivey, newly appointed extension poultry specialist, "it will require one bushel of corn for each hen per year."

Prosperity Letters Sweep The Country

This section is being flooded with the "Give A Dime" prosperity letters, in which the receiver is urged to send a copy of the letter to five other persons and a dime to the name that heads a list of six persons given at the top of the letter. In return, if everyone who receives your particular chain follows instructions, you are to receive 15,625 dimes.

The movement is said to have originated in the West and has swept the country like forest fires. It was necessary to add 100 extra mail clerks in the Denver, Colo., post office to take care of the deluge of mail resulting from these chain letters.

People of Clanton began receiving the first ones less than a week ago, and now practically half of the people in town have had prosperity wished off on them.

What can be more appropriate on Mothers Day than a cash offering "in memory of mother for motherless children?" There are 171 children in the Baptist Home who are deprived of mother's love and care. They are the wards of the Baptists of Alabama and are supported by free will offerings from the churches and Sunday schools of the state. This day has been set apart officially by the Baptists of Alabama for a cash contribution. It is expected that they will respond liberally.

The goal is $5,000.00.

RURAL HOMES ARE URGED TO INVESTIGATE ELECTRICITY USE

Communities May Get Power Lines And Low Electricity Rate Through New Set-Up In Alabama By The Government

Montgomery, Ala., May 9.—In a statement released today, Gordon Persons, chairman of the State Rural Electrification Authority, outlined the policies of the Authority and explained the correct procedure to be followed in applying for the construction of power lines.

"The corporate purpose of the REA," Mr. Persons declared, "is to encourage and promote the fullest possible use of electricity by all inhabitants of the state to whom electricity is now available.

The REA is an independent corporation, financed by the Federal Government, non-profit making and wholly selfsupporting. Its plan is to furnish the funds for constructig or extending electric power lines to sections of Alabama which do not have such facilities, or in which the cost of such service is prohibitive.

Any community interested in having power lines built should mark clearly the location and length of the proposed project on a map of the county in which it is situated. All persons anxious to obtain electric facilities should be listed, provided they "can and will pay their monthly bills," Mr. Persons said.

In order to make a project economically feasible, the State chairman added, it should have an average of four consumers per mile or the equivalent thereof. A dairy however, might use as much current as four private consumers, and the presence of such a consumer on the line would meet the necessary requirements if the number of customers was not sufficient in itself.

Mr. Persons stressed the need of promptness in making application to the State Rural Electrification Authority at Montgomery. An applicaton does not oblgate prospective consumers to afford themselves of the service but merely is a statement that the applicant is at least interested and a request for additional information.

Upon the receipt of an application, REA engineers will inspect the project and report upon its soundness to the State REA office at Montgomery. Then an estimate of costs will be compiled and each consumer notified as to what his share will be. If these consumers still want to go ahead with the work, the plans for the project will be submitted to Washington for examination.

Upon approval there, the project will be undertaken, financed by the REA. A mortization of the principal required for initial construction, and interest, will be spread over a long period, so that no customer's pro rata share will be excessive, Chairman Persons declared.

MONTHLY SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION HELD MAY 5TH

The monthly Sunday school convention was held at Mulberry May 5. A nice crowd was present but not as many as should be.

These meetings are very constructive, and helpful to the Sunday schools.

The place for the next meeting, that will be held the first Sunday in June, is not yet planned but watch the papers, and be sure to represent your Sunday school and get the good advice and suggestions as how to build the schools.

The program for the afternoon was as follows:

Song.
Prayer.
Devotional, by G.L. Lecroy.
"Sunday School Attendance," by Prof. Luther E. Little.
"How to Secure Interest in Studying the Sunday School Lesson," by the Rev. W. E. Robinson.

After these were discussed some good talks were made by Mr. G. L. Lecroy, Mr. Oscar Davenport, Mr. H. R. Oden. All were fine talks and were greatly enjoyed by all.

All churches were not represented, and some churches have not attended any of the conventions ad we urge that you attend the next one. The churches that were represented are Liberty Hill, Mulberry, Friendship, Cane Creek.

Be sure and represent your Sunday school at the next meeting. Watch the paper for the place of the meeting.

Farmers Advised To Swat Roosters

This is the time of the year to remove the roosters from poultry flocks, advises John E, Ivey, extension poultry specialist, who is at present telling farmers to kill their sorry roosters and remove the good ones from the flock and place them on a range to themselves. By eliminating roosters from the flock, farmers will be able to produce infertile eggs which will keep longer during the summer months.

NON-PARTISAN SURVEY SHOWS WIDESPREAD PRAISE OF AAA

"Bouquets definitely outnumbered brickbats," reads the introduction to a United Press copyright report summarizing a survey taken by that newsgathering organization at the outset of the third farming season under the New Deal. Of 16 general farming regions covered, 11 were described as being overwhelmingly favorable to the agricultural policies in effect. Five were critical in varying degrees. The AAA was decidedly popular with merchants in all cities in the farm belts. while town merchants were universally enthusiastic. In addition to greatly increased sales due to higher prices received by farmers for their products, many merchants reported substantial payments being made on old accounts. "Unbounded enthusiasm" was expressed in the corn, cotton and tobacco sections. "Extremely popular," "a lot better than expected" and "no evidence of real dissatisfaction" were typical responses from farms and towns merchants from the Canadian to the Mexican borders.

It Makes A Difference

The question as to why our young boys and girls are so unruly at school, church, picture shows and other public assemblies, has often presented itself to us. If one liked to find the reason for such he has only to come to Clanton and hide out down in 'Bear-Mash' one Sunday afternoon. It happened that we were loitering around in that section a Sunday afternoon passed and what did we see? It is a sin and a shame for people, in a civilized world and up-to-date town like Clanton, to act so niggardly uncivilized. The little boys, big boys, little girls, big girls, drunk folks and old folks—all in one house, fussing, cursing, drinking and what else could they do?

Finally the officer came and quited things down. Listen folks, we have got to put a stop to this. We can't have a good community tomorrow if we don't prepare today.

Isabella Man Found Dead In Yard Mon.

Funeral services for Jim Frith, 67 who was found dead in the yard of his daughter Mrs. Stanley Cooper, near Isabella, early Monday morning, were held Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock from the Pleasant Grove church, with the Reverend Johnson officiating. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge.

It is believed that some time during Sunday night that Mr. Frith walked out onto the porch and suffered a heart attack, falling into the yard. When breakfast was ready about 6 o'clock, Mrs. Cooper went into her father's room to awake him and failing to find him there, a search of the premises was begun; his body was found where he apparently had fallen from the porch.

Corner J. Mell Martin was called to make an investigation and his verdict was that the man had died from heart attack and had evidently been dead for several hours when discovered .

He is survived by his widow, four sons, and four daughters.

Byrd Pays Tribute To "Man Who Put Us Across"

"Doc" Kinkaid, whose mechanical genius enabled Lindbergh, Chamberlain, Byrd, Ruth Elder and others to successfully fly the Atlantic has joined forces with Capt. Al. Williams, world-famous speed pilot, as Lubricating Engineer of the Gulf Refining Company's Aviation Sales Department. Williams is the Department Manager.

Admiral Richard E. Byrd paying tribute to "Doc" (T. Harold) Kinkaid as one of the greatest masters of airplane motors, recently wrote:

"The real men behind all the great progress in Aviation—the men who make the motors run sweetly hour after hour under all kinds of flying conditions—have never received their just due.

"Had 'Doc' Kinkaid not been absolutely right when he put the final touch on our motors for Polar and Trans-Atlantic flights and calmly said, 'They'll Do,' Lingbergh, Chamberlain, Miss Elder and I might now be dead."

Since 1909 when development of airplane motors first started in this country, Kinkaid has been engaged in building, testing and motor research work. As a member of the Contest Committee National Aeronautical Association, he has attended every air race of importance in the United States.

It is to "Doc" Kinkaid that most racing pilots look for the final touch of perfection in the performance of their motors, just before the races Pilots credit him with having sped them on their way to 97 per cent of all money places in the National Air Races.

With headquarters in the Gulf Building, Pittsburgh, Kinkaid will visit airports and airplane plants ironing out motor problems for pilots and manufacturers and making lubrication recommendations.

DUN & BRADSTREET ANNONUCE OPTIMISTIC BUSINESS ESTIM'ES

"Evidences are multiplying that before the conclusion of the current quarter business progress will have developed to a degree beyond the most sanguine estimates offered at the beginning o fthe year," according to the last weekly survey issued by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. "Sentiment has shown a complete transformation.

"The most recent reports were more decisive than at any time this year regarding a more even tempo of progress from now on. Despite inclement weather conditions, consumer demand was sufficient to carry retail distribution to a larger total, wholesale buying was very active and impressive improvement was shown in the industrial situation. Retail sales for the country as a whole showed gains of 7 to 30 per cent. Largest gains were reported in the industrial centers of the Middle West, despite the worst dust storms of the year.

"As retail volume in many districts has exceeded earlier expectations by such a wide margin, wholesalers were rushed with orders during the past week and were not prepared to make prompt shipments in many cases. Industries in most parts of the country now are advancing at the most orderly pace in the last two months."

CCC CAMP

every section of the county.

Colonel Mickey, Lieutenant Walker, and Lieutenant Young, all of Fort McClellan, and O. C. Metlock, soil erosion expert, of Dadeville, spent last Saturday in Clanton making arrangements for the location of a CCC camp here. A conference with city and county officials was held at the office of Probate Judge J. Lee Smith Saturday afternoon, and a tentative agreement was reached The completion of final details of a contract, leasing a site for the camp, was made Monday, when Mr. Mullins signed the contract with county and city officials.

For sometime, several of the county's leading business and professional men have been interested in securing the location of one of these camps in this county; the visit of the Fort McClellan officers was a culmination of invitations extended by local officials and other interested citizens.

County Agent J. W. Fant, who is intensely interested because of the value of the program to the farmers of Chilton County, stated Tuesday morning that he had been informed by Mr. Metlock that in all probability the camp will be in full swing by the first of July. As soon as the final O. K. is given by government officials in charge of the location of Civilian Conservation Camps, the work of erecting barracks and detailing men will begin, it is understood.

Barracks to house the 250 boys and their superiors will be erected at a minimum cost of $10,000, according to figures given a representative of the News. and the program of protecting farmlands from erosion and reclaiming lands that are practically worthless now will extend into every section of the county.

The contract for the lease of the site was made on a one-year basis, with provision for re-leasing if desirable.

Mr. Fant declared that in his opinion this program will be invaluable to Chilton County farmers, and will be of great advantage in assuring the greatest possible benefit from the terracing program that is now being conducted throughout the county. Although this program is not supervised in any way by the extension service at Auburn, Mr. Fant believes that a very desirable spirit of cooperation will exist and thus the possibilities will be greatly enhanced.

Besides the advantage in reclaiming and improving farmlands, the camp will mean much to this section in a business way. Mr. Metlock estimated that at least between $3,000 and $5,000 monthly will be spent here for food and clothing necessities that does not come within the scope of supplies furnished by the government.

Farmers should be able to sell an abundance of fresh vegetables and other farm products to the camp, and merchants, cafes, drug stores, and places of amusement should also reap much benefit from the camp being located in this locality.

ANTI-RABIES

have been killed and reported throughout the county, those being treated were all exposed to the disease by two dogs, according to Dr. C. O. Lawrence, Clanton physician, who is administering the treatment.

County Health Officer H. C. Nickson and other physicians are urging the vaccination of all dogs in the county against rabies as a protection to both people and the dogs. Rarely does a dog that has been vaccinated ever become rabid, they claim, and this protection is invaluable to those who might come in contact with the dog. Once the disease is contracted, there is absolutely no cure for it.

The people of this county have had a morbid fear of the disease since a Verbena resident, Robert Lee Williams, was a victim about a year ago, and near thirty others were exposed at the same time.

Dr. W. L. Parrish, veterinarian, who has been actively interested in the immunization of dogs in this section against rabies, declares that he has never known of but one dog that became rabid after being treated against the malady. It is practically a sure preventative, he said. Dr. Parrish will immunize dogs for fifty cents each, it is understood.

proposed route from Nashville to Tampa, Fla., and airmen throughout the state are of the opinion that in the not far off future, this will be one of the most strategic points, from an air vantage point, in Alabama.

Dr. Gragg has been one of the leading inspirations for the location of a landing field in this county, and worked untiringly to convince unenthusiastical officials of its future advantage in the development of this section. In view of his service in this capacity, many of his friends are urging that the field be named Gragg Field, in his honor. However, this suggestion has never been made officially.

For landing purposes, this 60-acre field is said to be one of the best of its size in this section of the country, but, as was pointed out by Dr. Gragg in his talk before the commissiosers, there is urgent need for other improvements, such as hangars, lights and other flying facilities.

BIRMINGHAM CITIZENS ARE ENTERTAINED

Give Vote Of Thanks For Good Time Shown By Clanton Citizens

Arriving in Clanton last Thursday afternoon late, twenty-three of Birmingham's most prominent business men and members of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, enjoyed the hospitality of Clanton business men to the utmost.

Through an invitation extended through the Kiwanis Club of Clanton, business men of the town asked the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce to be their guests last Thursday night at a banquet. The Birmingham Chamber of Commerce recently invited the Clanton Kiwanis Club to the Magic City to take part in a radio salute to Clanton and following the salute, entertained the Clanton delegation royally at the Bankhead Hotel.

Clanton was the first town in the state among the large number saluted by Birmingham, to reciprocate and extend Birmingham an invitation to "come to see us sometimes."

Several of the visiting Birmingham business men were treated to a trip to Mitchell Dam where John Hollis, superintendent of the dam, with Mrs. Hollis showed the visitors around the beauty spots of the place. A trip over Clanton was also given the visitors.

The gathering composed of the Birmingham visitors and business men of Clanton, met at the Exchange Hotel later on in the evening and sat down to long banquet tables laden with a delicious supper.

Dr. V. J. Gragg of the Clanton Kiwanis Club presided and was aided in carrying out the program by Dr. C. O. Lawrence. Several songs were sung by the hundred-odd present, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Percy M. Pitts.

The welcome to the Birmingham visitors was given by Hon. C. Fenn Jones, mayor, who, in a few well chosen words made the visitors feel right at home. Percy Pitts gave one of his interesting and humorous readings.

Following this, the program was then placed in charge of the Birmingham delegation with L. E. Foster, general manager of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce as chairman. Mr. Foster, in a most unique and entertaining manner called on several of his home business men who kept the meeting going at full tilt with humorous remarks.

The entire theme during the talks apparently expressed the pleasure of the Birmingham group at having been invited to Clanton, for the good time shown them.

Those composing the delegation from the Magic City, were: Harry L. White, of Odom, Bowers & White Dept. Store; William J. Christian, Norton Simpson of Loveman, Joseph & Loeb; Ed. W. Donahue of General Outdoor Adv. Co.; N. G. Bradford of Gulf

18-Year-Old Boy Held On Burglar Charge

Nunley Blackman, 18-year-old farm hand of the Pleasant Grove community is being held in jail here on charges of attempted burglary of the W. F. Culp Store, near his home, early Sunday.

According to Sheriff J. H. Hardy who placed the youth under arrest, Mr. Culp surprised th youth in the act of looting the store and held him captive until officers could reach the scene and take him into custody.

As he walked up to his store early Sunday morning, Culp saw a man evidently attempt to signal to someone and then tempt to signal to someone and then run away. A closer investigation revealed Blackman inside the store. The storekeeper was unable to identify the man who ran, and the youth told officers that he did not know him, but said that they had been drinking together and were in together on the attempted burglary.

Entrance was gained by a side window, officers said.

BLACK WIDOW SPIDERS GIVE SCARE HERE

Poisionous Insects Are Being Found In All Sections Of The County

Along with the mad dog scare that has prevailed in this vicinity recently, there has come another more dreaded enemy—the black widow spider.

Two local persons have been bitten by this poisonous insect within the past week, and many others have reported finding the black widow in this locality.

Frank Calloway, Jr., Clanton route one, is the latest victim. He was bitten last Thursday afternoon while planting cotton seed and suffered agonizing pains for several hours. Dr. V. J. Gragg, Clanton physician, treated him.

J. P. Spain, employe on the new city hall here, was bitten several days ago by one of these spiders that had hidden itself in a pile of brick. He was taken to the Central Alabama Hospital for treatment, and is able to be at work again.

Several others have reported seeing this species of the spider family in this section. This writer had the unpleasant sensation of discovering one sitting on his coat collar a few days ago.

Physicians are warning people to exercise extreme caution when removing old boards, rocks, or other debris the black widow is likely to habit.

The insect derives its name from the fact that the famale of the species, after mating, kills and eats the male. It is said to be equally as poisonous as a rattlesnake.

The black widow spider, sometimes called red dot, is easily recognized by her shiny black back and the red spot on her underside—one or more above the spinnerets at the tip of the abdomen, and an hour-glass shaped one farther up. She weaves a loose and irregular web with coarse strands, in which she lays her eggs—300 to 400 at a time in a dense, whitish ball the size of a large pea.

The spider's stout jaws, working sidewise may nip any moving object. Venom, injected from glands near the base of the jaws through a needle-like tooth, causes a stinging sensation, followed by pain which progresses from the spot bitten until it reaches the chest or abdominal region. It has a retarding effect on the heart. First aid is the same as for a snake bite—make the wound bleed freely by enlarging it and then apply suction. A few—but only a few—authentic cases of death to human beings from black widow spider bites are on record in this county.

AMOUNT SPENT TO RUN INTO HUGE FIGURE

Absorbs All Available Laborers For Work On Buildings

WILL CONTINUE FOR SEVERAL MONTHS

Without doubt Clanton is enjoying the greatest building boom in its history of more than a half-century, if one is to accept the comparisons made by old-timers who have eagerly watched each step of the Chilton County metropolis' progress, as it has gradually marched from a mere hamlet into one of the most enterprising little cities in Alabama.

Conservative estimates by those who have attempted to guage the amount of building, repairing, and other kindred work that has been done within the past year or fifteen months, and that whch is contemplated for the next twelve months, place the figure approximately one-quarter million dollars.

Remembering the plight that faced its population—and the population of the entire country—two years ago, $250,000 spent for the erection and renovation of buildings is no mean figure. One of the interesting features of this program is that so much of it is being done by private home-owners—and oftentimes, it is learned that these houses are being repaired, or built, to rent.

Think of that in terms of two or

BURNS FATAL TO TWO YEAR OLD TOT HERE

The child was badly scalded near night Saturday, when she fell into a tub of boiling water. She was taken to the hospital, but attendants said there was no chance for recovery. So severe were the burns, that great portions of the skin peeled away.

The baby's mother had heated the water to do some mopping, and the child, who was playing in the room, is said to have tripped when attempting to open a screen door and fell backward into the tub.

Besides her parents, the child is survived by several brothers and sisters, all of Clanton.

A Fair Break For All

Throughout the country groups of consumers are rising in protest against high prices, notably those charged for milk, meat and other agricultural products.

In many cases, these protests are doubtless justified—but there is danger that a misunderstanding of actual conditions may cause people to become inimical toward the farmer's desire to obtain a fair selling price for his goods. That desire is the underlying principle in the work of all our great agricultural cooperatives.

High prices charged at retail don't necessarily mean that the actual producer gets even profitable prices. Giving the farmer fair prices don't mean that the consumer is going to be stung. In case of most commodities, the final selling price is many times the price paid at the farm. The rest of the cost represents profits and charges occurring along the distribution line.

Many authorities believe that distributors and other middlemen get too much of the selling cost of products—while the farmer gets too little. The purpose of the co-ops is to equalize this —to see that everyone gets a fair deal and that none make an excessive profit. Once that is achieved, farmers will make money—and the consumer will get stable, quality products for a fair and reasonable price. That is in the interest of the entire nation, which in normal times, is largely dependent on farm purchasing power for the money that keeps factories going, provides jobs in our cities, and maintains pay rolls.

The Fire Season Is Never Closed

Every season brings its own fire hazards. In winter, heating equipment is apt to be the worst offender. And while the hazards of spring and summer are less than those of the colder months, they should be conscientiously guarded against.

Grass fires cause much unnecessary waste each year. Property owners possessing unused fields have a habit of putting off until tomorrow the scythe-work that should be done today—and conflagration is often the result. It will be remembered that the great Berkeley, California, fire of a few years ago began in a field of uncut, dry grass.

Most communities have ordinances designed to force property owners to keep grass cut. Unfortunately, these ordinances are often unenforced or half-heartedly enforced—and when that is the case, the town itself becomes as great an offender against the public safety as the careless property owner. Every community should have adequate laws to cover this hazard—and enforce them.

Still another important dry-weather hazard has to do with forest land. Each year millions of acres of timber are destroyed, because of the carelessness or ignorance of campers and others. Every person when in wooded country should remember that living timber will burn, and once it is dry enough, can literally explode at the touch of flame.

No season of the year is free from the fire menace. Carelessness in regard to fire is always hazardous. Keep your wits about you and your eyes open for the common dangers that pave the way for conflagrations.

Catching A Man Cussing

A better game than sending dimes with chain letters should be this: Let any man bet his friend a dime that every time he tells a story or expresses his Inner Self while standing on a sidewalk, some woman will be standing within earshot of him—always behind him—and will overhear his pronunciation of all those nouns and verbs and expletives so dear to some men when they are relaxed and letting off steam among their peers.

If a certain type of gentleman cannot get off to one side and cuss a little and maybe tell some raw stories, he would soon find life on this earth intolerable.

To stand on a sidewalk and cuss and talk big, unfortunately, seems to be regarded by some five or six gentlemen we know as their immemorial privilege.

We are not pleading their cause—we are too cowardly to do that—but it is interesting to note how they feel about the problem of freedom of expression.

They are on their good manners at home always under restraint, because they are afraid to cut loose.

When they walk down the street and encounter a congenital spirit of he-sex, they stop, thumb their suspenders, puff their burning tobacco, tell one and guffaw egregiously.

Then they get serious about politics and mankind. Their running comment is spiced —whenever these five or six men that we know are doing the talking. They rest their weight first on one leg and then on another. They spit on the sidewalk. Then follows perfect communion of spirit. Presently the twain are having a good time. They are at ease, they are letting themselves go. They are free of women at last.

"Well," says one, "I've enjoyed the talk—always like to see you. I'll be getting along—"

As he turns to go he looks around and discovers to his chagrin that a woman—in almost every instance a woman well above 45 years of age, and sometimes nearly 70—has been within six feet of him all the time. She was waiting for a trolley car or an automobile to pick her up, or maybe she was sitting in a parked car by the curbstone all the time. She must have heard everything that he and his attentive friend said.

What does she think of him now? That is when an inflated man becomes deflated. That is when he crawls into a hole and draws the shade, feeling nearly as cheap as he really is. That is when he says to himself, "Believe I'll join the church and forsake sinful ways. Think I'll be comfortable hereafter."—The Montgomery Advertiser.

How About The Tax Bill?

One of the major political sports of the time is to attack the rates charged for domestic electric service. The politicans constantly observe that existing rate structures impose a tremendous burden on the American people, and help keep them relegated to a sad state of economic darkness.

It would be interesting to see a citizen who is kept in want and poverty because of the cost of electricity, which amounts, on the average, to a little more than ten cents a day per family. That average citizen pays more for tobacco than he does for power. He pays more for soft drinks, to say nothing of more potent beverages. He pays more for movie shows and magazines.

Last year the country's residential electric bill came to $677,000,000. The nation's tax bill totaled $9,500,000,000—over fourteen times the electric bill. Which of those bills is the more important—and which is given the most attention by public officials?

A four per cent reduction in taxes would mena more to American pocketbooks than a 50 per cent reduction in the cost of domestic power. There's a fact that the people would do well to bring to the attention of their elected representatives. The same officials who are shouting about power bills of three or four dollars a month per family, are burdening those families with new taxes amounting to many times as much—and we are letting them get by with it.

Professional reformers profess to do us good, but fail to add "and plenty.".

Uncle Sam is a "good neighbor," all right—never expecting his neighbors to pay back what they have borrowed.

It might be disconcerting to some radio speakers if they could see how many dials are turned when they begin.

An inquiring reporter asks: "What kind of a husband does a wife miss most?" Well, the little fellows are harder targets to hit.

The law requires food and drug manufacturers to correctly label their products, but doesn't require the consumer to read the labels.

D. W. Haskew

Recently I passed a country church in a downpour of rain and I saw a sight that set the wheels of my brain to turning. The goats from far and near had assembled under that church to get out of the weather. There were old goats and young. There were big goats and little goats. The door of the church being closed the goats made use of it in the next best way. They assembled under it. I saw no sheep around that church. If they were there they were on the inside. With that picture before your mind what do you see? Doubtless you are thinking of human beings who are spoken of as "goats" by the one who is the great head of the church. Men and women come from far and near and join the church just for the protection that it can give to them in stormy weather, but like the goats they do not enter the real church. The fold of God is only open to those who are His sheep.

It was a beautiful afternoon and I was making the rounds to visit my people. I went from house to house and knocked upon door after door During the afternoon I did much knocking but little visiting. My people were making use of the sunshine to enjoy the glory of nature. Just before sundown I returned to the parsonage with my knuckles bruised and aching. I had knocked much and done little. Open your eyes and you can see the Man of Galilee as he goes the rounds in this beautiful world. Christ is knocking on the door of human hearts, but rarely ever does he find a welcome to enter. He knocks upon the door but the one who lives within is out enjoying this beautiful world and the door is never opened. With a grieved heart and aching spirit the Master comes back home and informs his Father that the people of earth will not let him in.

I had a friend who sold drugs and one day he was showing me his supplies. He had medicines of all kinds. Picking up a bottle he remarked, "This medicine is fine for producing health if it is correctly taken, but it will kill in a few moments time if the patient takes an overdose." A small dose of that medicine would produce health but a large dose was very dangerous. In like manner speed is a medicine that is safe when it is correctly taken. but an overdose is taken it becomes dangerous indeed. Not many people die from taking the highway at twenty miles per hour, but when they overdose with eighty miles per hour not many escape. We need to learn that speed is a dangerous medicne when taken in large doses.

I went to see a sick woman and found that she was very ill. She had five little children, but they were forbidden to enter her room. While I was standing in the room her husband tip-toed to her bedside and bending down over her he asked, "DaDrling. is there anything that I can do for you?" The sick woman placed her hand on his shoulder and said, "Are all the children in " This good woman was looking over into the promised land, but her thoughts were still of and for her children. She wanted to know if they were in. Let me ask of you mothers; Are all of your children in? Whether sick or well, no mother should feel contented until she is sure that all of her children are in the kingdom of God.

Little Maxine was going away to spend the day with a playmate and she was followed to the door by her mother. There her mother stooped and planted a kiss upon her cheek. Then she asked of her little one, "Will you be a good little girl today?" With a smile I heard her reply, "Mother, I will try." I am sure that Maxine did her best that day to be a good little girl. Those of us who are older than that little girl are going out day by day. We are not going out to play, but we are going out to meet the responsibilities and the temptations of the business world. There is one who loves us and he is greatly concerned as to our way and manner of living. He is saying to us, "Will you not be a good man, a good woman today?" How many of us answer Him, "Lord, I will try." As Maxine thought of her mother and of her promise all during that day of play, so we should think of Christ and of our obligation to Him. Lord, I will try to be good today.

ORIGIN OF ICE CREAM

Attempts to trace the origin of ic cream have been generally inconclusive, the invention or discovery of this popu lar dish being attributed to various na tions and periods. But ice cream, o something closely akin to it, has been traced as far back as the middle of the sixteenth 'century, when it was introduced into France, from Italy.

By 1630, it is said, an eterprising Sicilian had established the Cafe Pro cope in Paris where ice cream wa the special delicacy. It became known in England and Germany much later, and was probably not introduced into irito America until about the time of the Revolution.

The first advertisement of ice cream appeared in New York on June 8, 178 but it was not served in Washington until nearly a half century later, whe Mrs. Alexander Hamilton used it a a dessert at a dinner given for Presi dent Jackson. The wholesale ice crea business was originated by Jacob Fu sell of Baltimore in 1851, and met im mediate success.

In recent years the use of ice crea has been increasing with amazing rapidity, until its production has al most reached the proportions of a ma jor industry, being nearly 350 millio gallons annually.

The increased consumption of ic cream is entirely desirable, as it is no only an aid to the dairy industry, bu also is in the interest of better nu trition and consequently of good healt

Supplemental Pastures Add To Farming Profit

A good pasture is one of the simplest ways of making money on the farm. Many farmers have gone a step farther, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, and added to their profits with supplemental pastures which lengthens the grazing season at both ends and bolsters it in the middle.

They have planted Sudan grass, sweet clover, lespedeza, soybeans, cowpeas, and the small grains. The winter grains provide good grazing in the early spring. The Sudan grass and the legumes are available at any time during the summer when permanent pastures need a rest. All may be used for hay if not needed for pasture.

While adding to their profits with supplemental pastures, these farmers are taking the first step in "back to grass." More than 25,000,000 acres which have been producing corn, cotton, wheat, and tobacco will be available this year for soil building, erosion-preventing and weed-controlling hay and pasture crops. The acreage of supplemental pastures need be only one-fourth to one-third the acreage of permanent pasture because of their greater carrying capacity for short periods.

Permanent pastures are at their best for a month or more in the early summer. After that the grass decreases in quantity and quality, particularly n dry years. Temporary pastures of Sudan grass or legumes usually are at their best in late summer.

A CALF AND A CROP

Have the Same Idea on the Food Question

● Why is a growing calf like a growing crop?

Answer: Because the food requirements of each are so much the same.

Scientists are making this point clearer every day through their research into the importance of vitamins in animal diet and the need of impurities in the food of plants.

These vital impurities are the all-important thing in fertilizing today. They are the rarer elements—boron, iodine, magnesium, potassium, calcium, lithium, strontium and many others. With them your crops produce as Nature intended them to.

Chilean Natural Nitrate contains these rarer elements in Nature's own balance and proportion. Chilean's quick-acting nitrogen, plus its vital impurities, make it the safe, sure fertilizer for your crops.

See your dealer for Chilean Natural Nitrate. Two kinds—Champion (granulated), Old Style (crystals). They are both genuine. Both are natural. And both give your crops the vital impurities.

Chilean Natural Nitrate—the only nitrogen that comes from the ground—the ideal side dresser for your crops.

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'do-less.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." . . . If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician.

At chapel Wednesday morning Mr. Walter Peterson gave an interesting talk about Tri-State College, Indiana, of which he is a graduate. It is one of the best engineering colleges in the country.

Friday night in the auditorium the alumni gave a play entitled "There Goes The Bride." It was very much enjoyed.

Monday night Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson entertained very pleasantly the faculty and the Rev. and Mrs. Lawrence Stanley at a lawn party which centered around the rock-garden and fish pool. Delicious refreshments were served.

Last Thursday afternoon the Freshman class had a picnic at Lovers Lane Miss McKee, the class teacher, and Miss Ford and Miss Davison accompanied the class.

Monday morning at chapel the Senior class gave an interesting account of their trip to Tuskegee. While there they heard Dr. Carver, the noted negro scientist, speak about his work, particularly the use of peanut oil. There will be special music consisting of the Class Hymn by the Senior Class, and an anthem by the choir and a solo by Miss Lois Thompson, a Thorsby Institute graduate of the class of 1933. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Lawrence Stanley, pastor of the Thorsby Congregational Church. This will be a union service and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

Bang's Disease-Control Pushed

Auburn, Ala.—In its fight against Bang's disease, the AAA dairy section has appropriated an additional $100,000 to be paid to Alabama herd owners who cooperate in the program and remove the cows found to contain the disease.

In announcing the additional appropriation to the state, F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist, said that the program is entirely voluntary but that all cattle owners of the state are urged to take advantage of it. He stated that there is rapidly developing a need for cattle in other sections of the country and that if Alabama owners clear their herds of this disease they will be in much better position to furnish these cattle.

The work in Alabama is carried on under the supervision of Dr. R. E. Jackson, of the bureau of animal industry, Montgomery.

So Much Value, So Little Money

That's how W. K. Weaver, proprietor of the Weaver-Rags Mercantile Company, of Tallad Ala., feels about Alabama Po r Company service. Recently he wrote:

"I have been a customer of the Alabama Power Company for over 10 years. I've always found the service far superior to what I might expect, and I've always wondered how you could give such value for so little money. And the nice part about it is, you keep doing it for less and less money.—Adv. Alabama Power Company

"I foresee the time when industry shall no longer denude the forests which require generations to mature, nor use up the mines which were ages in making, but shall draw its raw material largely from the annual produce of the fields . . . I am convinced that we shall be able to get out of yearly crops most of the basic materials which we now get from forest and mine."

Henry Ford

THE map above tells only part of the story—the little-known story of the inter-relation of the Ford V-8 car and the farm.

The figures in the map are based on what will be used this year if the Ford Motor Company reaches its intended production of 1,000,000 cars and trucks.

WOOL goes into upholstery, floor coverings, lubricants and anti-rust preparations.

LEATHER goes into upholstery—and in addition, glues are made from cow hide, and from cow's milk . . . Other parts of cattle, through other processes, yield stearic acid, greases, glycerine (for shock absorbers and body enamel) and soap chips (used in washing machined parts and bodies before painting).

HOGS furnish lard oil, oleic acid and brush bristles.

GOAT'S HAIR (Mohair) goes into upholstery.

BEESWAX goes into electrical imbedding compounds.

COTTON goes into tires, batting, cloth, battery box, timing gears, brake linings and, not least important, into Safety Glass. (Every Ford V-8 car built this year will have Safety Glass in every window, at no extra cost to the car buyer . . . Cotton, in the form of cellulose acetate, is the central part between the two sheets of glass that make up every finished sheet of Safety Glass.)

CORN yields butyl alcohol (for enamel finishes and other purposes) and starch (for stiffening cotton linings).

LINSEED OIL is the basis for paint—is used in foundry cores—and is one of the ingredients of the beautiful, synthetic baked enamel finish on a Ford V-8.

SUGAR CANE yields molasses for solvents, anti-freeze and shock absorber fluids.

CASTOR OIL goes into lacquers and artificial leather suitable for rumble seats, where real leather would be damaged by exposure to the weather.

TUNG OIL is part of the top material used in Ford cars and is also used in brake linings.

TURPENTINE is used in paints, adhesives and solvents.

SOY BEANS are used in making cores for metal castings in our foundry and are also an important part of the baked enamel finish of a Ford V-8 and of the plastic knobs and buttons in the car's interior.

LUMBER is used for packing purposes. It is not used for any structural part of the Ford car, which has a welded, all-steel body, reinforced with steel, for maximum safety.

Proper Care of the Feet Discussed

The foot is a group of twenty-six bones forming several distinct and separate arches. The main one is the longitudinal arch which extends from the heel to the ball of the foot. Another important one, the anterior arch, is formed by the heads of the metatarsar bones in the forefoot. It extends from the inside to the outside of the foot at the ball. The bones of the foot are held together by short ligaments and tendons, and motions of the foot are controlled by the muscles in the leg. Many foot ailments develop from improper manner of standing and walking and often an improper posture is taken because of the pressure of an uncomfortable shoe.

In walking, the feet should be kept in a parallel position and not with the toes pointing out. It is estimated that ninety per cent of people in this country suffer from some type of foot trouble.

The majority of foot Defectives are born with strong, normal feet and only a small percentage of children are born with deformed feet. Children's feet should be watched during infancy particularly when the child begins to stand and walk, so that the delicate little structures shall not become bent and the muscles allowed to weaken.

Patience must be taken before the child learns and begins to walk. The child will stand and walk just as soon as it gains confidence in properly balancing himself.

Because one child has been walking for some time is no reason why all children of that age should walk. Mothers should be warned not to try to teach children either to stand or walk, let Mother Nature do that. Weak feet and legs often result from walking too soon, and it is far better to walk late than too early. If the child's ankles interfere in walking by bending inwards the arches are becoming dangerously flattened and a foot specialist or chiropodist should be consulted.

It is important to teach the child to walk softly and to avoid pounding with the heels. He should also be taught to carry the feet close together, toeing straight ahead and keeping the weight on the outer edge of the foot. Walking the street curb or following a narrow board in the floor helps a child to learn to control the leg and foot muscles and trains him to walk on the outside of the foot.

If the children's shoes are wisely selected and their feet are regularly examined, minor defects can usually be corrected and future foot comfort assured. Fortunately, the fashion in shoes for children today is the broad toed soft, flexible shoe. They should always be fitted at least a half inch too long, before they are worn out.

If the children's feet are normal and other conditions permit, let the children go barefoot, and when you must shoe them, use sandals without stockings. A child with normal feet does not need high shoes. Care that the child's stockings are long enough should be observed, because short stockings cramp the toes and may deform the foot and cause ingrown toenails. It is important, however, that the stockings should not be so large as to make bumps and ridges or crowd the feet in the shoes.

Man Says Dog Bit Gun Barrel; Officer Has Doubts

A man has a perfect right to get excited when he believes that he has been bitten by a mad dog.

But Officer John Browder's opinion is that Spurgeon Driver, of near Clan- is that Spurgeon Driver, of near Clanton, considerably overdid it.

Last Thursday evening, shortly after dark, Spurgeon is said to have created quite a rpple of exctement when he, more or less unsteadily, rushed into one of the local drug stores, declaring that he was the victim of rabid dog's bite and was "some anxious" to get a shot.

Sympathy was soon transformed into amusement, when the victim, describing his experience, averred that the dog bit off the end of the barrel of his shotgun before arriving successfully at his aim of sinking his teeth into his leg.

Bystanders, perhaps with reason, assumed that the man had already had a "shot," and a few minutes later when Officer Browder espied Spurgeon tip a flask to his lips—the assumption was found not to be groundless.

Closer investigation revealed, the officer said, that the dog was not known to be rabid, since he had not been examined, and a charge of violating the prohibition laws was placed against Driver.

Interest Grows In Vital Impurities

Rarer Element Subject Becomes Increasingly Important As Side Dressing Time Nears

Practical farmers, agricultural students and soil scientists throughout the South are showing deep interest in the new knowledge of rarer elements and their importance as plant foods. The subject of these lesser known elements—impurities, they are commonly called—gives new interest this season to the whole subject of fertilization of Southern crops.

Chilean Nitrate of Soda, because of its natural origin, is known to contain many of these vital impurities. Because it was created during the earliest centures of the world's development, it is thought to contain as many of the rarer elements as sea-water—at least thirty-five of them, perhaps many more than that.

Scientists have already discovered that this natural nitrate gives to crops the important rarer elements—iodine, boron, copper, iron, sulphur, magnese, strontium magnesium, potassium, calcium, sodium and lithium. Authorities are inclined to believe that these impurities are almost as importnnt to growing crops as the quick-acting nitrogen which Chilean supplies so abundantly. They are inclining also to the belief that these rarer elements combine to form that mysterious quality that has always distinguished the natural Chilean soda from other nitrogen materials, and made it so extraordinarily effective as a side-dresser for cotton and other Southern crops.

Cotton Value Is Up $38,501,673

Auburn, Ala.—The value of cotton and cotton seed produced in Alabama in 1934 was $38,501,673 more than that produced in 1932, reports Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the state extension service. Lint and seed were worth only $34,651,751 in 1932 compared with $73,153,424 in 1934.

In presenting the figures Dr. Duncan said that the "weighted average price of cotton for 1932 was 6.5 cents per pound and cotton seed $10.36 per ton; monthly average price of cotton from August, 1934, to February, 1935, was 12.4 cents per pound and cotton seed $36.31 per ton."

Greyhound Inaugurates New Buses, More Schedules 15th

New Streamlined Buses To Be Used Between Birmingham And Dothan

Effective May 15, The Greyhound Lines will inaugurate a new service of untra-modern buses and more schedules between Birmingham and Dothan. The new buses, the latest word in modern highway transportation, illustrate the scientific trend towards streamlining. Long, flowing lines, chronium trimmings and leather upholstery make for unusual beauty.

Designed to blend the advantages of safety, speed and comfort, the new buses feature such new departures as reclining seats with adjustable head rests, safety-glass windows that slide open or shut by the mere pressure of a finger, spacious interior luggage-lofts, high-speed engines and Westinghouse extra-heavy air brakes. The interiors have been rendered with softened colors and diffused lighting to give greater relaxation to the passenger.

Five northbound and five southbound daily schedules, Greyhound officials have announced, will go into service between Birmingham and Montgomery on May 15. Between Montgomery and Dothan three northbound and three southbound daily schedules will simultaneously go into effect.

Ala. C. P. & T. Adopts Resolutions Urging Extensive Health Work

Montgomery Ala.—Taking the position that the progress of public health is of as vital concern to their children as is the progress of education, the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers at the recent convention held in Montgomery strongly urged that Alabama's health department be restored to its former efficiency.

The Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers, the membership of which represents some 30,000 families has a unit in every sizeable school community in the state. Reports showed that the membership had increased by approximately 6,000 since the last convention, the present enrollment establishing an all-time record.

Among the resolutions adopted at the convention was the following:

"Proud of the health program established in Alabama some years back and distressed by its recent curtailment; believing, furthermore, that only the state can guarantee to every child and adult that minimum of health conditions and medical care which is his' right, we hope for early restoration, and as rapidly as possible, extension of the state health program.

"We ask also for the support of the efforts of national leaders to strengthen the pure food an drug act and we would place upon the home and the school responsibility for teaching the scientific facts regarding the social and individual dangers in the use of narcotics and alcholic beverages."

Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, today expressed the health department's appreciation for the aid the Parent-Teacher Association units have given in the movement to immunize pre-school age children against diptheria. "In a time when the health department's funds have been drasticalil reduced, this cooperation has been invaluable, he said."

Gulf's new Multi-sol process now brings you

THE NEW GULF-LUBE

Again Gulf offers you a saving . . . Now you can get a premium oil at a popular price!

HAVE YOU ever wished for a premium motor oil—without a premium price : : : ?

Then—listen to this . . .

There is now a premium oil—with full premium oil qualities—that sells for only 25c a quart. It is the new Gulf-lube.

For many months, Gulf technologists have focussed their efforts on a better method of refining motor oil.

Out of their efforts has come a giant new Gulf refinery, operating upon a new refining principle—the Multi-sol process.

And from this new process and new refinery comes the new Gulf-lube!

No other 25¢ motor oil gives you all these quality points!

1. It is Multi-sol processed.
2. Its already high mileage has been stepped up 20% to 25%.
3. Highly resistant to oxidation—non-sludging . . . extra long life.
4. It has a high viscosity index—thins out less under heat . . . easy starting year-round. Thoroughly de-waxed.
5. Forms far less carbon.
6. High film strength—a pure mineral oil that will not corrode new alloy bearings.

How the Multi-sol process works

In this history-making process, solvents of two opposite actions are used.

One action dissolves out the impurities and settles them to the bottom of the extraction tanks. The other action selects the desirable parts of the oil and floats them to the top. This selected oil is then "skimmed off," thoroughly de-waxed and filtered—the finest motor oil 25c ever bought!

THIS BOTTLE of milk shows what the Multi-sol process does for Gulf-lube. It separates the "cream" from the "milk." Selective solvents settle the impurities in the oil to the bottom, and float the desirable parts to the top. This "cream" is then skimmed off. Gulf-lube is the only 25c oil made by this process.

Try just one filling!

Try this extraordinary new oil. Fill up, replace with the new Gulf-lube—and you'll notice a difference before you drive your first hundred miles!

You'll add less oil between drains—for Gulf-lube's already high mileage has been stepped up 20% to 25%! You'll get less carbon, less sludge—and far better motor protection.

You can get the new Gulf-lube at all Gulf dealers—at only 25c a quart.

An attempted check-up over the city a few days ago revealed no less than fifty new homes that have already been completed: more than a dozen that are now under construction, and several others that will be built during the summer.

Work of erecting a new city hall is nearing completion—the contractor recently announced that the structure will be ready for inspection by the middle of June—and the excavating for the site of the new $55,000 postoffice building is well underway, the structure will be finished by early '36.

C. W. Wade, operator of the Wadesonian Theatres, has men excavating the site of his new, modern theatre building, which will be a great improvement to the city. The location is the vacant lot just south of the Dixie Cafe on the paved highway.

Starting from the Chilton County News office and circling through all sections of Clanton, the following improvements were noted:

The installation of a more modern front at the Big Four Hardware Company's store; preparations for rebuilding on the old Mullins corner, where one of the town's oldest landmarks gave way to progress a few weeks ago; materials on the site of the new theatre; Mack Culver's new house and barn; repairing of the waterworks plant; four new houses in the vicinity of the Willis Tourist Camp; a new bungalow just east of the Alabama Mills; about a dozen small houses built by Judge Reynolds, west of the Alabama Mill village.

D. J. Rolland's new home, near the cotton mill; two new homes across the street from the Clanton Grammar School. One is owned by Sam Martin and the other by Jesse Patterson; George McCain's new home, two new barns, and a recreation pavilion, west of Candler Terrace; one frame house and two bricks are under construction on the Clanton-Selma Highway, near Greene Retherford's home.

Reroofing and painting of Dr. V. J. Gragg's home; several new roofs in West End; remodeling of the old Wright home; remodeling of home owned by W. C. Robinson and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Webb; remodeling of Jim Roberts home, formerly occupied by Mrs. Clyde Jones; the new Margolis Duplex apartments; remodeling of Mrs. Glennie Evans home; erection of a new brick bungalow by John Durwood Mullins, next door to Hugh Foshee home; J. L. Teel's new home.

Painting and renovation of Jimmy Taylor's home, near the high school; remodeling of J. B. Atkinson's home; the erection of an annex to the Mullins & Popwell Warehouse; new home occupied by Mrs. Frazier in South Clanton; a new home at the Boswell Tourist Camp; remodeling of Van Smith's home, Judge J. Lee Smith's and Dr. J. P. Hayes' homes.

Remodeling of Upchurch Building, occupied by E. L. Klinner Furniture Company; the erection of a new building housing the Joe Venable Service Station; remodeling of the Lawrence Service Station; and the erection of four new houses n the Reynolds Addition.

Besides those listed, there are many others that will be built or repaired during coming months, it is understood.

Barracks at the CC Camp, which will be located on the Clanton-Selma Highway, one mile west of town, will be erected at a minimum cost of $10,000, according to figures cited by government offcials here recently making arrangements for the location of a camp here.

LOCAL COMMITTEE ON FARM DEBTS READY TO FUNCTION

E. R. Piper, C. D. Foshee And D. I. Deraums Are Appointed By Governor In Program To Aid Farmers Who Help Themselves

The Chilton County Farm Debt Committee has been appointed by Governor Graves, which consists of:

Mr. E. R. Piper, Thorsby, Alabama;
Mr. C. D. Foshee Clanton Alabama;
Mr. D. I. Deramus, Verbena, Alabama.

Farm Debt Adjustment work had its beginning in 1933 when Governor Morgenthau of the Farm Credit Administration wired the Governors of the various states suggesting that they appoint State and County Committees to give consideration to worthy farmers who had become excessively indebted and were not able to meet their interest payments, pay taxes, and meet their necessary living expenses.

The objective of the project is to secure in distressed farm debt cases as large a measure of social and economic justice as possible for both the farm debtor and his creditors. This objective does not infer the "scaling down" of any reasonable indebtedness, neither does it mean protecting any debtor who seeks to use the depression as an excuse for sharp practice with his creditors. The need of voluntary farm-debt adjustment arises from the fact that no two farm-debt situations are alike.

It is a National necessity that these worthy farmers should be saved. Until recently, about the only settlement for cases of excessive debt—excessive in terms of ability to pay—was court action. This is the least desirable method of settlement if any other is possible as County action is costly and uncertain. It is likely to result in dispossession of the farmer as an owner, and frequently eliminates the possibility of his remaining on the farm as a tenant. All

The Clanton Baseball Club is getting into full swing, according to Marvin Marcus, manager of the club. Although the season is still young, several games have been played and Clanton is showing up even better than last year, Marcus declares.

Wednesday the local nine met Columbiana here, but the score had not been learned at the time of this writing. This was a return game; Clanton played at Columbiana last Thursday and were defeated 14 to 7, so much interest was manifested in the game here yesterday.

CITY COUNCIL HAS A BUSY SESSION TUES

Pass Ordinances For Control Of Traffic, Installation Of Water System

Members of the city council in regular session Tuesday night passed two city ordinances for the control of traffic on the streets of Clanton; voted to install a water cooling system in the new city hall, and discussed plans for paving of the street in front of the city hall.

Ordinances regulating traffice that were passed at the session prohibit the turning around of automobiles and trucks on the railroad tracks; and place a one-hour limit on parking on Seventh Street (paved highway) between First Avenue (Dief's) and Third Avenue (bus station).

Mayor Jones said that several wrecks have been narrowly avoided when cars attempted to turn around on the railroad below the post office, and parking on the highway results in a continuous jam between First and Third Avenues

The water cooling system which will be installed in the new city hall will be electric, Mayor Jones stated, and will provide an unlimited supply of cold water for drinking. Founts will be placed both inside and outside the building.

Plans were discussed for the paving of a strip of the street approximately seventy by fifty-five feet in front of the city hall. This will provide better parking space and serve to eliminate much dust.

Judge J. Lee Smith stated that he is sure the commissioners court will agree to share in the paving since the county owns the property across the street.

Mayor Jones estimated the cost of the project at between $800 and $1,000

Clanton Wholesale Grocery Co. Entertains Employees And Friends With Fish Fry

One of the most delightful events of last week occurred Thursday evening from 5 to 9 o'clock when R. W. Taylor, manager of the Clanton Wholesale Grocery Company, entertained his employees and a number of friends with a fish fry at his camp on Coosa River.

As the guests arrived sandwiches and lemonade were served, and the climax of the evening was reached later when a large banquet table, piled high with deliciously fried fish and accessories, was placed at the disposal of those present.

The affair was informal throughout, and a pleasing spirit of friendliness was apparent with everyone present. A full moon, reflecting against the backwaters of Mitchell Dam, lent color and beauty to the happy gathering. Mr. W. M. Bean, speaking for the guests, in a few well-chosen words, expressed the pleasure of those present to Mr. Taylor for a delightful evening of entertainment. Mr. Taylor in turn expressed his pleasure in having the opportunity of entertaining his friends and appreciation for the loyalty of his employees.

Those present from Clanton were: Hugh Jones, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Bean, Mr. and Mrs. John Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mims, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Taylor and three sons, Morris, Melvin and Edward, W. A. Business Gains Continue

The continued upward trend in American business as reflected in reports from many agencies in a position to evaluate the forces favorable to recovery is set forth in the following editorial from the Atlanta Journal:

"The Business Advisory and Planning Council, whose 52 members represent virtually every field of American industry and trade, repotrs that the gains in profit or volume, or in both, for the first 2 months of the current year over the parallell period of 1934 range from 'satisfactory' up to 30 percent.

"The magazine Business Week finds from a survey covering the entire country that sales of automobiles and refrigerators are well ahead of the records of a year ago, that heavy construction is far in excess of the figures for 1933, and that the value of checks drawn is 'substantially higher.'

"The Association of Life Insurance Presidents announces that the cumulative total of new business for January and February of this year is 17 6|10 percent above the amount written during those months in 1934.

"Dun & Bradstreet report a new 'low' record in commercial failures for the first week of March.

"The National Department of Commerce records a gain of $4,000,000 in our export trade for January.

"Federal income-tax receipts for the first 20 days of this March were 33 1|3 percent more than in the like period of last year.

"These are a few of many significant items from the business trends. They give point to a recent statement by Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission. Addressing a group of financial and industrial leaders in New York, he declared: 'It is unmanly and un-American for one to blame the Government for his own lack of courage and enterprise. Wherever you lead, the rest of the country will follow and 60 days before any one knows it the victory over doubt and despair will have been won.'

"That major problems still confront the national recovery program—such, for instance, as that of reducing the still formidable ranks of the unemployed—is not to be denied. But more meaningful are the steady gains in almost every province of business."

Prosperity At The Grass Roots

It has often been said that "real prosperity must begin at the grass roots"—that is, on the farm.

Statistics support that belief. The great bulk of our population depends for its living on agriculture—and the depression has tended to send more people back to the farm, because of the impossibility of finding jobs in industry. The American farmer still provides the greatest single market for consuming the products that our factories produce.

As a result, no citizen can afford to think that he has no personal interest in the ups and downs of agriculture. Good times for agriculture help make good times for all businesses, all workers—precisely as depressed agriculture hits us all.

Foresighted citizens, as a result, are throwing their weight strongly behind any movement whose purpose is to advance the farmer's social and economic status. The farm cooperative movement, among others, has been given the genuine support of industrialists, economists and others who have no connection with farming, but who know that prosperity at the grass roots is essential to national well-being.

The Ideal Editor

An exchange enumerates the qualities which should be possessed by the ideal editor, as follows:

He would be as rapid in action as an electric fan, yet as patient as Job; he would have all the vigor of 20 and the wisdom of 70; he would have the memory of an encyclopedia and the infallibility of an adding machine; he would have an eye like an eagle and the nose of a bloodhound; he would be as tactful as an expectant heir before a rich uncle, and as firm as granite; he would be as discerning as a shaft of light and have analysis of a supreme court jurish; he would be able to, at one and the same time, answer two telephones, place a call of his own, check a proof sheet and add the middle name of the third assistant secretary of the navy, and remember whatever it was he was told to bring home from the corner drug store.

Obviously, as our exchange regretfully admits, "there ain't no such animal." Hence there never was, and never will be, an ideal editor.

A Powerful Ally For Safety

Aroused by the frightful record of traffic accidents and injuries during 1934, 11,000 Posts and Auxiliaries of the American Legion are uniting in a 4-point program for greater safety on the streets and highways. According to an announcement from the National Headquarters of the Legion, the efforts of the Legionnaires will be guided by a handbook distributed by their National Americanism Commission in cooperation with the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters. The Legion's program includes:

1. Recommendations for uniform traffic legislation. 2. Plans for safety education among both children and adults. 3. Recommendations for improved enforcement of existing traffic laws. 4. Sponsorship of better traffic engineering.

Under legislation, the Legion will recommend the uniform traffic laws established by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety and endorsed by such groups as the American Automobile Association, the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, the National Safety Council and others. These laws are considered by safety authorities as a basis for efficient traffic control, and include: A Uniform Drivers' License Law, a Uniform Financial Responsibility Statute, and Unifor Traffic Ordinances.

In adult and child safety education, formation of school boy patrols to direct pedestrian traffic near school buildings, establishment of courses in safe driving for high schools, and sponsorship of community safety programs, are among the plans to be urged.

By enlisting the American Legion, highway safety has gained a powerful ally.

Jailing Newspaper Reporters

The matter of sending newspaper reporters to jail for refusing to tell where they get information on sundry subjects, may easily resolve itself into a question of whether the public is to be informed or kept in ignorance when crooked things are going on in a community.

In New York a reporter exposed a crooked hook-up between politicians and gamblers and for his pains is sent to prison because he would not expose the citizens who gave him the information, therby keeping the pledge which made the obtaining of the facts possible.

Looking at it from the viewpoint of the well-being of society it would seem that a reporter has done his duty when he bares a crooked situation. It is not his job to supply police officers with evidence or to act as prosecutor. The latter are at least assumed to be quite as competent to handle such matters as the reporter.

A vast amount of useful information is conveyed to newspapers in confidence and if the time comes when newspapers and newspaper reporters are forced to violate these confidences, it will be to the advantage of crooks and wrongdoers generally, and not to society.

The newspaper man belongs to a profession that has ethics, just as the legal profession and the medical profession have, and there is no more reason to force a member of this profession to violate a confidence than to force a lawyer or physician so to do. It is against public policy and should not be attempted.—Tuscaloosa News.

D. W. Haskew

An Irishman went away from his home town and won distinction by being the man of the hour in a train wreck. The press picked up his name and his praises were sung far and near. When he returned to his home town the citizens thought to give him special attention and proceeded to give him a ride down main street on a rail. As the procession proceeded they were shouting his praise and the mayor ventured to ask "And Mikie, how does it seem to have this ride of honor down our street?" Mikie was not accustomed to such a lift and with an expression of agony on his face he replied: "Mayor, bedad if I had not rather walk if it were not for the honor of the thing." That leads me to say that much of the distinction that comes to men along the way is often a source of misery rather than a delight. It is the honor that makes the ride on the rail endurable.

A new doctor moved into the town where I was pastor. He rented an office and installed a phone. He bought a fine horse and a new buggy and fitted himself out for first class country practice. Early in the morning he would come down main street with his buggy wheels throwing sand and dust into the air. He would dash up to his office door, stop his horse, rush into his office and grab his medicine case and rush back and leap into his buggy and away he would go. In a few minutes he would come dashing back. For some time he busied himself with bottles and then he would rush out for another hurried call. All day long he was making rush calls, filling bottles and writing prescriptions. People thought that he was doing a landslide business, but he was just fooling the folks. However he did not have to keep up this very long before calls really came to him. That sounds like "Huey Long" but it got the answer. I know from observation that people like to patronize folks who are busy. We follow the crowd.

Two Scotchmen went fishing and to be very courteous each one hoped that the other one would catch the first fish. The discussion continued until one of the men bet the other one that he would catch the first fish. The stake was ten dollars and hooks went into the water. Time passed on and finally a nice strike carried the cork under and the Scotchman holding the end of the pole knowing that if he pulled in his fish that he would have to pay the ten dollars, allowed the fish to play around in the water. An hour passed and the Scotchman would not pull in his fish and his pal had no strikes. He suspicioned something and ordered his pal to lift his pole. Just as he had suspected he was fishing without bait. I did not stay long enough to find out how they settled the bet, but I could have called it a draw as the one catching the fish would not pull him in and the other one was fishing without bait.

I have in my study a waste basket and I fill it with useless mail and material on an average of three times each week. I have a tool box on my back porch and I keep it full all the time of useful tools. I never go to the waste basket for anything but I am constantly going to the tool chest for tools. I am carryng and you are carrying, a waste basket or a tool chest on our shoulders. Our heads can either be made into a wastebasket or into a tool chest. We find men and women, boys and girls who use their heads as waste baskets alone. They dump into their brains things that are useless. Go to their heads when you will and you will find only trashy things. We find men and women, boys and girls, who are making their heads into a tool chest. They are able to go there any time and get a tool that will help them with the problems of living. Is your head a waste basket or a tool chest?

I went to the golf link and watched the men at play. One man was the governor of a state, another was a supreme judge and others belonged to the medical, the teaching, the law profession and were men of prominence. I was told that I was watching a company of great leaders and when these men were out in real life, they were leaders, but on the golf course these men were chasing and knocking a little golf ball. They looked to be giants in strength and power, but they were chasing a mighty small ball. When we know some folks we discover that they are chasing a mighty small ball.

Newspaper Campaign Announces New Premium Twenty-Cent Oil

Economies of New Gulflube Motor Oil. Multi-sol Processed, To Be Advertised Through Many Media

"More motor oil for less money" might be the title of the large advertising campaign which is now appearing in almdst 1,000 newspapers. In publicizing its new Gulflube motor oil, a premium grade oil sold at 25 cents a quart, the Gulf Refining Company reports the facts to over twelve million readers. The latter learn that the lubricant refined by Gulf's revolutionary Multi-sol Process, has practically all impurities "washed" away at no extra cost to the motorist.

In addition to the thousands of columns of newspaper space occupied by the Gulf Refining Company, extra miles of copy will appear at the behest of the 40,000 Gulf dealers located from Main to Texas. These will go more into detail in advising car owners how to increase their mileage through the use of the new Gulflube and how this will give them quicker and easier starting in all kinds of weather.

Further prominence to Gulflube will be given in the Gulf Funny Weekly. of which two and a half million copies are distributed free every Friday by the Orange disc service stations and dealers. After motorists and their children enjoy Curly and the other famous cartoon figures, they will be treated to a full page of facts and testimonials about the amazing new premium 25c-a-quart Motor Qil.

Another medium for the dissemination of information includes many hundreds of colorful highway posters, located on all the main highways. Also, several radio headliner programs will interrupt such luminaries as Will Rogers, the Revellers and James Melton only long enough for brief announcements covering Gulflube economy and performance.

Home Building Up Sharply In April

WASHINGTON.—A sharp spurt in home building has taken place since the beginning of the current month, preliminary figures received from a major section of the United States indicate.

During the first 2 weeks of April this classification of construction advanced to the point where it was running about twice the pace of April 1934. And, notwithstanding a moderate slowing down, noticeable during the third week, indications are that the total for the entire month will represent a large advance over a year ago. Other classifications of construction, however, are not keeping in line with the uprush in home building.

Wallace Advises Farmers To Fight

"Get up on your hind legs and fight for what you know is simple justice," Secretary Wallace advises farmers, declaring that "your united stand for the cause of agriculture was never more necessary than at the present moment."

He also states that as long as farmers stand firm with President Roosevelt they "need have no cause to fear the future."

"The next few weeks will be crucial," warns Mr. Wallace. "If the ranks of agriculture hold firm we have some chance to improve the agricultural adjustment act and come closer to winning for agriculture its fair share of the national income; but if the ranks of agriculture are divided, it is almost a certainty that what farmers have battled for for 15 years will be lost."

Smashing WORLD RECORDS WITH PYROIL

"WILD" BILL CUMMINGS, world-record winner of the 1934 Indianapolis 500-mile auto race says: "I used Pyroil in my motor, transmission and rear axle. It played a big part in my winning the 500-mile race today." (Signed) "WILD" BILL CUMMINGS.

BARNEY OLDFIELD said, "Just as Pyroil was used in breaking four records in qualifying or the 500-mile race, (1934), I predict that the winners will again use Pyroil as they did last year." (Signed) BARNEY OLDFIELD.

Thirty-three cars started in the 1934 Indianapolis 500-mile auto race. Twelve, only, finished. And, of these twelve, eleven used Pyroil.

Thus, Pyroil demonstrated again, its matchless efficiency. For, in last year's Indianapolis race, Pyroil won 1st, 2nd and 5th.

Recognized as authorities in auto engineering, these "hell drivers" of the speedway prove by their use of Pyroil, that this supreme lubrication accomplishment is a necessity to mechanical safety and performance.

Pyroil is not a substitute for regular oil and greases but is a concentrated heat-, wear- and friction-reducing product. Simply added to gas, oil, and grease by the ounce, it creates self-lubricating surfaces on all vital metal parts, which surfaces function and protect even in the event of complete failure of the oil supply. It frees valves, seals rings, reduces carbon. Pyroil saves so much in operating costs and repairs thru friction reduction, that its use actually costs nothing.

One trial of Pyroil proves its efficiency and economy. Ask at service stations, garages and dealers. Manufactured and Guaranteed by Pyroil Company, W. V. Kidder, Pres., LaCrosse, Wisconsin, U. S. A.

MAURI ROSE, 2nd, says: "Again I used Pyroil and finished in 2nd place in 500-mile race averaging 104.698 miles per hour. I can't say too much for Pyroil." (Signed) MAURI ROSE.

LOU MOORE, 3rd, says: "In finishing 3rd in Indianapolis 500-mile race, can deservingly praise Pyroil for its great work in my transmission and rear axle." (Signed) LOU MOORE.

DEACON LITZ, 4th, says: "Pyroil was my insurance against oil difficulties this year . . . I finished 4th with no oil trouble." (Signed) DEACON LITZ.

JOE RUSSO, 5th, says: "Finished 5th in 500-mile race using Pyroil. I always depend on Pyroil in racing and in my personal cars." (Signed) JOE RUSSO.

PYROIL SALES ARE SHOWING INCREASE DURING SUMMER

Heat Resisting And Fine For Summer Driving, Says Dief's Service Station, Local Distributors For Pyroil Products In This County

The advent of summer months has brought a decided upswing in the sale of Pyroil, according to Dief's Service Station, distributors for this famous product in Chilton, Autauga and Shelby Counties.

Pyroil is somewhat new to this section; but is rapidly becoming the demand of the wise automobile owner. Pyroil is simply added to the gasoline and oil in an automobile. A few ounces to each container and there is a difference in the motor.

Pyroil is a heat-resisting compound, adding to the life of the motor. It is used extensively by famous race track drivers and the most expensive and sensitive automobiles. Long-distance flights by plane carry Pyroil in the motors for safety and assurance.

"Pyroil is the safe way of breaking in a new car," said Mr. Dief in commenting on the advantages of using this product. "We have a large number of customers with new automobiles who instruct us to treat their cars with Pyroil at regular intervals."

ALABAMA AMONG 4 STATES WITH BEST COTTON PROSPECTS, SAY WEIL BROS.

A report on the cotton crop conditions in the South features the semimonthly letter of Weil Brothers, Montgomery cotton merchants. This State, the crop survey points out, is included in the area having banner crop prospects. Chopping has become general in three-fourths of the cotton belt. Taken as a whole, the plant is small but healthy and where rains do not interfere, the crop is well worked, the letter states.

Replanting has retarded the progress on the Texas crop in sections. The rainfall there was excessive early in May. In spite of the cool nights in Oklahoma, the growth is satisfactory.

The letter follows:

"On May 6, Weil Brothers Agency, of Dallas, Texas, sent the following telegram to us here at Montgomery: "The entire State of Texas soaked with the best rain in years.' This is encouraging since these rains furnished subsoil moisture regardless of rains hereafter. Subsequent reports, including May 13:

"Texas: Eastern Texas—excessive rains, fields too soggy, but for the last five days temperatures have been more favorable. It is estimated that 15 per cent needs replanting. Northern Texas—a slight increase in acreage; the land is well prepared, 20 per cent needs replanting. Southern Texas—prospects are fair to good; recent rains were quite beneficial, followed by warmer temperatures.

"Oklahoma: Benefcial rains were had; prospects fair; complaints of too cool nights, nevertheless good growth.

"Arkansas, Louisana, Mississippi, Tennessee: All report excessive rains during the early part of May and in consequence field work was stopped to a certain extent fields being too soggy, but since that time temperatures have been such that field work progressed very well. In these four States an average of 80 per cent is planted and the soil well prepared.

"Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina North Carolina: Have the banner crop prospects. Weather has been favorable thus far this month and work has progresed in consequence thereof. For these four States we estimate that on an average 90 per cent of the prospective area is planted. The Southern sections of these States have decidedly the best crop, being normal to any season, whereas in the central and northern sections the crop is late. Chopping has bcome general in 75 per cent of the area. As compared to normal on an average the crop is two weeks late; notwithstanding the stands are good after repalanting.

"As regards the spot situation, it is common knowledge that since the pool offered to sell cotton it has been besieged by anxous buyers; exporters merchants and mills. The consensus of opinion is that the quantity sold has reached large proportions, in spite of the fact that the basis named by the AAA was higher than when it discontinued selling on March 11."

WITH THE STUDENTS OF ISABELLA HIGH SCHOOL

The F.F.A. club met Wednesday, May 15, for the last meeting of the club during the school term. At this meeting the chapter elected delegates to send to the state convention of F.F.A. to be held in Auburn some time in July. The main delegates are: Woodrow Durbin, and Andrew Jones; substitutes, James Calfee, and Harry Foxx. The treasurer was asked to give a report. The funds on hand at present will be spent to help establish a library for the club. At present the chapter consists of twenty-seven boys who have planned a supervised practice program of fifty-six individual cotton, corn, watermelon, and livestock projects under the supervision of the agricultural teacher Mr. Locke. This work will be continued during the summer months as part of the three year program of work in this department.

Examinations are in full swing this week and everyone is looking forward to the beginning of the summer vacation. We feel as if this year has been a very successful one for Isabella High School although we were handicapped by the burning of the building and school materials.

The captain and alternate captain of the football team have been elected for the following year. They are: Captain, Andrew Jones; alternate captain Leo Deason.

Everyone remember that next Sunday, May 26, is preaching Sunday at Mulberry Church and everyone is invited to attend.

We wish to take this means of expressing our gratitude to each individual who has contributed toward the success of the school this year. If you have wished us well or have said a good word for us you are included. We wish to especially thank Mr and Mrs. George Calfee who permitted us to use their home for the first grades and Sujt. Luther E. Little and the County Board of Education for their cooperation in helping us to hold our school together after the fire.

We hope every student in our school will make himself or herself responsible for bringing some other good student to school next year.

Let's keep our spirit up and hope we will have the best school building we have ever had.

How Cardui Helps Women To Build Up

Cardui stimulates the appetite and improves digestion, helping women to get more strength from the food they eat. As nourishment is improved, strength is built up, certain functional pains go away and women praise Cardui for helping them back to good health. . . . Mrs. C. E. Ratliff, of Hinton, W. Va., writes: "After the birth of my last baby, I did not seem to get my strength back. I took Cardui again and was soon sound and well. I have given it to my daughters and recommend it to other ladies." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Thoughts For Thinkers

Church Of Christ

Why Be Baptized?

1. God commands it for the remission of sins (Acts 2:38).

2. Penitent believers are to be baptized into Christ (Gal. 3:27); and to be in Christ is to be a new creature (2 Cor. 6:17). Man must be born of water and of the Spirit (Jno. 3:5).

3. Christ died that "He might sanctify and cleanse" the church "with the washing of water by the word" (Ep. 5:25-2). When we obey from the heart "that form of doctrine" we are "then made free from sin" (Rom. 6:17-18).

4. Christ shed His blood for the remission of sins (Matt. 26:28). His blood washes us from sin when we reach it (Rev. 1:5). We reach it by obedience (Heb. 5:9). "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved" (Mark 16:16).

5. Baptism doth also now save us (not the putting away of the filth of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience toward Gow), by the resurrection of Jesus Christ." (2 Pt. 3:21). Can we have a "good conscience" before we have the "answer" for it? Peter commands that we be always ready to give a reason for the hope that is in us (1 Pt. 3:15).

6. Christ is the savior of the church (Eph. 5:23) that is His body (Eph. 1:21), and all of its members are baptized into one body (1 Cor. 12:12-13). There is one baptism (Eph. 4:1-6).

7. The church which Christ saves is cleansed with the blood of Christ (1 Pt. 1:18-19); (Rev. 1:5), "with the washing of water by the word" (Ep. 5:26).

8. "Let us draw near with a true heart in full assurance of faith, having our hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience and our bodies washed with pure water" (Heb. 10:22). It is the blood of Christ that sprinkles our hearts (1 Pt. 1:2), but water washes our bodies (Heb. 10:22).

9. Under the Law of Moses, the unclean had to be sprinkled with the mixture of water, blood and ashes of a red heifer, and had to wash their bodies with water before they were considered clean (Numbers 17:17-19). The law of Moses had a shadow of good things to come (Heb. 10:1). But in the New Testament we are sprinkled by the blood of Christ (I Pt. 1:2), and our bodies are washed in water by baptism (Heb. 10:22) not to put away the filth of the flesh (as they did under the old law) but to get a good conscience under the New Testament, which is the new and living way (Heb. 10:20).

19. We walk by faith, and not by sight (2 Cor. 5:7), and faith has steps (Rom. 4:12). If we do nat have faith enough to follow Christ across the creek how do we expect to follow Him to Heaven?

10. It takes God's grace to save us (Titus 2:11-14), and He saves us "by the washing of regeneration and renewing of the Holy Spirit" (Titus 3:5). God's way of washing is part of God's grace.

12. We are saved by the love of God (Jno. 3:16), but the commands of God are a part of His love (I Jno. 5:1-3).

13. We are saved by the blood of Christ (I Pt. 1:18-19), but Christ shed His blood at His death, and we are baptised into His death (Rom. 6:3-6).

14. Christ invites all to come to Him (Mat. 11:28-30), but how shall we "come" to Him without crossing the creek If Christ is on this side of the creek, we had better not cross it at all. Let's be with Christ.

Sincerely, R. L. Huffman.

Dr. Gragg Cites Accomplishments At Columbiana As Model For Chilton County; Group From Clanton Entertained By Mayor

IDEAL LOCATION FOR COUNTY PARK

Since the site was purchased for the airport here, there has been considerable talk about installing various activities and also utilizing a part of the 60 acres for a community center—a kind of county park—but little has been accomplished, it seems, so far.

Only last week, members of the Coosa County Commissioners Court purchased ten acres of land near Rockford solely for the purpose of building a county recreational center; and many other county governments are recognizing the value of the old adage, "that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," and are making some preparation to establish healthy recreation within the reach of their people.

The local airport is especially suitable for utilizing for this purpose, without interfering in the least with flying activities. A natural supply of water can easily be made to flow through a swimming pool; there is room for a clubhouse, which could be built from logs and stone—producing a beautiful, rustic effect—and at little cost; tennis courts on the edge of the field would afford no hazards, and perhaps a baseball diamond could also be arranged.

There is also a little wooded strip just north of the field that can be made in very desirable picnic grounds. Those who have been interested in promoting these activities aver that the cost would be little; only a spirit of cooperation is needed.

WIDE AWAKE TOWN IS GIVEN PRAISE

Following a trip recently to Columbiana, in Shelby County, which included a group of citizens from Clanton and the local county commissioners, Dr V. J. Gragg, one of Clanton's most civic-minded citizens, was so delighted with the trip that he wished to pass his comments to the people here. And in the followng letter he gives some interesting information:

"Well. Mr. Editor, you know it is a fine thing to visit your neighbor once in a while and see what he is doing. If it had not been for seeing the other fellow making progress, and becoming enthused enough to put forth a progressive effort ones self, where would the world be today? No telephone, telegraph, steam, gasoline, or electric power nor any of the many things made possible thereby, such as the railroad train, steamship, automobile, airplane radio and millions of other things. Was it not fo rthe desire to be progressive, we, today, probably, would not have reached the ox-cart, and wooden plow stage.

"But, be that as it may, last Wednesday several people from Chilton County went up to Shelby to visit our neighbor and see what progress he was making. We were aiming to visit Columbiana, Calera, and Montevallo. making Columbiana the first of the three. Some of us flew over there and some drove over.

"The first arrivals looked up Harry Gordon, the Mayor, and asked him if he had anything worth our bunch looking at? Harry smiled and said, "Why in h—— didn't you let me know you were coming and come early? "We can't have time to show you half of it. How many are there? I'll order dinner now." And over our protest and assurance that we were going to the other places, before mentioned, he ordered dinner for ten.

"Well, he took us out to the airport for an "eye opener." A hangar that cost $10,000, a field consisting of 176 acres with runways up to 2700 feet in length, on which 250,000 yards of dirt had been moved, and which has cost $65,000, and he says it is just started. He showed us where they were going to construct a swimming pool, supplied with water from bored wells, and equipped with showers before and after swimming, also an indoor basket ball course where they could play day or night, a club house with all modern conveniences. A golf course and other things that I cannot remember.

"He also took us over to his CWA built ball park, that would do credit to a much larger city. Then Harry had us served with a most excellent dinner. Well it was agreed that it was too late to visit the Calera and Montevallo airports and we returned home.

"I was just thinking how much I had wished that we had a community center. We could have a good flying field that would accomodate passenger and mail and express ships and not be passed up, especially when our sister county can have three in a row. I had hoped for the swimming pool, the ball ground, club house and a golf course, so that our folks could have a place to go without leaving home.

"However, I had thought the greatest good to be derived from such a community center. would be to have a place where our farmers could hold their annual meetings, county fairs, and, in fact, all sorts of get-together meetings where people from all over the entire county could meet and have comfortable, cool in summer, warm in winter. sheltered, get together central meeting place for the people from country and town to call their own.

"In Columbiana, they had to cut down mountains to make level ground for their field, but they had a mayor equal to the occasion, and he is accomplishing an undertaking that will be a monument to him, and by which the rising generation of Shelby County will be improved and benefitted many years to come.

"All praise to Harry Gordon."

APPLICATIONS FOR RURAL POWER LINES ARE COMING IN

Work Started For Inspection Of Each Project Says Alabama Chairman; Application Has No Obligation On Any Person

Montgomery, Ala., May 15—A stream of applications for rural power lines and extensions has flooded the office of the State Rural Electrification Authority here, and Gordon Persons, chairman of the REA, announced today the work of inspecting each project had been started.

"The most important thing needed now," Mr. Persons declared, "is to persuade every individual in rural Alabama who wants electrical facilities to make a complete and accurate application to "Promptness in filing applications will enable us to send one engineer to inspect a number of projects in the same county or general neighborhood, thus materially expediting the task of actually getting power into the rural home that now has no power.

"The application does not obligate the customer in any way. With it and the information it contains, we will examine the project, decide if it is economically sound, and prepare an estimate of the costs. Then we will submit a report of what the project will cost to the applicant or applicants. If he or they still want to go ahead with the project, the application will be sent to Washington for final approval, upon whch work will begin.

"It will be a simple matter to prepare the application. Any community or group of neighbors desiring power lines extended to their properties should obtain a map of the county in which they live and mark the exact location of their homes and farms, the distance each building is located from the nearest road, and the distance from the nearest power transmission line.

"An accurate list of the names and addresses of all persons interested in obtaining electricity should be included in the application. However, we want only honest farmers and rural citizens who can and will pay their bills, for the REA is a private, self-supporting corporation which is only using Government money to finance power projects, not to give away anything.

"The application is not a subscription to any project or service, but merely a request for information. It is not binding in any way upon the applicant, though we naturally want only persons at least interested enough to submit applications and thereby save both our time and theirs.

"To be feasible," Mr. Persons continued, "a project should have an average of four customers or the equivalent thereof to each mile. However, a dairy doubtless would use as much current as four average consumers and a project having such a consumer on the line would meet the necessary requirements if the number of residential customers was short of the -desired minimum."

Mr. Persons closed his statement with an appeal to all interested rural dwell-

Likes Alabama's Low Electric Rates

John C. Hamm, Demopolis, Gratified With Recent Reductions

"There is an old saying," declares Mr. John C. Hamm of Demopolis, Ala., "that 'the exception proves the rule'. During the past year or so the cost of all commodities which go into the usual family budget has been steadily rising, with one exception. That exception is the cost of your residential electric service. This service has been reduced from time to time and I now understand that a further reduction has gone into effect.

"Naturally, any reduction in the cost of living is very pleasing, and th's new low rate will make it possible for your customers to make a still wider use of this reliable, economical service, that contributes so much to the comfort and convenience of the modern home. I certainly appreciate your efforts to render such service at such low cost."—Adv. Alabama Power Company.

What This Business Means To Alabama

The Southern Bell Company spent more than $29,000,000 during the five years of the depression to operate, maintain and improve Alabama's telephone service. This was an important contribution to the advancement of the State during a time when work was vitally needed and industrial activity was at a low level.

During 1934, which was far from a good year, the telephone company's operating expenses in Alabama amounted to nearly $4,000,000 and approximately $1,500,000 was spent for additions to and improvements of plant.

To build, operate and maintain this extensive plant requires the services of more than 1,500 skilled workers. Their annual pay roll is approximately $1,700,000, most of which is spent in the State for food, clothing, housing, and other needs.

Many of these telephone men and women are home-owners, and all of them are tax-payers. They and their families compose a large group of more than 6,000 people, who are dependent upon the telephone business in Alabama for their livelihood.

The steady and constant flow of millions of dollars from the telephone industry in the form of wages, taxes, purchases of raw materials and other expenses, is regarded as an important factor in the economic progress and welfare of the State.

But of even greater importance to the business and social welfare of Alabama, is the telephone company's responsibility for furnishing the adequate, dependable and high type of telephone service to which you are accustomed. Yet the price you pay for this all-important service is only a few cents a day. A price so low, in fact, as to earn only three and seven-tenths per cent on the investment in the plant used to furnish service.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Thedford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

CHERO
(Formerly Chero-Cola)

All right, so you're not a prize fighter? But maybe you're fighting a Royalwood typewriter all day, or fighting to make folks buy Seal Silk hosiery, or maybe you're a bloated banker. So what? So here's a Cola drink that will give the old energy a pick-up, naturally—healthfully. A Cola drink that hasn't an artificial boost in a barrel. That won't affect heart, nerves, or fallen arches. Just healthfully refreshing. And the grandest tasting Cola drink of them all. Drink long and lusty—ten a day if you want to—and every time you do, you do yourself a favor. No kidding, if you want medical proof write your name on a sheet of paper carefully (on one side only) as a reminder to ask your doctor what he thinks of natural flavors, pure water, and granulated sugar as quick energy pick-up. Tell him CHERO doesn't contain anything to frazzle nerves—he will know what you mean.

WOCO STATION IS BECOMING VERY MODERN

Recent Additions Are Adding Greatly To Service At Popular Station

That the popular Woco Service Station is becoming one of the most modern stations of its kind, is being attested to by the many customers they take pride in serving.

The Woco Service Station, located on Main Street, across from the court house, has at its head, J. E. Easterling, one of Clanton's most enterprising young business men, being termed by his acquaintances as a "go-getter."

Mr. Easterling announces new additions to his equipment for the automobile service. He has recently installed a vaccum cleaner for cleaning upholstery, etc., in automobiles which is itself something very worthwhile. A new wash rack has been built at the station, a new hoist installed at some expense, and enabling the station to do a better job of greasing and looking after a car in general.

"We are extremely proud of the hundred customers who depend on us to look after their cars. keep it properly greased and see that the oil is changed regularly,'- stated Mr. Easterling. "We keep a complete record of the mileage of our customers' cars and call for it when the time comes. This relieves our customers of that responsibility and at no extra charge."

Among the many services at the Woco Service Station there is included modern grease guns, a complete tire and tube vulcanizing outfit and prompt efficient road service. The Woco Service Station dispenses Woco-Pep products and handles the General and the Yale lines of tires.

resident's Assurance that Recovery Is Forging head Based on Statistics from All Sources

When President Roosevelt said to-ard the close of his last radio broad-ist: "Never since my inauguration March, 1933, have I felt so un-istakably the atmosphere of recov-," as usual he "was speaking by e book." He had the data beside m, as he always has, from day to y.

None of his predecessors has so as-uously accumulated the very latest ailable business and farm statistics. retofore, as Washington correspon-its have pointed out, data on pro-ction, distribution and consumption ve been assembled for the heads of great banks, and industrial cor-ations and to a minor degree by "presure groups" that converge on Washington when important ses-ns of Congress are in progress, as present. They use what appears them to advance their various and etimes conflicting interests.

President Roosevelt assembles all of information, from private commer-l and financial reporting agencies, d he submits it to careful analysis. is well known in Washington that if any of his many callers leave hout having divulged, upon re-est in his trade or industry.

The President's deep conviction that iness is forging ahead at a rate equaled at any time in the past 25 nths was based upon his own care-scrutiny of a mass of reports. ese included:

Employment in manufacturing estab-lments up more than 2 per cent and rolls increased 9 per cent over the rresponding period last year.

Employment and payroll gains in both nsumer and durable goods industries March were the fourth successive nthly increase.

Building permits from 710 represent-ive communities showed a gain of 74 cent over March and the first half April, 1934.

Postal receipts were increasing con-ntly in every large and medium sized that had sent in reports.

Electric-power consumption this year had attained the highest record in the history of the industry, as a result of the policy of lowering rates as the President has advocated.

For the week ending the day before his radio address, total reserves of the Federal Reserve banks were 5,997 million dollars, as compared with 4,763 million dollars for the corresponding period in 1933.

Steel industry pay rolls in March were 6 per cent higher than in February and for the first quarter of 1935 they were 21 per cent above the first three months last year.

Mail order sales for the period March 27 to April 23 were 32 1-2 per cent above the corresponding four weeks in 1934 and the highest for the period since 1929.

Revised figures by the National industrial Conference Board showed $6,000,000,000 increase in the national income for the past year.

The five-year high mark in production reached by the automobile manufacturers in March was being maintained.

There were big gains in foreign trade, car loadings, collections, and very few of the standard indices showed even seasonable recession, except the railroads and this subject he was covering in his address to the people.

The President believes that the vastly increased income taxes paid in the first four months of 1935 is "unmistakable evidence" of the trend toward much better times, as are the greatly improved earnings of business corporations generally.

SATURDAY IS POPPY DAY IN CHILTON CO.

People Urged To Buy Hand-made Flowers For Aiding War Vets

"Honor the dead and serve the living" is the message which the memorial poppies will bring to the people of Chilton County on Poppy Day, May 25th, R. W. Lowe, Commander of Chilton County Post of The American Legion, in a statement today urging all veterans to gve fullest support to the Poppy Day observance.

"Men who served in France have an indelible picture of the poppies in their minds, closely associated with the memory of their comrades whom they left overseas," the Commander said. "Soon after The American Legion was organized the poppy was adopted as its memorial flower and the custom adopted of wearing the flower on the Saturday before Memorial Day in tribute to the war dead.

"The distribution of the poppies on Poppy Day was placed by the Legion in the hands of those loyal, patriotic women who compose the American Legion Auxiliary. Through their volunteer efforts they recall for all America the inspiring services of the men who died in the poppy flecked fields of France and Belgium. They also raise funds for the Legion and Auxiliary welfare work among those who were not called upon to die, but to sacrifice strength and health in the nation's defense. the disabled veterans and for the families of the dead and disabled.

"The message of the poppy is 'Honor the dead and serve the living,' for each wearer of the memorial flower makes some contribution to aid the war's living victims. Every Legionnaire, of course, every veteran and every patriotic citizen should have a poppy in his button hole on aSturday, May 25th."

COTTON SET-UP

Bankhead Act. This vote, as you will remember, was 96 per cent in Chilton County in the entire cotton belt in favor of continuing the operation of this act for the 1935-36 season.

Under the existing regulations tenants operating a part of a farm do not have a separate base. No cotton farmer has cause to expect that his allotment will be in excess of 65 per cent of his base production, unless the farm which he is operating has an established base production of two bales or less. In that event, he will receive a minimum allotment equal to th the amount of his average production, but no more. The 12-cent loans on 1934 cotton has been extended six months beyond the maturity date of July 31 1935.

It is the purpose of the Administration to provide adequate credit facilities to cotton farmers to permit the orderly marketing of the 1935 cotton crop. It should be emphasized, however, that the Commodity Credit Corporation will make no loans on the 1935 cotton crop to any producer who is not cooperating in the cotton program under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, nor will any loans be made on the 1935 crop to any producer for an amount of cotton in excess of his allotment under the Bankhead Act.

be: T. L. McKee, winner in the race for tax collector, W. G. Culp, his defeated opponent; Arthur D. Martin who nosed out Akins I. It is understood that the contestants base their complaints chiefly on the returns from the absentee box, which gave McKee 340 votes, compared to Culp's 78; Martin 351, Collins 66; Pattillo 351, Harris 60.

Machinery is being set in motion by the defense to give one of the hardest fought legal battles ever seen in the courts of this county. Each of the contestees expressed the firm belief that "they don't have a chance."

Reynolds & Reynolds, J. B. Atkinson, Grover C. Walker, and John Foshee will represent McKee, Martin, and Pattillo. O. D. Street, Percy M. Pitts and J. Osmond Middleton are attorneys for the contestants.

FARM DEBTS

of this is done without materially bettering the position of the creditors Even first mortgage creditors may lose, while second mortgage and other creditors may suffer complete loss. After the foreclosure the creditors who have taken possession of the farm find that they receive no more than the property can pay in terms of net income. In other words they dispossesed a worthy farmer and impaired their own position.

This is the objective of the voluntary farm-debt adjustment program as a phase of the President's National Recovery Program carried on as a State responsibility by the Governors of 44 states through more than 2.600 county farm credit committees, with a personnel of more than 13,000 county committeemen. Such a program not only rehabilitates the individuals concerned, but is a marked factor in community building. The purchasing power of the debtor is restored, and the Creditor whose frozen assets have been made liquid is enabled to engage in other types of business activity which are likely to result in profit to him and benefit to his community.

How cases are gotten before the Farm Debt Adjustment Committees or Where do we get our cases.

1. Loan Correspondent of Federal Land Bank. 2. Debtors. 3. Creditors. 4. County Agricultural Agents. 5. Rural Rehabilitation supervisors. 6. Conciliation commissioners. 7. Common pleas Judges. 8. Farm organizations. 9. Publicity.

Purpose and Functions of the County Farm Debt Committees

1. To give friendly, reliable information and cousel to both debtors and creditors. Too frequently a debtor broods over his difficulties instead of seeking effective relief.

2. To work out agreements enabling worthy farmers to remain on the farm, instead of losing hope and deeding the farm to the creditors. Creditors generally do not wish to take title to a debtor's property, although a few have used unfair coercion to get debtors to give up titles.

3. To aid in stopping unnecessary foreclosure, while recognizing that some foreclosures cannot be avoided in the best interests of all parties.

4. To assist debtors and creditors to compose the debts in the form of a loan which the debtor has a reasonable chance of carrying.

5. To suggest an extension agreement which will, in a sense, "freeze" the debts, pending further settlement. Such an agreement may be the fairest solution of many distressed farmers' problems and may insure the most effective operation of the farm until such time as the future level of prices may be more definitely known.

6. To assist closed banks to make an equitable adjustment of farmer's debts for the best interest of banks depositors and indebted farmers.

7. To guide debtors and creditors in taking the best court procedure when legal action appears to be the best solution. Few people are well informed especially with regard to the provisions of the revised Federal Bankruptcy Act which permits adjustments through the conciliation commissioners upon a more or less voluntary basis without resorting to the provisions of the Frazier-Lemke Act which renders him a "bankrupt."

8. To aid loan correspondents in obtaining permission from the doctor to make use of committee in composition of his debts.

9. To aid Rural Rehabilitation foreman to secure list of his cases before the committee.

assured that the farmers of this nation will be taken care of as in the past.

Four thousand five hundred farmers from 26 agricultural states gathered in Washington last week to protest against eff rts that have been underway to undermine the governmental agricultural program; 217 of this number was from Alabama, representing everyone of its 67 counties.

County Agent J. W. Fant, J. N. Dennis, Senator Earle Thomas, and Irby Deramus were Chilton County's representatives.

This county is wholeheartedly behind the program, and more than half of the farmers within its limits have joined with those seeking to prevent the destroying of its aims and purposes. Two thousand cotton farmers have voted in meetings held in the county within the past few weeks for the continuance of the cotton processing tax, which provides the funds for the maintenance of the cotton program and other phases of the AAA. This is more than 50 per cent of the farmers in the county, Mr. Fant stated; out of this number only one man even attempted to voice any opposition to the program, he said.

Farmers throughout the nation are realizing that this is the first time they have ever really been given any recognition, and it stands to reason that those who seek to crush this recognition will find strong opposition—opposition that will be ready to fight for their rights.

In Chilton County the cotton farmers have realized approximately $300,000 from the program; to say nothing of minimum increase in the price of their cotton of four cents per pound. Four cents per pound on more than 12,000 bales of cotton, too, amounts to a considerable figure.

When the country voted last year on the Bankhead Act, 90 per cent of the ballots were favorable. In this county the vote was 96 per cent for the act and only four per cent against it.

22 Young Men Started Clearing 12-Acre Tract For Huge Project

The work of setting up the Chilton ounty Civilian Conservation Camp, on he Joe Mullins farm in Clanton, was egun Tuesday morning when 22 boys, embers of CCC Camp 487, Bessemer, nder the direction of Capt. LAN TO OPEN ELIEF CANNING ROGRAM SOON reparations are being made for the guration of the relief canning pro- n in early June, according to an ouncement this week by Miss Kittye de Austin, relief director, and Miss h Pardue, county home demonstra- agent, who will have supervision he county-wide program.

rvices Of Full-Time Canning Expert Are Secured For County

he services of a full-time canning rvisor, Miss Nellie Fuller, Auburn e economics graduate, has been se- d for this program this year, Miss lin explained. This move should re an even better result than was zed last year, which was consider- o be one of the most successful ements of its kind ever staged in county.

ne centers have been established e following places in the county: rville, Maplesville, Jemison, Mars Mineral Springs, Cooper, Moun- Creek, Thorsby, Clanton. Home ng will be done in those communi- that are too far from any of the e centers.

ring last year approximately 40,000 s of fruits and vegetabels were rved, and this proved a great help ssening the relief load during the ast winter, Miss Austin explained. expects this year's program to surpass this mark since 135 re- gardens have been planted and 96 rehabilitation farmers in the y will have plenty of food pro- to can.

wever, Miss Austin declared that ain purpose of this program will ucational; when a family can be t the essential fundamentals of ving food, much has been accom- d toward placing that family on f-sustaining program. Much has accomplished in this way, Miss n said, during the past two years; ter understanding of diets has grasped by those families on re- nd, of course, better health con- will be the result.

RURAL REHABILITATION IS GIVEN PRAISE BY WORKERS

Visit To Farms Of Those Aided In Program Tells Interesting Story Of Foremost Advantages Given To Create Better Farm Living

There is no phase of the relief program that approaches the permanent advantages which present conditions and outlook promises for the rural rehabilitation program, is the opinion of Miss Kittye Clyde Austin. relief director of Chilton County.

In this county, 196 families are being rehabilitated this year, and in every instance there is great promise of worthwhile accomplishments; many of these families will be self-sustaining by next year and can launch into the production of a crop without help from the federal government, if weather conditions and other uncontrollable aspects continue as favorable as the enthusiasm of those men and their families who are striving to wrest another opportunity from the earth by plowing an ox.

Of the 196 rehabilitation farmers, the four farm foremen who have supervision of the cultivation of their crops declare only two or three have given any reason for criticism. In most cases, they seem to appreciate this opportunity to stage a comeback and are grateful to the government for its help, they said.

Last Friday, this writer with Miss Austin and Glenn Sessions, farm foreman, visited several of these farms and in every instance found the men and other members of their families in the fields working. The crops, though young looked promising.

Without exception, the farmers were optimistic regarding the outlook for this fall; no trace of that haunting fear that brought lines to their faces two years ago was visible. Cotton, corn potatoes, peas, and many varieties of vegetables were found on each farm; and the wives joined their husbands in proudly showing off their gardens and relating plans for extensive canning this summer.

Last year, out of 75 rehabilitation farmers in the county only five were unable to meet their obligations to the government. In most cases, old debts were also paid and the new year was begun with an almost clean slate.

Miss Austin declared that she found that some of the people who have been given the worst of reputations by their neighbors have really proved to be the most dependable workers in the program. This, she said, convinces her that often all a man needs is a lift

CONTEST SET FOR TRIAL IN COURT TODAY

Motion For Dismissal To Be Made By Counsel For The Defense

The election contest lawsuit, which has as its purpose the prevention of three Democratic officials from assuming the duties of offices to which they were elected in last November's general election, was scheduled to get underway in circuit court here today, when Judge Arthur Glover will hear pleadings in the cause.

Grady Reynolds, chief of defense counsel, revealed this week that his first move in the case will be to enter a motion for its dismissal on several technical errors in the drawing and filings of the complaints against the three contestees.

In the case of Akins I. Collins vs Arthur D. Martin, Mr. Reynolds said that his motion for dismissal will be based on the grounds that insufficient security has been given for court cost. which he estimates may run in thousands of dollars; and in the cases of W. G. Culp vs. T. L. McKee, and H. A. Harris vs. J. C. Pattillo—various technical errors in the complaint will be pointed out to the court and motions for the dismissal of these causes will

SUPREME COURTS' RULING NRA INVALID SETS NATION AGOG

Administration Views Wreckage Of Most Gallant Effort Made Toward Recovery With Hopes Of Reconstruction

From the ashes of the Supreme Court ruling may arise a new NRA that will embody greater protection to both labor and capital, and from which may be eliminated those minor faults that have resulted in such bitter criticism from enemies of the administration.

This was the expressed hope of administration leaders Tuesday as they viewed the wreckage of the most gallant effort that any government has ever made in behalf of its citizenship. Dazed new dealers, acting under direct orders of President Roosevelt, sought feverishly to salvage something of NRA.

The President directed administration lawyers, experts and others to study from every angle the emergency created by the ruling Monday of the Supreme Court that the NRA restrictions were in violation of the Constitution of the United States. Several conferences were being held and President Roosevelt put aside other work to devote his efforts to formulating other legislation to replace the Blue Eagle codes. All eyes were cast to the President for guidance in this hour that may easily become fatal to the progress that has been made during the past two years.

Throughout the Nation, millions are uneasy as they ask the question, "What Now?" An atmosphere of bewilderment pervaded the country as workers attempted to weigh the possible effect the decision may have upon their future.

Some employers assuaged their workers' fears by announcing that they would continue to operate under the provisions of the NRA. Donald R. Richberg, chairman of the National Industrial Recovery Board, appealed for voluntary cooperation of capital and labor to maintain code standards until congress and the people can decide what can be done.

Hugh S. Johnson, former head of the NRA, declared Tuesday in an article written for publication that the Supreme Court's decision "puts us right back to Hoover."

"If all Federal regulations of labor and wages are bad then the Wagner Bill, the proposed 30-hour week bill, the labor board and all of NRA are gone.

"If all codes and administrative regulations of business except on specific

EDITORIAL

THE SUPREME COURT AND THE NRA

Of paramount importance to the people of the United States at this time is the question, "How will the United States Supreme Court's ruling against the NRA affect the rights of the laboring classes of the Nation?"

And without doubt, this question is vitally important! Any sane man, any man capable of thinking, must realize—and must admit—that much progress has been made toward financial recovery within the past two years; and likewise, he must admit that the codes which have guaranteed fair competition for employers and more or less social justice to the working men and women of this Nation have been the keystone, the fundation, for this progress.

Now, the men and women, working men and women who are the backbone of the country are going to resent the attitude of the Supreme Court in ruling that the government has no right to take steps for their protection—and they have every right to be resentful. They know what their condition was before President Roosevelt, in 1933, in a radio address to the Nation, made a plea for cooperation of Capital and Labor alike; they know of the improvement that has been made since that time. They can compare their opportunities of earning a living now with those of the Hoover days; and rightfully, they will resent the action of nine men in tearing down and destroying the guarantee that has given them and their families a chance to earn a living again.

The Constitution was written almost one hundred and fifty years ago, and a large part of it was patterned then from the Magna Charta of the Twelfth Century, so today to the average man, who must earn by the sweat of his brow food for himself and his family, it will be hard for him to reconcile the assumption that a technical interpretation of the Constitution is more important than his very life, his right to social justice, his opportunity to feed himself and his family.

The Constitution guarantees equal rights. Did the men who stood in the breadlines in '32 and begged for the crumbs from the rich man's table have equal rights? When he was being bled by a parasitic Capital to such an extent that he was destroyed—and likewise the Parasite, too, was almost destroyed by his own greed, was the laboring man getting the "equal rights" guaranteed him by the Constitution?

Both Capital and Labor have benefitted about equally from the NRA and "Codes of fair competition." Labor has been given an opportunity to live by honest work; and Capital has been protected from itself, from that greed which almost destroyed it a few years ago. Today, Capital is realizing profit for the first time since 1929—and Labor is able to look forward with a smile.

Yes, the people of the United States are going to ask themselves if the Supreme Court had a right to rob them of their opportunity to again march toward financial security.

WORKMEN ARE BUSY ON NEW THEATRE HERE

Expect To Begin Pouring Concrete Foundation During This Week

C. W. Wade, operator of the Wadesonian theatres, announced Monday that he expects to begin pouring the foundation for the new Clanton theatre this week. Work has been underway for the past two weeks on excavation of the site, and Mr. Wade declared Monday that everything will be in readiness by the latter part of the week for the laying of the foundation for the new building.

Little definite information was available regarding the approximate length of time that will be necessary for the construction of the building, but it was stated sometime ago, when announcement was first made that a new theatre would be erected here, that the opening date would likely be in the early fall.

This is to be one of the most modern theatres in any small city in the state, Mr. Wade stated, and will have a seating capacity of about six hundred, which nearly double that of the Wadesonian Theatre. It will be equipped with all modern conveniences for the patrons, including an attractive lobby with tile floors, lounging rooms for both men and women, attractively furnished, and also many other improvements.

Discussing the project, Mr. Wade said that he is building for the future and does not expect to spare expenses in giving the people of this section a theatre of which they will have every right to be proud. During recent months it has been almost impossible to accomodate the crowds that are patrons regularly of the Wadesonian.

Memorial Day

Each year more and more graves of our soldier dead claim the loving attention of relatives, friends and living comrades, who on May 30 place upon them flowers and flags as tributes to those who sleep.

This beautiful custom is said to have originated at Petersburg, Va., where on June 9, 1865, the citizens decorated the graves of a number of Confederates who had fallen in battle while defending the town on the same date a year before. In 1868, Mrs. Logan, wife of General John A. Logan, then commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. happened to visit Petersburg on its annual Memorial Day and was so impressed with the idea that she recommended to the general that it be made a national custom.

Accordingly, he issued a proclamation next year, calling upon all posts of the G. A. R. to observe May 30 as Decoration Day, or Memorial Day, by which it is also known, and this day is now a legal holiday in 40 states and in all U. S. possessions.

In recent years, especially since the World War, this date has been observed more generally in the South, usually under the auspices of the American Legion, although Southern States also observe Confederate Memorial Day, on different dates in the various states.

These dates are April 26 in Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and Florida; May 10 in North and South Carolina, the second Friday in May in Tennessee, and June 3 (the birthday of Jefferson Davis) in Louisiana.

National Memorial Day on May 30 is the occasion for especially impressive ceremonies at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington Cemetery, near Washington, where the President and high officials of our own and foreign governments usually participate in the exercises.

Making Living Safer

About all the average person knows of the fire insurance industry is that it issues policies protecting homes, factories, farms and other physical property against the ravages of fire. But what is not commonly known is that the industry, through the National Board of Fire Underwriters, carries on other activities which are of inestimable benefit to the industries and individuals of the nation.

The National Board periodically inspects all cities and towns above a certain size, and prepares exhaustive reports upon their water supplies, fire departments, and fire alarm systems, pointing out defects and aiding in their correction. It likewise furnishes able and impartial engineering service to municipalities. Work such as this saves thousands of lives and millions of dollars worth of property that would otherwise be sacrificed to fire.

One of the most important of the Board's activities, and one which directly affects practically every person, is the Underwriter's Laboratories. This organization conducts tests of building materials and supplies to determine how well they resist fire and prevent its spread. Machinery that presents a fire hazard is studied and classified. Fire extinguishing equipment is subjected to exhaustive performance tests. Such common household articles as electric irons, toasters, heaters and other electrical and gas devices are also studied in the Laboratories, and, if found safe, are given a seal of approval which wise buyers always look for in purchasing equipment of that nature.

Services such as these, developed and continued by stock fire insurance, mean not only dollars in our pockets, but safer and more comfortable living for us all.

It is said Al Capone fears he will go insane in prison. Maybe he is only crazy to get out.

They're Builders

In every community, and Clanton is no exception, are to be found individuals and business firms who are always aggressive. When you go into a store under this kind of management, you don't find the same displays you saw last week or last month. You will find fresh clean merchandise (with newer items and styles added) in an even more attractive display. When you pick up the local paper you will see an advertisement from the store, but it isn't just another ad. It has been carefully prepared, the illustrations portray the latest styles, and the copy and prices attract your attention. You will want to read about the merchandise this store is offering its customers, because you are impressed that here is a place where real values can be had, and that your trade is appreciated.

Sometimes a competitor feels that a portion of his trade is being taken by these aggressive individuals, but in that he is mistaken. The firm that is everlastingly pushing its business not only is a blessing to its town, but even to its competitor, for day by day, and week after week, it is bringing more people and greater business to the whole town.

We may call them "dollar chasers" sometimes, but the folks who are out after business, and they're the ones who get it, are the makers of a town. They are the ones who create employment, not only through their own increasing personell, but in a myriad of supplying types of manufacture which are stimulated by increased sales to larger employment.

These stores and places of business are not hard to recognize. The larger crowds of shoppers are to be found there. They are the builders of better business in our town.

Sixty-Four Out Of Hundred Left Nothing

Even in normal times, 98 per cent of the American people are poor investors. A survey made of 20,000 persons, before the current depression, shows that only one out of one hundred accumulated as much as $100,000. Only one out of eleven left an estate which, if invested at the rate of 6 per cent, would produce an income of $50 a month or over, and nearly two-thirds of the men studied—64 out of each 100—left nothing.

This was in good times. In words of Henry Behner of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, "What a similar study would reveal today is unpleasant to contemplate."

Facts like these, which are gradually becoming known to the mass of men, are largely responsible for the changed investment attitude of wage-earners. More and more of us are starting investment programs in comparative youth, which will provide at least a competence in the future. Life insurance, trust funds and similar investment plans, which place safety-first, are becoming more and more favored.

NRA's Record

Al Smith's formula for sifting the wheat from the chaff—"Let's look at the record" —might well be applied to arguments about NRA.

The record shows, according to the non-governmental National Bureau of Economic Research, that in 20 months under NRA: The number of wage-earners employed increased from an index of 115 to 133, total payrolls increased from 127 to 172, average earning per worker climbed from 110 to 126, everage hourly wages from 97 to 134, and everage hours of work per week dropped from 114 to 95. In all of these indices, the figure 100 measured conditions prevailing in February and March, 1933.

Responding to the bureau's circular asking why they increased wages, 369 industrial establishments said they did so to coeperate with NRA, 359 admitted that NRA codes forced increases, 227 said they thought increases good policy to avoid unrest, 141 credited increases to better financial conditions, 33 to increased value of employes, and 25 said they thought it good policy to pay as high wages as possible.

NRA's friends admit its blunders and its need of improvement.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

A few years ago there were eight patients in a hospital in South America, bed ridden with paralysis. They were growing worse and worse as the days went by, but one day a large snake crawled in at the window of the room in which they were and each patient jumped out of bed and took to his heels and left the room. The record shows that they were instantly healed without medical aid. On seeing the snake each patient had an inner urge to go into action and together they did it. The power to act was not dead and the snake caused action to be necessary. Thre are dormant powers within our lives that need to be stirred by some outward revelation and when this is done there is an inner urge that will put these powers into action. On the loss of our sight the finger tips develop the power of touch. Many of our powers are dormant and all because we are not letting them function.

A blind woman lived on a farm with her brother and he not being well his blind sister would milk and feed the cows. Late one afternoon she went to the barrel of feed and felt arround for the bucket that she knew was hanging on a nail just above the barrel. While doing this she turned deathly sick. She staggered to the door and called for her brother. He came to her and after he had carried her to her bed, he returned to complete the work. He found a large rattle snake coiled in the barrel of feed. I am one who believes in a Providence that takes care of folks who are not able to take care of themselves. Evidently there was something that took place between the blind lady and the venomous reptile.

Burger was a famous blind horse trader living at Bluntsville, Tennessee. He was blind but he knew horse flesh as few men ever knew. He would sit on the front porch of the country grocery and he was able to speak to the rider of the horses coming up as if he were able to see them. He knew the foot step of every horse in the community and to whom the horse belonged. His sense of touch grew so keen and accurate that he could tell a horse by the sound of the hoof on the ground. By the touch of his hand he was able to know all there was to a horse other than his color. He asked no quarter in a horse trade and before the trade in his community he outclassed any other trader. When one of our senses has been taken from us, nature and nature's God comes to our rescue and power to discern is imparted. God has a way of taking care of us.

There was a woman in Connecticut who tells of her blind uncle who could row his boat alone and never fail to return to the landing from whence he went out. This uncle was a great fisherman and early in the morning he would enter his boat and row out to the good fishing points and there remain all day and late in the afternoon come back to the landing. He had developed that sense of the blind until he was able to direct his course on the land and on the water as well as if he could see. That leads me to say that there is in every human dormant a sense of God and if we develop, if we cultivate that sense it will never fail to bring us to Him, whether we be on land or sea. Have you learned to depend on yourself, or have you developed that inherent power to find your way to God in spite of difficulties?

* * * *

When I was a young man I knew two blind people—one a man the other a woman. Years passed and I met these two blind people again. The woman had grown under her affliction to be one of the sweetest spirits I have ever known. The man had grown sour, marose and disagreeable. Each one had assumed a distinct attitude toward the affliction of blindness and the attitude assumed had grown two distinct spirits. One was bright and happy, the other was dark and critical; one was mellow and hopeful, the other was harsh and despondent. One was a joy to have around, the other was a burden. These afflictions of this life will work out for us a far more exceeding weight of glory if we learn the fine art of adjusting ourselves to them and then grow a soul under the light that comes from them. Blessed is the man or the woman who is able to look through blinded eyes and yet see the sunlight of life.

Sales of Shoes Show Steady Upward Trend

NEW YORK.—Shoe sales show steady uptrend. They are expected to increase substantially over the next few weeks. Fall shoes, which were displayed May 13, are expected to bring in a good volume of business as they will contain many new colors, designs, and styles.

Neither rains, duststorms, the late spring, nor uncertainty of legislative action have prevented a substantial demand for shoes, according to the consensus of shoe retailers gathered here for their semiannual style conference.

CLANTON 5 — COLUMBIANA 4

After losing two straight games to Columbiana, the locals went to the Shelby County capital Thursday afternoon and won, 5 to 4, in the first real good game the Clanton club has played this season.

Robinson and Faulkner tied up in an old time pitchers battle, and both were very stingy with their hits. Columbiana could gather only 5 safeties off Robinson's left-handed slants, while Clanton got to Faulkner for 8, including a home run.

For 5 innings it was a scoreless battle. In the 6th each team scored once. Littleton walked to start this frame and went to second on Baker's out. After Simm's went out Littlejohn singled and Littleton scored.

In their first half of this frame, Columbiana tied the count without the aid of a hit. Faulkner walked to start, and Bird put him on second with a sacrifice. West was out, Littleton to Littlejohn, as Faulkner took third. Martin and Taylor were purposely passed, filling the bases. On the double steal, Faulkner was caught between third and home, but Littlejohn dropped Littleton's throw, and Faulkner scored.

In the 8th, Clanton scored 4 runs. Simms flied out. Littlejohn singled, but Tiffin forced him at second, Tiffin going safe at first. Blood singled, and Armstrong walked, filling the bags. At this point Faulkner uncorked a wild pitch, and Tiffin scored. Then Easterling lifted a speed ball over the left field wall for a home run, driving in Blood and Armstrong ahead of him.

In the 9th Martin started the frame by walking. Taylor was out, Baker to Littlejohn, Martin going to second. Minor was hit by a pitched ball. Crumpton, batting for Lyons, doubled, scoring Minor and Martin, and took third on the throw to the plate. Horn signed and Crumpton scored. Smith flied to Blood, and Faulkner grounded out to Littlejohn to end the game.

Thinning Of Fruit Protects The Trees

Auburn, Ala.—Thinning over-loaded peach and apple trees will avoid the breaking of trees and increase the size of the fruits, advises Julian Brown extension horticulturist, stating that the fruits should appear 4 to 6 inches apart.

"Thin after the 'June drop,' which usually occurs in May," he advises "Thin by hand-picking and not by shaking or frailing the tree."

Henry Ford Restores $6 A Day Pay Scale

DETROIT, May 21— The Ford Motor Company announced today the restoration of the $6 a day minimum for all employes.

The prepared statement, issued by the company's advertising council, said that all employes working at the previous $5 a day minimum have been advanced to the $6 a day standard, which, the statement added, was the 1929 minimum wage for the Ford company.

Employes engaged at rate above the minimum were also advanced to higher wage levels through hourly rate increases of 5 cents and more.

The statement said that the new scales go into effect at all Ford and Lincoln Motor Company plants and affect 126.000 employes, 81,000 of them in Detroit. Of the Detroit workers, 41,000 are minimum wage employes. The statement estimated the cost of the increase at $2,000,000 a month.

The Ford minimum was increased to $7 a day after the depression set in late in 1929 and remained in effect until near the end of 1931 when the $6 daily minimum was resumed. A year later the minimum was dropped to $4 a day, and in March, 1934, it was increased to $5 a day.

Milk Cows Need Grain And Greens

Auburn, Ala.—Cows producing over two gallons of milk per day should be fed grain in addition to pastures if high production is to be maintained, advises F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist.

"Three parts corn and cob meal, 1 part wheat bran, and 1 part cottonseed meal makes an excellent grain mixture to use where milk cows are on pasture," he says.

500-Mile Classic Is Gruelling Test Of Tire Safety

INDIANAPOLIS, MAY 28—The sharp-toned roar of powerful motor cars is heard again at the Indianapolis Speedway, where preaprations are now in full swing for the annual racing classic May 30. The cream of America's race drivers are tuning up and testing their cars on the huge brick oval.

Tire engineers, working to make tires safer, are already in the pits—headed by J. E. Hale, development chief of the Firestone Company. These engineers obtain facts that are of tremendous importance to motorists. For 36,000 traffic deaths last year, and 7700 wrecks due to blowouts, prove that greater tire safety is America's vital need.

As the modern automobile has become more powerful, tire engineers each year have made new improvements in tires, and many of these are based on facts obtained from the Speedway. For instance new rubber compounds and new methods of treating cords with rubber were developed to counteract heat. In fact the most effective means known today for preventing internal friction and heat—the patented gum-dipping process of dipping cord fabric in liquid rubber—proved its advantage at the Speedway.

Tire development engineers point out that speeds at the track have gone up each year, yet tire failures—bugaboo of the old days—have become almost a thing of the past. In fact the drivers seldom make even a precautionary change—though this can be done without loss of time while a car is being refueled.

For the last 15 years the victor has used Firestone tires. These grueling tests provide Firestone engineers with facts not obtainable from any other source, and have contributed in a large measure to making Firestone tires stronger and more durable for protection of the lives of millions who drive on America's boulevards and highways.

EASTVIEW

The Sunday school was well attended here Sunday. All teachers were present and the lesson was well prepared.

The revival meeting will begin here the second Sunday in July. The Rev. Lawrence L. Stanley from Thorsby will help the pastor in the meeting. Everyone has a cordial invitation to worship with us in the meeting. Let us begin now to pray for the revival.

Louis Jones from near Billingsley visited his sister, Mrs. Emily Nelson of this place Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Nelson had as their guests Sunday afternoon Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson, Osmon and Herman Nelson, Miss Magnolia Hammonds, Miss Emmett Courtney, Mr. Tom Courtney, Mr. Kermit Gray and Miss Lucille Calloway.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Prickett was the Sunday dinner guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Prickett of Floyd community.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Coggins spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Coggins of Shiloh community.

Mr. and Mrs. K. Wells and Mrs. Ruth Davis spent the week end in Elmore County where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Brown at Dexter.

The Rev. A. C. Nelson motored to Eclectic Saturday where he filled his regular appointment Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Otis Coggins and Mr. and Mrs. Silas Nelson visited the home of the Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson Sunday.

We are having a good Sunday school but we need more parents to become interested in the school. Proverbs 22:6 reads like this: "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it.

So many parents neglect giving their children the religious training that they need and then when they begin to sow the wild oats that we hear parents talk about they wonder why it happened. Remember the saying: "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

By all means come to Sunday school next Sunday.

IN MEMORY OF ASA COLLINS

Asa's many Chilton County friends are deeply sorrowful, we know, because of his passing away. Asa will be held pleasantly in our memory particularly because of the wonderful bass voice which God saw fit to entrust in his care. He used that talent willingly and freely as long as his health permitted.

God has graciously promised to reward those of his servants who uses right those talents with which he blesses them. Asa used his.

He surrendered his life to Jesus sometime ago and at the time of his death was a member of the Liberty Hill Baptist Church (Chilton County). He was prepared to meet his Savior and hear those wonderful words, "Thou hast been faithful over a few things; I will therefore make thee ruler over many."

Most earthly pleasures must remain on this side of Jordan but God has promised that we shall have Sweet Music in heaven and somehow I feel that Asa will be particularly fitted to sing in that heavenly choir where no discord is known.

Asa also had a host of friends in Birmingham who will sorely miss him. He held a very responsible position with one of the larger companies of our city and was held in highest esteem by both his employer and his comrades with whom he worked.

Asa will be greatly missed by all of us who knew him best. He served well and life for all of us was made sweeter because we were privileged to know him.

The writer joins his other friends of Chilton County in extending sympathy to a devoted wife and a loving mother, father, and sisters who survive him.

His friend and teacher,
—J. L. Harris.

PROTECT YOUR LIFE AND THE LIVES OF OTHERS!

THERE are three questions you should ask yourself about the tires you buy:

1—"Will the non-skid tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"
2—"Are they built to give me the greatest blowout protection?"
3—"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

Answer No. 1—Harvey S. Firestone early realized the value of tire traction and safety and was the first to design an All Rubber Non-Skid Tire. Through the years Firestone has led the way in the design and development of tires with most effective non-skid treads.

Firestone does not depend solely on traction and non-skid tests made by its own engineers—it employs a leading University to make impartial tests for non-skid efficiency of its tires, and their most recent report shows that Firestone High Speed Tires stop the car 15% quicker than the best of all popular makes of tires.

Answer No. 2—Blowout protection must be built into a tire. Friction and heat within the tire is the greatest cause of blowouts. Firestone protects its tires from friction and heat by a patented process which soaks every cord and insulates every strand with pure liquid rubber. This is an additional process known as Gum-Dipping, by which every 100 pounds of cotton cords absorb eight pounds of rubber. This extra process costs more and is not used in any other make of tire.

Leading race drivers investigate the inbuilt qualities of the tires they use, because their very lives depend upon their tires, and they always select Firestone Tires for their daring speed runs. In fact, Firestone Tires have been on the winning cars in the gruelling Indianapolis 500-mile race for fifteen consecutive years, and they were on the 5,000-pound car that Ab Jenkins drove 3,000 miles in 23½ hours on the hot salt beds at Lake Bonneville, Utah, at an average speed of 127.2 miles per hour, without tire trouble of any kind. These amazing performance records are proof of the greatest blowout protection ever known.

Answer No. 3—Thousands of car owners reporting mileage records of 40,000 to 75,000 miles, is proof of the long mileage and greater economy by equipping with Firestone High Speed Tires. Let these unequaled performance records be your buying guide.

Go to the Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store or Firestone Tire Dealer and let him equip your car with Firestone Tires, the safest and most economical tires built.

BRIGHT BUT LAZY

Of its many thousands of high school graduates New York claims the brightest in the person of Ellen Elizabeth Benson, who finished her work preparatory for college at the age of 12.

Several stories of her precocity are told. At eight months she startled a physician who was examining her in a health contest by saying "baby wants dinner." At 16 months a pshychological test showed her to have a vocabulary of 159 words. At 3 years she could read, although no effort had been made to teach her. She is now declared to have the mental capacity of a girl of 19.

All these, accomplishments would naturally convey the impression that Ellen Elizabeth is an indefatigable student and worker. But let her tell about that for herself:

"No, I don't like to study. I just read and remember. And I'm lazy about housework. Just ask mother."

Little Miss Benson may make a mark in the world, and then again she may not. Many precocious youngsters revert to mediocrity in later life, because they are too lazy to make use of their natural gifts.

SWINDLING THE FAT

Due to the present feminine desire for slim figures, thousands of women are being swindled by vendors of alleged fat-reducing preparations. which have no value whatsoever.

Put up in the form of "fat reducing gum drops," some of these fake cures are quite attractive, but several of them which have been analyzed were found to contain nothing conducive to slenderness except a drug having a slight laxative effect.

These reducing remedies are usually accompanied by instructions to eat only half as much food as usual, to take long walks, and be sparing in the use of bread and potatoes. Following these directions would tend to secure the desired results, of course, without the chewing gum and gum drops.

Doctors tell us that it isn't healthful for fat people to be slim, anyway "Be yourself" is their advice.

Henry Reitsen of Chicago got a court order to recover his socks and other clothing from his divorced wife, but she was advised to "sock him" if he annoyed her.

Loron E. Slocum wanted solitude, so he dug a hole in the ground near Faith, S. D., made it into a home, and has lived there for twenty years.

MAZAR'S TO CONTINUE HUGE SALE DUE TO MANY REQUESTS

-o-

Event Met With Tremendous Success On Opening Last Saturday; Will Also Make Trade Award Next Saturday Afternoon

-o-

Because of the overwhelming success and the numerous requests coming from customers in every part of the county and surrounding territory for the continuance of the "Remodeling Sale" being staged at Mazar's. I. S. Levine, manager of the store, has announced that he has decided to continue the sale for at least one week longer and invites the public to visit the store and inspect the array of bargains that will be available during this sale.

During Friday and Saturday of last week, the two days in which the sale was in progress, Mazar's enjoyed the best business in the history of the store, and Mr. Levine declared that he is confident that this patronage is a result of the values that customers have learned always await them at his store, especially during this sale will unheard of bargains be featured and those who fail to take advantage of these sale prices will be robbing themselves of the greatest opportunity of the year, Mr. Levine said.

In this issue of the News will be found a large advertisement from Mazar's, in which a few of the hundreds of bargains available during the store's Remodeling Sale are featured. Mr. Levine invites comparison of these values with those that may be obtained elsewhere.

A host of clerks have been engaged during the sale to assure customers of speedy and friendly service that is fast instilling in the minds of the people of this section that slogan, "The Friendly Store." This is one of the aims of this sale to convince the public of this county that Mazar's is really "The Friendly Store," Mr. Levine pointed out.

The genial manager extended congratulations to Mrs. Roxie Maudling of Clanton, winner of the ten dollar award given by the store last Saturday and it was announced that a similar awrd will be mde to some customer of the store this week. Customers are urged to ask about the prize and become eligible for it.

Millions Lost by Politically Operated Power System. Taxpayers Must Make Up Huge Losses

Ontario's politically operated power system, held up for years as a model of government ownership, now faces a grave crisis. Instead of a successful venture, the New York Sun reports that the tax free Ontario system has added hundreds of millions to Ontario's public debt. This deficit must be paid by Ontario taxpayers. Here is the story:

"The cause of public ownership of electrical utilities in the United States receives a genuine setback as the American public begins to understand what is happening to the blue-ribbon baby of public ownership, the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario. That is the largest municipal supply system in the world, often held up as an example of what governmental operation can accomplish in the utility field. But its record indisputably shows that political management and an unsound economic basis can get the strongest of such institutions into trouble.

"Theoretically the corporation exists for much the same purpose as that proposed for various 'yardstick' enterprises in the United States—that of furnishing electrical current at low rates to consumers through management and control. Actu has added hundreds of millio dollars to the public debt of O which, on a per capita basis, so can be said to compare favorabl that of New York or Quebec (o bama) where private managem the rule.

"The commission has found with an unmarketable surplus o and has been compelled to face annual deficits.

"Meanwhile communities using municipal power on tax is paid have found their of debt steadily growing These would gladly use ta from electrical services if could devise some means ing it.

"As one way to help the co sion out of its difficulties the H government — declaring that has been a 'political tool' which 'nearly ruined by mismanagem inefficiency'—has resorted to drastic expedient of repudiatin tracts negotiated by an agency government. Our own repud the gold clause in Federal estops us on this side of the from raising any question as morality of this procedure."

"The outer tube is similar in appearance and function to an ordinary tube and fits inside the casing," Mr. Diefenderfer continued. "The inside carcass is built up of two plies of fabric and when in service floats free without chafing. When a blowout occurs, air escapes from the outer chamber instantly but can escape from the inner carcas only through the single small vent hole, which allows it to seep out slowly.

"The tire then drops down sightly to ride on the inner carcass, allowing the driver to bring the car to a stop under perfect control. He can pull off to the side of the road without endangering himself, his car or the lives of other motorists.

"Police and fire department officials and heads of safety organizations who have seen the tube demonstrated are unanimous in the opinion it is one of the most important contributions to the safety of motoring that has been made in a decade," Mr. Diefenderfer concluded.

News from Thorsby

MISS CORDELIA EASTBURN, Correspondent

Thorsby Institute News

Wednesday night was class night for the Seniors. "Moon-Shy" was the name of the play and it was very well acted. After the play the Class History was read by Grady Popwell, Class Prophecy by Ruth Foss, Class Will by Lucile Each and Class Poem by Jane Billingsley.

Thursday morning the Graduating Exercises took place. Very interesting essays were read by Jane Billingsley and Ruth Foss. The Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Allen, music teacher, sang, "Hark, Hark the Lark" by Schubert and a girls trio consisting of Verlon Goodgame, Inez Jackson and Mary Nelle Pate sang, "If with all Your Hearts" by Mendelssohn. Dean George Bellingrath, Ph. D. of Piedmont College, Demorest, Georgia, gave a splendid address. In his introductory remarks he mentioned the fact that three Thorsby Institute students are to graduate this year from Piedmont College. All of them have done very good work. Helen Diefenderfer Kathryn Foss and Gerald Smith. He said that Miss Foss, who is to be music teacher at Thorsby Institute the coming year, gave a song recital Tuesday night at the college, which he considered one of the best recitals he had ever heard. Miss Foss will get her A.B. in music.

After the exercises there was an interesting exhibit in the Dining Hall, of food cooked by Dormitory girls; of work done in typing by commercial students; of drawing done by geometry students; and notebook work in Bible; and a copy of a newspaper gotten out by the Sophomore English clas.s.

A splendid dinner sponsored by the Ladies Guild was served on the grounds. After the dinner there was a ball game between the school and alumni. The school won. The alumni held a business meeting in room 2 at which Miss Willie Littlejohn was elected President, Mr. H. R. Maddox, vice president, Edith Foss, secretary and Helen Lowery treasurer. The alumni dues are only twenty-five cents a year and it is hoped that every one who has not paid will pay. If each one would pay one dollar to cover four years dues, that would help very much. Our alumni have been working towards enlarging the library room. The library is too cramped as it is. It is expected that the alumni will repeat their play which they gave in May. It was pery amusing, as well as being a good, clean play.

Any who wishes to take either piano or voice the coming year should see Mr. Maddox, and also Miss Kathryn Foss. It may be possible that she will give private lessons this summer and the same ones taking this summer could be all the more ready to take up the work in music the coming year at the Institute. It is hoped that she will give a recital this summer at the Institute, that he Thorsby friends may hear her sing and play.

As there are a number of people in Thorsby interested in good music, it has been suggested that a club or organization might be formed, that they might have programs which they will enjoy, and in which various ones may participate.

Weekly Wages Increase 22 Per Cent In Steel Industry

New York.—The average weekly earnings of wage earners in the steel industry in the first quarter of 1935 were 22 per cent higher than they were during the first 3 months of 1934, according to the American Iron and Steel Institute.

Steel employees paid on an hourly, piecework, or tonnage basis received an average of $22.54 a week, compared with $18.46 a week in the corresponding period of 1934. Average hours worked per week in the industry during the first quarter of 1935 were 34.3, compared with 31.5 in the year before.

The greater increase in size of weekly pay envelopes resulted from the greater number of hours worked. The 11.5 per cent increase in average hourly earnings of workers in the steel industry last year compares with an increase of only 7.5 per cent in the average wage per hour in 25 major industries, as reported by the National Industrial Conference Board.

During the whole of 1934 wage-earning empolyees of the steel industry earned an average of 6.4 per cent more per hour than they did in 1933.

●This season more crops than for many a year will be side-dressed with Natural Chilean Soda. It came from the ground; now it's going back to the ground to give health and vigor to your crops.

Once we believed crops needed only phosphate, potash and nitrogen. Now we know they require many other elements. Once we thought of the old-time natural fertilizers only as sources of phosphate, potash and nitrogen. Now we know they contain other equally necessary elements.

All these years we have been following Nature's laws—and only realized what that meant after trying substitute materials.

There was a difference. Crops showed it. They did not seem to get what they needed—what the old-time natural fertilizers supplied.

What is the difference? Some people think it is the extra elements—the "vital impurities." Others believe it is the natural origin, the centuries of blending and curing. Probably it is both. The main point is that the difference is there, and it means much to you.

Be sure to say "Chilean" when ordering your side dresser. Just that one word—but what a difference!

See your dealer for Chilean Natural Nitrate. Two kinds—Champion (granulated), Old Style (crystals). They are both genuine. Both are natural. And both give to your crops those vital impurities.

Chilean Natural Nitrate—the only nitrogen that comes from the ground—the ideal side dresser for your crops.

Drastic Cuts In Health Program Are Protested

Montgomery, Ala., May 23—County medical societies throughout the State have gone on record voicing strong protests against drastic cuts in appropriations for public health work proposed in the appropriation bill now pending in the legislature.

Information reaching the State Board of Health—official group of the Medical Association of the State of Alabama charged with the duties of protecting the public against disease and with promoting health knowledge—indicates that doctors are "very much disturbed" over the prospect of such activities being further curtailed, according to the State Health Department.

Soon after it was learned that the appropriations measure provides only $275,000 annually for all health activities including the amounts given the organized health units, a cut of about 60 per cent of former appropriations, Dr. Charles A. Thigpen, President of the State Medical Association, issued a statement in which he deplored this reduction and called upon physicians of the entire State for support.

Typical of the many resolutions already adopted by county associations was that by the Montgomery County Medical Society, composed of 78 practicing physicians. It said, in part:

"That the members of this society numbering seventy-eight active physicians deplore any effort on the part of the present legislature to further reduce the appropriation of the State Health Department which has been already reduced by 42 per cent of thee 1932 appropriation.

"That it is the deliberate opinion of this body that any further curtailment of appropriations to health work would react disastrously upon the health of the people of the entire State and virtually destroy the efficiency and usefulness of one of the most important arms of State Government."

"Washed" Motor Oil Gives More Mileage

As announced, a unique refining process has been introduced by the Gulf Refining Company which offers motorists a new, improved, and premium quality lubricant for 25 cents a quart. This motor oil, the new Gulflube, gives more mileage and better lubrication in any kind of weather.

The new process, known as the Multi-sol Process, removes practically all impurities from the oil. The method is simple; yet effective. Just as a housewife takes a stain out of a beautiful fabric with a cleansing fluid, so the Multi-sol Process "washes" out the undesirable tars, gums and sludge and carbon-forming materials. By the introduction of two solvents into the procedure, impurities are dissolved and separated from the oil.

Never before, engineers say, has such exact control of refining motor oils been possible. They add that the Multi-sol Process is well adapted to quantity production, thereby assuring a constant, sufficient supply of Gulflube at service stations to meet public demand from Maine to Texas. At Philadelphia a complete new Multi-sol Process refining plant has been completed to apply the revolutionary process.

It is stated that the process is more thorough, and more selective since it enables the refiner to remove the unwanted ingredients without touching those desirable to be retained. Multi-so Processed Gulflube gives more mileage. It results in less carbon deposit. It provides easier and quicker starting at low temperatures, and superior lubrication under all conditions. Since it means more economical operation, there is no increase in cost.

To properly announce the advantages of the new Gulflube, Multi-sol Processed, large advertisementsh will appear in about 1,000 leading newspapers in Gulf's marketing territory. Publicity will also be given the improved lubricant in the Gulf Funny Weekly, over the radio, and on highway posters. Gulf's 40,000 dealers will take part in the "Premium oil for 25c per quart" campaign.

Board Sets Final Date For Signing Allotment Blanks

Auburn, Ala.—June 8th has been set as the final date for Alabama cotton producers to sign applications for tax-exemption certificates under the Bankhead Act.

In advising county agents of the final date, W. H. Robertson, member of the State Allotment Board, writes county agents urging them to rush the work "in order that producers will not be confronted with the same confusion and delay in receiving tax-exemption certificates as was the case in 1934 and in order that this office will have time to do the necessary work most economically, it is very necessary that every effort be made to expedite the preparation of the Bankhead applications for 1935."

SAY MOTION PICTURES ARE NOT ADVERTISING MEDIUMS

New York, April 22—The Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America today completed its annual meeting, which had been adjourned from an earlier session on March 25.

Among various matters discussed at today's session was the subject of advertising on the screen. In this connection, Will H. Hays, president of the Association, made the following statement:

"Much concern is felt over the reports that various projects are now under way, aimed at injecting advertising films into entertainment programs, and the Association will conduct a study of the matter. A report and recommendations will be presented to the Board at a later date.

"The motion picture theatre is and should be reserved exclusively for entertainment. The motion picture theatre screen is not a proper medium for advertising, whether this be by direct presentation of outright advertising films, or by some indirect effort to present advertising films under the guise of entertainment."

IDEA FOR NATIONAL FOREST IS THREATENED THROUGH RUMORS

High Prices Asked For Land Tracts Needed By Government Will No Doubt Result In Failure Of Projects, Is Warning

Prospects for a large National Forest in north Dallas, Bibb, Chilton and Perry counties have been greatly endangered by misinformation that has been spread among land owners of the area as to the price the Federal Government will pay for marginal and semi-marginal lands, it was learned by Hunt Frasier, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, at Montgomery Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Frasier emphasized the point here today that there is a definite, fixed price above which the Forestry Service cannot possibly go in purchase of these lands.

Certain agents have secured options on these lands at prices which the Forestry Service would not consider; and unless the people in the area are willing to accept a sound appraisal value for their lands and are willing to show a better spirit of cooperation in Dallas County, the Forestry Department probably will pull up stakes and move out, Mr. Frasier warned. There are millions of acres of marginal lands that are being offered the government and this section has no monopoly on location or type of land which the government now is seeking.

The Forestry service has experienced appraisers who, when the land is submitted to them, make a sound and accurate appraisal on the value of that land, based on the amount of timber on it, the type of soil and the present revenue, and they establish these sound values which are usually a little above the actual market value of the land when sold privately. In no instance can the Forestry Service go beyond this estimate.

Failure to secure the National Forest area in this section, now being investigated, would be a great loss to the counties involved, Secretary Frasier pointed out today. Wherever a Forestry preserve is established, all idle people in the county and in adjoining counties where the park area is located, are given employment. After a period of years this area becomes a permanent lumber center, with a continuous cut made from the annual increment, which is sufficient to keep a number of saw mills in operation.

Contrary to uninformed public opinion the National Forest preserve brings a large payroll. The Chamber of Commerce is writing Probate Judges and others who should be interested in the adjoining counties, seeking their help in getting the Forest permanently established.

McKee defeated Culp in the race for tax collector; Martin was successful against Collins for tax assessor, and Pattillo won over Harris in the race for circuit court clerk. The race between McKee and Culp was the closer of the three—McKee won by a fifty-four majority.

In the case of Collins vs. Martin the following grounds are set out in the petition filed for the dismissal of the case:

1. The contestant, Akins I. Collins, at the time of the filing of said contest did not give good and sufficient security for the costs of said contest.

2. The contestant, Akins I. Collins, at the time of the institution of the contest in the above stated cause, did not give good and sufficient security and file the same in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court at the time of the institution of said contest.

3. For that Akins I. Collins, the contestant, did not give and there was not approved at the time of the filing of said contest, nor within twenty days from the declaration of the result of said election, good and sufficient security ofr the costs of said contest.

In the petitions filed by defense counsel for dismissal of the other two cases, forty-seven counts are set out, reasons why these cases should be dismissed.

statutory pattern are bad, then all of Agricultural Adjustment Administration licensing provisions and "marketing agreements" and other penalty-supported regulations of business are bad also and these are the very foundation of AAA.

"Subtract these and there is hardly anything left, except agricultural "benefit" payments (and they are doubtful) and public works. We are right back to Hoover.

"There is no doubt that NRA raised the purchasing power of factory payrolls more than 30 per cent and created at least three million new jobs. There is no reason to believe that with NRA withdrawn these advantages will not be lost.

"In every previous recovery, wages have always lagged far behind prices and it is reasonable to suppose that this tendency will reassert itself unless something is done to replace the support of the old NRA.

"Furthermore, it is well established now that the recovery act halted in its tracks a wave of bankruptcy of small enterprises which reached its peak just before the recovery act passed. This rescue came from the fair trade practice provisions of the code. If they are not replaced with other protections conformable to the opinion of the court, I know of no reason why the tendency before NRA will not reassert itself.

"Less than 10 per cent of labor in this country is organized. For the first time. NRA brought equal benefits to organized and unorganized labor. It prevented the necessity for strikes and, while there were some disturbances there were fewer than in any previous period of recovery. If labor loses the benefit of NRA it will not do so without attempting to use other economic weapons, the mildest of which would be sporadic strikes. If something is not done at once, we shall see the worst epidemic of labor trouble in this country this Summer that we have known in our life time.

"Nothing but the firmest, promptest and most aggressive attitude on the part of the Administration can prevent a chaotic condition throughout a large part of industry. Every small independent enterprise in this country, every one of the 20 odd million wage and salary earners have a vital stake in this matter and every one of them should make known to his representative in Congress the effect on him of a sudden withdrawal of the benefits of NRA. It is no time for the friends of NRA to take it lying down. Every one of them should begin a determined fight for this great principle."

"A good many said they would comply with the code in their industry and that others in the same industry had given them the same pledge."

Judge Petree said he had received no information from Washington but that he was expecting to be advised soon.

NRA Gains Praised

Coal producers and textile manufacturers were among the strongest advocates of a continuation of gains made under NRA.

"It is hoped that the textile industry will continue to operate under code wages and hours at least until leaders in the industry can agree on some uniform plan," Scott Roberts, Anniston president of the Alabama Cotton Manufacturers, said. "I am sure sentiment is is favor of conserving gains made under NRA."

D. A. Thomas Birmingham, chairman of the Coal Code Authority for Division Three, comprising Alabama, Southern Tennessee and Georgia, said that the industry would by no means favor returning to conditions prevailing before the recovery machinery was set up.

Mr. Thomas announced a meeting of operators in Division Three for 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Alabama Mining Institute in the Webb Crawford Building to discuss policies in view of the NRA decision.

Mr. Thomas said he thought he could speak for the majority of Alabama coal operators by saying that "we are disappointed at the collapse of NRA. We had made specific gains, and the NRA had acted as a valuable stabilizing influence. We hope to keep the situation together until we know where we are, and I am confident there will be a full measure of cooperation on a voluntary basis to prevent flagrant violation of wage and hour agreements.

Modern Beauty Shoppe Boasts Most Unusual Record In Giving Permanent Waves

Three Generations Given Waves Last Saturday; One Hundredth Wave To Be Given Free

What is perhaps the most unusual record of any beauty shoppe in this entire section is being proudly borne by The Modern Beauty Shoppe of Clanton.

This popular and modern shop carried an advertisement in the News last week, listing among other items, the new Shirley Temple waves for children, and Mrs. W. C. Robinson, owner of the shop, stated that she is more than pleased with the response to that particular advertisement.

Early Saturday morning, the Modern Beauty Shoppe had among its first customers, a grandmother, her daughter and her grand-daughter, all who were anxious to be given a permanent wave. At one and the same time, three generations of the same family were leaving the shop proudly displaying their waves. The grand-daughter was six years old.

Another record chalked up in favor of this shop is the fact that Mr. Grady Mills, one of the licensed operators there, gave his 90th permanent wave Tuesday afternoon of this week since their opening on April 11th.

Mrs. Robinson asked the News to inform their patrons that the 100th wave given by them will be given free. So, judge the time and the distance for that 100th permanent wave.

NOTES FROM THE CO. AGENT

There is still time to make arrangements for more feed. The stubble land could be planted in yellow corn for feeding chickens and livestock. By planting later than the white corn there will be little danger of mixing. You may plant soybeans or cowpeas for hay, and sorghum for hay or silage. More farmers could use silage to advantage.

Derris, a new kind of insect poison is giving good satisfaction in the county. This poison is controlling the [illegible] beetle, Southern corn root worm that attacks watermelon plants, and in fact, all insects with chewing mouth parts It also helps to control plant lice and other insects with sucking mouth parts.

Let's plant a small patch of soybeans for seed purposes. Seed may be produced, if you will take the trouble, and save considerable outlay of money in the spring. One-half acre will usually produce all the seed one farmers will need.

Peanuts is another good feed and food crop too often neglected. On most of our thin land more feed can be produced with peanuts than any other crop .

Weeds grow fast in the home garden in June. Keep them down. Too often we get in the midst of working our field crops and forget our home garden. Keep on the job constantly killing insects.

Plant the following: beans (bush, pole), butter beans (bunch and pole), squash, cucumber, pepper, radish turnips in fact make another planting of all vegetables planted earlier.

Now is the time to do your planning for next winter's feed. A little planning and planting now may keep some cow or mule from getting hungry before another crop is made or at least, save you from having to buy feed My observation has been that if a farmer buys feed to produce a crop, it takes all his cotton to pay the feed and fertilizer bills in the fall.

Let's make plans to grow all the feed we need and a little to sell. Some tenants will not make enough feed but with the proper effort on the part of the landlord the farm will produce enough feed so that the farm as a whole will be self sustained.

CONTEST TRIAL IS MOVED UP TO JULY

PLEADINGS ARE HEARD

Long Procedure Will Hear Hundreds Of Witnesses To Begin July 8th

The first round in the Chilton County election contest bout, which was staged in the circuit court here last Friday morning, may be considered a draw.

Defense attorneys, representing the three Democrats whose right to serve in the capacities to which they were elected last November is being questioned, struck the first blow when they ask Judge Arthur Glover to dismiss the case on the grounds of "insufficient bond" in two of the three suits and on technical grounds in the third.

Partial pleadings were heard in the Culp vs. McKee suit, and Judge Glover ruled that the complaints were not sufficiently sworn to, but allowed the plaintiff to amend that part of his complaint. Although the other two cases were not reached, it is understood that attorneys for Akin Collins and H. A. Harris immediately filed amendments to their complaints.

Judge Glover announced that he will hear the pleadings in the other two cases this week, perhaps Thursday. The trials were re-set for July 8, when the long procedure of taking testimony from several hundred witnesses will be begun.

In the Culp vs. McKee case, the Judge permitted demurrers on three of the five grounds set out by the defense, but allowed contestants to file amendments.

PLANS FOR NEW BUILDING ARE READY TO MOVE

Two - Story Building Will House A & P Store On Mullins Corner

Early next week, the task of erecting a new, two story brick building on the Mullins Corner, site for more than fifty years of the old frame building which housed the Mullins' enterprises, will be begun, according to an announcement this week by J. Watts Moore, who will have charge of the building when completed.

At a cost of $15,000 the structure, approximate dimensions of which will be 85 by 40 feet, will be erected as rapidly as possible, it was declared. W. C. Monroe, of Sylacauga, is contractor for the erection of the building and is expected to start work early next week, according to Mr .Moore.

The building will be two stories; the first floor being used for merchandising and the second floor for office space. It is understood that the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company (A&P) has leased the lower floor and will remove the local store to this location just as soon as the building is completed.

Red brick will be used, and the first floor will be of cement, it is understood. Dirt from the site of the new post office has been hauled onto the lot, filling it to a level with the street.

JUNE 8 LAST DATE TO SIGN ALLOTMENTS

Farmers Urged To Attend To This Important Matter Immediately

June 8th, 1935 has been set by the State Allotment Board as the last date on which applications for Allotments and gin certificates may be signed.

Any farmer who is growing cotton this year may make application in Clanton at the Hayes Building any day this week including Saturday.

Unless a farmer makes application, he will be required to pay tax on all of his crops.

Under an amendment to the Act up to 2 bales of the farms' cotton history is exempt from taxes, but it will be necessary for every farmer operator to make application.

Owner-operators, cash tenants, standing rent tenants, managing share-tenants or share croppers operating an entire farm should make application.

Tenants working on halves, unless they operate an entire farm, need not make application. The landlord should make the application and list all tenants, giving the number of acres planted in cotton by each this year.

Most of the farmers have signed these applications already but there are a few in each beat who have not signed. Please pass this information on to anyone whom you know has not made application for gin certificates.

CITY LIMITS ARE EXTENDED WHEN GOVERNOR SIGNED BILL

New Corporate Limits Practically Double Size Of Clanton And Adds Large Number To Population

The local bill, introduced in the State Legislature by Rep. C. B. Cox, of Chilton, for the extension of the city limits of Clanton passed both the house and the senate several days ago and became a law Tuesday when it received the approval of Gov. Bibb Graves.

Representative Cox and Senator Earle Thomas stated Saturday that they felt confident that the governor would place his O. K. on the bill along with several others either Saturday or the early part of this week.

The new limits of the city, as provided by the bill, almost double the area and will increase the population by approximately one-third. On the north, the city limits will be just north of the Willis Tourist Camp; on the east (Lay Dam Road, the line will be at the airport road; south, the road leaves the highway toward the Temple community; and on the west, near the intersection of the Clanton-Selma Highway and Second Avenue.

This almost doubles the area of the town, and at the same time does not include any territory that should not be within the limits of the city, Mayor Jones said.

"At first there was some opposition to the extension of the city limits, but I believe that most of this has become reconciled—and I am convinced that every citizen of the town will recognize within a few years that it was the proper move," Mayor Jones stated. "Clanton is growing rapidly and already holds a position as on of the State's most important smaller municipalities; the fact that its population and area have not kept step with its progress has really been a serious handicap," he said.

Mayor Jones hopes to secure a new census rating of Clanton within the next few months, giving it the rank that is its due when compared to other Alabama cities.

DR. GRAGG TELLS OF STATUS OF LOCAL AIRPORT

Has A Heart To Heart Talk With State ARA Engineer On Situation

Following is a letter from Dr. V. J. Gragg, to the News for publication this week. Dr. Gragg is writing frankly about the situation in reard to the local airport and community center for Clanton, after conferring with officials of the government agency through which funds for this project were secured:

Our community center is a near failure so far. Just why, I will not attempt to say. Mr. Hawkins, the State Engineer of the Alabama Relief Association, in discussing it says, "you Chilton County folks need some terpentine rubbed on you."

He further said that we had enough money given us to finish the field, fence it, and put lights around it. Yet, he said he was dumbfounded to find it in such condition that he would not dare to attempt to land on the field.

However, I had hoped above all to have a large building that could not only be used as a hangar for transient planes but would be a county-wide meeting place for our farmers at their annual meetings—a county fair grounds to be used by them in the fall season; and a place for our younger

PRESIDENT OFFERS PLAN

Proposal For Congress Being Closely Kept For The Time Being

Information from sources near the Administration this week indicates that President Roosevelt is ready to propose to Congress the restoration of the fundamental principles of the NRA but perhaps limited to interstate commerce.

The presidential proposal is being closely guarded and practically no hint of its provisions have leaked out, but it is believed that it will insist upon the minimum wages and maximum hours of work provided under the NRA

The President is believed to have a legislative program to propose as a stop-gap pending the results of his campaign for broadening of constitutional authority for the federal government to deal with national economic and social problems.

As the heads of the Roosevelt Administration in Washington rack their brains for some possible legislative substitute for the NRA, doomed by the action of the Supreme Court a few days ago, the reaction throughout the nation has been of a much mixed nature.

Within a few hours after the Supreme Court issued its opinion, many employers throughout every section of the United States began sending messages to the President, assuring him of their continued faith and willingness to cooperate with any program which he may evolve fo rthe purpose of bringing this country back to normalcy. In many cases, assurance was given that the spirit, wages and hours of the NRA will still be the guiding light under which their employes will work.

On the other hand, among the "chiselers" was immediately noted an opportunity to again operate under the cutthroat, selfish methods of the pre-NRA days; and already some have made it known that their employes will again be forced to work longer hours, with less pay. The same old employe-

The Only Solution

During 1934, the automobile caused the deaths of 24.7 persons out of each 100,000 of our population.

Each 100,000 cars in use killed 130.4 people.

Every time 10,000,000 gallons of gasoline were consumed, 20.1 persons died.

There are three different ways of looking at the automobile accident problem—and any one of them should be sufficiently impressive to make the public think, and think seriously. The problem would be bad enough if it were no greater than in previous years, but statistics show that it is steadily becoming more acute. In 1931, for example, automobile registrations were 3 per cent greater than in 1934 and gasoline consumption about one per cent greater—but 1931 automobile deaths were 8 per cent under 1934. This year, with automobile registrations and gas consumption again on the up-grade, it isn't pleasant to speculate on what the death toll will be—unless that proportion of the motoring public which is reckless, incompetent and plain discourteous is forced to change its ways.

A glance at the records shows that the so-called "unavoidable" accident is so rare as to be practically non-existent. All but a handful of accidents are caused by one of two things—mechanically defective cars, or a defect in the person behind the wheel. And of those two, the last is infinitely more important—93.9 per cent of the cars involved in accidents last year were in apparently good condition.

The time has passed when appeals to the reckless driver to improve his ways are sufficient. He has refused—and the force of public opinion, backed by modern, aggressively enforced laws, presents the only solution to the problem.

Only That Which Is Good

In a recent article by Artemus Calloway, conductor of The Birmingham News-Age Herald amateur short story department, a significant statement was made. In the course of his discussion he referred to letters of criticism he had received from writers whose manuscripts had been rejected. And then, particularly addressing himself to these individuals, he advised them not to become discouraged, an invite them to submit other stories for consideration, stating that they need have no hesitation because they had written discourteous letters, that his deparment remembered only that which is good.

Mr. Calloway's department, conducted solely for amateur writers, is one of the most unique in newspaper history. It has been wonderfully successful, due, no doubt, to his amazing patience and kindly interests in problems of the sturggling, would-be author. What could be a greater inspiration to a young man or woman than to learn that one who has been unjustly accused of partiality has forgotten the incident and is ready to aid in another effort?

A philosophy like that goes much deeper than the mere question of writing a story. It may well become an ideal for a fuller life. All of us would do well to think how much happier we would feel if at the end of the day, or at the close of our allotted years, we remembered "only that which is good."

The fact that you can fool some of the people all the time is why some people stay in office so long.

It is said that it takes all kinds of people to make a world, so maybe crooners are necessary, after all.

Cooperation---Today's Need

Although the heart beats of Big Business have never been considered in very close sympathy with the troubles of the working man, to some extent the recent assurance given by many industrialists that they will continue to put into practice the spirit of the NRA, though the Supreme Court has seen fit to deny its power, has been reassuring.

The danger lies within the probability that a minor percentage of employers have failed to appreciate the advantages of a square deal to those who make their millions for them. Right now, throughout the country this problem is causing considerable apprehension: will those, recently known as "chiselers," tend to force upon others their selfishness?

There is only one possible protection at this time, and that is only a possibility. That is public opinion. If only the people of the country, including those employers who have the honest intention of continuing the practices of NRA, can bring enough pressure to bear to enforce the spirit, aims, and ideals of the National Recovery Act.

In 1933, when President Franklin D. Roosevelt made a plea for cooperation, telegrams, letters, and other messages, pledging the cooperation asked, flowed into the White House by the millions. This same cooperation is more essential today than then, for that cloak of protection thrown around the "willing" is no more.

Public opinion is the deciding factor today in the success or failure of the efforts of President Roosevelt to bring this country back to normalcy. We have traveled far within the past two years; many of the accomplishments can never be erased, but the success or failure of the entire program has been so closely connected with the NRA, the spirit of giving the working men and women of this nation an opportunity to earn a decent living—and thus stimulate business again by increasing purchasing power—that the action of the Supreme Court is fraught with danger.

We believe that public opinion is going to demand some substitute for the NRA that will continue to afford, in some measure, protection from the greed of an avricious capital; a protection not only to those employd by capital, but for capital itself. The people of this country are not going to sit idly by and watch the accomplishments of the Roosevelt Administration sink into the dark chasm of Hoover days without raising a protest. This protest will accomplish much if given in the form of CO-OPERATION at all times, and in all instances, with what we know to have been the President's aim and ideal in the establishment of NRA.

A friend of mine wrote me the story of his two little neighbor girls coming to their mother from the woods, with a terrapin each in their hand. The two little girls were highly pleased with their possession and presented them with expressions of admiration. The mother informed them that they did not know the danger of the shells that they thougt to be harmless. She told them that the Terrapins were dangerous, that they would both bite and scratch. They answered. "Why mother, they do not have feet and there is no head, how can they bite and scratch?" The mother lighted a piece of paper and laid it on the back of each Terrapin and out came the heads and out went their feet and the children screamed in fright. While heads and feet were closed within the shell they seemed harmless but a little fire caused the hidden danger to be revealed. The rum bottle, all corked and sealed seems to be harmless to many, but when the seal is broken, out comes the serpent's head and out goes the sting of the adder. Beware of all wine when it runneth red for at last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder.

The parson replied with equal brightness, "Dat ain't you problem Sam. Yo problem am how's you gwine get yo hat down ober yo' horns." I fear that many who are not upstarts are expecting wings in the next world, only to be decorated with horns. Be not deceived, God is not mocked, whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.

The children were on the lawn and they had staged a wedding as I passed. I stopped to look on and observed that the only boy in the game was acting the part of the minister. So I ventured to ask, "Where is the groom?" I saw the bride's mainds, the flower girls, the ring bearer and the audience but no bridegroom. When I propounded my question, the maid of honor replied, "Oh. sir, this is just a quiet wedding and we do not need a bridegroom." On either side of this road of life I see men and women playing the game of religion. They have their pews at church, they use a song book and even shine well before the collection plate, but they are lacking in the one thing that makes religion a success. They have no God, no Christ in the game. They make it just a quiet religion and that makes it no religion at all. Is your religious life a play game without a Christ

Heard a man talking one day about his neighbor. This is what he said: "That neighbor of mine over the fence there is just like a bulldog; I have got to be petting him all the time or he will bite me." We know that kindness is about the only thing that will make a bulldog into a friend. If you throw rocks at him you will have to run from shining teeth. There is more bulldog nature in the most of us than we are willing to acknowledge. People can handle the most unruly neighbor through kindness, but when we throw rocks we have to hide from shining steel. The law of kindness will win in all the walks of life. Blessed is the man who is girdled with this law. It will make his enemies into friends.

In the butcher pen in New York they have a judas goat. He is a large white billy, with long whiskers and a stately bearing. Judas is a hard-working goat. He meets the car loads of sheep coming in for the market and he proudly steps out before them and leads them to the butcher pen. On reaching the slaughter house Billy darts down an alley and goes back to the yards for another drove of sheep. All day long Master Billy leads droves of sheep from the storage house to the butcher pen. It is estimated that this Judas goat will lead 5,500,000 sheeep to their death in a period of seven years, the life of an ordinary goat. The more handsome, the more queenly the bearing of the human Judas goats, the more sheep will they lead out of God's kingdom down into the paths of sin. Beware of the Judas goat.

Pleased With Policy of Passing Rate Cuts to Customers

Mrs. C. G. Hume Tells Why Additional Reductions to Mean Greater Use of Electrical Appliances

Writing recently to Alabama Power Company, Mrs. C. G. Hume, prominent Montgomery homemaker said:

"From news items recently carried in our local papers, I understand that you have passed on to your residential customers another substantial rate reduction.

"I have been a user of electric service from your good Company over a long period and naturally I have watched with much interest your well established policy of passing on to your customers periodical rate reductions whenever conditions appear to make such action possible.

"Of course I am much pleased whenever I am able to get an already satisfactory and reasonably priced service at a lesser cost, hence this letter of appreciation.

"It has long been my thought that your rates were reasonable and fair and now with this additional reduction it seems to me that every housewife able to purchase the appliances would insist on having the comfort and convenience of an electrically equipped home.

"In closing permit me to commend you for your courteous, dependable low cost service." Adv. Alabama Power Co.

UNITY-CHILTON INSTITUTE

The W. M. U. of Chilton and Unity Associations are again sponsoring a Mission Institute, which will be held at Clanton Baptist Church, July 9, 10, and 11. Four tasks must be accomplished, if it is to be of the greatest value to our folks. Help me pray that these may be done.

1. Great preachers and teachers secured We have already secured the services of Dr. W. H. Carson, Africa; Mrs. Carter Wright, S. B. C. W. M. U. Representative; Mrs. Ida M. Stallworth, State W. M. U. Secretary; Miss Carrie Littlejohn, principal of W. M. U. Training School; and others are being sought, missionaries and outstanding preachers.

2. Each church represented in a large and beneficial way. We suggest that the S. S. Superintendent, the President of the W. M. S.. if organized, if not, the teachers of the Adult Classes, and the pastor, form a Transportation Committee, and begin now to arrange for ways for the people to attend. Get a school bus, trucks, or cars, if a number go in together it will be in expensive. Plan to come every day. Do not have your revival meeting in your church at that date. Appoint six who will attend the classes every day and come back and teach those books in the local church or one nearby Six will care for every age in your church. It is important to pass on your blessings in that way.

3. Lunch for each day. We do not wish to put the bodly feasting above the spiritual, but we wish each one to have a nice lunch each day. So we are asking each family to bring a generous basket one day, which will not be hard for anybody. The menu has been prepared and we are depending on you to do your share. If your church is not notified as to day and lunch chairman by July 1st, get in touch with Mrs. L. D. Hughes, Verbena, for Chilton, and Mrs. Grady Heflin, Clanton, for Unity.

4. Each member of each family richly blessed. Begin now to arrange for the whole family to go all three days. It is the duty of every pastor and church officer to be present, and to urge others to attend. You cannot afford to miss this great opportunity for information and inspiration. The program will be printed later, watch for it.

—Mrs. S. J. Ezell, Director.

Mrs. Lee Rice and children, who have been the guests of Mrs. O. E. Lathram, returned to their home in DeKalb, Ill., Friday.

Birmingham Man Is Drowned Near Here

Two Damage Suits Await Decisions

—o—

Judge Arthur Glover is expected to render his decision in two damage suits growing out of an automobile wreck last September on the Clanton-Birmingham Highway a few miles north of Jemison, which occupied all of the two-day civil session of non-jury circuit court which was convened in Clanton last Thursday and Friday.

The two suits, in which Arthur Davis and Jimmie Cofer of Jemison are asking $5,500 damages from Phillip Garret, of DeFuniack Springs, Fla., for alleged damages suffered in the wreck in which one man Campbell Morrison, also of DeFuniack Springs, suffered fatal injuries, consumed all of Thursday and Friday. Testimony was taken from 24 witnesses; thirteen testifying for the plaintiff and eleven for the defendant.

Attorneys in the two cases will argue the evidence to Judge Glover Thursday, and it is expected that he will render his decision immediately after hearing the arguments.

Cofer, who was struck while walking along the highway when the accident occurred, is asking $5,000 damages for a broken left leg, which Dr. V. J. Gragg testified is permanently injured; Davis is suing for $500 damages to his car which was wrecked in the collision.

Testimony was introduced by the attorney for the defense plaintiff to show that the Garrett car had broken whiskey bottles in it following the wreck.

Omar Reynolds represented the plaintiff and Lawrence F. Gerald was attorney for the defense.

Two County Workers Get Salary Increase

Members of the commissioners court in session Tuesday afternoon voted to increase the salary of two of the county employes ten dollars per month in view of the meritorius service they are rendering. They are J. J. Johnson, driver of the county gasoline truck and Mrs. Delene Wyatt, clerk of the commissioners court.

It was also voted to pay Hugh Thompson, of Thorsby, $53.97 for damages to his truck when it fell through a bridge on the Mt. Zion road about a year ago. This claim had been passed twice before but was held up until it could be determined whether or not it was legal.

Tuesday afternoon, Omar L. Reynolds, county attorney, explained to the court that only in two cases is the county liable for an accident of this type: that is when the bridge is built under contract and the bond has expired, or when a bridge is built under contract without a bond. In this case an affidavit is on file that the bridge was built under contract.

Cantor's "Kid Millions" Song - And - Girl Show

"Kid Millions," Eddie Cantor's fifth annual screen musical comedy for Samuel Goldwyn, which comes to the Wadesonian Theatre June 10 and 11 sponsored by Clanton Chapter, Order Eastern Star, is the season's most ambitious venture in the way of song-and-girl entertainment.

For the sixty girls who win places in the battalion of decorative femininity world fame as a Goldwyn girl is just around the corner.

Each girl required her own wardrobe mistress, her own hairdresser, her own makeup man. The dancing instruction staff had twelve men. Eighty electricians were required to light one set of the production and hundreds of workers were required for the months of preparatory work on sets and costumes.

The final episode of "Kid Millions" is a colored fantasy, about five hundred feet long and taking no more than six minutes on the screen, but costing $210,000 to make. The film is released through United Artists.

WHEN LIVES ARE AT STAKE

You need the same tire protection that race drivers demand

KELLY PETILLO ON MAY 30, WON THE 500-MILE Indianapolis Race on Firestone Tires, breaking the track record and driving the entire distance at a rate of 106.240 miles per hour.

This record is an astounding demonstration of tire efficiency. To go 500 miles in less than five hours on this rough and bumpy 26-year-old brick track demonstrates the strength and blowout protection that Firestone builds into their Gum-Dipped Tires.

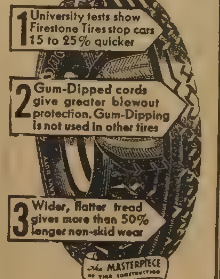
AB JENKINS ALSO RECENTLY DEMONSTRATED THE stamina, efficiency, and blowout protection built into Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. He drove his 5000 pound car over the hot salt beds at Lake Bonneville, Utah, 3000 miles in 23½ hours. This was an average speed of 127.2 miles per hour, and although temperatures were as high as 120°, he had no blowouts or tire trouble of any kind.

These records are made possible by special construction features built into Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

Take no chances—protect your life and the lives of others by letting us equip your car with Firestone Tires.

Before you buy new tires ask yourself these three questions

1—"Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"	Answer No. 1 —University tests show Firestone Tires stop your car 15% quicker than best tires.
2—"Are they built to give me the greatest blowout protection?"	Answer No. 2 —Unequaled performance records prove that Gum-Dipping gives the greatest blowout protection known.
3—"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"	Answer No. 3 —Car owners report unequaled mileage records of the longer wear and greater economy of Firestone Tires.



1 University tests show Firestone Tires stop cars 15 to 25% quicker
2 Gum-Dipped cords give greater blowout protection. Gum-Dipping is not used in other tires
3 Wider, flatter tread gives more than 50% longer non-skid wear

That HAT! Can it be? It is! Thanks, Your Grace for the compliment. It's true CHERO has a vibrant, flavorful zest more like champagne than any other Cola drink. But why not use an ordinary Cola drink and save this masterpiece for a Court occasion? You see, Madam, there's no other Cola like CHERO. It's just naturally refreshing—picks you up, naturally—healthfully—no artificial stimulant. Just the wholesome, nourishing goodness that reaches down and gives you a lift when energy's low.

Rivalry For Lead Is Keen For $100.00 Cash Award To Be Given Away; Double Votes Are For This Week Only On Dress Sales And Accounts

A special attraction in The Leader's plan to give away one hundred dollars in cash has been announced this week by Mr. M. Lande, proprietor. During this week, through Saturday only, The Leader will give double votes on all purchases of ready-made dresses at the special bargain prices as shown in their advertisement.

Double votes will also be given this week only, on accounts that are paid, Mr. Lande stated. These two offers are for this week only and end Saturday night.

Plan Is Explained

The plan through which The Leader will award the $100.00 in cash is simply this: with each purchase you make at this store you will receive vote coupons. These coupons are in votes for each twenty-five cent purchase. In other words, if you purchase 25 cents worth of goods, you receve one vote; a one dollar purchase receives four votes and so on down the line.

Any one person, church or organization in Chilton County may enter the contest. At the close of the contest, the person, church or organization having the largest number of votes will receive first prize which is $75.00. Second prize is $25.00.

The coupons have a place in which to write the name of the person or church, etc., to receive the votes. Anyone may deposit their votes to the credit of any church, organization, or help a friend win the prize.

Many churches and persons have entered the contest and individuals making purchases at The Leader are placing their votes in the box at the store to the credit of some church or organization. In the advertisement of The Leader this week appears a list of the churches, etc., in the contest who are holdng a lead over others.

HEAVY INFESTATION OF BOLL WEEVIL EXPECTED

Climatic conditions during the past winter and this spring have been favorable to boll weevil development, says Prof. J. M. Robinson, head of the entomology department of the Alabama Experiment Station, in warning farmers that weevil infestations in Alabama may be heavy this year.

"If cloudy, rainy weather occurs frequently during the cotton growing season, weevils will be numerous," he said, in urging cotton growers to prepare now for controlling the weevil.

"When dusting is necessary calcium arsenate should be applied with a dust gun at the rate of 5 or 6 pounds per acre;" he continued. The only way to know whether or not boll weevils are numerous enough to warrant dusting is to make infestation counts of the squares." When ten or more out of each 100 squares counted are punctured the cotton should be dusted for weevils.

Summer Best Time To Purchase Ewes

Auburn, Ala.—One of the best times to buy ewes for sheep production is following the weaning of lambs in the early summer, states J. C. Grimes, head of the animal industry division of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Prices are usually lower at this season of the year due to the ewes not being bred and have very little growth of wool on them.

Ewes should be treated two or three times for stomach worms before breeding and treatment should be three or four weeks apart, he says. Drenching with bluestone solution (copper sulphate) is the most satisfactory treatment.

Sulphur Dust Will Control Redbugs

Auburn, Ala.—Redbubs (chiggers) may be controlled by dusting a small amount of sulphur in one's socks, stockings, or shoes before going into places, such as woods, infested with this insect, announces Prof. J. M. Robinson, entomologist of the Alabama Experiment Station. "Annoyance by these tiny mites will be reduced if this precaution is taken."

crushing system that was responsible for the depression.

However, the power of public opinion has made itself felt in some instances wth refusal to use products manufactured by firms of the "chiseler" type. In Birmingham a coal company that began operations on a basis in violation of the spirit and provisions of the NRA found many of its orders canceled.

This is the only weapon with which those who are willing to continue to live up to the spirit of a fair deal for everyone can hope to fight those who are not. Unless the public will cooperate by refusing to patronize the so-called chiselers, then those who would otherwise play fair with their employes and competitors will be forced to the same practices.

Whether or not the country has advanced far enough out of the ruin that virtually swallowed it two years ago that it will be able to continue to march forward only time can tell. The progress that has been made must be credited to the various codes and to the willing cooperation of the people of this country.

One of the greatest dreads at this time is fear for the AAA program. In every community in every agricultural state in the Union, farmers are uneasy about the effect that the court's acton may have on this program that has given them the first really fair break they have ever known. Telegrams by the thousands are pouring into the capitol, pleading for some steps to be taken that will protect this program.

There is absolutely no doubt that the majority of the people of the country are in favor of AAA programs. This has been proved by election results in the Bankhead Cotton Control Act. Many are of the opinion that a majority of the voters of the nation would give their approval to the NRA or to any other legislation that can be perfected in its stead.

FHA PROGRAMS

of the Federal Housing Administration

The meeting was opened by Mr. Fant who presided. He gave an interesting lecture on the advantages and the advisability of keeping farm buildings in good repair, explaining that the expense of keeping a building in repair over a period of years is nothing compared to the cost of rebuilding when neglect has permitted it to reach a point where it is no longer serviceable

Following Mr. Fant's address, Mr Heery presented the film, entitled "Bringing An Old House Up to Date." This picture showed in detail the remodeling of an eighty-year-old farm house, and the possibility of really making it into a modern, attractive home with little cost.

Miss Pardue, home demonstration agent, gave a brief talk on "Kitchen Planning" and what this phase of home building can really mean toward the real comfort and enjoyment to be had from living in it. Within two brief years, Miss Pardue has accomplished much as home demonstration agent and her lecture Tuesday carried that same inspiration that characterizes her work.

"Woman's Place in the Home" was discussed by Mrs. Dent, of Birmingham, who is special field representative of the Federal Housing Administration program.

Concluding the program, Mr. Heery rendered in detail an explanation of Ttle I of the Federal Housing Act "Under the provisions o fthis act," he stated, "loans are available to property owners of all kinds for purposes of farm improvement, repair and modernization. Loans under this plan are made through financial institutions approved by the United States Government varying in amount from $100 to $2,000 and payable over a period of from one to five years, at a cost not to exceed a maximum prescribed by the government.

"This plan offers an opportunity for farmers, as well as other property owners, to make repairs which recent surveys have shown are greatly needed.'

GROUP OF FARMERS ASSEMBLED AT WASHINGTON IN THE INTEREST OF THE AGRICULTURAL ADJUSTMENT ACT, ABOUT 4,000 STRONG, FROM ALL OVER THE COUNTRY

Excerpts from President Roosevelt's message to the farmers:

I am glad to welcome you to the National Capital. We can think of this occasion as a kind of surprise birthday party, for it was just two years and two days ago that the agricultural adjustment act became a law.

And I well remember the fine group of representatives of farmers from every part of the Union who stood around me on that occasion when I signed the act.

In record time you and thousands of other farmers took hold and set up machinery to control your own affairs and put the new law to work.

I remember, too, the many high and mighty people who said you could not do it—that it was no use for you to try—intimating clearly that their own remedy to improve your situation was to let the sheriffs' sales go on. That was the old and very familiar way the high and mightly balanced farm production with demand. Those people did not understand and many of them do not understand today that, if the farm population of the United States suffers and loses it spurchasing power, the people in the cities, of necessity, suffer with them. One of the greatest lessons that the city dwellers have come to understand in this past two years is this: Empty pocketbooks on the farm don't turn factory wheels in the city.

Go back for a minute to the spring of 1933—when there was a huge carry-over of almost 13,000,000 bales, and a price, because of that carry-over, of 6 cents a pound. You know what 6-cent cotton means to the purchasing power of the cotton belt.

There was a huge carry-over of tobacco and the price of tobacco during the preceding six months was the lowest on record for many years.

J. W. Fant, Billy Smith.

"Acting for and with the National Aeronautic Association we will endeavor to coordinate local educational efforts and to cooperate with all individuals and organizations who have an interest in this modern means of travel. At the same time we will serve as a clearing house for the Association and do our utmost to carry forward our part in this national movement.

"There is much to be done. Air records must be won and retaned by America. Unfortunately, this country is now a poor second in the records which it holds. According to some authorities, this country ranks only third or fourth in military air equipment. With hundreds of millions of dollars invested in commercial aviation, not more than two hundred thousand different individuals avail themselves annually of the facilities for travel in the air."

Dr. Gragg will proceed at once to place this organization actively into the local application of the nation-wide purposes of the movement.

set to have ball games, a golf course, and facilities for such other sports as the public might appreciate. But, the "biggest and best" thing to my mind was a county-wide meeting place where folks from the country and towns all over the county could meet and mingle and feel at home, knowing that the place was their very own; to share equally and alike from the poorest to the richest. I had hoped that there might be a swimming pool for the kiddies and others who liked it. And so far as a flying field is concerned. I believe we are all beginning to realize that in any community of much size where there is not a landing place for planes it would be like having a railroad without trains stopping for passengers and freight.

In talking about these things, Mr. Hawkins frankly said "we can allocate funds to you, but we can't come up there and build these things for you. We have given you the money, but you won't use it." He stated that under the CWA we were donated $23,472 of which we only used $12,146, letting the other go unused and allowing it to be withdrawn.

He also stated that we had been alloted $10,451 since the CWA was withdrawn, of which he did not know how much had been used, but he further stated that all unused funds would be withdrawn in the next few days.

Now folks, when the tax-gatherers come around it will not do any good to say we did not get these things. They will "kindly and gently" let you help pay for what the other fellow over yonder got. And if you make any protest they will say "you should have gotten your share, it is your hard luck, you must pay just the same."

Are we going to sleep on, or "wake up" and try to get our share?

—V. J. GRAGG.

peted with several thousand club members for this honor; and in most instances with girls who have had the advantage of club training for ten to fifteen years. This county has only had a demonstration agent for the past two years.

In this county, and the same routine was followed in the other counties in the state, elimination contests were held throughout the county, from which 26 girls were chosen for another contest which was held in Clanton for the purpose of choosing four girls to enter the State Short Course held at Auburn recently.

Attending the State Short Course were thousands of girls, and it was from this group that Miss Jones was selected to be among the competitors for the opportunity of representing Alabama at the national convention.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Jones, of Plantersville R. F. D., and graduated from the Maplesville High School this year. Miss Jones has been intensely interested in club work since its institution in this county and has constantly stood out ahead in exhibitions and other competitions.

Miss Ruth Pardue, home demonstration agent, declared that she feels confident that Miss Jones will be chosen state representative; at least, she maintains, she has a wonderful opportunity.

OLTON MAKES REQUEST FOR BOND RELEASE

lleged Slayer Released On Thousand Dollar Bond Last Tuesday

After being held in jail for more n three months, George Bolton, 29, arged with the knife-slaying of Bar- Littlefield last February 27, through attorney, Lawrence F. Gerald, appeared before Justice of the Peace J. Wilson Monday morning and made plea for bond.

Bolton was released Tuesday morning $1,000 bond, walking the streets ain for the first time in more than ee months. His bond was signed by N. S. Johnson, G. L. Bolton, F. F. eckler, G. W. Sammons, and P. M. ckler.

Although only circumstantial evidence produced at the hearing, sentiment hat Bolton is really the slayer of tlefield, who died several days after was stabbed in the heart during an rcation in the men's rest rooms at court house.

During the hearing Monday, five witsses were examined. P. L. (Loss) inson, former deputy-sheriff, told eing present and hearing George ton threaten Littlefield. He said he walked into the rest room where field, George Bolton, Earnest ton, and Jadie Ellison were, and rd George tell Littlefield that if said that he got that, he was a ned liar, and he'd cut his head off. Bolton, he said, then made a lunge at ney, who was sitting on one of the ols, but was prevented from using a ife which he had in his hands by his other, Earnest.

Robinson said that Earnest grabbed brother by the shoulder, warning not to do that. "Don't do that—ll get into trouble," the former deputy quoted him as saying. Robinson said that he then rushed out to warn sheriff J.R. Hardy of the impending trouble.

Ellison told a story that concurred in most points with Robinson's account of that happened. Both men left the scene before Littlefield was stabbed. Their versions of the altercation were related on Saturday following the trouble when preliminary trial for Earnest Bolton was held.

Officers John Browder and Julius Smith told of going to the scene and finding Earnest Bolton there alone, and arresting George later that night.

Littlefield was taken to the hospital and died several days later.

A VIRTUE THAT EASILY CALLS FORTH PRAISE

"One could easily praise the President for his courage," writes Walter Lippmann in the New York Herald Tribune. "But the fact is that courage is perhaps his finest and most habitual virtue, as it is the source of his greatest political power. He has made mistakes; his judgement is not infallible. But COURAGE he has never lacked at the decisive moments in the past two years. What ever else may be charged against him, it can never be said by any fair-minded man that he has ever shrunk from danger or run away from trouble. One has only to look at the powerful lobbies he has defied to see that a gallant man is at the head of affairs. The people know it. That explains his prestige."

AUTO THIEF NABBED WITH STOLEN CAR

Is Alleged To Have Stolen Two Cars Recently; Officers Make Arrest

Grover Brand, 25, arrested near here Sunday night by Deputy-Sheriff J. A. Nivens on a charge of stealing an automobile, was taken to Columbiana Monday afternoon in custody of Shelby County officers to face trial for the theft of the car from a Calera man.

Brand was arrested about three miles west of Cooper after the owner of the car had dentified a machine in Brand's possession as his car which was stolen off the streets of Calera early Saturday night. The man was apprehended as a result of a tip given officers and the owner of the car by one of Brand's friends who had been with him Sunday, but declared that he was not aware the car in which they came to Cooper to visit friends was a stolen machine.

Deputy Nivens declared that he has positive information that it was Brand who stole a car here, belonging to Ruphus Brown, Saturday night, June 8. Brown's car, which was taken from in front of the local theatre, was found yesterday in Coosa County and returned to him.

Edwin Waggoner told offiecrs that he saw a strange man drive Brown's car down the highway the night it was stolen and identified Brand as the man.

Mr. Nivens said that he will be brought here to face charges of automobile theft after he has answered similar charges in Shelby County.

Mayor Jones Extends Warm Welcome To New Residents

Cordial Welcome In Statement Brings Out Vast Advantages For Recent Additions

Steps were being taken this week by Mayor C. Fenn Jones to secure a new federal census of the population of Clanton, since the passage of a bill in the State Legislature for the extension of the city limits has approximately doubled its area and greatly increased the population. Mayor Jones has written to Congressman W. B. Oliver, asking that a new census be taken as the regular time for federal census taking is not until 1940.

Last week when Gov. Bibb Graves signed the bill providing for the extension of Clanton's limits, the area of the city was more than doubled and it was automatically taken out of the "town class" and became a city.

Following is a copy of Mayor Jones' letter to Mr. Oliver:

"Hon. W. B. Oliver,
Member of Congress,
Washington, D. C.
Dear Mr. Oliver:

"A bill extending the corporate limits of Clanton was signed this week by the Governor. I am writing to know if you could get the government to give us a census at once. We do not want to wait until 1940 to know just how much we have grown.

"Kindly let me hear from you at your earliest convenience.

Yours very truly,
C. FENN JONES,
Mayor."

Declaring that he believes that this is one of the most progressive steps ever taken by the Chilton County metropolis, Mayor Jones has written the following letter to those persons who have recently become citizens of Clanton, and in it extends to them a hearty welcome to become a part of one of the fastest growing little cities in the state:

To Those Who Have Recently Been Made Citizens of Clanton:

The bill extending the corporate limits of Clanton has been passed by both houses of the Legislature, as advertised, without opposition in either house. The Governor has signed the

With its approval and signing yesterday by Gov. Bibb Graves, House Bill 269, by Representative Parker, which has been generally known as the "burial association bill" became a law and in due course of time will be entered on Alabama's statute books. NEW HEALTH OFFICER WILL ASSUME DUTIES HERE SOON

Dr. J. M. Kimmey, Recently From Harvard To Succeed Dr. H. C. Nickson As Head Of Chilton County Unit

Information was received here last week that Dr. J. M. Kimmey will arrive in Clanton next Monday to assume direction of the Chilton County Health Office, relieving Dr. H. C. Nickson, who served as temporary head of the department until Dr. Kimmey completed a course of study at Harvard University

Dr. Nickson, it is understood, will be transferred to Shelby County, where he will likely be recommended as county health officer. Dr. Kimmey held this post until about a year ago when he secured a leave of absence to take a year's post-graduate course at Harvard in public health work. Since leaving Shelby County, Dr. Kimmey's place has been filled by Dr. H. T. Donovan.

Specializing in pubilc health and preventitive medicine. Dr. Kimmey is said to be one of the most highly qualified public health physicians in the state and officials of the state department anticipate great work from him in this county. He is a graduate of Emory University and since completing school has done extensive study in this field.

Dr. Nickson was appointed temporarily here because it was impossible for Dr. Kimmey to take charge of this unit at the time of its organization His work in the county has been so successful that it is understood that he will be recommended in Shelby County over several doctors who are considerably older and more experienced. He has shown himself to be intensely interested in the work here and has been tireless in his efforts to extend the work over the county as rapidly as possible.

It is understood that Dr. Donovan plans to open offices in Clanton and will engage in private practice here Information given the News this week is that he will be located in the Mullins Building, upstairs over the Mazar's Store. Miss Alma Allen, well known to thousands in this county, will be employed as nurse in his eoffice, according to current reports.

MAYOR WORKS TOWARD MORE WATERMAINS

Taking Steps To Have Pipes Extended To Newly Acquired Section

With the extension of the city limits of Clanton and its establishment in the "city class," Mayor C. Fenn Jones, wide awake head of the city government, is taking steps to insure its continued progress by formulating plans for the extension of watermains into the newly acquired territory—and possibly the paving of several of the city's more important streets.

Already he has communicated with federal authorities regarding the advisability of making application for a government loan under the new set-up for the extension of the watermains. Early this week, it had not been learned with what favor the application will likely be received, but President Roosevelt recently announced that one billion of the four billion dollar relief appropriation will be allocated to municipalities for th epurpose of improvements; the plan as revealed by the President's announcement will be a 45 per cent grant from the government—the remaining 55 per cent to be a long-time loan.

Approximately 13,000 feet of new piping will be needed and Mayor Jones estimated the cost at between $15,000 and $20,000, the estimate being based upon the cost of several thousand feet recently installed.

Commenting on his plans for the installation of these improvements, Mayor Jones declared that he wants to see that these people who are now citizens of our city share with the rest of

"Master Gardner" Degrees To Be Conferred By Ala. Relief Administration

As a result of a recent tour of the relief gardens in the county ,three have been given recognition as the best in Chilton County and their owners will be awarded certificates of "Master Gardner" by the Alabama Relief Administration; several others were given honorable mention.

The winners of the degree of "Master Gardner" are J. J. Maddox, Clanton, Mrs. Lula Cooper, Cooper, and A. L. Crawford, Clanton. W. E. Jordan, Mrs. Dela Long, both of Mountain Creek, Dave Minor and C. R. Burkhalter, both of Cooper, were given honorable mention.

The judges rated the gardens on "soil preparation, methods of cultivation, best utilization of plot, greatest variety of vegetables, maximum production, plans for fall garden," and several other points. Judges were Miss Ruth Pardue, W. M. Wyatt, and Victor Norris.

Apparently much is being accomplished by this phase of the relief work. Almost every home visited is making some effort to do extensive canning and to plant a fall garden, both of which will mean much in making these families self-sustaining during the winter months.

On the tour Friday was Henry Thornton, one of the several garden supervisors engaged in the county by the government to help relief families plan and cultivate gardens, and he explained much about the work and the results that he believes possible.

Flag Day June 14

Among all the national emblems in the world, the American flag is generally conceded to be the most beautiful. It was officially adopted by the Continental Congress on June 14, 1777, in a resolution which provided that the flag be 13 stripes of alternating red and white, and that the "union" be 13 white stars on a blue field.

Originally the 13 stars were arranged in a circle, and it was at first intended to add an additional star and an additional stripe for each new state admitted into the Union.

But after increasing the number of stars and stripes after the admission of Vermont and Kentucky, it became evident that a further number of stripes would make the design of the flag less beautiful, so it was decided to return to the 13 stripes, representing the 13 original states, and add a star for each new state. Thus we have our present flag with 48 stars and 13 stripes.

In commemoration of the adoption of the flag in 1777, June 14 is celebrated throughout the nation as Flag Day, with appropriate ceremonies intended to impress all citizens with increased respect and reverence for the flag, and all for which it stands.

"No Time For Political Fence Building" N. Y. Mayor Advises

This is no time for political fence building or personal ambition," said Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York in a radio address to Wisconsin progressives in Fond du Lac to celebrate their first anniversary. "The time calls for the best progressive thought in shaping future economic and social policies which will not only solve our present problems but establish economic security.

President Roosevelt's administration in Washington, breaking through tradition, resistance and opposition, has courageously faced the situation. For the first time in the history of the country, a nation-wide system of relief has been provided. Relief, of course, is not the permanent solution. To evolve a system that will make relief unnecessary is the call confronting the leadership of the country. The future cannot be left to accident or to care for itself.

"True progressives are not concerned in the name of a party. We are concerned in an honest-to-goodness platform that will have the courage to state in plain, understandable language an economic plan that will solve our present distress and lead the way to our future happiness. This plan will have to be worked out by the recognized leaders of progressive thought in this country. The united strength of progressives throughout the country must rally to the support of such a program.

"These old reactionaries have no program. They have not had an original idea in the last 50 years. They talk with a parrot-like monotony of constitutional rights, of rugged individualism, of Government interference and seem to consider themselves the annointed to exploit the land; they seem to believe the Constitution was written for no other purpose than to guarantee continued exploitation of the many by the chosen few.

"Legalistic technicalities must give way to economic necessities. Mathematical redistribution of wealth cannot do the trick under our economic system. The money would be right back where it started from within a very short time. An equal enjoyment of progress in science, machinery, transportation and the natural resources of the country can permanently bring about economic security and uniform happiness to all of the people.'

A Bigger And Better Clanton

This week Mayor C. Fenn Jones addresses a letter in the News to those citizens who have recently become residents of the Town of Clanton by virtue of the extension of the city limits. The News concurs with Mayor Jones in his invitation to these residents to feel that they are truly citizens of our town, with a right to share in all benefits accruing therefrom. Mayor Jones is already making an effort to work out plans to extend the city water service further, and we trust that this may be accomplished in the near future.

Citizenship in any nation, state or county carries with it certain responsibilities and a need for a spirit of cooperation. Citizenship in a city is no exception and Mayor Jones has discussed this matter in his letter.

As a newspaper published in Clanton, and as citizens of Clanton, the News extends its welcome to these new residents of our fine city. These men and women and boys and girls are not strangers to us. Most of them we have met, and many of them are already familiar with the things concerning the town.

We see a bright future for Clanton. Greater development will come in the years ahead than we have yet seen. Naturally it will require effort and cooperation, but the results will be gratifying to us all. May we forget minor differences in the march to those larger things which will give to us a bigger and better Clanton, and realize that this is accomplished, we shall all share in the benefits.

Greetings To The New Publisher Of The Montevallo Times

Montevallo and surrounding communities are to be congratulated upon securing W. M. (Mack) Wyatt as publisher of their local newspaper, The Montevallo Times. What we know of Montevallo leads us to believe its people are a fine progressive type of citizens. What we know of W. M. Wyatt as a man and as a newspaper publisher, editor, manager, etc., causes us to say without reserve that any community is fortunate in having him as one of their own.

His long experience in the newspaper game and years of civic activity have portrayed him as an unusually gifted writer, a man of sound judgement, and a citizen who is interested in the welfare of his community. As a member of the Kiwanis club here, as a school trustee, as well as in other phases of community work, he has shown keen interest in civic betterment, ready at all times to do his part for the common good.

In a statement last week in his newly acquired paper, Mr. Wyatt outlined some of his goals and made a pledge of service "for the best of Montevallo." Some who do not know the man, might pass that statement lightly, but those who are familiar with their publisher know that his pledges of service are not given lightly, and that he will maintain these ideals and strive towards the goals he has set from week to week and on through th eyears.

In his statement, Mr. Wyatt also made the following statement to the people of Shelby County, in order, as he says to properly answer "the one question that will be asked first by most people;"

"My conduct of the policies of The Montevallo Times will be without the color of politics. I want to make this newspaper an institution devoted to an dcapable of properly serving you as a constructive community institution. To do so I shall not be handicapped and shackled by political alignments."

The News has known Mr. Wyatt as a competitor in business. We know that he doesn't pull his punches when defending his convictions, but he doesn't strike below the belt. We congratulate Montevallo upon securing his services and extend to him our best wishes for success in his new enterprise.

D. W. Haskew

A friend of mine carried me through a tremendous power house—a place where water poured and machinery raced, and where there was much noise. After many descents and climbs we finally entered a room that was silent. I looked into the face of my friend and asked. "Why all this stillness " I thought it to be the room where the men gathered to do their work. Not so. That room was the center of all the plant. It was the room where the current was generated and the place where all the standards for revolving wheels wan set. It was known as the "still room", and yet it was the center of power in the plant. Have you established in your heart a "still room," a place where currents are made, where power is sent out, where standards are generated? In every life there should be a "still room" where we can get away from the noise of life and be alone with God.

Not many days ago I was walking down a hall to visit a sick man. Hanging from the ceiling were two live wires and their ends were about three inches apart. The ends of those wires were just the height of my forehead, and I contacted both wires at the same moment. Two currents shot into my body like kniven and I dropped to m knees, not seriously injured, but scared silly. The only reason I am alive to tell the story is because there was not sufficient current on those wires to kill. That was a most unusual accident, which leads me to say that we never know when we are in danger. It never pays to handle electricity or dynamite in a careless manner, and it is never safe to travel through this dangerous world without being prepared to meet God without a moments notice.

With a horse dealer I went out to his mule pen to take a look over of his stock for trade. There were many mules in that pen, little mules, big mules, fat mules, poor mules white mules red mules, just mules and more mules. In looking over the stock we came to a beautiful mare. This beauty in horse flesh stood in the midst of all of those mules and she looked out of place. It may have been quite right for her to be there but it failed to look that way to me. I wanted to put a bridle on that mare and lea dher out of that bunch of mules. It may be quite all right for women to go into politics, but somehow I am not cultured to that sight. Our women should vote, but when I hear a woman making a political speech, or behold one of them sitting in a congress hall, I am reminded of the mare in the mule pen. There is something in us that informs us that she does not belong there.

I was in a home when a boy of sixteen entered. There was something in that boy's face and manner that made me love him. Soon I was observing that the boy was the center of attraction and he was the favorite of everyone in the building. Did you know that it was a great achievement to be popular at home. When a man, a woman, a boy or a girl is popular at home, we are safe in saying "There is one of God-s noblemen." For us to so live that we are popular with the cat, the dog, the horse, the children, the neighbors, it means a wonderful success in life. Blessed is that person who is popular at home the year round. Hhe may not have his name printed in "Who Is Who," but he has his name printed in human hearts and that is far better.

I was sitting in the office of a business man on the first day of the month. While I was sitting there two men came in with bills to be presented. The first man coming in swaggered up to the desk and shoved ris bill under the nose of the business man only to be spoken to in rough language and all but driven out of the office without pay. The second fellow came in like a gentleman an dthe man asked of him the amount of his bill and without a word he wrote the check that settled the account. After that nice little fellow had passed out of the door, this man said to me, "Parson, it is a pleasure to pay that man when he comes, but that other man is a pain anytime." One man was kind an dthoughtful, the other man was blustery and snappy. I saw two dogs meet. One dog snapped at the other dog an dthe other dog returned the snap an dthey went on their way. In most cases we are likely to get back what we give out.

FIRST PUBLIC SCHOOL

Recently Massachusetts celebrated the 300th anniversary of the founding of the famous Boston Public Latin School. Since this was the first public school on the continent the event was celebrated as "the beginning of the American public school."

A bronze tablet at the old institution bears this inscription: "From the seed planted here the whole American system of free education grew."

This "first public school" is 141 years older than the nation itself. It was founded in 1635.

According to a writer in the Pathfinder, during a general meeting of the town one Philemon Parmot was entreated to become "schoolmaster for the teaching and nurturing the children with us." Its high traditions have been maintained down through the years and many famous men are numbered among its graduates.

The celebration this year followed a military review by 1,700 of the school's student cadets. There was a pageant depicting not only the birth and growth of the school, but also the birth and growth of the nation. The celebration also included the presentation of a tercentenary tablet, and a huge alumni banquet.

This season more crops than for many a year will be side-dressed with Natural Chilean Soda. It came from the ground; now it's going back to the ground to give health and vigor to your crops.

Once we believed crops needed only phosphate, potash and nitrogen. Now we know they require many other elements. Once we thought of the old-time natural fertilizers only as sources of phosphate, potash and nitrogen. Now we know they contain other equally necessary elements.

All these years we have been following Nature's laws—and only realized what that meant after trying substitute materials.

There was a difference. Crops showed it. They did not seem to get what they needed—what the old-time natural fertilizers supplied.

What is the difference? Some people think it is the extra elements—the "vital impurities." Others believe it is the natural origin, the centuries of blending and curing. Probably it is both. The main point is that the difference is there, and it means much to you.

Be sure to say "Chilean" when ordering your side dresser. Just that one word—but what a difference!

See your dealer for Chilean Natural Nitrate. Two kinds—Champion (granulated), Old Style (crystals). They are both genuine. Both are natural. And both give to your crops those vital impurities.

Chilean Natural Nitrate—the only nitrogen that comes from the ground—the ideal side dresser for your crops.

Four Local Girls Attend Short Course

Auburn, Ala., June 11.—Prominent in the group of 400 4H club girls who attended the 20th annual State Short Course at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, May 28 to June 1, were 4 girls from Chilton County.

Attendance at the short course was the largest ever recorded in the State. Miss Elizabeth DeLony, state girls' club agent, in charge, said that the studiousness and interest of the girls had been remarkable.

Beginning Tuesday evening with a special showing of Shirley Temple in "Bright Eyes" at the Tiger Theatre, the girls enjoyed a full program of instruction and recreation. Each day after hearing talks and demonstrations by extension experts and college professors, the girls enjoyed swimming, picnics, and parties. Thursday evening under the direction of Miss Izell Brown, recreation leader from Pike County, the girls, attractively dressed in evening clothes of their own making, attended a huge party at Alumni Gymnasium. Folk dancing, entertainment tricks of magic by Prof. Charles R. Hixon, music by the Auburn Ensemble, and refreshments featured the party. Prior to the party the entire assembly had visited the beautiful President's Mansion where every one of them were greeted personally by President and Mrs. L. N. Duncan.

Climax of the short course came Friday evening when the girls gathered in the open on the South Lawn of the Mansion for the gorgeous dress review, impressive candle-lihting ceremony, and award of prizes in various state contests by President Duncan.

Following are the girls and their home demonstration agents who attended the short course

Ruth Pardue, agent, Clanton, Ala.; Lenett Jones, Plantersville Ala.; Eva Gay, Stanton, Ala.; Francis Pearl Duke, Clanton, Ala.; Arra B. Jones, Plantersville, Ala.

CAPPER EXPLAINS WHY AAA IS ESSENTIAL TO RECOVERY

"More significant than anything that has been done in Congress," said Senator Arthur Capper, Republican, of Kansas, in the Columbia Broadcasting System's "Current Questions Before Congress, weekly feature, "was the arrival and the actions here of 4,500 farmers, most of whom came from more than 1,000 miles to let the country know where they stand on the present farm program. These men are not what is known as professional farm leaders. I know many of the Kansas delegation that represented 90 of our 105 counties. They actually farm their lands for a living.

"One thing which impressed me strongly was the non-partisan make-up. On the Kansas delegation were Hoover Republicans. Why were they here? Now, to agriculture the processing tax and the benefit payments to contract signers compose the farmers' equivalent of the protective tariff for industry, which for years has profited from high prices on manufactured goods. This high price level was partly sustained by the protective tariff, which we in the farm belt have as a rule supported because we wanted to see labor employed in industry and at good wages.

"But it has not worked out that way. While land was cheap, while foreign markets lasted, while mortgage money held out, the American farmer was able to survive on that kind of basis, although each year he was worse off than the year before. Finally the farm belt awoke to the fact that the farmer was buying on a highly protected domestic market but was selling on an unprotected world market.

"As the foreign export market dwindled and dried up almost completely in 1929 and 1930, it became evident that something more was needed than the equivalent of a bounty on exported surpluses under the National Grange plan. So the AAA grew out of these conditions and while we have the protective tariff for industry, we have its equivalent for agriculture. To date, no effective substitute for it has been proposed."

Two Men Nabbed While Burglarizing Ford Place Here

Two men were arrested Tuesday night by city and county officers in an alleged attempt to burglarize the Clanton Motors Co., Inc., establishment here.

They gave their names as Joe Kellum, 26, and J. W. Davis, 23, both of Jemison. They are being held in jail on charges of attempted burglary and carrying concealed weapons, and local officers said that they are expecting a warrant to be sworn out for them charging them with the burglary about three weeks ago of the Jemison Hardware Company.

Revolvers found on Kellum and Davis at the time of their arrest here have been identified as guns stolen from the Jemison firm in a burglary several days ago.

The men gained entrance to the Clanton Motors building by breaking a rear window, officers said, but were apprehended before they had looted the place.

Why The Telephone Company Resists Further Rate Reductions

Rates for local telephone service, unlike commodities, were not increased during the so-called boom years. But the telephone company like most other concerns suffered serious losses in revenue during the depression and since rates did not go up there is not sufficient margin left with which to absorb any further reductions.

During 1933 and 1934 the company accepted rate reductions in Alabama amounting to $157,000 a year. Operating under these reduced rates the company's earnings during the year 1934 amounted to only three and seven-tenths per cent on the investment in plant used to furnish the service.

It is the telephone company's responsibility to protect your service — to see that continued development, improvement and expansion is not hampered. The company recognizes its obligation to safeguard the employee body and to preserve their employment at reasonable wages. There is also a duty to the many thousands of people who have invested their savings in the telephone business.

It is to the best interest of the public, that Alabama's telephone service be maintained at the highest possible standard, that the plant and equipment be the most modern known to the art, so that service may continue to be furnished at the lowest possible price consistent with financial safety. This the telephone company is trying to do.

To not resist proposals for further rate reductions would undoubtedly be considered a serious failure of duty on the part of the company toward the public who depend upon us for efficient, dependable service, the telephone men and women in Alabama who are responsible for the continued improvement and expansion of the service, and the men and women in all walks of life who have invested their savings in the business.

"NEW 25c MOTOR OIL GIVES MOTORISTS MORE FOR THEIR MONEY," SAYS GULF OFFICIAL

"Chilton County motorists can now buy a 25c oil that has been purged of practically all impurities," announced W. L. Sims, local distributor, today. "This has never before been possible. It means that without paying a premium price the car owner can buy a motor oil which gives more mileage and better lubrication whether the temperature is high or low, than any other lubricant in that price range.

"The new and improved lubricant is Gulflube Motor Oil, Multi-sol Processed. It is refined by a new process called the Multi-sol Process. By introducing two solvents, practically all impurities are 'washed' out. Without any increase in cost, the motorist gets more mileage. He buys an oil which results in less carbon deposit. And, regardless of the weather, his motor starts more easily and quickly.

"You can appreciate what this means" continued Mr. Sims. "Because of better all-around performance, motor repairs are reduced. The driver can operate his car much more economically. These are not mere statements of opinion Engineers have tested and re-tested, checked and re-checked Gulflube before permitting this new motor oil to be placed on the market.

"Every effort is being made to acquaint motorists from Maine to Texas with the advantages of this premium grade motor oil sold at 25c per quart. One thousand leading newspapers will carry the message. It will be broadcast over scores of radio stations. It will appear on hundreds of prominent easily seen highway posters. And Gulf dealers everywhere are preparing to share in this 'save your money' movement."

Hayes Chevrolet Sells Large Number Cars

In a conversation with J. W. (Dick) Hayes, the friendly and likable "chief" at the Hayes Chevrolet Co., distributors of the Chevrolet car in this section, a representative of the News was pleasantly surprised to learn that they have sold and delivered twelve new Chevrolets during the past month.

Last Saturday, three new shiny Chevrolets rolled through the delivery department of the Hayes Chevrolet Company, to three proud owners.

"We are exceptionally proud of the Master Six Chevrolet and the Standard Chevrolet," Mr. Hayes stated. "And the splendid reception given these cars by the public is most pleasing." The Hayes Chevrolet Company maintains one of the most efficient and courteous staffs of salesmen, not only for new cars but for their reconditioned and "as is" used cars. See their used car advertisement and the large Chevrolet advertisement in this week's News.

Brilliant And Attractive Sign In Clanton Tells Of The Pleasures Of Chero Drink

Anyone in Clanton near the former stand of The Fair Store will be immediately attracted by a huge sign on the wall of that building which is gay in its coloring and impressive in its message.

The popular and friendly Englishman who says "Cheerio, my old friend is back again." Of course he means that he is delighted that the popular drink, Chero, is again on the market and being enjoyed by millions of thirsty Americans and those who enjoy a good drink.

This sign referred to above is an advertisement of the Chero Bottling Co., with the plant in Montgomery. Horsely White, of Clanton, widely known and well liked distributors of beverages is local distributor for Chero.

Mr. White states that Chero is rapidly growing in popularity and that sales are continually increasing. Chero is sold almost everywhere ice cold in a bottle so distinctive that it is in a class by itself. Your attention is also directed this week to the large Chero advertisement which appears in the News, showing again that popular and friendly Englishman.

YOU'RE DISCHARGED! I'M THROUGH COUNTING YOU, MY BOY!

This is an advertisement (you thought so, eh?) directed to those folks who love a refreshing and stimulating Cola drink and don't dare take one after sundown. Some folks even contend that many Cola drinks keep them awake if they drink them after three o'clock in the afternoon. Well, we don't know anything about other Cola drinks, but CHERO, the finest Cola drink of them all, wouldn't stop a baby's yawn. It doesn't contain anything that isn't good for you. But it does contain those fine energy building elements that the body takes up quickly. Next time you're out late—dancing, motoring, working, or just out late—body-tired, nerves frayed, pick yourself up with a CHERO. You won't do any sheep counting that night. And if you stick to CHERO you can pay your sheep his wages and discharge him right now. Don't forget CHERO is the Cola drink that's good for you.

State-wide Boxing Tourney Scheduled On Legion Program

The American Legion, in conjunction witr the Mcfadden Youth Movement. has just completed in Alabama plans for the most comprehensive atheletic tournament ever undertaken in the state. Hugh N. Starnes, State Director for the American Legion-Mcfadden Athletic Program, has just announced from his offices in Birmingham that all preliminaries for a statewide boxing tournament, finals to be held in Birmingham, June 20-21, have been completed.

Every Legion post in the state and every town where the Macfadden Movement is in operation, has been invited to participlate in the tournament, which is designed to give every boy in the state a chance to test his skill in the manly art of self-defense.

In order that every town may be enabled to enter teams in the tournament eight key cities have been designated as district centers for early matches. All winners from these eight cities are to compete in the finals.

The cities which will hold the dis- Homewood, June 12th; Tuscaloosa, June 13th; Montgomery, J une 14th, and Decatur, June 15th.

Each district is to use a portion of its tournament proceeds toward defraying expenses of transportation of its team to the tournament finals in Birmingham. While the boxers are in Birmingham their meals and lodging will be taken care of by the tournament committee.

There will be no entry fee attached but there will be other restrictions, first of all every entrant must be an amateur Then no boy will be allowed to compete who has boxed in more than two regular public tournaments. And the tournament commttee reserves the right to reject any entry. The tournament is designed to give the boys who have been taking boxing instructions under Macfadden Program leaders a chance to show what they have learned. And to give other youngsters, who are more or less novices at the game, an equal chance in the meet with other contestants.

All of the bouts will be three two-minute rounds and nine weight divisions have been set up. They are: skeeter (70-80 pounds), paper (81-93 pounds), flyweight (96-112 pounds), bantam (113-118 pounds), feather (119-126 pounds), lightweight (127-135 pounds), welter (136-147 pounds), middleweight (148-160 pounds) and lightheavy (over 160 pounds).

Gold medals, properly engraved, will be awarded winners in each weight-class in the state finals.

This tournament is only a portion of the vast Macfadden Youth Project being carried out in the state through American Legion auspices. There are 40 towns over Alabama where regular programs are held under trained leaders.

All information pertaining to the boxing tournament is in the hands of local American Legion post officials and all boxers interested in entering the event can obtain blanks and date at the nearest American Legion post.

Lady Took Cardui When Weak, Nervous

"I can't say enough for Cardui if I talked all day," enthusiastically writes Mrs. L. H. Caldwell, of Statesville, N. C. "I have used Cardui at intervals for twenty-five years," she adds. "My trouble in the beginning was weakness and nervousness. I read of Cardui in a newspaper and decided right then to try it. It seemed before I had taken half a bottle of Cardui I was stronger and was soon up and around."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

DEMOCRATS TO PLAN TO KEEP PRIMARY CLEAN

Bill Will Be Pushed After Recess, Drawn To End Republican Interference

By Atticus Mullins, in The Montgomery Advertiser

No serious effort will be made at this session to purify the primary election laws of Alabama to keep Republicans from voting in a Democratic primary and then voting for the Republican nominees in the general election, whether State or county. But on the first day of the reconvening of the Legislature after its recess on the 33rd legislative day, such a measure will be placed before the body.

Democrats have long discussed a plan by which Democrats would nominate Democrats in Alabama primaries instead of having many Democrats nominated through the balance of power held by the Republicans. For 25 or more years Republicans have had a habit of coming into the Democratic primaries in droves, dictating the Democratic nominees in many instances and then going into the general election and voting for the Republican nominees.

Best Plan So Far

The plan that is generally regarded as the most effective to keep Republicans out of Democratic primaries is to have general registration at least once every four years and requiring every voter registering to express his preferance. He would declare himself as to his party affiliations when he registered and would have to vote in the primaries of his own party. In other words if a Republican attempted to vote in a Democratic primary, his name would be checked against his registration card as to his preference and he would not be allowed to vote in the Democratic primary. That would keep probably 30,000 Republicans out of Democratic primaries.

The plan as proposed would not affect general elections. A Democrat could vote in a Democratic primary and vote for whomever he pleased in a general election and a Republican could do likewise. It would be impossible by law to restrict the choice of any voter in any general election. In other words no law can be passed which would prevent bolting by either side.

Adopted In Other States

Many other states in the nation have a similar plan to the one mentioned. In this way a man is required to stay inside one party insofar as its primaries are concerned, at least two and sometimes four years. Some states require voters to register every two years while others require registration every four years .Other states have found it advisable to purify their party primaries so that voters from other parties would not slip in and dictate the nominees of the party they propose to defeat in the general election.

Fortunately for Alabama, its Republicans are not numerous enough to beat a Democratic nominee they put over in a Democratic primary. But they would do it if they could. But in many states of the Union such a situation has occurred in the past with both Democrats and Republicans guilty of the same practice.

A candidate in a Democratic primary in Alabama, Democrats generally concede, ought not to live to cater to the whims and fancies of the 30,000 or more Republicans who enter Democratic primaries. Democrats ought to fight it out among themselves in primaries without having the Republicans hold the balance of power and sometimes throwing it to the weaker man. or in any case their choice of Democrats in the primary races.

The present legislative session has been so busy with measures designed to keep the State in line with the national administration and with revenue bill repercussions that it has not been deemed wise to start the registration bill at this time. It is believed that when the Legislature reconvenes in August for 17-day session, the members will have more time to devote to the welfare of their party.

Mayor Jones Extends Hand Of Welcome

bill, which places Clanton in position to get credit in the minds of the public generally for what we have, and really are, a city of more than three thousand people. This being the truth, it does appear to me that the thought and fact we have moved up, and forward to a greater prosperity, to better conditions as a people, from a small town of 1800 to a city of more than 3000 population, giving us a far better position and advantage, both politically and commercially, would touch the pride of those who have been included in the new limits, and we, who have lived in Clanton all the while, causing each one who is now within the city limits to raise our heads a little higher, quicken our step with the progress that is now upon us, replace the frown that may appear on the faces of a few, with a smile, speak words of encouragement to all, join hands and hearts with those who are trying earnestly and courageously to improve our city, and make it a better place in which to live.

I favored, and worked for, the extension of the corporate limits, because I know it is best for you and all the people, and to the interest of the county as a whole. I was more active than anyone else for the fact I am Mayor, and was requested by many progressive citizens to do so. It is a step forward to a greater and better city. Can you not realize the larger Clanton grows, the more your property is worth, and the opportunity to buy and sell the things you wish is increased. I know some of you objected to being taken into Clanton. I talked with several and found the greatest objection given was the extra tax required to pay. Have you been benefitted by living near Clanton? Has your property increased in value on account of the growth of Clanton I believe you will answer yes to these questions. You would not have your home, business, and acreage moved ten miles from Clanton, without a very great difference in price. Then will you not be fair and just enough as a neighbor and friend to help cheerfully with your presence in the city to swell the population, and be willing to pay a small tax for the support of the city that is helping you?

You do not expect a car to run without oil and gas, or a horse to continue drawing the plow and wagon without food, or would you expect always to receive rent from a building without spending some of the rent money received for repairs to the building. Are you not willing to do your part in carrying the burden of life and pay your portion of the price of improvement to your own city? I am sure you are when you think of it in the right spirit. In this same measure, Clanton needs and deserves your support and a small division of the profits you receive from Clanton, just as the horse requires a portion of the food produced by its labor, and the house demands the return of some of the rent money for its repairs.

These thoughts and principles of life are fundamental, as old as time, and the person who disregards them, imposes on his friends and the public, and lives a selfish life. I believe the great majority of people are honest, and have a desire to do the correct thing if they can only be shown the right. The narrow shell in which we have lived and moved so long, needs to be broken and let information, light and truth enter, taking the place of a selfish nature. We are all very much alike in this regard, but cannot live apart, and for ourselves entirely. We must work together for our common good. "In unity there is strength." The point I wish to bring to your attention is, that while you are serving and building Clanton, you are directly adding to your own wealth, and that of your children, and performing a civic duty at the same time.

We, who have lived in Clanton during the past thirty years, have given our time, money and energy to the improvement of Clanton. We have borne the heat of the day, we have labored long and hard for its growth, have assisted in bringing it to its present standard of value in all respects. But it appeared to some of us that we had reached an end or a point from which we could not proceed further alone. We needed you, your friendship, your cooperation in business, neede dyou to hook up with us in a united effort to carry our city on to a better day.

As Mayor of Clanton, and as a friend of yours, interested in your welfare comfort and happiness, I extend to you from an unselfish heart and pure motive in this improvement a most sincere welcome to the place which your coming has advanced from a classification of a small town to that of a city, and I beg you to join with me in the same spirit and goodwill I have for you, and all of Clanton, in my efforts for the progress of Clanton.

I have written Congressman Oliver to know if the Government will give us a census at this time on account of the extension of the city limits. If my request is granted, some two or three men will get a job taking the census. It is very probably that the Postoffice Department will give us another, or possibly two more city mail delivery men. I do not know the requirements of us in this connection. The condition of the sidewalks and streets in the new territory may have a bearing on the matter. It is my desire to extend the water and sewerage line to you as soon as it is possible to do so, and give you fire protection along with the comfort and convenience of a water system in your home.

I hope and believe you will be convinced that it was right and best that the limits were extended, and that you can share in the general opinion of the public that Clanton is the most up-to-the-minute and thriving city of its size in the entire state. Three thousand population will attract more people and industries to Clanton than eighteen hundred will. In this respect alone, you are worth much to Clanton.

Get the spirit, cooperate with me, and I will help you help yourself, and we together will make Clanton more favorably known than even it is today.

Miss Austin declared that, in her opinion, one of the greatest accomplishments of the relief work in this or any other rural county will finally be chalked up to the idea of helping these people to realize the importance of looking ahead and making some provision for the future.

The canning program has meant much to the county, and without doubt in years to come its effect will still be felt, she said.

master of ceremonies, the meeting was turned into one of the most entertaining and hilarious programs ever presented in Clanton.

A complete orchestra, made up of the young men and women of Verbena, furnished music throughout the program, interspersed by vocal numbers, string numbers, piano numbers.

In his usual and unique manner, Aubrey Robinson, the announcer, master of ceremoies and what-not kept the entire audience in a state of laughter with his witty manner of announcing each number.

A Real Treat

Clanton and the League were greatly honored at this gathering to have Mrs. Lila Sheppard, well loved lady of Verbena, who is widely known for her ability to play a piano, to appear on this program. This was the first public appearance of Mrs. Sheppard in a musical way. She brought out the patriotism of the meeting with her rendition of "America" and "Dixie".

Much credit is given Perry Norris, Barnett Deramus, Miss Lila Jane Sheppard and others for this splendid program of entertainment.

Following this, memberships were accepted for the League and fifty-seven new members were added to the already large roll.

The Isabella Club will have charge of the program for the next meeting which was set for Friday night, June 28. This community is also well known for the splendid talent in music and entertainers and promise to have something equal to, or better than the program Monday night.

Hon. Pitt Tyson Maner, private secretary to Governor Bibb Graves, who was expected to be present at the meeting, wired his regrets that he could not attend and extended best wishes for the continued growth and success of the local Unit.

It is especially complimentary to Chilton County that three of the four winners in the entire district are local boys and girls; it speaks highly of the vocational leadership in this county.

While in Washington the boys and girls will visit all the places of renown in the Capitol and will attend the National Convention of 4-H Club Boys and Girls.

Mr. Fant expressed regret that Congressman Oliver is ill and won't be able to meet the winners of the awards which he is offering to further interest in these two important phases of home and citizenship-building in rural communities.

It will be my aim to help them in every way within my power to realize this expectation," the Mayor declared.

When asked about the possibilty of paving some of Clanton's streets, he said that he could imagine no more opportune time than now for this step. The federal government will grant 45 per cent of funds necessary for these improvements, and the other 55 per cent can be repaid in the form of longtime bonds, he pointed out.

"If the people of Clanton want to secure the pavng of some of our streets at this time, I shall be only too glad to cooperate in every way to secure aid from the government," he averred. The cost of this paving will, of course, be charged back to the property owners, but never before have they had opportunity to secure paving for 55 cents in the dollar.

Mayor Jones said that he hoped to hear from Washington at an early date. The cost of installing watermains is not charged to property owners but is paid out of the general fund.

intention of abandonng code practices unless they are forced to it by their competitors."

The survey, he said, has been conducted in Birmingham, Mobile, Montgomery, Tuscaloosa and the Tri-Cities of Florence, Sheffield and Tuscumbia. The canvass will continue for the remainder of the week and reports will be made to Washington authorities.

Judge Petree explained that his agents emphasized to employers who were interviewed that the survey is unofficial and that NRA authorities are without legal right to conduct an investigation.

"All types of businesses have been canvassed," he said, "and nowhere have we found a complete breakdown. The larger employers are almost unanimous in their decision to abide by code structures. Our survey shows code provisions are being retained in the heavy industries such as iron, steel, textile, and paper mills."

Judge Petree said inquiries to officials of the Alabama Federation of Labor had not revealed any instances of letdowns from code provisions.

Merchants Abide

"All of the larger stores in all of the cities are complying with the code," he said and added that retail merchants of Birmingham, Montgomery and mobile had agreed to abide by code provisions.

Judge Petree said the only instance of price-cutting, of which he had knowledge, had been in the sale of cigarets.

With district offices still open at Mobile, Montgomery and Florence, in addition to state headquarters here, Judge Petree said he had not received any information from national authorities yet on the fate of the offices June 16 when the recovery act would have expired automatically, unless extended by Congress, even if the Supreme Court had ruled favorably on the question.

Governors Of Nation To Support President

BOTH PARTIES PLEDGE AID

Praise Wise Leadership Of Roosevelt While In Recent Session

Biloxi Miss., June 15.—The nation's governors, after pledging aid to the Roosevelt Administration in its effort to salvage as many "gains" as possible made under the NRA, were enroute to their domains tonight prepared to reassemble upon call of the executive committee of the National Governors Conference "if it is necessary."

The governors concluded a two-day conference last night by voting confidence and pledging cooperation to the "wise leadership" of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, after hearing a minority attack upon the Democratic Administration repulsed by Roosevelt defenders.

The governors were unanimous in the view that hour limitations and wage scale provisions of the national recovery act "must be maintained," whether through Federal regulation or State control.

"The governors may be called upon to reassemble after Congress adjourns," said Chairman Paul V. McNutt, of Indiana, who was reelected by his fellow governors at yesterday's final session.

Gov. McNutt sad the governors deemed it imprudent to promulgate any definite course of action until the Congress has concluded its sessions and enacted legislation supplanting, in part, the NRA or offering the States a legislative outline to follow.

Interstate compacts, providing uniform labor legislation, and incorporating the cardinal principles of the NRA may be proposed as a unfied program to the states if it becomes necessary to call the conference in special session, in the opinion of severa lgovernors.

"The Federal Government, however," commented McNutt, "has not exhausted its powers to regulate industry. This may be accomplished in several ways," and the governors, he said, are awaiting final congressional action before proposing legislative policies.

A majority of the governors attending the conference expressed themselves as favoring uniform State regulation of industry in preference to Federal control on the theory that further extension of Federal powers is an encroachment of "States rights."

At its closing session, the conference laid aside a precedent that bars adoption of resolutions of even slightly controversial nature, and, without a record vote declared, "that business has been greatly benefited and working conditions vastly improved under the wise leadership of President Roosevelt, and that the wage and hour provisions should be encouraged and furthered throughout the nation."

The resolution was proposed by Gov. Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina who earlier in the day had declared that "President Roosevelt is the greatest president in the history of our nation."

He defended the nation's chief from attack by Gov. Eugene Talmadge, of Georgia, who labeled the recovery program "Communistic," and called the New Deal a "deal with deuces wild."

Gov. Harry Nice, of Maryland, had decried "professional and political quackery," which he said the Roosevelt Administration had offered the country as a "cure-all" for its economic and social ills.

The conference was brought to a close last night with a banquet. While most of the 20 governors in attendance at the business sessions had departed today, several of the chief executives remained here over Saturday for a program of entertainment and diversion arranged by citizens of Biloxi and Gulfport.

CITY CENSUS MAY BE MADE SAYS MAYOR

New Census Can Be Made At Small Cost Says Director Smith

In reply to various communications relative to obtaining a federal census for Clanton since the city limits were enlarged, Mayor C. Fenn Jones has received from the Bureau of the Census at Washington, a letter outlining the procedure under which a census may be taken with federal sanction and supervision.

It is estimated that the cost of a special census, such as is desired in Clanton, would be about $170.

When a special census of this kind is taken, there is detailed for its supervision an expert employe of the census bureau, whose salary is paid by the bureau. Traveling and subsistence expenses of this expert have to be paid by the parties requesting the census. In addition to the export, other clerks, stenographers, and enumerators have to be provided at the expense of the parties requesting the census.

Floyd Smth, dierctor of work relief, in Chilton County, has asked Mr. Hawkins, State Planning Engineer, if the Clanton census work can be handled as a "white collar" job, and thus save the city the cost of payng for the special clerks and workers necessary to do the job.

Mayor Jones, expects to know soon just what can be done about this matter, he said.

2 NEW SCHOOL BUILDINGS TO BE ERECTED

Isabella And Collins Chapel Will Get New Houses Says Supt. Little

In all probability work will soon get underway on the construction of two new school buildings in this county; one at Isabella and the other at Collins Chapel, where the buildings were destroyed by fire during last school term.

Supt. Luther E. Little stated this week that he has determined that plans can be worked out whereby the government will agree to donate 45 per cent of the total cost erecting these buildings. Last Tuesday, he said, government officials let it be known that a grant of 45 per cent will be available for school projects where the other 55 per cent is already available.

Prior to this date, the government would not approve a grant except in those cases where the large portion of the cost was borrowed from the government. Concessions made last week, Mr. Little explained, will enable the rebuilding of the Isabella and Collins Chapel buildings without having to call upon the communities for contributions.

Architects are busy now drafting plans for these structures, but Mr. Little said that at present details of the plans are not available. Further information regarding these and other school projects will be announced in a short time, he intimated.

CLAIM RECEIPTS WRITTEN LATE

Parties Did Not Know Poll Tax Was Paid, Stated In Report

Atty. Gen. Albert A. Carmichael has ruled that 700 persons whose names are on the poll tax rolls of Chilton County are not qualified electors because the poll tax was paid and the names added to the lists after the time for paying the tax had expired.

The opinion was written at the request of Probate Judge J. Lee Smith, who said the tax records of the tax collector's office revealed that "around 700 names" of persons who had been issued poll tax receipts were placed on the rolls after the office closed at 10 p. m., February 1, 1934, the last day for payment of the taxes that year. The tax receipts were dated back to February 1.

"The several hundred parties to whom these receipts were purported to be issued did not themselves pay the tax collector for the amount of poll tax due by these parties and did not know that poll tax receipts had

BUILDING FUNDS FROM GOV'MENT MAY BE SECURED

Mayor Receives Definite Information Regarding Local Building

W. E. Spragins of the office of State Engineer of the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, has acknowledged receipt of a recent letter from Mayor C. Fenn Jones, and in reply sayss:

"This office is now in position to accept applications for loans and grants. The grant would be 45 per cent of the total allotment, the loan 55 per cent, and the interest rate on he loan would be 4 per cent.

"It is recommended that you employ an engineer to prepare your plans and application. It is necessary to fill out a set of standard forms which we will be glad to supply your engineer."

This information, obtained by Mayor Jones, brings more definitely to the citizens and officials of Clanton what procedure is necessary to accomplish certain public improvements which have been considered under the public works administration aid.

In connection with the Grammar School, as an example, it would be inferred from the letter of Mr. Spraggins that Clanton may secure the money for the building requirements, 45 per cent of which would be a grant from the public works administration, and 55 per cent of it would be a loan at

BOY THOUGHT RABIES VICTIM IS IMPROVING

Son Of Ward Jones Bitten By Rabid Dog Was Earlier Belief

A 13-year-old boy, believed Sunday to be the victim of rabies, was reported late Tuesday afternoon to be much improved, and Dr. N. S. Johnson, who is treating him, declared that he is confident that the lad does not have the dread disease.

The child, F. C. Jones, son of Mr and Mrs. Ward Jones, of near Clanton, was bitten about six weeks ago by a dog thought to be rabid and he and several other members of the family were given the anti-rabies treatment.

Sunday morning he was stricken with a peculiar ailment and was rushed to Clanton for treatment. Dr. Johnson examined him and said that he apparently had rabies but stated that it would be impossible to determine immediately.

Monday it was reported that he was drinking water and several physicians agreed that there was little liklihood that he had rabies, explaining that no rabies victim can stand the sight of water. The disease, they explained, got its name from the fact that its victims fear water.

When the child was brought to Clanton Sunday, it was reported that he refused to drink water, but early Monday morning he began begging for water and drank two glassfuls. This in the opinion of physicians proved that he did not have the disease.

Dr. Johnson declared that his trouble was evidently caused from intestinal poisoning, caused from eating food that disagreed with him.

Other members of the family bitten at the same time as F. C. have shown no signs of becoming affected with the disease, and physicians concur that only rarely does the treatment, when given immediately, fail to prevent the contraction of the malady.

CONTEST CASE SAYS [illegible]CERS IRRESPONSIBLE

Register in Chancery 1-1-36

Effect Of Atty-General's Ruling On Trial Is Not Determined

July 8 has been set by Judge Arthur Glover as the date for the hearing of evidence in the three election contest suits filed against three Democartic officials in this county.

The complaints against T. L. McKee A. D. Martin and J. C. Pattillo are in eight counts. The first seven counts are really a preface to count eight which charges malconduct, fraud and other illegalities in last November's election.

Below is given ver batim count eight in the complaint filed by W. G. Culp against T. L. McKee; the same count in the other two cases are the same:

"That in said election at the various voting places in the said county there was malconduct or fraud on the part of the majority of the inspectors, or miscalculation or mistake made in counting, certifying or canvassing the votes cast by the voters at said voting places, which of itself alone or conjunction with giving legal votes to said T. L. McKee or rejection of legal votes belonging to Petitioner, when everything is corrected which will reduce the number of legal votes cast for the said T. L. McKee down to or below that of your Petitioner, the other candidate in election of the office of tax collector of sai dcounty, which malconduct or fraud consisted in this: That said inspectors or majority of them counted ballots for the said T. L. McKee which were not cast for him, or failed to count ballots for your Petitioner which ballots had been cast for him."

In this charge, the integrity and honest of 216 election officials namely inspectors, returning officers, and watchmen, is being questioned; men who were selected by the Election Board, composed of Former Judge L. H. Reynolds, W. H. Gillespie, former sheriff, and John Foshee.

HEN LAYS "STREAMLINED EGG" LAWYER MISTAKES FOR BALL

There's a hen out on G. W. Samson's farm, Maplesville Route Two, that has gone in for streamlined effect. During recent weeks, she has laid three eggs that were encircled by huge ridges—and looked more like a big hollow rubber ball than an egg.

Mr. Samson, believing that even a hen should be given recognition for initiative and progressiveness, brought one of these eggs into the News office that all might pay homage to the hen's efforts.

But alas! We can only tell our readers about the egg. Shortly after Mr Samson laid it on the editor's desk, J. B. Atkinson, Clanton attorney, strolled in—he, too, mistook the product for a ball. He gave it a squeeze.

The "streamlined egg" was gone—and so was Mr. Atkinson.

The President And The Governors Of Our States

If anybody is under the delusion that Franklin D. Roosevelt has blown up politically, let his restore his sanity by meditating the recent action of American Governors at Biloxi in "unanimously' pledging their feality to him and expressing their confidence in him.

It is doubtful if any Governor at the conference, whether Democratic or Republican in politics, applauds all that Mr. Roosevelt has done.

We do not see how any man who thinks for himself can applaud all that the President and his administratrators have done.

But it is not so hard to applaud and appreciate the major policies of the administration. It is easier still to applaud the spirit of the Roosevelt leadership.

Nevertheless in recent months the opposition has opened its big guns upon the Roosevelt fortress.

That, to be sure, was inevitable, and we do not doubt that it is desirable.

Government stands as much in need of criticism as sinners stand in need of prayer, and Mr. Roosevelt is no god.

Since the Supreme Court removed all but the pin feathers on the Blue Eagle, Mr. Roosevelt has been on the defensive. Many have assumed that he was slipping.

But the Governors of the American States are as political in their thought as Mr. Roosevelt. They have their ears as close to the ground as he—at least they'd better have. They were elected by their people in the same way that he was. They play politics as readily, if not always as skillfully, as he does.

No American Governor deliberately courts unpopularity. All American Governors are politicians, moved more or less by a lively sense of expectation of favors to come.

Be all that as it may the Governor-politicians, Democrats and Republicans alike, in solemn conclave assembled at Biloxi, said of the glorified politician and great leader of the American people now sitting in the White House:

"Whereas, business has been greatly benefited and working conditions vastly improved in the last two years under the wise leadership of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and," declared the vote of confidence resolution.

"Whereas it is essential to our national economic security that a nation-wide program providing minimum wages of pay and maximum hours of employment be maintained in the interest of the preservation of amicable relationships between capital and labor, and the enhancement of the purchasing power of the people of this country to the end that unemployment be reduced, therefore,

"Be it resolved, that it is the sentiment of this governor's conference that these ideals should be encouraged and furthered throughout this nation."

What does this mean? It means not only that in the best judgement of American Governors Roosevelt is doing as well as any man could be expected to do in his position, but it means essentially and significantly that the hearts of the masses of the American people are still with the Squire of Hyde Park.

It means that the American people have found a leader they can believe in.

All of which should be of special interest to the Liberty League and the United States Chamber of Commerce.

It should be of special interest to all the delegates to the recent "Grass Root" convention of Republicans at the only town A. Lincoln ever knew much about before he became a politician of consequence—a convention which we are glad was held, for as we have previously indicated, we believe as we believe little else that intelligent and aggressive opposition to a politician in power in a democracy is the friendliest agent in the life of that politician.

Believing as much we nevertheless say that in our considered opinion Franklin D. Roosevelt still has a great deal in him that the American people need and must have—moreover, it is apparent that the people are resolved to have it, in spite of all the growls and lamentations from the natural opposition.

The American people are quick to sense genius in their leadership. They sometimes err, most of the time they are correct. Always, in the end, they correct their errors.

It is fortunate for us who love the middle of the road that the American people consistently shy off from extremists of the right and left and themselves go marching down the middle of the big road.

Roosevelt at this fateful hour is the captain of the middle-of-the-road pilgrims.

Ask the Governors of American States who at Biloxi did not dare revile him, but came through their debates in the end by "unanimously" applauding him for his honest and enlightened efforts to find an easier, sweeter, surer Way of Life for all the children of men in this republic!

Mr. Roosevelt has recovered his lost ground and is ready to fight again.—Montgomery Advertiser.

Whose Bird Was It?

The next time one of your friends sees injustices, its restrictions on rugged individualism, etc., ask him what his opinion of the Blue Eagle was about September, 1933.

At present there is a disposition to blame the President for the entire flight of the Blue Eagle, "from egg to earth," as General Hugh Johnson put it.

If memory has not failed us, there were a number of other people who hailed the hatching of that bird, even though they might not have had a hand in laying the egg.

Some of the voices that are the loudest in hailing tthe death of the Blue Eagle now were the most vociferous in its praise when its wings were first tested.

Unheeded Warnings

It is one of the most amazing facts connected with modern life that the number of deaths resulting from carelessness makes no greater impression upon the general public.

In spite of the daily record of accidents, drivers continue to take a chance, with an inevitable percentage of fatal results. The same is true of other practices which take their grim toll of human life.

Persons who are ordinarily careful in protecting their property or health appear to throw discretion to the winds the moment they grasp the wheel of an automobile, and positively invite disaster through failing to observe the most elementary cautions.

The Jaywalker is equally reckless, taking the chance of being run down for the sake of saving a few steps or a moment's time. Those who are careless of other dangers help to swell the harvest of deaths.

And the most lamentable fact is that no amount of warning appears to have any appreciable effect.

D. W. Haskew

We learn from a story in a recent daily that a man found a gold watch in the woods. Some man had lost it years ago. The watch was carried to a jeweler and thorough examination made. It was found that the case of the watch was as sound and as valuable as ever, but the inside works of the watch were rusted and crumbly and worthless. The watch was no good and all because the inside was in decay. How many men and women do we find who are lost in sin. They have sound bodies. Apparently they are of real value, but just open up their minds and hearts and take a look within. They are worthless and valueless and all because the inside is in decay. Remember that it is not the case, but the works that creates value in a watch In like manner, it is not the body, but the soul that creates value in a man.

I was traveling through the busy streets of a city and it was so rough and so rocky, that I came near being jostled out of my car. The roughness of the street and the noise of traffice came near destroying my ability tc travel. Said a devout Christian womman to me, "In the rush and the noise of my life, in the rough and rugged way of my living, I am dangeroussly near of being jostled out of my Christian faith." It is a fact that we are living in a noisy age. The way of our faith and the road that leads out to loyalty, travel over a rugged path. There is much danger of us being jostled out of our inner experience. The little lad said to me "Doctor, I ran too fast to carry a light." That is true in this. our age. We are making too much speed to be safe, we are running too fast to carry a light. To be sure we are making speed, but we are losing in experience. We are being jostled out of our religion.

In company wtih a friend of mine I introduced him to four other men, each man calling him by name as they spoke to him. Two minutes later these four men had an occasion to repeat the name of my friend and not one of them could remember it. They had heard but they had not listened. There is a difference between listening and hearing. One man goes to church and he hears a sermon and by the time he reaches the front steps, it is gone from his mind. Another man hears a sermon and a week after he can be repeating portions of it to his friends. May I not say that there is more hearing than there is listening in our churches You hear an announcement and in five minutes afterwards you do not know what day and neither do you know the hour. Stop hearing and listen.

I wanted my hat and knowing in reason that it was in the house I walked through every room looking for it. Finally I came back to my wife and in a whining way said, "Somebody has removed my hat and I can't find it." My wife quiently arose and was gone less than a minute. On her return she placed the hat on my head and said "You were looking for your hat, but you were not seeing." As there is a difference between hearing and listening, so there is a difference between looking and seeing. It is the concentration of the mind that brings the object into the brain and it is the concentration of vision that causes people to see. Blessed is the man who can see when he looks.

Judge Brogden is authorty for the following story. He said that one of those farmers from the South who recently interviewed the president relative to the products of southern farms charged that the North reminded him of the farmer who lived near the Mason and Dixon Line. This farmer fed his cow on the south side of the Line. While he poured in the hay and the feed on the south end of the cow, the Yankees would come down with their mugs and milk her dry on the north end. "Now," shouted this brave farmer, "The South is growing tired of feeding the cow while the North is doing all the milking. We are going to yank this old cow around and let her stand with her head in the feed box on the north side and we Southerners are going to do some milking."

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture

Work With The R-ehabilitated Clients

My work with the re-habilitated clients this spring has been very interesting to me. I have gone into the far corners of the county, offering my assistance to those farmers whom the government has given a chance to stage a come-back. A year ago found them down but not out, and since they were given a chance most of them are staging an up-hill fight.

It is very gratifying today to look into their gardens and see bush beans pole beans, beets, cabbage, squash, collards, tomatoes, cucumbers, onions, sweet corn, pepper, okra, and the like. One will also find in their fields well planned crops that are fertilized and cultivated according to experiment station recommendation. Most of them are interested in this new opportunity and are not hesitating to carry out improved methods.

One young man said to me the other day that he was now twenty-three years of age, the youngest child in the family and had listened to his dad all this time and just look where they are. They can do what they want to, but I am taking new suggestions.

There are quite a few of the clients who are really making good. John Floyd, of near Clanton, William Moses. Jim Kelley, Sebum Singletary, Melvin Singletary, Jim Pome and Robinson of Jemison; Joe Jenkins of Mt. Creek; Cunningham of Verbena; Allen Terry Seaman Williams, Willow Talley, Allison, John Davis of Maplesville; Lige McGee, Rush and John Ford of Riderville; Madson Campbell of Randolph are some of the clients who are really grasping at their opportunity.

It is amusing to note the rivalry up at Jemison between Jim Pome and the Singletary boys. It is said that the competition grew so intense that brother Pome and Sebum are slipping out and plowing in the moonlight. Sebum has a steer and Pome has a mule, but Sebum says that Pome will be conquered. It may be interesting to know that Sebum Singletary and Jim Pome have entered the Arcadian Nitrate of Soda Crop contest.

Some of the clients are not doing much, but we must remember that there are some people who are always "on the proverbal hog" even in boom days.

THE TRUE STATUS OF THE COTTON CONTROL ACT

Following is a suggestion offered by A.A. Jackson, of Lomax, to Congress, for a re-arrangement of the Cotton Production Control Act:

A and B have joining farms, with 40 acres each of the same grade of land. A and B each have 30 acres in cultivation.

A, during the 5-year base period, did not plant much cotton and used very little fertilizer. The 5-year base period allows A only 8 acres to plant in cotton, with an average yield of 150 pounds per acre. This gives A 1200 pounds of lint cotton, tax free, this nets B $567.00, which is four times as much as A receives.

The above facts prove that B is the one who is responsible for the overproduction of cotton and is getting four times as much as A.

Let me beg that our lawmakers look into this enormous and ungodly discrimination, which is more than four fold in thousands of cases. Give us something like this:

Take A 8 acres and B 16 acres, add them together, which will be 24 acres, divide by two, and that will give A and B 12 acres each. Take A 150 pounds of lint cotton and B 300 pounds, add them together, which will be 450 pounds, divide the 450 pounds by two and that will give A and B 225 pounds per acres each, or 2600 pounds each for the total acreage, and at 12 cents per pound, gives A and B each $312.00, instead of giving A $144.00 and B $567.00

I ask our Congress at Washington to consider the above disorimination, and amend our cotton Production Control Law, so that A and B both will be recognized equally. Also, consider the half and half share tenant. I have a half and half share tenant who is cultivating my allotment of 14 acres in cotton, with a yield of 170 pounds per acre. I rented 7 acres to the government, who pays me a cash payment of 3½ cents per pound, for 1190 pounds I receive $41.65. This money comes out of the cotton that my tenant produced and discriminates against my tenant in favor of me, to the amount of $20.82½.

Yours respectfully,
A. A. JACKSON,
Lomax, Ala.

Others sentenced were Cliff Oden, who received a 179-day sentence for violation of the prohibition laws, and Daniel Webster, Negro, who drew 113 days for the same offense.

Trench Silo Filled At $1 Per Ton Cost

Auburn.—At a total filling cost of $30, a little more than $1.00 per ton, a 28-ton silo here was filled with sorghum in approximately 12 hours, reports W. H. Eaton of the dairy departmen.

"Silage taken from the trench silo last year was considered equal in quality to that removed from a concrete silo," he said, in advising farmers to dig more trench silos for saving silage. "Farmers who wish to construct this type of silo will find valuable suggestions in Circular 59 from the State Experiment Station," he advises.

Legionnaires Meet In Mobile July 14th

Mobile, June 15.—Chairman Inge, of the General Committee in charge of the Alabama Department Convention, American Legion, which begins at Mobile July 14, has given notice to Legionnaires that they should make reservations for quarters as soon as possible, writing Chairman James E. Duggan, of the Housing Committee, care of Legion Headquarters, Battle House, Mogile.

As many of the former service men as desire to go in barracks can be accomodated at the low rate of fifty cents per day and those desiring rooms with bath and garage at private residences will pay one dollar.

The Mobile city commission has turned over to Convention managers two down-town fire stations, equipped with showers and sanitation, to be used as barracks, if desired, and the National Guard Armory is also available for this purpose.

Other visitors, in addition to registered members of the Legion Auxiliary, will be provided with quarters on making request to the Housing Committee, and many of the most desirable homes in the city are being opened for the Convention period to delegates and visitors.

Hotels, large and small, can accomodate approximately 1100 guests, and advance reservations indicate that there will be filled early in the four-days session, Chairman Inge gives assurance that all will be taken care of. The big entertainment feature is a boat trip to the Gulf on Tuesday, July 16.

T. C. I. COMPANY TO HOLD OPENING OF MODEL NEW STEEL-CLAD HOMESTEAD

Tennesteel Homestead on Red Mountain Demonstrates Advantages of Steel in Home and Farm Building

June 22nd is the date set by officials of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company for the official opening of Tennesteel Homestead—the model, new steel-clad homestead development recently constructed by the company near the crest of Red Mountain, bordering the Montgomery Highway on the outskirts of Birmingham, to illustrate the advantages of sheet steel in homestead construction.

Governor Bibb Graves, Commissioner of Agriculture R. J. Goode, Dr. L. N. Duncan, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and many prominent agricultural authorities have accepted invitations of the company to attend the opening of the new development.

Tennesteel Homestead occupies a tract of four acres on the Southern slope of Red Mountain. It comprises a modern steel-clad cottage, two-car garage, barn, poultry house and corn crib. All buildings are constructed of Tennessee Sheet Steel, applied over wooden framing.

Of particular interest is the new steel-clad, four room cottage, which is wooden frame; the roof of V-crimped steel sheets; the ceiling and interior walls of beaded steel sheets. Proper insulation both against summer's heat and winter's chill has been amply provided. Wall board insulation has been placed between the studs and both the outside and inside sheets. Four inches of mineral wool insulation is used between the joists and ceiling sheets.

Just south of the cottage is the durable and trim two-car garage, designed for use on farms or for city homes. Back of the home is the steel clad, sanitary poultry house, built to accommodate one hundred head where poultry is securely guarded against depredations of marauding animals, which often take such heavy toll of young chicks and feeds. A modern steel clad two-stall stable incorporates in both design and construction the best thought of Southern agricultural college authorities and practical farmers. It is planned especially to meet conditions found on the average Southern farm and like the other structures in the farmstead group is fire and lightning resistant. A steel corn crib is situated a few yards from the dwelling.

At Tennesteel Homestead, particular attention has been paid to the fencing. Various types of fencing, all made in the company's wire mill at Fairfield, have been erected to illustrate the different types produced.

equally adapted to the requirements of the farm or urban center. Tennessee Company officials foresee a vastly increased use of this type construction in rural districts and communities removed from fire protection and in urban areas where landlords have suffered heavy losses in recent years through vandalism.

Except for the wood framing, floors and trim, which are said to lend themselves better and more economically to small, low cost housing, the Tennesteel cottage, is built of Tennessee Steel Sheets rolled at Fairfield. Siding of the cottage is of painted steel weatherboard sheets, applied over a Ornamental lawn fences surround the front and sides of the premises. Fields are enclosed with American Wire Fence and National Wire Fence, the poultry yard with American Poultry and Rabbit Fence. All fence is erected on steel posts.

Grounds of the development will be farmed and used to demonstrate the advantages of Basic Slag, a plant food and soil conditioner, produced in the United States exclusively by the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company.

Tennesteel Homestead will be in charge of caretakers and open to visitors at all times, after June 22nd.

TIRES MAY LOOK ALIKE ON THE OUTSIDE ON THE INSIDE THEY ARE DIFFERENT

HEAT on the inside created by friction is the main cause of blowouts. Firestone Tires are different on the inside—they are built with the patented extra process of Gum-Dipping that soaks every cord and insulates every strand with pure liquid rubber, preventing internal friction and heat. No other make of tire is Gum-Dipped.

Firestone performance records again emphasize the undisputed evidence that Firestone Tires are not only blowout-proof, but give greatest protection against skidding. There are three questions and answers that will solve the problem of what tires to buy:

QUESTION 1—"Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"

ANSWER—Recent tests by a leading University show that Firestone High Speed Non-Skid Tires stop a car 15% quicker than any other of the leading makes. For eight consecutive years Firestone Tires have been on the winning car in the dangerous Pike's Peak Race where a skid means death. This is undisputed evidence that Firestone gives car owners greatest protection against skidding.

QUESTION 2—"Are they blowout-proof?"

ANSWER—Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have the most amazing records for being blowout-proof of any tires ever built. In the gruelling 500-Mile Race at Indianapolis, May 30th, every one of the 33 cars was equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. Not one of the 33 drivers had any tire trouble of any kind.

Ab Jenkins drove his 5,000 pound car on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires over the hot salt beds of Utah, 3,000 miles at 127.2 miles per hour, with temperatures as high as 120°, without tire trouble of any kind. These are most amazing proofs of blowout protection ever known.

QUESTION 3—"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

ANSWER—Firestone High Speed Tires not only give you more than 50% longer wear, but also lowest cost per mile due to the tough, wear-resisting tread built with higher shoulders and a wider, flatter contour. This rugged tread is held securely to the Gum-Dipped cord body by Firestone's patented construction of two extra layers of cords under the tread, a special construction feature not used in any other tire. Unequaled mileage records by thousands of car owners add undisputed evidence of longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires.

You Always Get Better Quality at No Higher Price when You Buy a Firestone Tire with the Firestone Name and Guarantee been issued to them until around the 15th day of February, and in fact, did not know or have any knowledge whatever of a poll tax receipt being issued to them until . . . certain parties mailed these receipts . . ." Judge Smith, a democrat who took office last January 14, wrote.

1 University tests show Firestone Tires stop cars 15 to 25% quicker.
2 Gum-Dipped cords give greater blowout protection. Gum-Dipping is not used in other tires.
3 Wider, flatter tread gives more than 50% longer non-skid wear.

"It is supposed that the necessary amount of money was paid in to the tax collector for these poll tax receipts, but the money was all paid in in a lump sum and was not paid in until after midnight of February 1, 1934."

Unofficial information at the capitol was to the effect that victorious democrats, who hold most of the Chilton County offces for the frst time in many years, accused the opposition candidates of adding the names to the poll lists. The attorney general's ruling will not affect the status of present office holders, attorneys stated.

Although the attorney-general's ruling will not affect those officeholders who have already taken office, Omar L. Reynolds, of the defense counsel in several election contest suits filed here, declared that since these people have been held not to be legal electors, then their votes will be thrown out.

Just how this will affect the status of the various contests is largely a matter of conjecture, however, Democratic sympathizers feel that a majority of these votes must surely have been cast for Republican candidates. If that is true then the ruling may be a deciding factor in the final outcome of these suits.

The date for the hearing of the three contests has been set for July 8, when the long grind of examining several hundred witnesses and gathering piece by piece the materials from which Judge Glover must make his decision will be begun.

Objectives Of Local Unit Are Pointed Out By Health Officer

In 1850 a man named Lemuel Shattuck published a report of a sanitary survey of the State of Massachusetts, and recommended in this report that a State Health Department be established. About 20 years later, and as a result of his report, the first State Health Department of the United States was established in Massachusetts, and Paul Revere, the same man who made the "Midnight Ride" was the first chairman of the first board of Health. From this beginning there has been developed State Health Departments in every state in the Union, and through close cooperation between Health officials, practicing physicians, and many other branches of Science, as well as the public in general, much progress has been made in the fight against disease. But in spite of this progress, much remains to be done.

Chilton County, through its recent action in establishing the Health Unit, now has a better chance to participate in the health program that is being carried on throughout most of Alabama. And it is quite proper for the citizens of the County to want to know what they may expect from their Health Unit, and what the Unit is doing. This information will be furnished from time to time, together with a report of the results being obtained. Below is given an outline of the major objectives of the Unit, and these will be discussed from time to time through the newspapers and in other ways. These objectives are:

Sanitation.
Control of communicable diseases.
Public Health education.
Individual health protection and promotion.
Research.
Aid in the development of a social machinery that will insure each individual of the community a standard of living that is adequate for the maintenance of proper health.

Around these aims your health unit hopes to build up a program that will make a good county a still better place in which to live.

WILL OCCUPY NEW CITY HALL DURING WEEK

City Clerk And Mayor's Office, Fire Dept. To Occupy New Bldg.

Clanton's new $20,000 city hall is almost ready for occupancy and before the week is ended, Mayor C. Fenn Jones plans to have all the city officials installed in the new building.

Contractors for the construction of the two-story brick structure pronounced the project complete Monday, and only final approval of the architect held off the removal into the new quarters.

According to an announcement Tuesday by Mayor Jones, present plans call for the removal into the new building Friday of this week.

No Program has yet been prepared for the dedication of the building, whch will house all the city offices, but Mayor Jones stated that there will likely be something of this nature planned at an early date to permit the citizens of the city to really appreciate the advantages that a city hall will afford.

Seats for the auditorium, which will seat between two and three hundred. have not yet been purchased and also some of the other offices have not been equipped, so Mr. Jones explained that he thought it wise to postpone any dedication service for the present time.

Anyone having business with the mayor or city clerk wil find them at their new location after Friday.

MEASURING OF COTTON ACRES TO START SOON

Tentative Selection Of Men For Work Has Been Made Says Fant

The work of measuring the cotton acreage in Chilton County, as a requirement in the National Cotton Production Adjustment Program, will get underway next week, according to J.W Fant, county agent, who stated that there is approximately 45,000 acres tc be measured in the county.

Tentative selection of the men whc will have charge of this work has been made, but Mr. Fant stated that there is no definite announcement that can be made this week. Instructions will be given these men for several days and they will be examined to determine their ability before definite approval is given their appointment, he stated.

In the county there are 31,095 acres planted in cotton and 15,168 acres rented to the government by the 1,685 contract signers, who agreed to take a certain percentage of their acreage out of cotton production this year.

Mr. Fant said that he wished to caution farmers that all rented acreage must be staked off before the supervisors and committeemen can measure it. This, he explained, is the growers' responsibility and urged all farmers to stake off their acreage as rapidly as possible to prevent delay when the supervisors get to work.

Definite announcement of the personnel of the staff that will have charge of this work will be announced next week Mr. Fant explained.

Youth Following Urge To "Get-Rich-Quick" Falls Into Arms Of The Law

A brief career of "getting by without work" was suddenly terminated for Grady Lucas, 21, of the Dry Valley community, Monday when he found himself in the Chilton County Jail charged with petit larcecy.

The trouble is all alleged to have had its beginning some weeks ago, when Grady grew tired of his job as farm hand and decided to make himself some easy money.

His first venture, according to reports, was to phrase himself a nice petition, pleading for help to get his sister in the hospital. Taking this around to big-hearted people of this section he is said to have preyed upon their sympathy and generosity to the extent of twenty dollars.

Priding himself on the success of his first "flim-flamming" effort, and it wasn't bad for an amateur, he decided that his mother should also have hospital treatment. A petition for hospitalization for her is said to have brought the youth another seven dollars.

With this money, he is alleged tc have purchased himself an automobile but just riding around must have grown monotonuous. Riding affords very little real excitement, and, too, there's always the problem of gasoline to keep the motor whirling.

So, Grady swapped his auto for a pistol, if all reports are true; and there's where his real trouble began. Joe Parker, a neighbor, missed a quantity of syrup and other produce from his home and, according to his story, having seen Grady in the vicinity of his home, grew suspicious. Mr. Parker went over tc the Lucas home and made inquiry about his products, and Grady's sister is said to have exhibited a container of syrup asking Mr. Parker if that was his. He identified it and was told that Grady had brought it home.

This aroused Grady's anger toward his sister, and after allegedly beating her he drew his pistol on her. She swore out a warrant for his arrest before a local J. P. and he was brought to jail but when the deputy arrived with him it was found that the sister had failed to sign the warrant.

And that's where Mr. Parker came in. Rather than see Grady miss the thrill that inevitably crowns the criminal career, he swore out a warrant charging him with petit larcency.

So Grady is in jail. His job is gone; his twenty-seven dollars spent; his car has a new owner; the law has his gun and somebody must be found to sign a three-hundred bond before he gets out

BIG GAMES ON PROGRAM FOR JULY FOURTH

Several Fights Will Also Be Staged At The Ball Park In Clanton

The Clanton Ball Park and the Chilton County High School campus will be the scene of gay festivities on next Thursday, July 4, when a large portion of the populace of the county is expected to congregate to celebrate the Nation's birthday, and pay tribute to the immortal spirits of those figures who conceived and founded this government.

Among the events of the program will be three baseball games, featuring the Clanton Baseball Club, the Alabama Mills Nine, and the American Legion Team pitted against three visitors. In the morning, the American Legion team will inaugurate activities with a hard-fought battle with a Montgomery team.

In the afternoon, Clanton Baseball Club and the Alabama Mills Nine will match wits and ability with a couple of out-of-town nines. These are all expected to be contests that will be well worth seeing, if one is to accept the recommendations of Marvin Marcus manager of the Clanton nine and director of the day's program.

Those who care not for baseball need not feel that there won't be plenty for them to see and enjoy. Several fights will be featured; local talent will be seen in two or three of these bouts, according to the tentative plans. One of the most colorful numbers will be a battle royal, featuring a group of Negroes who will match skull and knuckles in a knock-down and drag-out melee.

Invitations have been extended several outstanding speakers to address the audience on subjects of interest Mr. Marcus was unable to give any names of speakers, since he has not yet learned which ones will be able to accept the invitation.

ONLY PART OF THE $150,000.00 TO COME IN

Balance Expected To Be Paid Within Short Time Says Fant

Chilton County farmers, along with others in all the cotton-raising states in the Union, are again sharing in the efforts of a generous Uncle Sam to bring prosperity back to the people of this country by guaranteeing the working men and women a greater earning capacity.

Within the next week or ten days, more than fifty thousand dollars will be paid to farmers in this countv who are participating in the government cotton production control program Sixteen hundred-eighty-five checks amounting to $31,119.11 have already been received by the County agent's office to be distributed to local farmers as the first rental payment from the government on lands that they agreed not to plant in cotton this year.

This amount will go well above fifty thousand dollars within the next ten days, is the belief of those who have charge of the program in this county. Approximately $146.421 will be paid this year to the 3130 contract signers in the county as rents on 15,168 acres not planted in cotton and parity payments, according to figures from County Agent J. W. Fant's office.

Of this amount, between fifty and sixty thousand dollars will likely be paid within the next week, it was explained; the remainder to be paid in the fall and winter. Another sum equal to that which is being paid now will be paid in either September or October, and in December the parity payments will be made which will bring the total received by this county to near one hundred-fifty thousand dollars.

Rentals and parities last year brought the farmers of this county $165,000. This year there is planted in cotton in this county 31,095 acres—and the government has rented 15,168 acres, the county agent's reports show.

This money should also mean much to this section from the merchant's business men's point of view; $50,000 flowing into the county at this time of the year, when ordinarily the farmer has no income, will do much to relieve the dullness of the summer months.

Farm Boys' Future

For a good many years various writers have seemed to be worried because farm boys leave the farms to seek their futures in the towns and cities, as if the farm boy had not the same right to choose his career as other boys.

There would be so much logic in asserting that the son of a coal miner, for instance, should never aspire to be anything but a coal miner.

Of course, if a farm boy has no ambition to acquire an education, or no desire to enter business or a profession, or is not willing to apply himself to learning a skilled trade, he had better stay on the farm. Without some sort of practical education he would be worse off in a town or city than in the country, and would probably have to accapt the lot of a common laborer.

But for the intelligent and energetic farm boy who can abtain an education it can not be denied that the towns and cities afford wider opportunities. In fact, many of the leaders in every field of endeavor came originally from humble farm homes.

While most of the trades and professions are crowded today, farming is also everdone. More farm products are produced than can be marketed at a profit over the cost of production.

Whenever the demand equals the supply we shall see better prices for agricultural products, and we shall also see people, young and old, going back to the farms. But until that time comes the farm boy should be encouraged to enter any vocation for which his talents and education fit him.

It may be added that there are right now excellent opportunities on the farms of the country for boys who will study and apply modern agricultural methods, but the future holds little in store for the indolent and shiftless, on the farm or anywhere else.

The American Worker

A fair deal for labor has always been a cardinal principal in this country.

Temporary economic upheavals should not blind us to the fact that the wages, working conditions and living standards of American workmen, skilled and unskilled, are by far the best in the world.

The labor leader who attempts to stir up dissension in time of crisis, and make impossible demands upon industry, is the honest worker's worst enemy.

A good example that is provided by a large metal mining company which, like all such concerns, is finding the sledding hard these days. About ten per cent of the company's workers belong to a union whose leaders attempted to call a strike which might have deprived the other ninety-per cent of their jobs. The union demanded that the company grant a six-hour day, a thirty-hour week, the closed shop, a minimum wage of $1.00 per hour for underground workers, and similar things which, in view of conditions, would have bankrupted the company.

Fortunately the strike call failed to carry by a single vote. Had but one man thrown his influence the other way, hundreds of men would now be out of work, because a handful of arrogant labor "leaders" wanted to show their authority.

American industry is doing its best to provide new jobs, fair wages and provide the best possible working conditions. The great bulk of workers know and appreciate that and they will do well to beware of the agitator who, like the crooked politician or employer, seeks only his own profit.

"No matter how desirable public officials may think it is for the Federal government to project itself into the affairs of our citizens, it can do so only to the extent authorized by the Constitution."—Federal Judge Charles L. Dawson.

You Can't Win

The reckless driver, like the habitual criminal, can't win.

Every newspaper carries the evidence of that, in accounts of those whose lives have been sacrificed to speed, to incompetence, and to carelessness at the wheel.

The tragic end to the great career of T. E. Shaw, the famed "Lawrence of Arabia," was headlined in the papers of the world a few weeks ago. Not yet 40, Shaw had done war service whose value to the English cause was so great as to make it almost unappraisable. He had distinguished himself as a translator of Greek classics. He was one of the most brilliant of living archaeologists. He was a military and mechanical genius of the first rank. It was certain that his period of greatest achievement still lay in the years ahead.

Shaw's "hobby" was to drive automobiles and motorcycles at incredibly high speeds on country roads. According to news accounts, his cycle was going at around eighty miles an hour when he was forced to deliberately crash to avoid striking a boy on a bicycle. A few days later he died, without regaining consciousness. His doctor said that it was best that he did not live, because of tthe terrible injuries his brain had sustaained in the accident. Congenital recklessness had robbed the world of one of its gifted minds.

Every year in this country alone, some 35,000 people die—victims to improperly-driven motor vehicles. Among them are the famous and the obscure, the brilliant and the mediocre. Each life lost means that the nation's resources have been sapped—each death means misery and unhappiness to others. Reckless driving is an unbeatable game, at which the player always loses—and which likewise penalizes and robs the innocent.

Consider The Poor Editor

Every profession finds occasion to bemoan the abuses to which it is subjected by the public. Even lawyers, as easy a lot as theirs is, have been known to moan and groan, all the while profiting both from the ills and fortunes of their fellow men.

Newspaper editors, The Advertiser's included, also are wont to fret under the lot which causes them to labor long at a typewriter, albeit they doubtless have more excuse than others to moan.

Because the editor of The Portland (Mich.) Observer has moaned more eloquently than most of his brothers, his moanings are printed herewith:

> Consider the editor. A child is born unto the wife of a merchant in town. The physician getteth ten plunks. The editor writeth a stick and a half and telleth the multitude that the child tippeth the beam a nine pounds. Yea, he lieth even as a centurian. And the proud father giveth him a Cremo.
> Behold, the young one groweth up and graduateth. And the editor putteth in the paper a swell piece. Yea, a peach of a notice. He telleth of the wisdom of the young woman and of her exceeding comeliness. Like unto the roses of Sharon is she, and her gown is played up to beat the band. And the dressmaker getteth two score and four iron men. And the editor gets a note of thanks from the sweet girl graduate—maybe.
> And the daughter goeth on a journey. And the editor throweth himself on the story of the farewell party. It runneth a column solid. And the fair one remembereth him from afar with a picture postal card that costeth six for a jitney—maybe.
> Gehold, she returneth, and the youth of the town fall down and worship. She picketh one, she picketh a lemon. But the editor calleth him one of our promising young men and gettteth away with it. And they send unto the editor a bid to the wedding, and behold the bids are fashioned in a far city.
> Flowery and long is the wedding notice which the editor printeth. The minister getteth his bit.
> The editor printeth a death notice, two columns of obituary, three lodge notices, a cubit of poetry. And he forgetteth to read proof on the dead, and the darned thing cometh out "Gone to Her Last Roasting Place."
> And all that are akin to the deceased jumpeth on the editor with exceeding great jumps. And they pulleth out their ads and cancelleth their subs, and they swing the hammer even unto the third and fourth generations.

Canst thou beateth such a plight?—Montgomry Advertiser.

One day I was talking with an ex-convict. This man hald bitterness in his heart toward the sheriff who arrested him and who locked him behind prison bars. He told me that he was going to get even with that man if it took him the rest of his life. I asked this man the question, "Why do you have bitterness in your heart toward that man " and his reply was, "Because he locked me behind steel bars." No man likes the fellow who puts him in jail. How long will it be before we will learn to hate the things that put us behind the bars? I see men almost every day who have been put behind the bars by whiskey. I see those who are in the jail of bad habits, and yet they do not seem to hate the things that have put them there. When you walk behind the bars of bad habits or when you walk behind the bars of intemperance, you are in jail whether you know it or not. My advice to every one who is behind these bars is that he break jail and even after hate all bad habits anl the whiskey business to the end of life.

I saw a man blasting rocks. His crew of men were carving their way through a hill that was almost a solid boulder. Drills were at work and dynamite went off with a tremendous explosion. Rocks were slit and lifted and men trembled under the terrific strain. On the ground near where I stood there was an ant hill. I observed that the little racers did not lose a step when the dynamite exploded, they did not even seem to hear it. I picked up a small pebble and dropped it into the ant habitation and instantly there was confusion in the camp. The ants started to racing in every direction and pandemonium broke out everywhere. They cared nothing about the bursting of boulders, but when a pebble dropped into camp that was trouble enough. How often have I seen that to be the case among humanity. When there is a great calamity we hold our nerves and we never become confused, but in the midst of petty things, we go to pieces. We have excellent shock absorbers for the big explosions, but very poor ones for the little bumps. A bank can fail and we are all right, but let a window rattle and we are all wrong.

In conversation with a professor, he spoke of a certain student in his room. He said that he had just been looking over the papers of a certain young man and that he was disturbed about the attitude of the young fellow. Said he: "That boy does good work as far as he goes. Look at his examination papers here—ten problems given, and he has worked eight of them part of the way and his work is correct, but not one example is finished." Then that teacher continued, "I would rather have a boy turn in his paper with only two examples worked out of ten, than to have him turn in his paper with all ten partially worked." The ability to complete a task begun is one of the most promising elements of success in life. There are folks who never seem to be able to complete a thing. It is far better to complete just one task, than it is to leave unfinished a dozen that you have begun. Cultivate the habit of finishing before quitting.

I was sitting on the front porch of a parsonage home and a young man passed by on the sidewalk. almost in arms length. I spoke to him kindly and not a sound. The pastor of this young fellow met him not many yards away and he too spoke kindly to the youngster and got no reply. When the preacher came on the porch with me he said, "Doctor, the young man did not even grunt at me." I replied, "And brother Foster, he did not even grunt at me." How strange it seems to see such dispositions in human hearts. Meet a man and hear his greetings of kindness and then not even "grunt. A hog would do better than that.

I knew a little lad who became unruly in the early morning. He was in a fit of anger as he went away to school and to spite his parents he decided that he would not report on the school grounds that day. This boy played hookie all day and seemed to be happy over his liberty until late in the afternoon. When the shadows began to come—when 'the darkness began to gather—this boy thought of home and finally with slow steps he went back to his parents. in a most penitent manner. How like that boy is the sinner man. He seems happy in his liberty of sin until the night begins to gather and then he cries out for God and home.

PRESIDENT'S FAMILIES

Some facts regarding the family relations of our presidents may be of interest, as they are probably little known to the average reader. How many, far example, could tell off-hand how many presidents never married? The answer is, only one, Buchanan.

All the rest were married, and five of them married twice, Tyler, Fillmore Benjamin Harrison, Theodore Roosevelt and Wilson. Seven married widows Washington, Jefferson, Madison. Jackson, Fillmore, B. Harrison and Wilson, the last taking widows as their second wives.

The wives of Jefferson, Jackson, Van Buren and Arthur died before their husbands became president. Cleveland went into office as a bachelor. but was married during his first term.

Washington, Madison, Jackson, Polk and Harding were childless. Tyler was the father of 14 children, seven by each of his wives. W. H. Harrison was the father of 10, Hayes was the father of eight, Jefferson, Taylor and Theodore Roosevelt were the fathers of six each.

Two widows of presidents remarried. Mrs. Cleveland married T. J. Preston, Jr., a profesor of archeology, in 1913, about five years after her husband's death. Mrs. Benjamin Harrison married James Blaine Walker, Jr., her third husband, in 1921, when she was 64 years of age.

The most unusual circumstances connected with the martial relations of any president concerned Andrew Jackson Believing that Mrs. Lewis Robards had been divorced from her husband, he married her in 1791, only to discover that the decree of divorce had not yet been granted. Later the decree was granted Robards in 1794.

The CAT'S Out of the BAG!

$161 in Ontario — $28 In Alabama

Which Would You Rather Pay?

The people of Alabama could pay off ALL of the state's debts by paying only $28 each. For the people of the Province of Ontario to pay off all its debts each would have to pay $161.

Which Would You Rather Pay?

Ontario, you know, is where certain political theorists who were either careless with their facts or who had some political axe to grind (perhaps some of them got soft government jobs) promised the people of Ontario that if their government would only go into the electric power business, everything would be lovely. They promised that the power plants would not only pay for themselves but that they would make enough money with which to pay off other public debts.

What Actually Has Happened?

The public debt of Ontario, where the so-called "successful" government owned and politically operated electric power venture is located, has increased to $161 per person, almost SIX TIMES MORE THAN IN ALABAMA where power development is by private organizations such as this company. In Alabama, the state debt is only $28 per person. This company helps pay the taxes caused by this debt.

IN ONTARIO, the home owners and other property owners have to pay the increased taxes caused by the losses of the unsuccessful political power business which the government is engaged in, because that business pays no taxes.

The People of Ontario Got a GOLD BRICK

Is that what people of similar ideas are trying to foist upon the people of the United States? They tell a pretty story which, IF TRUE, would be interesting. But they never tell the WHOLE TRUTH.

Be wary of those who promise to put money into your pocket. They may want to get their hands in so they can take money OUT while they have you believing they're putting it in.

WANTS MORE NEWS FROM MAPLESVILLE

Editor, Chilton County News:

I receive my paper every week only I don't see enough news from Maplesville in it. I don't know whether another storm came and blew the town away or whether nothing ever happens over there.

I am going to see Jack Hayes the next time the White Sox are in town and tell him about a game I played in recently. I used to play short-stop over at Maplesville and played that position for a semi-pro team here in St. Louis last year, but now I have switched to second base. Last Sunday I had twelve assists and three put-outs without an error. Maybe you don't think that doesn't keep a second baseman running.

By the way, how are the teams of Maplesville, Clanton and Randolph progressing? I would like to read about them every week as I am really a baseball fan. Ask Dr. J. J. DuBose if I am.

Well, that's all I have to say this time, so I'll just wait until next Friday when I get my Chilton County News and see what has happened in the past week.

Here's to Alabama, the best state in the country.

The Leader will award to some two persons or organizations in Chilton County two cash prizes totalling one hundred dollars in the very near future. To win this money, the person or organization must have credited at The Leader the largest number of votes.

These votes, or trade coupons, are given with each purchase of 25 cents or more. Of course, the larger the purchase, the greater the number of votes given.

At the present time, a large number of churches over the county are in the contest and members of these churches are saving their trade coupons for their respective churches. For full details, other than explained above, call at The Leader.

Fleet Buyers Everywhere Are Joining Up With Plymouth

According to George C. Polk sales manager, Polk Bros. Motor Co., local Plymouth Dealer, Plymouth Fleet Business is Booming. He states Government departments, taxi companies, and large industrial concerns as well as individuals are swinging over to Plymouth faster than ever before.

Recently, according to Mr. Polk, the Government placed an order for 40C Plymouths to be used by the army on CCC work projects.

Mr. Polk states that purchasers of Plymouths are as proud and enthusiastic of their new Plymouth as a "kid" with new toys at Christmas time, and that numbers of owners report better than 20 miles per gallon of gas under all kinds of driving conditions, and oh, boy! do they boost the Plymouth hydarulic brakes, all steel body, ease of handling and floating ride? Just ask them.

Yes, the Plymouth Parade is On Just watch them on the highways in increasing numbers. Better still, why not call at their show room and let George Polk take you for a demonstration in the new Plymouth, then if you are not more enthused than you have ever been over any new car you had better . . . . ., well, we won't say what, let George do it.

There will be a working for the purpose of cleaning the cemetery on Friday a. m., July 12th. Come early and bring tools necessary to do the work. Please do not come one at a time and work around your own family's graves and then not come back and help do the work on the entire yard, as has been done in the past. We need all the help we can get. It is a big job.

Remember, our revival begins on the Sunday following. The Rev. B. F Dykes will do the preaching. Everybody is invited to come and worship the Lord with us. Hoping that lasting good will be accomplished in our meeting.

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'do less.' "My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." . . . If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician.

ise Motorist Makes Sure He Is Not Riding On Worn Out Casings When Starting Out On Trip

—o—

Automobiles, and especially tires, ould be checked over before the car ner starts on an extended Fourth July trip, in the opinion of Dief's er ice Station, local dealer for The oodyear Tire & Rubber Company.

"If the car and tires haven't been ecked over since the start of the mmer driving season, the wise mo- ist will see that this important mat- r is attended to before starting on holiday tour," Mr. Dief declared. 'res especially should be checked er, if they haven't had this atten- n since last summer. Smooth worn es are likely to give the motorist uble at a time when he is all set enjoy himself.

"Heat is a natural enemy of tire e, and the hot roads of summer time ll cause an old tire to go bad about quickly as any other means. Also, a rainy day, when pavements are ppery, the danger of skids is increas- immeasurably with old tires. New es relieve the motorist from any wor- or bother with tire trouble, and ve him trouble-free miles over the oliday.

"Goodyear G-3 tires, that are in the ublic eye a great deal just now as a esult of the investigations on tire ileage conducted by Joseph A. Fau- ot, noted detective, have proved es- ecially popular by reason of their earing qualities. Persons coming in have their tires checked up at our ation have seen these tires and put em on in place of 'smootries' in or- r that their summer driving might absolutely without worry," Mr. ief concluded.

Adams News

Health of this community is very good at this time.

Our Sunday school at Mt. Carmel is progressing nicely and we also have a splendid B.Y.P.U. each Sunday night of which we are very proud. We appreciate the visitors we have every Sunday night. We invite all who will to come and be with us. We also extend an invitation to anyone who wishes to come and join our B.Y.P.U. Both new members and visitors will always find a hearty welcome at Mt. Carmel.

The Junior B.Y.P.U. Band is putting on some interesting programs each Sunday night. They would also welcome any new members to their band. We hope some of the seed we are trying to sow will fall on good ground and will spring up and flourish.

We want to announce that our revival will start on the first Sunday in July. Onr pastor, the Rev. A. S. Bentley, will ge there on the first Sunday evening at 3 o'clock and preach. We will have services each day and night for a few days, We invite all who will to come and worship with us. We are hoping and praying for an old time revival at old Mt. Carmel. Let's all give them a few day's time and service for our Lord and Savior. We can surely give a few days in each twelve months for the One who suffered and died for our sins.

AUTO RACES JULY FOURTH SET IN B'HAM

American Legion Sponsors Huge Fireworks Program Next Thursday

Automobile races with the greatest line-up of cars and drivers ever seen in these parts and a night fireworks display of splendor will serve as the feature attractions on the American Legion's gigantic fourth of July Celebration at the Alabama State Fairgrounds.

This show gives promise of being the biggest and best that any part of the South has ever had and it is planned as a permanent affair if appreciated by those that attend.

Already a greater number of requests for entry blanks are in the headquarters office of the International Motor Contest Association than have previously been received for any early race meet. This is largely due to the large cash purses and the fact that Birmingham's championship races are the only ones that offer national dirt track title contestant points towards the 1935 championship.

Turning night into day with the most spectacular fire works display ever seen in these parts are promises put forth by the Tearle-Duffield Fireworks organization, who for the past two years have thrilled millions that attended the Century of Progress in Chicago.

Mr. C. H. Duffields, president of the firm that bears his name will personally supervise the entire program and be made the statement that even those that had witnessed the beautiful world's fair show would awe at the spectacle that he has planned for the Birmingham's American Legion celebration.

The officials of the Legion have other features of interest such as the drum and bugle corps parades, the bathing beauty contest and other plans in the making promise to satisfy even the most sophisticated holiday celebrator.

Permanent Projects To Be Outlined For County

Tentative plans for the securing and utilization of the county's share of the recent four billion dollar federal appropriation for the continued priming of the pumps of industry by affording people of this nation an honest opportunity to earn a living were discussed last Thursday morning in a special meeting of the Chilton County Commissioners Court.

The meeting was called by Judge J. Lee Smith at the suggestion of Floyd Smith, county works director, who stated that it was his desire to determine just what types of projects that members of the court would be most advantageous to Chilton County.

He declared that there was little definite information available yet, but said that he wanted to be in position when

CITY OFFICE MOVED INTO NEW BUILDING

First City Court In New City Hall Was Held Last Monday

Clanton's new city hall was a place of much interest Monday as many citizens called by for a brief visit with Mayor C. Fenn Jones and C. H. Pipes, city clerk. The beautiful building became the official headquarters of the city government last Friday afternoon when the mayor and clerk moved their offices from the Gore Building.

Mayor Jones held court Monday in the new and spacious court room, when four were tried for public drunkenness and one case for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated was postponed until next Monday. Those tried were given fines.

Although all of the equipment that will be necessary for the furnishing of the new buildings has not yet been secured, Mayor Jones declared that the

Let's Help Our Firemen

A fund totaling $104.00 had been raised up to Monday afternoon for recreational equipment for the volunteer firemen in the new city hall. These donations came from citizens of the town and Chief John Browder says he has tried to see everyone for a small donation, and if anyone has been missed they may give any amount they wish, to he or to Mr. Diefenderfer.

Curtains for the firemen's quarters are being made by ladies of Clanton. These quarters when "dressed up" will be something for Clanton folks to be proud to show visitors. Let's give the boys a break. Any amount will help out and the firemen will appreciate it, saying nothing of their deserving it. These boys are always on the job when we need them most, so now we can show our appreciation in some small way by helping them equip their room in the new city hall.

GOVERNMENT CENSUS TO BE MADE SOON

Mayor Jones Informed That Census To Be "White Collar" Jobs

Mayor C. Fenn Jones announced Monday that he has been informed by officials in Washington that a government census of all cities will be made during the next few months as "white collar" projects.

This will give Clanton an opportunity to reap the prestige resulting from the recent extension of the city limits, and Mayor Jones believes will bring the official population of the city to above three thousand. He has been endeavoring since the passage of the bill to extend the city limits to secure a new census; and has written several of the leading officials in Washington.

The mayor received information this week that the taking of new federal census will be among the "white collar" projects that will soon be put into effect to increase employment. This will prevent any extra expenditure on the part of the city and will give Clanton a new census rating in all published census records, Mayor Jones expained.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS LEAGUE HOLDS INTERESTING MEETING

Forty - Two Members Added To Fast Growing Roll

Members of the Chilton County Unit of Young Democrats, a contingent of the National League of Young Democrats—and one of the fastest growing political organizations in America, met last Friday night at the court house in Clanton in the fifth meeting since the inauguration of the movement in this county. The court house was packed to near capacity, and the names of forty-two new members were added to the rapidly-growing enrollment. This brings the membership of the local unit to above 250, and only a few weeks have elapsed since the idea became a reality.

The program rendered at this meeting was almost wholly one of entertainment. After a brief business session in which the president, Billy Smith, invited new members to fill out membership cards that their names officially be added to the roster, a lengthy and entertaining musical program was rendered by the Isabella Rackateers and the Isabella Quartet. "Dock" Mims was master of ceremonies and his in-

Bids will be asked for at an early date, it was explained, and the work will get underway during the summer months. Complete renovation of the interior of the building and repair to damaged parts of the walls is the major part of the program.

Judge Smith stated that only local labor will be used in this work, as the commissioners are interested in giving the people of this county all the work that is available on any county projects.

COUNTY PLANS BUILDING OF WAREHOUSE

Judge Smith Submits Plan To Commissioners Who Approve

In a recent meeting of the Chilton County Commissioners Court, plans were discussed for the erection of a county warehouse with approximate dimensions of 50 x 100 feet; the expenses of erection to be shared equally by the county and the national government.

The plans, submitted by Judge J. Lee Smith and approved by the members of the court, call for a fifty-fifty participation by the county government and the State Relief Department in the purchase of materials; the labor to be furnished from the relief rolls of the county.

Judge Smith estimated that the materials for the construction of the corrugated steel building will be approximately $1,200. The county government has agreed to pay $600 of this amount, he said.

The immediate use of the building would be a warehouse for the relief department, housing various commodi-

Interesting Letter To The Farmers From Dr. Gragg

Residents Of Rural Sections Will Benefit Greatly By Community Center And Should Become Interested

"Blessed is he that expecteth nothing for he shall not be disappointed." I wonder if the author of that expression had the farmers of Chilton County in mind. No, I don't think so; however, it does seem to me he should demand more consideration.

Some time ago I called your attention to my way of thinking how, under federal aid with relief work, it would be possible to build a community center, near Clanton, that would fill the bill for an athletic field, for various ball games, swimming pool, flying field, golf course and above all a county fair ground; and a meeting place for farmers and their families from the four quarters of Chilton County—a place where they could have their annual get-together free for all, meets; where everybody and his family could feel at home and know and say this place is ours, not yours, or his, or theirs, but ours.

Since calling attention to this great public need very little interest has been shown by the public, especially the farmers. A few individuals, I being one, did manage to get enough interest aroused to get a little landing field where if the wind is right, your ship right, and you are good at spot landing, you may get in and out alive if you have good luck and the Lord is with you.

A large ship, a fast ship or as for that matter, any ship does not try it in bad weather. At other places of no more importance, not as good towns, and no better counties are getting large fields and buildings that cost thousands of dollars, which the public can use as meeting places on any and all occasions that may be in demand.

Not long ago I called your attention to an allotment of more than $11,000.00 that was allowed to go back to the federal government just because no one seemed to be interested enough to use it after it was alloted to us to use on our field.

Suppose that $11,000.00 had been put in a community house for Chilton County folks to use for public meetings speakings, fairs, etc., it would have been a credit to our county. We would have been proud of it for years to come, and poor people who needed food and clothing and was begging for work, could have had a job and reaped the benefits of what is now forever lost

LOCAL BANK WILL ENLARGE ITS BUILDING

Proposed Addition To Peoples Savings Bank Approved By Federal Reserve

In 1901, thirty-four years ago, the Peoples Savings Bank erected the third brick building in Clanton and the structure was adequate for those days and for the then little village of Clanton. Chilton County and Clanton have grown since 1901 and the Peoples Savings Bank has grown with them. For a number of years the bank has realized that its business had outgrown the original quarters. Recently the bank acquired a portion of the W. I. Mullins lot immediately west of the present bank building. An architect was employed and plans were drawn for a modern bank building.

. The contract has been let and the proposal was submitted to the Federal Reserve Board for their consideration. The Federal Reserve Board has approved the proposed addition and construction will start immediately.

Elsewhere in the News will be found the bank's announcement of this addition to their bank building. It is noted that the business of the bank will be carried on in a new location while construction is going on.

The News joins the bank's host of friends and congratulates them on their plan to give to Chilton County and to Clanton a modern banking structure.

Back to The Farm

Two recent surveys cast new light on the current status of agriculture.

There has been a small but encouraging rise in value of American farms. Between March, 1934, and March, 1935, values rose in 30 states, declined in but five and remained unchanged in the other 13.

"Back to the Farm" is becoming a reality. Where a few years ago, the farm population was being depleted by an exodus to the cities, the trend has completely reversed and the streams of people are going from urbin to rural areas. A number of reasons lie behind this, such as industrial unemployment of profitable specialty farming, and the desire of immigrants to leave the cities for the land.

In addition, the number of individual farms is on the increase. In New England alone, there were 162,000 producing farms on January 1, 1935, in contrast to 125,000 on April 1, 1930.

All of this speaks well for the future of agriculture and a self-supporting citizenship. It is natural that people should win their living from the land. And the great progress made in developing more scientific farming methods—largely due to the efforts of large agricultural cooperatives—is immeasurably improving the farmers' opportunity to till the soil at a profit. All in all, it is safe to say that the agricultural situation is basically better now than at any time since depression set in.

Expanding Tuskegee

In passing the Tuskegee Institute presidency onto the youthful shoulders of Dr. F. D. Patterson, the aging Robert R. Moton seems to have used the same discerning judgement which characterized his long and successful administration of the Negro school.

For in his public utterances thus far, Dr. Patterson has hewed straight to the line drawn by his predecessors, and has reiterated his intention to sail the course charted by Booker T. Washington and from which Moton himself never deviated.

Addressing a Tuskegee alumni group at a Chicago Y.M.C.A., Dr. Patterson declared: "What is needed now at Tuskegee is not a change in policy, but merely a refinement of the program as outlined by Booker T. Washington."

He explained that his energies would be devoted first to making Tuskegee permanent—an ever-powerful influence for the betterment of the Negro race—and second, to making its facilities available to a greater number of Negroes, regardless of their previous training. He expressed his belief in the fundamental value of vocational education, and promised to extend the school's facilities for trades and technical training.

Wise leadership has become a tradition at Tuskegee, and it seems that Dr. Patterson is well fitted to continue the tradition.

"Heresy" In 1860 and 1935

Spectacular as was the audacity of the Old Guard in transforming what the Republicans of the prarie States had announced would be a grass roots conference into a decorous convention of elder statesmen, with Jim Watson himself on the speakers' platform, one is permitted to marvel at the strategy employed.

The superstition of Edward A. Hayes, former national commander of the American Legion, for William Allen White as chairman of the resolutions committee was understandable. White, of course, was the undisputed author, sponsor, instigator and sole impresario of the idea, developed at a banquet in Topeka last January. But Hayes was peculiarly eligible. It could never be charged that he had countenanced anything done or proposed by the Roosevelt administration. On the contrary, when Americans were eschewing partisanship in the hectic summer and fall of 1933 and giving vigorous support to recovery measures, Mr. Hayes astonished Legionaires by his frequent bitter invectives against the President. He was, therefore, an ideal substitute for the more humane, albeit conscientious, Sage of Emporia.

Mr. Hoover journeyed ponderously to the Illinois farm of Frank O. Lowden, with whom he had no relations since the Republican National Convention of 1928, and personally arranged with the former Illinois governor to serve as keynoter at Springfield. And all of the Hoover instructions were faithfully executed. Still the selection was not a happy one from a Republican standpoint. Of course it cannot be denied that Mr. Lowden is the only member of the ultra-conservative wing of the party who ever consciously exerted himself in behalf of agriculture in a national sense. And it was logical to hope that his presence would carry some weight in the great farm belt over which he campaigned for the Presidential nomination in 1920, again in 1924 and finally in 1928.

But despite Mr. Lowden's faithful reiteration of Mr. Hoover's strange public pronouncement of only a few days previously against "attempts to import European systems of government in the United States" and although his assault upon whomsoever would attack the Constitution was perhaps more dignifid than Don Quixote's assault upon the windmills, his service to the Old Guard cause was disastrous. The entire force of his appeal to the farmer was his declaration that as long as industry enjoys the advantages of tariffs, agriculture must have a comparable advantage. This is exactly what President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace have been not only demanding but supplying. AAA was designed for no other purpose and it has actually accomplished during the past two years that which the "creed" adopted at Springfield "recommended," to-wit: "A fair and proportionate part of the national income for the farmer."

However, the feature of the Old Guard version of the grass root performance that proved incomprehensible was the amazing lack of coordination between the only inspirational factors arranged for or otherwise present. These indutiably were the salvation of the Constitution and Abraham Lincoln in his capacity as first Republican President. In all of their weeks of wresting the affair away from the home talent, who know Lincoln and have a proper reverance for him, none of these old muddlers seemed for a moment to realize what a prime paradox their bungling stage settings would produce.

They were unmindful of the fact that Lincoln's candidacy for President was only three years after the Supreme Court dealt a severe blow to the Republican party with the Dred Scott decision. In consequence of which notable interpretation of the Constitution, the Republicans adopted Plank 7 in their platform of 1860 to the effect that the decision was dangerous political heresy, at variance with the explicit provisions of that instrument itself (the Constitution), with contemporaneous exposition and with legislative and judicial precedent; is revolutionary in its tendency, and subversive of tthe peace and harmony of the country."

There was, then, at the Springfield convention as much consistency and accuracy in dealing with the Roosevelt of 1935 as in their treatment of the Lincoln of 1860.

"OLD HICKORY"

A letter written by Mrs. Alice Stewart Beard of Columbia, S. C., whose ancestors were neighbors of the Jacksons, declares that Andrew Jackson was born in what is now Lancaster county, South Carolina, as Jackson himself believed, though some historians say that he was born in North Carolina.

The letter relates the circumstances surrounding the burial of Andrew Jackson,Sr., father of the famed general and president. When the elder Jackson died in March, 1767, his friends gave him a wake in true Irish style, imbibing freely of corn liquor during the night. Those accompanying the wagon bearing the remains to the graveyard next day were somewhat groggy and did not notice that in going up a steep hill the coffin slid out the back end of the wagon onto the ground. Consequently they arrived at the cemetary without the corpse. which was later found in the road about three miles back.

Andrew Jackson was born about two weeks after his father died. He raced horses, gambled much and "swore with a peculiar fluency, vehemence and explosive force." He killed his man in a duel and was engaged in many bitter controversies, both public and private.

Yet he became in turn a congressman, justice of the supreme court of Tennessee, major general and hero of the battle of New Orleans, first American governor of Florida, United States senator and twice president of the United States —probably the most picturesque character in our country's history.

RARE U. S. MONEY

In a collection owned by a New York bank is the most complete assortment of rare money in the world, which visitors are permitted to see. A few of the rarest United States issues may be mentioned.

There is a silver dollar of 1804, only 14 of which are now in existance. It is said that the rest of those minted that year went down with a ship bound for China and lost in a storm.

Another oddity is the Pine Tree shilling. Although this coin was minted for 30 years the date 1652 is on all of them. There are paper bills issued in the early days by various states which were printed in two languages; for example, Louisiana issued bills printed in English and French, and Pensylvania in English and German.

Various specimens of local scrip, issued during emergencies. are also shown. as well as greenbacks issued by banks between 1820 and 1860, also specimens of Confederate money.

In the early days. American Indians highly valued woodpecker scalps. which were used as money.

Two cancelled checks issued by Henry Ford are shown—one for one cent, the other for $146,000,000. There is also the special check designed for payment of Lindbergh's $25,000 Atlantic flight prize money, and a draft executed in Braille, signed by Helen Keller.

Altogether there are about 40,000 pieces in the collection, owned by tthe Chase National Bank, which is visited by some 15,000 persons every year.

EXTREMES IN NATURE

An interesting list of the extremes in natural substances was recently compiled by Professor Hopkins of the University of Illinois, in which the following were named:

Radium is the most expensive, being worth about 100,000 times its weight in gold.

Platinum is the heaviest of well known metals being 21 times as heavy as water, but the rare metals asmium and iridium are slightly heavier

Hydrogen gas is the lightest ordinary substance, having only about one-fourteenth the weight of air, but a temporary gas produced in certain vacuum tubes is somewhat lighter.

Diamonds are the hardest substance known, but carborundum is almost ass hard.

Electric furnaces produce the greatest heat known on earth, running up to nearly 7,000 degrees Fahrenheit, while the extreme in cold is solid helium and other gases which solidify at about 458 degrees below zero. These extremes of heat and cold are not natural, however, but are produced by artificial means.

INTO THE DEPTHS

Less than 10 years ago, an oil operator read a paper before the American Petroleum Institute in which he described the deepest well in the world at that time. It was in a California oil field and had been completed as a successful producer at a depth of 7,591 feet.

Now every well in the Kettleman field in the same state is deeper than the record well of 10 years ago. Today the deepest well that is really producing oil is in Caddo County, Oklahoma, and is 11,230 feet in depth.

The deepest hole in the world, however, is in West Texas. It was started in March, 1933, and is still being drilled. At last report it had reached the unprecedented depth of 12,385 feet.

Such deep drilling is very expensive, and there is never any assurance that oil will be found. John F. Dodge, noted professor of petroleum engineering, estimates that a well planned 10,000-foot well costs between $300,000 and $350,000.

It is rather well known that more money has been spent in drilling for oil than the total value of all the oil ever recovered. In the oil business every well is a gamble. Much is heard of the gushers that are brought in by the lucky ones, but the losses of those who drill dry holes do not make sensational news.

Payments Increased On Diseased Cattle

Auburn. Ala.—The government has increased from $20 to $25 the maximum indemnity payment that may be made for dairy and beef cattle reacting to the official tests for tuberculosis or Bang's disease.

The payment was raised because of higher values and partly because of more rigid sanitary requirements involving expense to cattle owners in controlling Bang's disease and complying with the designated means of preventing further infestation, reports Secretary Wallace. Although $25 is the new maximum amount, actual payment is governed as heretofore by the appraised value of the animal.

In the case of purebred cattle the maximum indemnity of $50 remains unchanged.

Supervisor Is Pleased With Canning Work

Within the three weeks that the relief canning program has been underway in this county, 5,210 quarts of beans have been canned at the 11 centers in operation, according to Miss Nellie Fuller, canning supervisor, who has charge of the program.

With the canning program to continue until October 1, it is expected that several thousand quarts of vegetables and fruits will be preserved for use during the winter months. Miss Fuller stated that she has never worked where the interest of the people has been better than it is in this county.

Among the products that will be preserved are beans, soup mixtures, carrots, beets, peaches, pears, figs and other fruits and vegetables.

Although non-relief families are permitted to share in the program the arrangement is different than last year's program. Non-relief families may use centers, but must furnish cans and produce and are required to give one-twelfth for toll.

Miss Fuller stated that she understands that centers in the county will be closed Thursday to permit celebration of the Fourth.

"LOCAL CAR OWNERS SWARM TO GET GAS-SAVING ADVICE," GULF EXECUTIVE DECLARES

"Who says that motorists don't care about the amount of money they spend on gasoline?," asks H. G. Meador, District Sales Manager of the Gulf Refining Company. We have just proved that nothing could be further from the truth.

"Anyone who reads The Chilton County News knows that the Gulf Refining Company is offering the free booklet, '15 Ways to Save Gasoline Money,' at all of its service stations and dealers in Alabama. We felt sure that the response would be large and immediate, but we had no conception of the huge popular demand for this information.

"However, I can assure all Gulf customers that there will be a free copy for them, even if we have to order a re-printing of the booklet. After all, we feel that motorists should know about the many simple ways in which they can cut down on gasoline consumption."

The eight-page booklet mentioned by Mr. Meador is attractively and simply prepared. It contains the answers to such questions as: at what driving speeds can gasoline mileage be boosted? what parking secret will cut gasoline consumption? Colorfully illustrated, "15 Ways to Save Gasoline Money," is divided into three parts—(1) hints which the motorist can obey himself; (2) services which can be secured free at Gulf stations; (3) jobs which must be performed at competent garages.

The Spigener Funeral Home was removed into its new quarters last Thursday, when it was installed in the old Poole Home on Fourth Avenue. For the past four years, the establishment has been located on Second Avenue in down-town Clanton.

HAYES OBSERVES SECOND ANNIVERSARY THIS WEEK

HAS SPLENDID RECORD OF SERVICE TO AUTO OWNERS IN THIS SECTION

Large Number of New Cars Sold During Two Year Period

Chalking up two years of outstanding service to Chilton County and surroundings, the Hayes Chevrolet Co., local Chevrolet dealers, will celebrate their second anniversary next week.

Two years ago, on July 8th, the Hayes Chevrolet Co. opened its doors to one of the largest motor companies in this section, occupying one-half of a large city block with a brilliant display of new Chevrolet cars and trucks and a staff of salesmen and service men unequalled in the state.

With J. W. (Dick) Hayes and his brother, M. C. (Jack) Hayes as heads of the company, it has grown by leaps and bounds during the past two years until now it is recognized over the entire state as a live, wide-awake firm.

Sells Many Cars

During these two years, they have sold and serviced 249 new Chevrolet cars and trucks which is acclaimed as a most unusual record. Attached to this record is also the fact that only one of these cars had to be repossessed during this time.

The number of used cars sold in these two years is far greater than the number of new cars. This firm has handled and sold 490 used cars and all to satisfied owners. Mr. Hayes stated that this large number of sales is attributed mostly to the fact that they give their used cars a complete check-up and "going-over" before they place it for sale

Pleased With Prospects

Mr. Hayes stated that their volumn of business has been more than pleasing and that "we have made countless friends through the sale of new Chevrolets and Chevrolet's ability to stand up with service and satisfaction."

The staff of salesmen of the Hayes Chevrolet Co., is one of the largest in this section. They are at all times being complimented on courtesy and congenial manner with automobile buyers and owners who they come in contact with.

The service and parts department is one of the most complete and modern with a corps of workers who have been trained to efficiency and service.

The show-room of the Hayes Chevrolet Co., is not only attracting attention through the new cars, but is a place of interest for baseball fans. On the walls of the room are displayed autographed photographs of members of ball clubs such as the Chicao White Sox, all wishing the Hayes Chevrolet Co. the best of good things, attesting to the wide popularity the owners of this concern enjoy.

The Hayes Chevrolet Company is extending a cordial invitation to the people of this section to come and take a ride in one of the new Chevrolets. They have competent drivers and salesmen who will gladly extend to you this courtesy and you do not obligate yourself in any way by accepting this invitation. "We just want to prove to you that the new Chevrolet is all what we say it is," Mr. Hayes stated.

Activities Of The County Health Unit

During the month of June members of the County Health Unit immunized approximately 3,000 persons against typhoid fever. This brings the total number of persons immunized since the Health Unit was established to around 4,000, which means about 1-5 of the total population of the county. This, together with the immunizations done by private physicians, should result in a very noticeable decrease in the number of cases of typhoid fever and speaks well for the people in that it shows their willingness in helping to stamp out this disease.

In addition to typhoid immunizations the Health Unit tested forty persons for the presence of hookworms and six persons were given hookworm treatment.

Other activities include 30 visits to cases of tuberculosis in an effort to prevent the spread of the disease; five visits to cases of typhoid fever; and 17 visits to expectant mothers in the interest of safer childbirth.

While the above items do not include all activities they do indicate how members of the unit are managing to "keep busy."

AVOID THE DANGER OF BLOWOUTS

Firestone removes the danger of blowouts by preventing their main cause—internal friction and heat. This is accomplished by Gum-Dipping.

THERE ARE THREE QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS THAT WILL SOLVE YOUR PROBLEM OF WHAT TIRES TO BUY:

1 "Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"

— Recent tests by a leading University show Firestone High Speed Non-Skid Tires stop a car quicker than any other of the leading makes.

For eight consecutive years Firestone Tires been on the winning car in the dangerous Peak Race where a skid means death.

2 "Are they blowout-proof?" —Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have the amazing records for being blowout-proof of any ever built. In the gruelling 500-Mile Race at Indi apolis, May 30th, every one of the 33 cars equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. No of the 33 drivers had tire trouble of any kind.

Ab Jenkins drove his 5,000 pound car on Fire Gum-Dipped Tires over the hot salt beds of 3,000 miles, averaging 127.2 miles per hour, temperatures as high as 120°, without tire troubl any kind.

3 "Without sacrificing these important safety features will they me longer mileage, thus making them most economical tires I can buy?"

— Firestone High Speed Tires not only giv more than 50% longer wear, but also lowest co mile. In fact, unequaled mileage records of thou of car owners add undisputed evidence of the lo wear and greater economy of Firestone High Sp Tires.

Equip your car with a set of Firestone Gum-Dip Non-Skid Tires, the safest tires ever built and the dangers of skidding and blowouts.

Chevrolet Parts Sales Increasing

—o—

The Chevrolet Motor Company set a new all-time record during May for total volume of parts and accessories sales. The previous record dated back to the boom year of 1929, when August sales reached a peak that stood as a record for nearly six years.

Announcement of the new record was made at White Sulphur Springs by M. D. Douglas, manager of the Chevrolet Parts and Accessories division, before a gathering of the leading field men of the division, guests of the company during a three days' stay awarded them in recognition of their success in rolling up regional and zone records contributing to the high May total.

According to Mr. Douglas, the May peak of sales can be attributed largely to a general resumption of touring for pleasure, a natural sequence to the increase in spendng power throughout the country.

"The curve of new car sales shows heavy gains over last year," he declared "and new cars themselves create a demand for accessories—everything from insect screens to radios. However our May record was far above what could be attributed to the sale of accessories for new cars, and it can be definitely concluded that much of the buying was for old cars.

"That means that motorists are taking to the road in larger numbers than during the recent touring seasons, and are equipping their cars with accessories that will contribute to their convenience, comfort and safety. They are making their old cars look new with seat covers, modernizing them with radios, equipping them with spot lights, visors, dual windshield wipers, and other article that add to the convenience and pleasure of both the driver and the passengers."

They need your support. Come out and boost your team. All teams will have a chance. Then there will be an elimination. The two best teams will play and the wnning team will receive a cash prize of one dollar and a half.

The trustees and other officials of the school cordially invite you to spend the whole day at the County Training School and eat good, wholesome food and enjoy wholesome entertainment.

Ball Ground Well Scraped

During last week Mr. Ward, the road machine operafor, came out and gave our ball ground a thorough scraping. It has never looked so inviting to ball players before. It was quite pleasing to note how careful and patient Mr. Ward was in shaping our ball diamon. The thought came to me that some of our best friends are our white friends. We will be able to get our white friends to do many good and worthy things that nobody else can do for us if we stand for higher ideals in life and behave ourselves as colored people should do.

Most All Spiders Are Beneficial

Auburn, Ala.—Most spiders are beneficial, despite the fact that many people have become wary of all spiders because of the dangerous black widow.

"I don't know what we would do without spiders," declares Prof. J.M. Robinson, head of the entomology department at Auburn. "If it were not for spiders the insects would probably starve us by eating our food supplies."

Practically all spiders are beneficial as they destroy flies, mosquitoes, mites lice, cockroaches, and many other insects which are injurious to human beings. In a house where there are numerous spiders other insects, most of the time, become scarce.

"LOCAL CAR OWNERS SWARM TO GET GAS-SAVING ADVICE," GULF EXECUTIVE DECLARES

"Who says that motorists don't care trict Sales Manager of the Gulf Reon gasoline?," asks H. G. Meador, District Sales Manager of tthe Gulf Refining Company. We have just proved that nothing could be further from the truth.

"Anyone who reads The Chilton County News knows that tthe Gulf Refining Company is offering the free booklet, '15 Ways to Save Gasoline Money,' at all of its service stations and dealers in Alabama. We felt sure that the response would be large and immediate, but we had no conception of the huge popular demand for this information.

"However, I can assure all Gulf customers that there will be a free copy for them, even if we have to order a re-printing of the booklet. After all, we feel that motorists should know about the many simple ways in which they can cut down on gasoline consumption."

The eight-page booklet mentioned by Mr. Meador is attractively and simply prepared. It contains the answers to such questions as: at what driving speeds can gasoline mileage be boosted? what parking secret will cut gasoline consumption? Colorfully illustrated, "15 Ways to Save Gasoline Money," is divided into three parts—(1) hints which the motorist can obey himself; (2) services which can be secured free at Gulf stations; (3) jobs which must be performed at competent garages.

Electricity Cheaper Than Other Fuels

"Your objective for giving 85% of customers using more electricity, lower rates, so that everybody can get electricity even cheaper than the low rate at which they now buy, marks you as one of the progressive businesses of this state," writes Mr. James L. Hicks, of Talladega, Ala.

"For the past five years I have cooked and heated water electrically and run an electrical refrigerator. My consumption has been between 500 and 1000 kilowatt hours, and I honestly believe that I am doing this cheaper with electricity than I could with other fuels." Adv. Alabama Power Co.

DOES YOUR HUSBAND WEAR AN OVERCOAT IN SUMMERTIME?

"FOOLISH!" you say. Of course; but is it any more foolish than cooking during midsummer weather on an old fashioned stove?

Actually it's lots worse to stay indoors and cook on a blistering, sizzling midsummer day than to wear an overcoat outdoors in July or August. If your husband doesn't believe it, let him try it sometime.

ELECTRIC COOKERY IS COOL. When you cook by wire, heat does not go out into the kitchen.

Verbena Girl Is Given Position With Author

Miss Dorothy Pattillo, daughter of Corcuit Clerk J. C. Pattillo, recently accepted a position as secretary to Harold Armistead, noted fiction writer, and is stationed in Los Angeles, Calif.

Leaving about two weeks ago to begin her new duties, Miss Pattillo arrived in Los Angeles about a week ago and has written her father that she is enjoying her work very much.

Some time ago, she advertised in "The Writers' Digest" for work with an author and after a brief correspondence with Mr. Armistead was offered this position.

Miss Pattillo is a native of Verbena where she completed her high school work. She is a graduate of the Maryville College, Maryville, Tenn., where she took her A. B. degree.

She is intensely interested in fiction writing and has written several short stories, although they have not been published, show much merit and her father and friends here feel that the experience gleaned from her present work will be highly beneficial.

The Rev. Harold Marley, vicar of the parish church at Sedgley, Eng., has forbidden girls with bare legs and painted lips to enter his church.

UNION GROVE BASEBALL TEAM WON TWO GAMES LAST WEEK

First game was played Wednesday afternoon at Verbena. The score was 6 to 5 in favor of Union Grove.

The second game was played at Cane Creek. The score was 10 to 5 in favor of Union Grove.

The writer understands the boys of Union Grove had some difficulty in trying to connect with the Verbena pitcher.

Now, folks, we are going to have a great day here at Union Grove on Thursday. July Fourth, and we invite you to come and be with us. Just wrap up a few sandwiches and bring along a few nickels and dimes to buy cold drinks for the kiddies and enjoy a day of relaxation in the good old fashioned friendly country way.

Several ball games are to be played during the day. The first game to be played will be between second nine and Shiloh, beginning not later than eight-thirty. The second game will follow with Union Grove's best against Verbena's best.

After lunch a game will be played between an independent team gotten up by our community merchant, Pomp Robinson, against Shelby, of Shelby County, and I understand this team is being managed by Askins Mims, formerly of Collins Chapel.

Don't fail to see this game, as the writer believes it will be somewhat thrilling.

There will also be games, races, etc., for the kiddies. Mrs. Nelie Glasscock will coach the girls. J. C. White, principa of Union Grove school will coach the boys. Lunch will be furnished the ball players by our good women of our community.

Maybe Mack Was Preparing For The Fourth

Local law enforcement officers admit that the reasons for the extraordinary fascination that toilet articles hold for Mack Brewer, Negro laborer on the new Clanton post office, may be many.

Maybe Mack had been reading those "halitosis" advertisements that appear in almost every periodical, or maybe the thought of B. O. might have suddenly been repellent to him—or again, they admit, it could have been caused by a little too much artificial stimulation.

Anyway, Mack is alleged to have taken rather keenly to the toilet goods counter in one of Clanton's stores Saturday. In fact when he was arrested, Deputy Smith declared that he found several such articles in his pockets, including mouth wash, tooth paste, and other similar items.

The Negro was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Deputy Smith and lodged in jail on a charge of shop-lifting. Officers said that he was in a drunken condition at the time.

Bankhead Ginning Tax Established

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration announced that 12 cents per pound has been determined as the average price of lint cotton on the 10 designated spot cotton markets for a representative period, as the base for determining the rate of the tax on the ginning of cotton under the Bankhead Act. This determination by the Secretary, under the Act, automatically fixes the tax itself at 6 cents per pound. This determination proclaimed and in effect for the 1934-35 cotton season was 11.34 cents a pound. with the tax at 5.67 cents a pound. Under the Act the average central market price per pound of basis 7-8 inch middling spot cotton on the 10 designated spot markets constitutes the base for computation of the tax levied on the ginning of cotton in excess of the producer's allotment of tax-free cotton. A total of 10,500,000 bales (500 pounds net weight each) of tax-exempt cotton for the current year has already been allotted to producng states. The Act fixes the rate of the tax at 50 per cent of the proclaimed price, but in no event at less than 5 cents per pound. The price proclaimed by the Secretary, to be used under the Act as a base until a different market price shall be determined and proclaimed, was certified as the average central market price over a representative period for 7-8 inch middling spot cotton on the following markets designed under the Cotton Futures Act: Augusta and Savannah Georgia; Dallas, Houston and Galveston Texas; Little Rock, Ark.; Memphis, Tenh.; Montgomery, Ala.; New Orleans, La.; and Norfolk, Va. The ginning tax is collected under the direction of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. ,co -

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Thedford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

nate wit, interlarding the rendition, added individual spice to the program. The Isabella Club had charge of the program, which was arranged by Wallace Cox, one of the leaders in that community.

Several numbers were ably presented by five members of the string band and the quartet rendered several religious tunes that were greeted with applause from the audience.

Probate Judge J. Lee Smith and Tax Collector-elect T. L. McKee were present and spoke briefly to the Young Democrats encouraging to go forward with the work they have begun, declaring that great opportunity is afforded them to become a power and influence for better government in the county, the state, and the nation.

Dan Smith, young brother of Billy Smith, addressed the group, outlining the possibilities and advantages of the organization as seen by a young man. He too, enumerated opportunities that he sees for the members of this organization. There is no limit to the really worthwhile accomplishments that are within their power. "This nation is looking to the young men and women more today than ever," he pointed out; "the world needs young ideas, in business, in government, and in every other walk of life. Such young men and women as you," he told his audience, "have the opportunity to supply these ideas."

Organizing only a few weeks ago, the Chilton County Unit of Young Democrats has grown rapidly and is said to be one of the best units in the entire state. Every meeting has been well attended and Friday night's meeting boasted about fifty per cent women and the constant growth of the membership is encouraging to those who have the interest of the movement at heart.

Billy Smith stated that plans are being formulated for a big, out-door picnic to be held in the near future. Although he did not reveal just what plans have been made for this event, he declared that the program will consist of addresses from several prominent speakers, music, and plenty of barbecue and other refreshments.

Commenting Saturday morning on the organization, Judge J. Lee Smith declared that he believes it can become one of the greatest influences for better government in the state. At the rate that it is now growing, it will soon boast a membership that will be powerful to be reckoned with in state politics and will be able to eliminate some of the corruptness that has been too prevalent in politics and replace it with new and younger ideas.

AUTO ACCIDENT

and lacerations.

I. Sykes, Columbus, Ga., sheet metal worker, severe lacerations and other injuries.

Arch Allen, of Prattville, severe lacerations on face.

Mack Coker, Prattville, minor lacerations and bruises.

Mrs. Pauline Hunton, of Miami, Fla., cuts and bruises.

Tommy Hunton, her 5-year-old son, minor injuries.

Large Sedan Hits Van

Montgomery officers were told that the accident occurred when a Lincoln sedan, driven by Mr. Sykes, crashed into the front of the moving van as Mr. Sykes sought to avoid collision with a parked, or slowly moving, vehicle on his right.

In the car with Sykes were Mr. and Mrs Stanley Jones, their son, Cecil; Mr. and Mrs Deason Jones, their son Floyd; Mack Coker and Arch Allen.

Arch Allen and Mack Coker were taken to a Prattville hospital for treatment; Mrs. Hunton and her son were taken to Fitts Hill Hospital in Montgomery, from which they were later dismissed, and the other injured persons were carried to St. Margaret's Hospital by Leak ambulances.

Mr. Sykes, from his bed at St. Margaret's Hospital, said last night he was driving from Columbus to Prattville and was traveling northward in a heavy rain when he suddenly saw an unlighted car or truck on his right. In attempting to avoid colliding with the object he mumbled through his bandages, he turned to the left and was blinded with approaching headlights.

"We hit," he cocluded, "and I can't remember anything after that."

Some Of Injured Unconscious

Other members of the party were too severely injured to give any information. Two of them, Mrs. Deason Jones and Cecil Jones, were unconscious.

The highway was blocked for possibly an hour or more. Haygood Paterson, sheriff of Montgomery County, happened to drive past the scene shortly after the wreck and summoned deputies from here to aid in clearing the road. The accident occurred in Autauga County.

Sheriff's Deputies Sellers and Mosely who went to the scene, said the moving van was "practically cut in two," and that its driver, whose name they did not ask, was cut about the hands. They did not learn, they said, what became of the third car, or if Mrs Hunton and her son were the occupants.

Funeral services for her were held in Deason Jones were held Tuesday from the Bethany church with the Rev. J. S. Kelley officiating.

Besides their small son, they are survived by teir parents, Mr. and Mrs Rory Jones, and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Boyd, of Verbena, and several brothers and sisters.

Mrs. Stanley Jones is survived by her husband; a small son; her mother and several brothers and sisters, all of Chilton and Autauga counties. Mrs. I D. Armstrong of Clanton is a sister.

Funeral services for her in Elmore Elmore County, near her childhood home.

BILL INZER FINDS STRANGE GROWTH IN POTATO PATCH

Friends of Bill Inzer of Clanton are accusing him of being a slothful farmer. They are willing to admit there has been a lot of rain this spring, and lots of crops had a tough fight with grass. This can be overlooked at times, due to extremely hot weather, etc., even though no farmer likes to have his neighbors talking about his "grassy" crop.

However, Bill, it seems, has gone too far. He's let the grass grow right through his potatoes, and the News has one from his patch with a stalk of Johnson grass grown right through the middle, or the potato perhaps grew around the stalk of rass. Both apparently attained normal growth, and Bill is not greatly concerned about the "kidding." In fact, he believes his friends may be a little bit jealous because they were not able to grow this unusual combination "potato-grass" or maybe it's "grass-potato."

Now listen farmers of Chilton County; just because you are a farmer, are the people of a neighboring that is a mining county, better than you are? A large part of these miners are negroes, and some are foreigners. Surely they are not better than our pure native white farmers.

Yet, we are sleeping while they are reaping nearly all the benefits. Come on, help me to let our officials know that we are interested and want our wives and children and our neighbors' children to have as good or a little better than other folks have. If you feel like I do about it tell the paper so, tell our officials so. How do they know what you want if you don't let your wants be known?

The new relief set-up is here right now and if you don't act now it may be too late. I say let's get busy and build a community center that Chilton County will be proud of. We better do something for ourselves while it's going. We will be taxed to pay for what other counties and other communities get while we stand idly by. What do you say?

He stated Monday that he had learned that the government plans to conduct extensive work taking federal census with "white collar" employes.. When the new census is taken, Clanton will have a population well over three thousand, is the mayor's opinion. This buiding stands another proof that Clanton is really a growing and prosperous little city, he declared.

"I feel proud of our city—and proud of our city hall and I want the people of Clanton to also have pride in both."

Judge Smith stated that it is his aim to secure for the county all the government funds available, but declared that he hopes to be able with the cooperation of the court and other citizens of the county to get value for every dollar that is expended. "It will be my aim," he said, "to try to see that only worthwhile projects are engaged in this county."

A full page announcement in this issue of the News calls the attention of the ladies of this entire section to a huge July Clearance Sale which will open at the popular Watts Hat Shoppe on Saturday of this week, July 13th.

Miss Callie Watts, proprietor of this widely known ladies ready-to-wear store, stated that they are really going to give the ladies of this section something to think about when it comes to beautiful dresses and other wearing apparel at reduced prices.

Miss Watts will leave within a short time to visit several of the more important markets to make a personal selection of new, Fall dresses and other wearing apparel for ladies. This sale is being held in order to make room for the new goods which will arrive later for Fall wear.

A feature of the week will be the pretty little radio that will be given away absolutely free. You do not have to make any purchases to win this radio. All you must do is read the advertisement in the News this week and get the full details.

Reporter Finds Himself Wondering If He Is Still In Clanton While Visiting New City Hall

Yes sir, it is a most unusual feeling. Some call it a feeling of pride, some a feeling of wonder, when you have the pleasure of having City Clerk C. H. Pipes or Mayor C. Fenn Jones escort you through the halls, corridors, offices, auditorium and other places of the new city hall.

Mayor Jones is delighted to receive visitors to the new building and takes pleasure in showing them through, while Mr. Pipes is busy most of the time attending to his modern office as city clerk. Mayor Jones is proud of his new quarters and he is justly so.

We had the pleasure of having the Mayor show us through the other day when everything except the shrubbery was in place. Well sir, when you walk into the building you will wonder if you are still in Clanton—or perhaps you are in some distant city where they are accustomed to such stately and beautiful buildings.

Everything is right up to the minute. A main attraction during these rather warm days are the two drinking fountains and new to Clanton is that they are electrically cooled. The water is cooled as it leaves the fountain. We say cooled, when we should say "Cold."

Clanton should be bursting with pride on having such an auditorium to be called a city auditorium. It is located the top floor with plenty of room, plenty of windows and a spacious stage.

Getting back to Mayor Jones. He was kind enough to let us sit in the stately Mayor's chair which sits behind the handsome desk in his office. Yes sir, Mayor Jones looks good in his new quarters and occupies the "judges' seat" in the little court room with dignity.

One section of the building, however, did not look so inviting to this wary reporter. That is the section, with the doors of steel bars with huge locks on them, where those who step on the toes of the law are placed to cool off. Sometimes called the cooler.

THORSBY WILL SOON ORGANIZE A FIRE DEPT.

Progressive Chilton Town Has Purchased Truck And Equipment

Citizens of Thorsby, one of this county's most progressive towns, are feeling a bit proud and are to be congratulated on their plans to organize an up-to-date volunteer fire department.

A modern waterworks system has recently been completed and a large supply tank with a capacity of several thousands of gallons has been erected and watermains of sufficient size have been installed.

The town recently purchased a small truck and are making arrangements now to equip it with a regulation fire truck body, hose and other equipment. The organization of the volunteer fire department has not been completed but plans are underway to get this done immediately.

This step will place Thorsby ahead of most towns of its size and population in Alabama and will be a great protection against loss to property by fire. The News extends heartiest congratulations to the mayor and councilmen of Thorsby on their progressiveness.

Three Are Fined In Mayor's Court Mon.

Three men were brought before Mayor C. Fenn Jones at the regular Monday morning city court, on charges of public drunkenness.

All three received fines, the heaviest being twenty-five dollars and costs. Mayor Jones states that he wants to be as lenient with law violators as possible when brought before him, but warns that continued offenses will probably be given the limit.

"We Miss You, Daddy"

The following editorial was printed in the Rockville, Connecticut, Journal, about a year ago. Thereafter, to the editor's surprise, it was reprinted by most of the other papers of the state, and was used by highway safety officials, insurance companies, accident prevention organizations, motorists' publications and by others who are fighting the great war against the toll of automobile deaths. Here it is—and any motorist will surely think twice about taking chances after reading it:

"Tuesday morning there was a fatal accident on the Minterburn Hill and when the medical examiner was going through the pockets of the dead man—a telegram was found. It was not very long, just the ordinary ten-word length, but it was a message that would make any father happy. It read: "We Miss You Daddy. When Are You Coming Home?

"That was all. It was a message sent by one of the children of the man who was killed. He had received the message and was homeward bound. The clothes were minus money but in his pocket he carried that message.

Those who have little children, and those who were once little children, can think of the great blow to the child when the father did return home—DEAD.

" 'Daddy' will be missed by those children in the long years ahead. No longer will they have his support, his earnings, and, more important, his companionship.

"If ever there was a reason for people driving more carefully on the road, it is that they might get in an accident and deprive their own child or some other child of their 'Daddy.'

"More might be written, but just let us repeat those words: 'We miss you, Daddy.'

Man's Greatest Enemy---Fear

Fear is mankind's greatest enemy. It caused the cave-man to hide in dark hillside caverns; it caused man to keep fires burning at night to dispel darkness and keep away beasts; it caused walls to be built around cities of early and middle ages; it was the father of most of the weapons of offense, which were used also for killing game; it has brought man to building battle ships, submarines, airplanes, cannon, machine guns and poison gas; it has caused wars and can cause more wars.

Fear is the enemy which stalks our footsteps from cradle to grave. Our nurses told us of ghosts and giants to keep us quiet. Later our imaginations manufactured their own giants of trouble and disaster. Half the things which we fear will happen to us never occur except in the remote and hidden fear-cells of our brains. We seldom allow other humans to know that we are afraid of anything.

Eliminate fear and the world could be happy. But that is impossible—so mankind will live almost in a stage of fear-complex denying it all the time, some of course in a more pronounced stage of the trouble than their more fortunate brothers.—Frank Nunnelee, Montgomery Weekly.

o-o-o

One thing may be said for poverty; it keeps us from having a lot of things we are better off without.

We read of a girl who pencilled her name and address on a good egg and thereby got a husband who turned out to be a bad egg.

It seems strange, but at last it appears a few Congressmen are looking into the constitutionality of a proposed law before voting for it.

Archery will be taught in connection with the Federal relief program. The bow and arrow were in vogue even before the days of the horse and buggy.

After Relief---Then What?

What is going to become of those persons who are sitting idly by and receiving relief from the government, when this relief stops suddenly? That is a question in the minds of many today, and is a question evolving around a serious matter.

The government does not intend, just because it tries to help the down-and-outers, for them to give up and not try to find work. This handing-out by the government must stop somewhere and is going to stop.

The relief program was designed to tide over a rough spot, help put families back on their feet, give them a breathing spell until they could find work. It was a magnificent gesture up to a certain extent.

However, it has reached the point now, not only in Chilton County, but over the state, that it seems a large number of people have come to the conclusion where they think the government will provide for them from now on. Never have they been fooling themselves so badly before.

We see examples of this very thing right in Chilton County. Neither Congress nor the government intended to make loafers out of any class of people.

Some day the government will curtail its relief program so that it will include only about one-fourth now enjoying its benefits. Then those who dream of permanent idleness will wake to the realization that the Utopia for which they so fondly hoped has faded like mist.

When the $4,800,000,000 relief money has been expended giving work to the unemployed, there will be a lull in the handing-out from the government. Then comes the time to determine whether many of those now on relief have lost their initiative and get-up, or whether they will have the guts to place their shoulders to the wheel and try to help the government which cared for them in their needy hour.

Need Of Another Safety Measure

The attention of the News has been called to the urgent need of a minor job which although small will add a great deal to the safety of travelers on the Birmingham-Montgomery highway.

This safety measure is the painting of a center line on the highway from the Autauga County line through to Birmingham. Through Chilton County on the highway there is already a line very visible and proves a boom to drivers of vehicles, determining without question where the center of the road is.

Careful drivers and those who know how to stay on their side of the road do not need this line, but as we all know, there are some drivers who apparently forget that there might be a possibility of someone else wanting to drive along the same road and that the highway was not built for any particular person.

The News respectfully calls the attention of the State Highway Department to this need. We have seen accidents which possibly could have been averted if drivers had some guiding line on the pavement which itself is none too wide.

In Other Words, Advertising

A successful editor and author, who is now also conducting a column to help young authors market their wares was discussing some of the things that help a writer sell his stories. Some of his readers thought it a good idea to make friends with the editor, some thought other things might help, but the successful author placed little importance to these things and stated that the best thing which could happen to a would-be author was newspaper publicity, because when that happened sales of the magazines carrying the story increased.

In other words, advertising, not only is a help to success, but one of the biggest factors in obtaining sales regardless of whether you're selling short stories, service, dry goods, groceries, or whatever you wish to sell.

We're living in a high pressure age. You may have a better mouse trap, but somebody else thinks he has one even better. The buyer must be convinced, and he's reading the newspaper advertising for information. May we ask: Whose adv. is he reading, yours or your competitor's. In your answer to that question lies the secret to easier and more profitable sales for somebody.

D. W. Haskew

While strolling along the sidewalk I came to a man who was standing by a car with a badly battered fender. This man made this inquiry of me, "Do you know the owner of this car?" He then added, "I have injured his fender and I want to pay for it." One day I saw a boy coming up the walk toward the parsonage carrying a dead chicken in his hand. On nearing me he addressed me thus, "Doctor, I threw a stone at one of your friars and I have killed it and I want to pay for it." When we come in contact with such honesty as that we are made happy within. How we do love an honest man and when a lad walks up and makes an honest confession we want to hug him to our hearts. When will we ever learn that honesty is a principle and not a policy. Strict honest—how rare, but still, how fine when found.

While making a pastoral call the phone rang in the building and the lady of the house went out to answer it. I sat there alone for some time and heard nothing but "yes" occasionally. After much waiting the lady in the building was heard to say, " I have company and if you will excuse me I will return to the living room. She came back to where I had been waiting so long and she was boiling over with indignation. Here is what she said: "That woman is a pest. She calls up and for thirty minutes she will rattle her tongue and not one can push a word in edgewise. She does all the talking." My reply was, "So I observed." That is the way a lot of folks talk to God. They come before Him with their lips full of words of asking and informing and they rattle away for a few moments and then hang up. They tell God all about His business and inform Him of all that is taking place, but they never listen to Him, or even give Him a chance to wedge in a word. Prayer is not a one-sided covnversation. It is talking to God and then having God to talk to us. Some praying must be a form of pestering the Almighty.

On one of my charges as a young preacher there was a great drouth. Crops were parching and the people decided that they would gather at one of the churches to pray for rain. The day was set and people gathered from far and near, but not one of them brought an umbrella or a raincoat. Among the last to arrive at the church was a little girl who came walking up with an umbrella in her hand. She was asked why she had brought her parasol along and according to her faith she made this reply: "I thought that I would need it as long as we were here to pray for rain." The element of faith is not very prominent in our prayers. We pray for rain and do not have enough faith to even carry an umbrella. We ask for things and would be surprised if we received them. We are not praying aright until we pray believing Sitting across the table was a good friend and of me he made this inquiry: "Doctor, do you believe in dreams " I answered in the affirmative and then he related to me a dream that he had the night before. This man was an engineer and he said that he dreamed the night before that he was backing his train out of the switch at Union Springs and that he backed it into a train that was standing on the main line, and that there was an awful wreck. He said that the dream was still in his mind that day as he was switching in Union Springs, and that at one time he was backing his train out of the switch on to the main line and that he was doing it with caution, and as he came to where he could see, another train was standing there just as he had dreamed the night before. He threw on his brakes and stopped before he struck the other train. Do I believe in dreams? I most certainly do. I know that God has spoken to me in the night hours, and he has told me things that would come to pass and that should come to pass.

Wildlife Abounds In Alabama

Montgomery, Ala.—This may be the "machine age," but this testimonial submitted to the State Game and Fisheries Department by District Warden Tom Lipsey of Carrollton, should convince any "Doubting Thomas" that wildlife is still abundant in Alabama.

"I wish to report a 'Believe It Or Not' incident which I noticed last week (June 14) while on a trip in North Tuscaloosa County," wrote Warden Lipsey.

"I was driving along and a fox crossed the road in front of me. After driving three or four miles further on, a hog crossed in front of me. Then later a quail with a bunch of little ones crossed my path, and next a turkey hen with a brood of young turkeys, as many as eight or 10, crossing in front of me."

"I thought that this was a very unusual happening and that you would like to know of it."

VEGETATION IS TO THE SOIL WHAT SKIN IS TO THE BODY

Vegetation on the earth is likened to the skin on our bodies by Federal erosion-prevention workers. Remove a large portion of the skin and terrible sores result. Reckless denuding of millions of acres of the richest land in the country has resulted in erosion; huge sores upon the earth.

"Recovery from the disetase of erosion is not a simple matter," says H. H. Burnett, of the Soil Conservation Service. "Obviously we cannot return to pre-settlement conditions. The Nation has its roots in agriculture and if the Nation is to continue, agriculture must continue. We cannot raise corn and tobacco and cotton in the woods. We cannot harvest a wheat crop from the unbroken prairie. But we must make some concessions to nature, whose laws we cannot repeal even if they are irksome.

"Protection and production are not necessarily incompatible. With a system of correct land use we can farm much of our soil and keep it, too. [illegible] cannot safely farm all of it to clean-tilled, erosion-producing crops. Some of the steeper and more erosive land must be in trees or grass. These cro anchor the soil. Like the skin on bodies they protect the earth fro disease of erosion."

Chrysler Dealers Sustain Fine Business

Retail deliveries of Plymouth and Chrysler cars by Chrysler dealers in the week ending June 8 insure that another bumper month will be enjoyed. In this week, 3,732 Plymouths and 1,835 Chryslers were placed in the hands of owners, a grand total of 4,385 units, according to figures made public by J. W. Frazer, vice-president of the Chrysler Sales Corporation.

This is a very substantial advance over the corresponding weeks of the last three years. Plymouth deliveries are up 55.6 per cent over the corresponding week of 1934, 56.8 per cent over the corresponding week of 1933 and 178.7 per cent over the corresponding week of 1932. The Chrysler gains are 94.2 per cent, 48.5 per cent and 87.6 per cent respectively, while the combined totals show advances of 63 per cent, 54.8 per cent and 150.9 per cent respectively.

In the 23 weeks of 1935 including June 8, Chrysler dealers delivered at retail 71,545 Plymouths and 20,061 Chryslers, a grand total of 91,606 units. This is a gain of 41.1 per cent for Plymouth, 101.4 per cent for Chrysler and 51 per cent for the combined lines over the corresponding period of 1934. It leads the same period of 1933 by 140 per cent for Plymouth, 108.1 per cent for Chrysler and 132.2 per cent for the combined. Against the 1932 figures for the same period, the gains are 268.7 per cent for Plymouth, 39.5 per cent for Chrysler and 171.1 per cent for the two together.

These figures represent Plymouth deliveries by Chrysler dealers in the United States only and are in addition to very large sales of this car by the Dodge and DeDSoto dealer bodies. The business enjoyed by Chrysler dealers is all the more remarkable in view of the fact that the weather has been exceptionally bad this spring in almost all sections of the country.

Young People Forming Study Group Here

The Accounting and Offce Training Institute, a division of the LaSalle Extension University of Chicago, is at present organizing a training group in Clanton.

Uder the leadership of two prominent local young men, George Parr and William Arthur Willis, who are employed in the accountancy department of the Elmore Five and Ten Cent Stores, the group will make a study of accounting, bookkeeping and office management.

J. R. Fillmore and L. H. Taylor, representatives of the LaSalle Extension University, are at present enrolling students for this cause.

When approached in regard to the work, Mr. Taylor said, "LaSalle University, realizing the stress of times and the iability of so many young people to continue their education at college, has devised this group training plan in an effort to aid those who cannot go to school in receiving a sound business foundation that will qualify them for better jobs.

Mr. Fillmore and Mr. Taylor are stopping at the Wilson Hotel and may be contacted there.

CORRECTION IS MADE ON LETTER WRITTEN BY A. A. JACKSON

A couple of weeks ago, through an oversight on the part of the News, a full paragraph of a letter written by Mr. A. A. Jackson of Lomax, was omitted.

The News regrets this and is publishing the letter in full again. The paragraph set in black type is the one omitted:

The True Status of the Cotton Production Control Act

A and B have joining farms, with 40 acres each of the same grade of land. A and B each have 30 acres in cultivation.

A, during the 5 year base period, did not plant much cotton and used very little fertilizer. The 5 year base period allows A only 8 acres to plant in cotton, with an average yield of 150 pounds per acre. This gives A 1200 pounds of lint cotton, tax free, and at 12 cents per pound nets A $144.00.

B, during the 5 year base period, planted a large acreage in cotton, and used more than twice as much fertilizer as A. The 5 year base period gives B 16 acres to plant, with a yield of 300 pounds per acre. This gives B 4800 pounds of lint cotton tax free, this nets B $576.00, which is four times as much as A receives.

The above facts prove that B is the one who is responsible for the overproduction of cotton and is getting four times as much as A.

Let me beg that our lawmakers look into this enormous and ungodly discrimination, which is more than four fold in thousands of cases. Give us something like this:

Take A 8 acres and B 16 acres, add them together, which will be 24 acres; divide by two, and that will give A and B 12 acres each. Take A 150 pounds of lint cotton and B 300 pounds, add them together, which will be 450 pounds, divide the 450 by two and that will give A and B 225 pounds per acres each, or 2600 pounds each for the total acreage, and at 12 cents per pound, gives A and B each $312.00, instead of giving A $144.00 and B $576.00.

I ask our Congress at Washington to consider the above discrimination, and amend our cotton Production Control Law, so that A and B both will be recognized equally. Also, consider the half and half share tenant. I have a half and half share tenant who is cultivating my allotment of 14 acres in cotton, with a yield of 170 pounds per acre. I rented 7 acres to the government, who pays me a cash payment of three and one-half cents per pound, for 1190 pounds I receive $41.65. This money comes out of the cotton that my tenant produced, and discriminates against my tenant in favor of me, to the amount of $20.82½.

Yours respectfully,
A. A. JACKSON,
Lomax, Ala.

Comments Made On Dreaded Disease

By Co. Health Office

In the field of disease tuberculosis may well be called public Enemy Number One, for while diseases of the heart and of the kidneys are greater killers, tuberculosis kills a greater number of people in Alabama between the ages of twenty and forty-five, or the most productive period of man's life, than does any other single disease. Although this fact is known to many, the facts that tuberculosis can be prevented, and that it can be cured if diagnosed early, are still far from being firmly enough established in the minds of the people as a whole. Let us consider a few of the things that are known concerning this disease.

In the first place tuberculosis is a communicable diseasee and it is not hereditary. The germs causing the disease are found in the sputum of those individuals suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis and the disease is spread by means of this infected sputum. The sick person may throw off this sputum by coughing, sneezing loud laughing or talking. He may also contaminate dishes towels, bedding etc. with this germ laden sputum. Knowing this method of spread we may say that tuberculosis can be prevented by the proper isolation of those having the disease, and the proper care and disposal of their sputum.

That tuberculosis may be cured when diagnosed early has been proven over and over and as this fact becomes better known more cases are being found in the early stages. But it must be remembered that the disease is gradual in its onset and the patient may have but few symptoms of the diseases until it is far advanced. For this reason everyone should have periodic examination by a physician, and this is especially true in the case of those in intimate and prolonged contest with a case of the disease.

The above discussion touches briefly upon only a few of the points concerning tuberculosis that should be known by all.

Literature is available to those interested in the disease by writing or visiting the County Health Unit.

Sheriff Nabs Quantity Of Beer And Whiskey

Sheriff J. R. Hardy and his deputies surprised a man in Clanton Monday night an din a raid captured several quarts of whiskey and several cases of beer in an automobile.

The automobile was confiscated, Sheriff Hardy stated, and later released under one thousand dollar bond. The man was placed under a $750 bond but a young negro who was nabbed while unloading the beverage was still in jail Tuesday afternoon.

The whiskey was of the government sealed brand and the beer was a popular brand, according to Sheriff Hardy. The raid was made just as the liquor and beer were being transferred from the car to the place of business.

DEATH OF MR. G. W. EDWARDS

---o---

For several months Mr. Edwards had been in declining health, and on June 24 he was taken with a severe attack of bowel obstruction, followed by disorders of the kidneys, and urinary organs, which bore on him for twelve days. He seemed to realize from the beginning of his illness that his time for departure from this life was at hand, and expressed the hope and faith in God for eternal salvation, and at the last hour the angelic countenance of peace shined upon his face. Every effort was made by tender hands and skilled physicians to restore him to his wanted health, but God in his infinite wisdom saw fit to call him to a higher, and more useful service beyond this vale of sorrow, and he passed away on July 6, at 9:35 a.m. He was laid to rest in Samaria cemetery July 7, at 11 o'clock. J. Mell Martn & Sons were in charge, and funeral was conducted from the church by the pastor, the Rev. J. W. Jones.

Mr. Edwards was a few days over sixty-nine years old at his death, leaving a wife, Mrs. Anna (Dennis) Edwards; two daughters, Mrs. Emily E. Culp and Mrs. Birdie Mae Jones; two sons-in-laws, A. J. Culp, and S. M. Jones, and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn his loss.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all who aided us in caring for our deceased father during his illness and death, and especially the doctors and nurse for their untiring service and the undertakers for their efficient service and the pastor and singers for their consoling service, and the ones who helped to prepare his grave.

May God's richest blessings abide with you all is our prayer.

—Mrs. J. Anna Edwards, A. J. Culp and wife, Emily E. Culp, S. M. Jones and wife, Birdie Mae Jones.

Union Grove Won And Lost Last Week

---o---

Union Grove Baseball team lost two games to Verbena the Fourth.

The independent team got up by our merchant, Pomp Robinson, won over the Shelby team. Everyone present seemed to enjoy this game.

By some means Shiloh failed to show up. All in all we had a grand get-together and a great day.

Howard Roper and John Coffer were the umpires during the day. Anyone wishing to know about the conduct might ask our sheriff, Mr. Hardy, and then you might ask some of the ball players if they got plenty of dinner. The writer believes there were more than a thousand people visited the grounds during the day. The cold drink stand took in about seventy-five dollars and most of the sales called for a nickle.

Union Grove team went to Cooper Saturday afternoon and won a hard-fought game from that team. The writer does not happen to have the scores and details of any of the games.

Jemison won a game from second nine at Jemison Saturday afternoon. Now listen, baseball fans, Dogwood from up near Montevallo is coming to Union Grove Saturday afternoon, and the writ- happens to know that there used to be some real ball players up there. The game will start about three o'clock and will be played on Union Grove school grounds. If you can't come and want details subscribe to the Chilton County News.

Mrs. Bruce. Many times in years past local papers have carried news items telling about her exhibits at state fairs winning first place. Through her efforts in this one line of endeavor Chilton County has won far wider recognition throughout the state than would have otherwise been possible.

Her life has been one of action, saying little and doing much in all of those things which were for the betterment of her community and county. Friends have expressed the thought that her life is concrete proof of the possibility of a woman carrying on the varied duties of managing a home, and at the same time actively participating in those things outside the home which go to make an outstanding citizen.

She is survived by her husband, S. E. Bruce, also of Clanton; one son, Homer Bruce, also of Clanton; two daughters, Mrs. Ben Sims and Mrs. Ida Bell Duff; two brothers, Tom Lowe of Houston, Texas, and D. B. Lowe of Clanton; and one sister, Mrs. J. A. Marlar of Billingsley.

neys for the contestants and those for the contestees (Democrats) present. Mr. Street spoke to the court at length to explain what a tremendous task it would be to hold a trial for an election contest, and suggested that the court arrange for some group to go through the records to attempt to ascertain who was a qualified voter and who was not.

The court turned to the council for the Democrats for an opinion. Hon. Grady Reynolds, on the council for the contestees stated they would not agree to this and that they (the Democrats) were ready to proceed with the suit as it should be.

Only eleven witnesses had been summoned Monday. These were C. Fenn Jones, J P. Spain, Armanda Traywick, J. A. Plier, Thomas Roper, Oddis Robinson, Oscar Plier, J. B. Wiggins, J. P. Garrett, Abram Mims and Bessie Guin. However, none were called on to testify since Street asked for a continuance of the case.

The trial was set again two weeks from now, Monday, July 22nd.

Taylor Wholesale Employees Have Picnic

One of the most delightful events of the Fourth of July occurred at Tom Taylor's Camp on Lake Mitchell when the Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company of Clanton was host to its employees of affiliated stores, and a number of invited guests. This camp is ideally located for boat riding, swimming and picnicking.

The popular Clanton firm proved to be a most cordial host, and everyone of the near two hundred present entered into the spirit of the day, and threw "dull care" aside for the joy of association with friends, getting out in the open air, swimming in the waters of beautiful Coosa River, and partaking of food appetizingly prepared, picnic style, in generous quantities.

Eleven stores were represented by employees, together with wives and friends. With one accord they all declared it a very pleasant occasion, and a delightful way to spend the Fourth of July.
